Bill of Complaint
Filed May 4,

Be it Remembered that heretofore to-wit: on the 4th day of May, A. D. 1907, a certain bill of complaint was filed in the office of the clerk of said Court, in words and figures following, to-wit:

5 STATE OF ILLINOIS, }

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF COOK COUNTY.

To the May Term, A. D. 1907.

To the Honorable, the Judges of the said Circuit Court, in chancery, sitting:

Your orator, Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the Laws of the State of Illinois, with its principal office in the City of Chicago, in the County of Cook, in the State of Illinois, humbly complaining, respectfully represents unto your Honors that on or about the 6th day of February, A. D. 1902, your orator, in the regular course of its business, became the holder and owner of one thousand shares of the capital stock of the Corn Products Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of New Jersey, and then, and ever since, and still doing business in the State of Illinois, and elsewhere, the par value of the said shares of stock so acquired by your orator being the sum of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars each, four hundred and fifty of the said shares being preferred stock of the Corn Products Company, and five hundred and fifty thereof being common stock of the said company, the value of the said preferred stock being then the sum of about ninety dollars per share, and the value of the said common stock being then about the sum of about forty dollars per share.

2. At the time your orator acquired the said stock, and for considerable period theretofore, and for some time thereafter, the said Corn Products Company held and owned a controlling interest in a number of large and valuable factories in the State of Illinois, and elsewhere, then and theretofore used in the manufacture of glucose, and other marketable products, which business was then and theretofore yielding a large profit to all the stockholders of the said Corn Products Company, in the way of dividends on said stock paid from the net profits of the said business, the capital stock of the said

6 Corn Products Company being then three hundred thousand shares, of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) each, preferred stock, aggregating in par value the sum of Thirty Million Dollars, and five hundred thousand shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars each, common stock, aggregating in par value the sum of Fifty Million Dollars.

3. Among the said factories so controlled by the said Corn Products Company, at the time aforesaid, were the following, namely, the property formerly owned and operated by the Rockford Sugar Refining Company, at Rockford, Illinois, the property formerly owned and operated by the American Preservers Company, Marshall Town, Iowa, the property formerly owned and operated by the Chicago Sugar Refining Company, in Chicago, Illinois, the property formerly owned and operated by the Peoria Grape Sugar Company, in Peoria, Illinois, and the property formerly owned and operated by the American Glucose Company, in Peoria, Illinois, the legal title to the properties above mentioned being at the time your orator acquired the said stock, and ever since, and still in the Glucose Refining Company, a corporation organized and existing under the Laws of the State of New Jersey and doing business in Illinois, and Iowa, and elsewhere, the operation and management of the said properties being by and in the name of the said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, but for the sole benefit of the Stockholders of the said Corn Products Company and under the direction and control of the said Corn Products Company, at the time your orator acquired the said stock, and thereafter, except as hereinafter shown in this Bill of Complaint.

4. In addition to the properties above mentioned the said Corn Products Company, during the same period, held and owned a controlling interest in other factories, in Illinois, and elsewhere, operated and managed in various names for the benefit of the stockholders of the said Corn Products Company at the time of your orator's purchase of the said stock, and thereafter, except as hereinafter shown in this Bill of Complaint.

7 5. During the same period the New York Glucose Company, a corporation organized and existing under the Laws of New Jersey, owned, operated and controlled certain other factories in New York and elsewhere in the manufacture of glucose and other products; that said New York Glucose Company was organized and is now controlled by E. T. Bedford and associates of said E. T. Bedford, who were and are stockholders as your orator is informed, officers of the Standard Oil Company and who were stockholders, officers and directors of said Corn Products Company; that 49% of the capital stock of said New York Glucose Company was held, owned and controlled by the said Corn Products Company and the remaining 51% thereof by said E. T. Bedford and his said associates who were and are commonly known as "Standard Oil People."

6. That prior to the first of January, 1906, the exact date being unknown to your orator, one C. H. Matthiessen, Norman B. Ream, William W. Heaton, Joy Morton, J. B. Greenhut, C. L. Glass, E. A. Matthiessen, W. J. Calhoun, W. T. Gorman, T. B. Waggoner, H. C. Herget, T. B. Kingsford and F. C. Sherwood and others, as officers and directors of said Corn Products Company and as the owners and holders of the majority of the capital stock of said Corn Products Company, combining and confederating together and with "Standard Oil People" who were officers and directors of said New York Glucose Company and the owners and holders of the majority of the capital stock of said New York Glucose Company, entered into an unlawful conspiracy to cheat and defraud your orator as the holder of the said one thousand shares of stock aforesaid, and other holders and owners of the stock of the said Corn Products Company not parties to said conspiracy by destroying the market value of the stock so held by your orator, and others, in the said Corn Products Company, and depriving your orator, and said other stockholders, thereof without any compensation or return therefor, the method of such conspiracy being the formation of another giant corporation known as the Corn Products Refining Company, organized and existing under the Laws of the State of New Jersey, and owned and controlled by the said C. H. Matthiessen and Norman B. Ream and others of the aforesaid officers

8 directors and stockholders of the said Corn Products Company, and the said "Standard Oil People" whose names, except said E. T. Bedford, are now unknown to your orator, but, when their names shall have been ascertained by your orator, your orator will ask leave to amend this Bill of Complaint and make the said parties defendants thereto, and as a part of said conspiracy the said Matthiessen and his co-directors gave to said E. T. Bedford and his said associates, connected with him, as aforesaid, of the so-called Standard Oil Company, the control of said Corn Products

Company as would best serve to enable said E. T. Bedford and directors named by him and parties conspirators with him to form said refining company and give to it the business of said Corn Products Company, all its trade, secrets, and all the factories belonging to said company.

That in advance of said transfer and to enable them to carry through such transaction and transfer, the officers and directors of said Corn Products Company discouraged the stockholders of said company by, amongst other things, concealing its business and making reports to said stockholders, such as would induce them to sell out their stock and to make the proposed transfer as before stated. That by said transaction and transfer, said conspirators sold out the whole property of said old company to said new company without any adequate consideration.

That in reality the contract and transfer was one by which the said Bedford and associates acquired and received the said property of said Corn Products Company for a part of the stock of said new company created for that purpose taking for themselves thirty millions of the stock and leaving to the stockholders of the old company, fifty millions thereof, giving out eight millions in all of stock of said new company and acquiring for themselves said thirty millions of said stock as the pretended value of two certain factories in Illinois and 51 per cent. of the stock of said New York Glucose Company.

9 That said Corn Products Company was formed in New Jersey under its laws and organized for the purpose of manufacturing glucose and starch and their by-products. That C. H. Matthiessen and his relatives residing in New York and Chicago and parties under his influence and control were, and always have been, the chief stockholders and officers of said company. That said company has, from the beginning of its existence, been subject to the attacks of the Standard Oil Company of America, represented by said Bedford and his said associates deputed by said Company, or representing it, or parties in its interest who have sought to own and control it. That one of their modes of attack has been the construction of the factory of the said New York Glucose Company through which said Bedford and his said associates sought to break down said Corn Products Company, and finding this difficult and with a view of better understanding the condition of the company so as to appropriate its property and destroy said company, and its said New York Glucose Company's factory proving unprofitable, by selling to said Corn Products Company 49% of the stock of said company retaining 51% and the control of said New York Company.

That said Bedford, and his said associates and friends and parties in interest, sought to buy up the stock of said Corn Products Company and, for that purpose, depreciated the stock of said company by sales of large quantities of stock on the stock exchange constantly lowering the price in immense amounts and buying it in so that they were not compelled to deliver said stock, the sales being unreal, never transferred nor meant to be, but serving the purpose of cutting down the stock of the Corn Products Company so that the fifty millions of common stock was cut down in price by these false sales on the stock exchange to less than $10 a share or a tenth of its original issue or supposed value, and said preferred stock amounting to thirty millions of said eighty millions of stock was cut down in price to one-fourth of its par value at which it was issued and which it was fully worth—judged by price on said stock exchange, as fixed by the false sales aforesaid; the efforts of the stockholders of the Corn Products Company being overwhelmed and defeated from maintaining the price of the same on said stock exchange by the magnitude of said sales equal in some cases to daily sales of nearly the full amount of the entire stock of the company and this although said "Standard Oil People" did not own 10% of the stock of the company and no deliveries were made, the sales being purely false and fraudulent. That said Bedford and his said associates, having depreciated the stock frightened the stockholders and reduced the values in appearances so that they could readily buy it up, so far as they were to be driven into sales they, said Bedford and his said associates, set to work to buy certain competing factories namely, the so-called Wagner Factory, in Lake County, Illinois, and to so-called St. Louis factory, near East St. Louis, and did this by advancing money to support said factories, the owners then seeking additional capital compelled by ruinous low prices of glucose, starch and by-products which they manufactured, and encouraged said factories then and there controlled to do as large and larger business, though at a loss, and to reduce the price of Glucose and starch and by-products.

That for the purpose of using more effectually the prejudicial effects upon the said Corn Products Company, the said Bedford and his said associates entered into the aforesaid conspiracy with said C. H. Matthiessen and his friends and fellow directors and fellow officers who were then the managers of said Corn Products Company and by that means and by weak and partial reports giving imperfect accounts of the doings of the Corn Products Company and, enabled by access to the books of said Company, and by a knowledge of its business said Bedford and his said associates, with the aid of said C. H. Matthiessen, and others, let the market of said glucose, starch and by-products fall as far as possible into the hands of said factories controlled by them, said Bedford and his associates, who had, in the meantime, obtained by purchase or options to purchase, at a low price the stock of said out-lying companies so that it could be said to stockholders of the Corn Products Company that about half of the glucose, starch and by-products produced in the market was sold 11 and the market shared to the extent of nearly 50% thereof by said companies and said New York Company, although your complainants allege that the facts was that said manufacture was at a loss.

That in point of fact the said conspirators by this plan proposed to give thirty millions of stock of the old company to themselves in the form of the stock of the new company for little or nothing.

That the result as to the public of this transaction, is that all competition has been destroyed and the Corn Products Refining Company is as fully in possession of glucose and by-products and an absolute monopoly is and was thereby created without any considerable cost and all competition is destroyed. The new company being now able to fix a price to the public at its pleasure and the public will be compelled to pay whatever the said Bedford and his Standard Oil friends choose to set up said products.

At the time your orator purchased said stock, as aforesaid, and for a long time prior thereto, and for a considerable period thereafter, the capital stock of the said Corn Products Company was duly listed upon the stock exchanges of New York, and Chicago, and other large cities, and was daily bought and sold, in open market, as one of the standard investments of the country, the market value thereof being as above stated, and the same was not a fictitious valuation but was based upon the ownership of the properties above described, and other valuable properties and the profitable manu-12 facturing business to the carrying on of which all the said properties were devoted by the parties aforesaid, for the benefit of the said Corn Products Company, and its stockholders, including your orator, as aforesaid; and, in reliance upon the said facts, your orator acquired the said stock with the view of holding the same as an investment, and your orator has ever since held, and still holds the same for such purpose, and at the time your orator so acquired the same, and for about four years thereafter, the said Corn Products Company, was paying regularly a dividend to the holders of the said stock, including your orator, at the rate of 1 &  $\frac{3}{4}$ % per cent, per quarter, on the par value of said stock, from the profits of the said business so controlled by the said Corn Products Company and so conducted and managed for the benefit of the said Corn Products Company, and its stockholders, including your orator; and it was the duty of the said Corn Products Company, and its officers and directors, to continue to so manage its affairs, including the said properties and business above mentioned, through its control thereof, as aforesaid, that such dividends upon its stock should and would continue from year to year, and your orator avers that if the said Corn Products Company, and its officers and directors, had, honestly and in good faith, continued its said business, and the management thereof, the said stock of your orator, together with the stock of other stockholders in said Corn Products Company, not parties to said conspiracy, would still be earning and paying such dividends, and now be worth One hundred Dollars (\$100.00) per share; but, instead of that now being the case, your orator avers that by reason of the bad faith, and misconduct, of the officers and directors of the said Corn Products Company, and others, pursuant to and as a part of the said conspiracy, the entire stock of the said Corn Products Company has, by reason of the said conspiracy and the said wrongful conduct, pursuant thereto, ceased to be a listed stock, and ceased to pay or earn dividends, and its value has thus been entirely destroyed, the said conspirators having fraudulently caused the same to be dropped from the list of the said stock exchanges, and having fraudulently stopped the payment of dividends thereon, pursuant to said conspiracy, and are now managing all of the said properties in the exclusive interest of said conspirators, and in total disregard of the rights of your orator as the owner and holder of the said stock, and in total disregard of all the rights of the holders and owners of the stock of the said Corn Products Company, other than said conspirators.

8. Your orator further represents that, pursuant to said conspiracy, and for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid, said conspirators are now planning and arranging to cause all of the said poperties, and the said business to be transferred and conveyed to the said Corn Products Refining Company, and thus permanently destroy the value of your orators' said stock and the value of the other stock of the said Corn Products Company held or owned by persons or parties other than said conspirators, and your orator brings this Bill of Complaint not only for the benefit of your orator, but also for the benefit of the holders and owners of the stock of the said Corn Products Company, in the same situation as your orator, and said other holders and owners of the said stock are hereby invited to come in as co-complainants with your orator in this Bill of Complaint, and to share in the benefits of whatever relief may be obtained under or by virtue of this suit, upon contribution of their pro rata share of the expenses thereof.

9. The legal description of the said property now held and operated in the name of the said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, in the City of Chicago, in the County of Cook, in the State of Illinois, as above shown, is as follows, namely: Block Seventy-eight (78) (except Taylor Street) in School Section Addition to Chicago, in Section Sixteen (16), Township Thirty-nine (39) North, Range Fourteen (14) East of the Third Principal Meridian, in the City and County and State aforesaid.

10. Your orator is informed and believes, and so charges the fact to be, that the said real estate last above described, together with the other properties held in the name of the said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, and the other properties held in other names, as above stated, is now about to be transferred and conveyed to the said Corn Products Refining Company, pursuant to said conspiracy, and for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid, and will be so transferred and conveyed unless the said conspirators, hereinafter made defendants to this Bill of Complaint, be restrained from so doing, or causing the same to be done, by the order of this Court, thereby working irreparable injury to your orator, and to the other stockholders of the said Corn Products Company, not parties to said conspiracy.

11. Your orator further represents that the officers of the said Corn Products Company, are as follows, namely: C. H. Matthiessen, president, C. L. Glass, vice-president, and William W. Heaton, treasurer, and the directors of the said Corn Products Company, are as follows, namely: C. H. Matthies-sen, E. A. Matthiessen, Norman B. Ream, W. J. Calhoun, Joy Morton, William W. Heaton, C. L. Glass, W. T. Gorman, T. B. Waggoner, H. C. Herget, P. Kingsford, and F. C. Sherwood and your orator is informed and believes and so charges the fact to be that all the officers and directors of the said Corn Products Company are either parties to the said conspiracy, or so interested with said conspirators that none of them will take any steps to prevent the carrying out of the said conspiracy for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid.

12. Your orator further represents that the said Corn Products Refining Company is a giant pool, and trust, and combine, formed by said conspirators for the purpose of unlawfully regulating and fixing and controlling the price of glucose and grape sugar, and other products, all of which are articles of merchandise and commodities manufactured and sold in this State, and throughout the United States; that the names of the persons forming such pool, trust, and combine, other than those hereinbefore mentioned, are now unknown to your orator, and your orator has not been able, after diligent inquiry, to ascertain the same, but your orator is informed and believes and so charges that all the persons above named, including the said officers and directors of the said Corn Products Company, are parties thereto, or interested therein, together with others unknown to your orator, that said pool, trust and combine is to be accomplished, and carried out, and made effectual for the purposes aforesaid, under the forms of the law, namely in and through such incorporation under the name of the said Corn Products Refining Company; that the parties organizing, creating, promoting and managing or interested in the said pool, trust and combine, are now perfecting their arrangements, with the

15 intent and purpose of unlawfully monopolizing, controlling, regulating and fixing the price of glucose and grape sugar and by-products within the State of Illinois, and throughout the United States, and for such fraudulent and unlawful purpose, as well as for the further purpose of defrauding your orator of your orator's said stock and defrauding other holders of the stock of said Corn Products Company similarly situated with your orator, having already arranged to obtain control of substantially all the corporations and individuals heretofore engaged in the manufacture and sale of said commodities throughout the United States and the said Corn Products Refining Company will, pursuant to said conspiracy, and for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid, unlawfully acquire complete control of the said corporations and individuals, and of the manufacture and sale of the said products, throughout the United States, unless restrained from so doing by the order or decree of this Honorable Court; that the purpose and intent of the said pool and combination, and of the said parties forming the same, or interested therein, jointly and severally, is to create a trust in, and a complete monopoly of, the said articles and commodities, and give to the said Corn Products Refining Company, as the embodiment of such trust, and pool, and combine, the power to regulate and fix and absolutely control both the supply and the price of said articles and commodities, in the State of Illinois, and throughout the United States, amounting now in the aggregate to several billions of pounds annually and consuming many millions of bushels of corn, annually; that said pool and trust and combine, and the effect, intent and purpose thereof, and the intent and purpose of the parties forming the same, or interested therein, as aforesaid, is in direct violation of the laws of this State, and in violation of the statutes of this State in and for such case made and provided, and the purpose and plan of the said pool, trust and combine, and of said parties forming the same, or interested therein, is to swallow up and merge in the said Corn Products Refining Company, all the organizations and plants in the United States heretofore engaged or used in the manufacture or sale of said articles and commodities, or any of them, issuing to the said organizations heretofore so engaged stock in the said Corn Products Refining Company to thereby perfect its control of said organization, and, where this method fails, to buy such organizations and plants for cash or its equivalent, and, in any event, to thus merge and swallow up all the said organizations and plants, including the said Corn Products Company, in said pool, trust and combine, thus leaving to your orator, and other stockholders similarly situated, the option only of participating in such unlawful trust, pool and combine, or submitting to the destruction of the stock so held by your orator, and others similarly situated in said Corn Products Company, or the destruction of the value thereof, and your orator charges that the officers and directors, and majority stock holders of the said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, are actively, and knowingly, and unlawfully, aiding and participating and joining in, said trust, pool and combine, and preparing fraudulently and unlawfully

Filed May 4,

Bill of Complaint
filed May 4,

to sell and transfer all the plants and properties of the said Glucose Sugar Refining Company to the said Corn Products Refining Company for the unlawful and fraudulent purposes aforesaid, and will so do unless restrained therefrom by the order or decree of this Honorable Court.

13. Your orator further charges that the forming and carrying out of the said pool, trust and combine, in and by the formation and action of the said Corn Products Refining Company, pursuant to said conspiracy, is an unlawfully and fraudulent stock-jobbing scheme, and frenzied finance, upon the part of the said conspirators, for the purpose of fleecing the public, as well as your orator, and others similarly situated, in the devious ways and methods originating in Wall Street, and practiced by financial parrots constituting "the system" by which the public are fleeced and plundered, continually, and by which it is intended by said conspirators to freeze out and defraud your orator as the holder and owner of the said stock in the said Corn Products Refining Company, and other holders of such stock, not parties to such conspiracy, all of which is contrary to equity and good conscience and in violation of the laws of this state, and in violation of the laws of the United States.

14. Your orator further represents that a part and parcel of the plan of said conspirators, in carrying out the said conspiracy, is to dismantel and destroy such of said plants as are now yielding profits applicable to the payment of 17 dividends on the said stock belonging to your orator, and others similarly situated, and build up and operate other plants for the manufacture and sale of said products, from the earnings of which dividends will be paid to said conspirators, exclusively, and not to your orator, or others similarly situated, all of which is pursuant to said conspiracy, and for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid, there being now no occasion for the sale or transfer of any of the plants, controlled, as aforesaid, heretofore, by said Corn Products Company, and from the net earnings of which plants dividends have heretofore been paid, and ought to continue to be paid to the holders of the stock of said Corn Products Company, including your orator, and there is now no occasion or excuse for the dismantling, or abandonment, or destruction, of any of the said plants, but it is to the interest of the public and to the interest of your orator, and other stockholders of the said Corn Products Company, including your orator, and other stockholders of the said Corn Products Company, that all of the said plants contain a separate existence and business, and carry on the same, without becoming merged and swallowed up in the said Corn Products Refining Company constituting the said pool, trust and combine, as aforesaid, for the manufacture of the said products has already become immensely profitable, and is becoming more profitable every year, and all that prevents such profitable conduct of said business, for the benefit of wour orator, and others interested therein, is the fraudulent conspiracy aforesaid, and the said unlawful action and conduct of the parties thereto, pursuant to the conspiracy aforesaid, and to the end that such fraud may be prevented, your orator is advised and believes and so charges that a receiver should be appointed by this Honorable Court of the said Corn Products Company, and its property, and, particularly, of the said plants held in the name of and operated by the said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, in Chicago, Illinois, and in Peoria, Illinois, and elsewhere, and that said plants be managed and operated by said receiver, under the orders and directions of this Honorable Court, pending the hearing of this cause, and the said conspirators thereby ousted from the possession or control thereof, and a reorganization had of the said Corn Products Company, and of the several corporations here-18 tofore controlled by said Corn Products Company, under the orders and directions of this Honorable Court, and that said conspirators, including said Corn Products Refining Company be enjoined from making, or causing to be made, any sale, or transfer, or conveyance, of the said properties, or plants, or any or either of them, or any part thereof, to said Corn Products Refining Company, or any other or others of said conspirators.

15. Your orator further represents and charges that all the acts of the said conspirators above named, or referred to, and of said pool and trust and combine, and of the said parties forming or interested therein, have been and are with the fraudulent intent nad purpose to thereby effect a combination of many millions of dollars of capital, and skill, and firms, and corporations, and individuals, to limit and control the production of glucose, and grape sugar, and other commodities, and regulate, and fix, and control, and change, at the will of said conspirators, the price of the same, and to prevent competitions in the manufacture and sale of such products, all of which is in violation oft he Statute of Illinois, entitled "An Act to Define Trusts and Conspiracies Against Trades,"

etc., approved June 20, 1893, in force July 1, 1893, and with the fraudulent intent and purpose on the part of said conspirators to regulate and fix and control the price of said commodities, and the supply thereof, the said articles not being articles of merchandise the cost of which is mainly made up in wages, and no part of the purpose or intent or object of the said conspirators, or the effect of their said action, is not and will not be to maintain or increase wages and the said fraudulent and unlawful conduct of said conspirators, is in violation of the Statute of this State, providing for the punishment of persons or corporations forming pools, and with the intent and purpose on their part to place the control of such products in the hands of the said trust, the said Corn Products Refining Company, and thereby control the price and supply and manufacture thereof, in violation of the said Statute of the State of Illinois, and in violation of the common law of the said State, and in violation of the laws of the United States in and for such case made and provided.

19 16. Your orator further represents that the glucose business has grown to enormous proportions in this country, and its products are everywhere in use, and of vast commercial importance, in their varied and manifold uses, and in the carrying on of such business great skill and vast capital are employed and required, and it is for the interest of the public that competition therein be unrestrained and unaffected by such pools and trusts and combines as the said Corn Products Refining Company, it not being an easy matter for persons or corporations to go into and engage in such business, as it requires considerable time and much capital to erect plants for the same, and many of the most important processes are patented and owned or controlled heretofore by the said several corporations above named, other than the said Corn Products Refining Company, and it requires special skill and experienced men to erect and operate such plant, and the supply of such men is limited, and not equal to the public demand, and it will be impossible to compete with the said Corn Products Refining Company in such business, in the State of Illinois, or elsewhere in the United States, unless such conspirators be prevented from carrying out their conspiracy aforesaid, and, if such conspiracy be so carried out, your orator and others similarly situated will be entirely deprived of their said stock and the value thereof entirely destroyed, and the said pool, trust and combine would be in complete control of said products throughout the State of Illinois, and throughout the United States, and all competition therein thus prevented.

17. Your orator further represents that said pool, trust and combine, formed under the name of the said Corn Products Refining Company, cannot succeed in its said fraudulent and unlawful purposes unless it secures control of the said plants located in Illinois, and a prevention of its control thereof will prevent the carrying out of the conspiracy aforesaid, as the State of Illinois is the center of the corn belt of the United States, and if free competition be maintained in this State, in the manufacture and sale of such products, the welfare of the entire public will thus be promoted, and the loss of the stock of your orator, and others similarly situated, in the said Corn Products Company, will be, at the same time, thus prevented, and your orator charges that whatever may be the form, or forms, adopted and to be adopted, or pursued, by said conspirators, forming or constituting the said Corn Products Refining Company, the substance and effect thereof is and will remain a united control of the plants and corporations of this country engaged in the manufacture or sale, of said products, by and in the name of the said Corn Products Refining Company; and the formation and operation of the said Corn Products Refining Company, by said conspirators, is simply a mode of union, after the manner of the Standard Oil Company, constituting a giant monopoly for the purpose of controlling, fixing, and regulating, both the supply and the price, of glucose, and its varied by-products, syrups and sugar, throughout the State of Illinois, and throughout the United States.

21 To the end therefore, that your orator may have a remedy and equity in the premises, and that the said Corn Products Company, and the said Corn Products Refining Company, and the said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, the said New York Glucose Company, and the said C. H. Matthiessen, C. L. Glass, William W. Heaton, E. A. Matthiessen, Norman B. Ream, W. J. Calhoun, Joy Morton, W. T. Gorman, T. B. Waggoner, H. C. Herget, T. P. Kingsford, F. C. Sherwood, and said E. T. Bedford, and J. B. 7. Your petitioner further shows that each of the said several controversies above stated is a separable controversy wholly between citizens of different states, namely, between your petitioner, Corn Products Manufacturing Co., on the one side and said complainant Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company on the other side; and that each and all of said controversies can be fully determined between your petitioner, the said Corn Products Manufacturing Co., and the said complainant, Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, and that the other defendants, Corn Products Company, Corn Products Refining Company, New York Glucose Company, C. H. Matthiessen, C. L. Glass, William W. Heaton, E. A. Matthiessen, Norman B. Ream, W. J. Calhoun, Joy Morton, W. J. Gorman, T. B. Wagner, H. G. Herget, T. P. Kingsford, W. C. Sherwood, E. T. Petition for removal, filed bill and evidenced by the alleged acts in said bill set forth, are illegal and in violation of the laws of the United States; and your petitioner avers and states the fact to be that the alleged proposed transfer of the said real estate, properties, business and plants of your petitioner to said Corn Products Refining Company is legal and valid, and in no way contravenes the constitution of the United States or any provision thereof or amendment thereto, or any law or statute of the United States and said proposed alleged transfer is in every respect valid, legal and binding and constitutional; that this suit is one arising under the constitution or laws of the United States; that this suit involves the question whether or not the alleged proposed transfer by your petitioner of its real estate, properties, business and plants to said Corn Products Refining Company as set forth in said bill, is in violation of the constitution of the United States or any provision thereof or amendment thereto, or in violation of any statute or law of the United States, and the settlement of said question is essential to the determination of said cause.

9. Your petitioner further shows that the complainant Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company charges in its bill of complaint herein that the proposed transfer by your petitioner of its real estate, properties, business and plants to said Corn Products Refining Company is for the purpose of fraudulently and unlawfully acquiring complete control of the manufacture and sale of glucose grape sugar and by-products throughout the United States, and to create a trust in and a complete monopoly in said articles and commodities, and to give to the said Corn Products Refining Company the power to regulate and fix and absolutely control both the supply and the price of said articles and commodities throughout the United States, all of which is alleged and averred in said bill of complaint to be in violation of the laws of the United States; and your petitioner avers and states the fact to be that each and all of the alleged acts and alleged transactions complained of in said bill are in every respect valid, legal and binding and constitutional, and do not contravene or violate the constitution of the United States or any provision thereof or amendment thereto, and in no way contravene or violate any statute or law of the United States; that this suit is one arising under the constitution or laws of the United States; that his suit involves the question whether or not said acts, doings and transactions set forth in said bill of complaint, or any of them, violate, infringe or contravene the constitution of the United States, or any statute or law thereof, and the settlement of said question is essential to the determination of said cause.

10. Your petitioner further shows that the complainant, Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company charges in its bill of complaint herein that said Corn Products Refining Company is engaged in trade and commerce within the State of Illinois, and among and between the several states of the United States, and manufactures and sells glucose and grape sugar and by-products throughout the United States, and in and among and between the several states, and that said Corn Products Refining Company has an absolute monopoly of the business and commerce of manufacturing, selling and dealing in glucose, grape sugar and by-products in the United States, and in and among and between the several states, and that said Corn Products Refining Company was organized for the purpose of unlawfully monopolizing the said trade and commerce in the State of Illinois, and in, among and between the several states, and to restrain and restrict the output and control the price thereof, and that said Corn Products Refining Company was organized with the intent and for the purpose of unlawfully monopolizing, controlling, regulating and fixing the price of glucose and grape sugar and by-products throughout the United States, and that the 37 parties defendant to said bill have already arranged to obtain control of substantially all the corporations and individuals theretofore engaged in the manufacture and sale of said commodities throughout the United States, and that said Corn Products Refining Company will unlawfully acquire complete control of the said corporations and individuals and of the manufacture and sale of the said products throughout the United States, and that the purpose and intent of the said pool and combination is to create a trust in and a complete monopoly of the said articles and commodities, and to give to said Corn Products Refining Company the power to regulate and fix and absolutely control both the supply and the price of said articles and commodities in the State of Illinois, and throughout the United States, and that the said pool, trust and combine and the effect, intent and purpose thereof, and the intent and purpose of the parties forming the same, is in direct violation of the laws and statutes of the United States.

Your petitioner avers that the law and statute of the United States referred to in said bill of complaint is an act entitled "An Act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies;" that said complainant claims and contends that the transactions referred to in said bill are wholly void because they contravene and are in violation of said statute, and your petitioner avers and states the fact to be that each and every of the acts, doings and transactions complained of in said bill of complaint against your petitioner, Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and said other defendants, was and is in all respects legal and valid and constitutional, and never contravened or violated, and in no way contravenes or violates the said statute of the United States entitled "An Act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies," or any other statute or law of the United States; that this suit is one arising under the constitution or laws of the United States; that this suit involves the question whether or not said acts, doings, transaction or transactions or any or either of them, violate, infringe contravene said statute of the United States entitled "An Act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies," and the settlement of said question is essential to the determination of said cause.

11. Your petitioner further shows that the complainant, Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company charges in its bill of complaint herein that the proposed alleged transfer and sale of the real estate, properties, business and plants of your petitioner to said Corn Products Refining Company, complained of in said bill, and the alleged conspiracy to form a pool, trust and combine for the purpose of unlawfully monopolizing, regulating, fixing and controlling the price and quantity of glucose and grape sugar and by-products within the State of Illinois, and for the purpose of acquiring complete control of the manufacture and sale of the said products throughout the United States, and for the purpose of creating a trust in and a complete monopoly of the said articles and commodities and to give to said Corn Products Refining Company the power to regulate and fix, and absolutely control both the quantity and price of said articles and commodities in the State of Illinois, and throughout the United States, are in violation of an act passed by the Legislature of the State of Illinois, entitled "An Act to define trusts and conspiracies against trade," etc., approved June 20, 1893, in force July 1, 1893; that said bill of complaint relies upon the validity of said Act of June 20, 1893, and complainant's right of recovery depends upon the validity of the same and said complainant asserts the validity of said act in his bill of complaint; and your petitioner avers and states the fact to be that said Act of June 20, 1893, is unconstitutional and void and contravenes the Fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, which provides that:—

“No state shall deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law or deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws;”

that each and every of the alleged acts, doings and transactions complained of in said bill are in every respect valid, legal and binding, and constitutional, and never contravened or violated and in no way contravene or violate any statute or law of the United States, or of the State of Illinois; that this suit is one arising under the constitution or laws of the United States; that this suit involves the question whether or not said act of the Legislature of the State of Illinois entitled “An Act to define trusts and conspiracies against trade,” etc., approved June 20, 1893, in force July 1, 1893, contravenes said Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States; and the settlement of said question is essential to the determination of said cause. That the matter in dispute and the amount involved in said controversy exceeds exclusive of interest & costs the sum or value of five thousand dollars.

12. Your petitioner further shows that it has made and filed and offers herewith its bond executed by your petitioner as principal and by National Surety Company, as surety, in the penal sum of One Thousand ($1000) dollars conditioned for your petitioner entering in the Circuit Court of the United States, in and for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division thereof, on the first day of the next Session thereof, a copy of the record of this suit, and also conditioned for the paying of all costs that may be awarded by the said Circuit Court of the United States, if said court shall hold that this said suit was wrongfully or improperly removed thereto, and in all respects conditioned as required by the Act of Congress in that behalf.

Your petitioner therefore prays this Honorable Court that said bond may be accepted as good and sufficient, and that this Honorable Court will make its order for the removal of the said cause into the Circuit Court of the United States to be held in and for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division thereof, pursuant to the statutes of the United States in said case made and provided, and will direct the record herein to be removed into said Circuit Court of the United States, and that no further proceedings may be had in said cause in this court.

No. 28,695.

Answer of said Defendant, Joy Morton, to the Bill of Complaint of Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, Complainant.

This defendant, saving and reserving unto himself all manner of benefit or exceptions which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections, in said bill of complaint contained, for answer thereunto, or to so much and such parts thereof as he is advised it is or are material or necessary for him to make answer thereunto, answering says:

1. This defendant denies, and prays for strict proof of each and every of the allegations in said bill of complaint contained, excepting only such as are herein specifically admitted to be true,

Answer of Joy
Morton to bill of complaint,
filed June 14,

2. This defendant says that said complainant never had and has not now any power, right, or authority to acquire, own, hold, vote or possess any of the said shares of stock of said Corn Products Company alleged in said bill of complaint to be owned by said complainant, and that such ownership of any such stock by said complainant always was and is wholly ultra vires, and beyond the corporate powers of said complainant.

3. This defendant denies that said defendants, Glucose Sugar Refining Company, the correct name of which is Corn Products Manufacturing Co., Corn Products Company, Corn Products Refining Company, and New York Glucose Company, or any or either thereof, ever was, or is controlled by, or in the manner alleged in said bill of complaint; but this defendant says that each of said named corporations always was and still is managed and controlled by their respective boards of directors, and solely and only for the purposes for which the said corporations were severally incorporated, and not in any way or manner for any illegal or fraudulent purpose, or for the purpose of defrauding complainant, or of interfering with or lessening the value of its stock in said Corn Products Company, or for the purpose of being of establishing or creating any pool, trust, combine or monopoly, or for any of the wrongful, fraudulent or illegal purposes whatsoever alleged in said bill of complaint; and this defendant denies that any of said named corporations, or any of their officers or directors, or any of the defendants herein, ever conspired together for the purpose of establishing or creating any pool, trust or illegal monopoly as alleged in said bill of complaint, or otherwise.

4. This defendant says that neither he nor any of his co-defendants herein, ever intended to, attempted, threatened, conspired, was or is about to transfer or divert from said Corn Products Company, or from said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, to any other person or corporation, as alleged in said bill of complaint, any of the business, property, plants, trade secrets, or assets of said Corn Products Company, or of said Glucose Sugar Refining Company.

5. This defendant admits that he is a director of said Corn Products Company, and says that he has been such director and also a stockholder in said Company for a long time past, and that said Company is a New Jersey corporation, with an authorized capital stock of fifty millions common and thirty millions preferred stock, but he denies each and every of the allegations in said bill of complaint to the effect that as such director he is or was a party to the conspiracy alleged in said bill, or interested with any of the alleged conspirators in the manner alleged in said bill or otherwise.

6. This defendant denies each and every allegation contained in said bill of complaint respecting any conspiracy or fraudulent scheme to form or organize any pool, trust or combine, or to conduct any business illegally, or to effect the value of complainant's said stock, or the payment of dividends thereon, or in any manner to defraud complainant; and this defendant expressly denies each and every allegation and innuendo contained in said bill of complaint whereby he is charged with any wrong doing.

7. This defendant further denies each and every allegation contained in said bill of complaint, charging any act or attempted act in violation of any of the laws of the State of Illinois, and he says that "An Act to define trusts and conspiracies against trade," etc., approved June 20, 1893, in force July 1, 1893, is contrary to the Constitution and laws of the State of Illinois, and to the Constitution of the United States of America and the Amendments thereto, particularly the Fourteenth Amendment thereto, and is unconstitutional and void.

8. And this defendant says that said complainant has not in and by its said bill of complaint made or shown any such cause of action as entitles it to any of the relief therein prayed for, and is wholly without equity, and this defendant prays the same benefit and advantage of said objection as if it had for that reason demurred to said bill of complaint.

9. And this defendant denies all and all manner of unlawful combination and confederacy wherewith he is by the said bill charged, without this, that there is any other matter, cause, or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained, material or necessary for this defendant to make answer unto, and not herein or hereby well and sufficiently answered, confessed, traversed and avoided or denied, is true to the knowledge or belief of this defendant; all of which matters and things this defendant is ready and willing to aver, maintain and prove, as this Honorable Court shall direct, and humbly prays to be hence dismissed

To the Honorable Judges of Said Court, In Chancery Sitting:
Your orator, Joy Morton, respectfully represents unto your Honors that he is a resident of the City of Chicago, in the

*Cross-bill of Joy

State of Illinois, and a citizen of said State of Illinois, and is one of the defendants in the bill filed in the Circuit Court of Cook County, Illinois, by Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, which is a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Illinois; that in said bill, Corn Products Company, Corn Products Refining Company, Glucose Sugar Refining Co. and New York Glucose Company, each and all of which are corporations organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey, were made co-defendants; that C. H. Matthiessen, C. L. Glass, William W. Heaton, E. A. Matthiessen, Norman B. Ream, W. J. Calhoun, W. H. Gorman, R. B. Waggoner, H. C. Herget, T. P. Kingsford, F. C. Sherwood, E. T. Bedford and J. B. Greenhut, were also made co-defendants in said bill of complaint with your orator.

That in said bill it is, among other things alleged, that the said complainant, Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, on or about the 6th day of February, A. D. 1902, became the owner and holder of 1000 shares of the capital stock of the said Corn Products Company of the par value of $100. each, 450 of the said 1000 shares being preferred stock and 550 thereof being common stock of the said company.

And it is further in said bill alleged that at the time said complainant acquired said stock, and for a considerable period theretofore, and for some time thereafter, said Corn Products Company held and owned a controlling interest in a number of large and valuable factories in the State of Illinois, and elsewhere, then and theretofore used in the manufacture of glucose and other marketable products, which business was then and theretofore yielding large profits to all the stockholders of the said Corn Products Company by way of dividends.

And in and by said bill it is also alleged that the legal title to the properties referred to, was and is in the name of the said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, and that the same was operated and managed for the sole benefit and under the direction and control of the said Corn Products Company.

And in and by said bill it is also alleged, that the said Corn Products Company held and owned a controlling interest in other factories in Illinois and elsewhere, operated and managed under various names for the benefit of the stockholders of the said Corn Products Company.

57 And in and by said bill it is further alleged that the said New York Glucose Company owned, operated and controlled certain factories in the State of New York and elsewhere, for the manufacture of glucose; that said New York Glucose Company was organized and is now controlled by said E. T. Bedford, and his associates, who were and are also stockholders, officers and directors of said Corn Products Company, and it is further alleged that 49% of the stock of said New York Glucose Company was held, owned and controlled by the said New York Glucose Company, and the remaining 51% thereof by said E. T. Bedford and his associates.

And in and by said bill it is also alleged that prior to the first day of January, 1906, the said C. H. Matthiessen, Norman B. Ream, William H. Heaton, J. B. Greenhut, C. L. Glass, E. A. Matthiessen, W. J. Calhoun, W. J. Gorman, T. B. Wagoner, H. C. Herget, T. P. Kingsford, F. C. Sherwood and your orator, and others, as officers, directors and majority stockholders of said Corn Products Company combining and confederating together with persons who are officers, directors and majority stockholders of said New York Glucose Company, entered into an unlawful conspiracy to cheat and defraud said complainant, Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, by destroying the market value of the stock in said Corn Products Company held by said Complainant, and depriving said complainant thereof, without any compensation or return therefor.

And in and by said bill it is further alleged that the method of said conspiracy was by the formation of said Corn Products Refining Company; and that said Corn Products Refining Company is owned and controlled by the officers, directors and stockholders of the said Corn Products Company and others, and that as a part of said conspiracy, the directors of said Corn Products Company gave to said E. T. Bedford and his said associates, the control of said Corn Products Company to enable the said E. T. Bedford and his associates, to form said Corn Products Refining Company, and to transfer to said Corn Products Refining Company the business 57½ of the said Corn Products Company, and its trade secrets and all the factories belonging to it.

And it is further alleged in said bill that through the formation of said Corn Products Refining Company all competition has been destroyed, and that the Corn Products Refining Company has an absolute monopoly of the manufacture and sale of glucose and by-products, and is able to fix the price of the same to the public.

And it is further alleged in said bill that at the time said complainant acquired its said stock, and for a long time prior thereto.

And for a considerable time thereafter, the capital stock of the said Corn Products Company was duly listed upon the stock Exchanges of New York and Chicago, and other large cities, and was daily bought and sold in the open market as one of the standard investments of the country, and that said complainant acquired said stock with the view of holding the same as an investment, and that said complainant since the time of its acquisition of said stock has been the holder of the same.

And it is further alleged in said bill that at the time said complainants purchased the said stock, the said Corn Products Company paid regular dividends at the rate of 1-3/4% per quarter on the par value of said stock from the profits of the business so controlled by the said Corn Products Company, and it is further therein alleged that it was the duty of the said Corn Products Company and its officers and directors to continue to so manage its affairs that such dividends upon its stock should and would continue from year to year. And it is further alleged in said bill that if the said Corn Products Company and its officers and directors had honestly and in good faith, continued its said business and the management thereof, the said stock of the said complainant would still be earning and paying such dividends, and would be now be worth $100. per share, but by reason of the bad faith and misconduct of the officers and directors of the said Corn

Products Company pursuant to and as a part of the said
58 conspiracy, and the wrongful acts charged in said bill of complaint, the entire stock of the said Corn Products Company ceased to pay or earn dividends and its value has been thus entirely destroyed.

And it is further alleged in said bill that pursuant to said conspiracy said defendants in said bill are now planning and arranging to cause all of the said properties and the said business of said Corn Products Company to be transferred to the said Corn Products Refining Company, and thus permanently destroy the value of the said Complainant's shares of stock.

And it is further alleged in said bill of complaint that all

*Cross-bill of Joy

the properties held in the name of the said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, and the other properties held in other names, are about to be transferred and conveyed to the said Corn Products Refining Company pursuant to said conspiracy.

And it is further alleged in said bill that said Corn Products Refining Company is a giant pool, trust and combine formed for the purpose of unlawfully regulating, fixing and controlling the price of glucose and grape sugar and other products; that said pool trust and combine is to be made effectual in and through the incorporation of said Corn Products Refining Company; that the parties organizing, creating, promoting and managing said pool, trust and combine are now perfecting their arrangements with the intent and purpose of unlawfully monopolizing, controlling, regulating and fixing the price of glucose, grape sugar and by-products within the State of Illinois and throughout the United States.

And it is further alleged in said bill that said defendants for the purpose of defrauding said complainant of said shares of stock in said Corn Products Company, and defrauding other holders of the stock of said Corn Products Company, have already arranged to obtain control of substantially all the corporations and individuals heretofore engaged in the manufacture and sale of glucose, grape sugar and by-products throughout the United States, and that said Corn Products

Refining Company will, pursuant to said conspiracy and 59 for said fraudulent purposes, unlawfully acquired complete control of the said corporations and individuals and of the manufacture and sale of the said products throughout the United States, and that the purpose and intent of the said pool and combination and of the parties forming the same is to create a trust in and a complete monopoly of the manufacture and sale of glucose and grape sugar and give to said Corn Products Refining Company the power to regulate, fix and absolutely control the supply and price of glucose and grape sugar in the State of Illinois and throughout the United States.

And in said bill, among other relief, it is prayed that a receiver be appointed by this Honorable Court of the said Corn Products Company, and of its property and plants, and particularly of the said plants held in the name of and operated by the said Glucose Sugar Refining Company in Illinois and elsewhere, and it is further prayed that all said plants be managed and operated by said receiver under the orders and directions of this Honorable Court.

And it is further prayed that the said defendants to said bill of complaint be ousted from the possession or control of said property and plants, and that a reorganization be had of the said Corn Products Company and of the several corporations controlled by said Corn Products Company, under the orders and directions of this Honorable Court.

And it is further prayed that said defendants, including said Corn Products Refining Company, be enjoined from making or causing to be made any sale, transfer or conveyance of the said properties or plants, or any or either of them, or any part thereof, to said Corn Products Refining Company, or to any other party defendant to said bill of complaint.

Your orator further represents that said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, one of the defendants to said bill of complaint, the name of which has heretofore been duly changed according to law to Corn Products Manufacturing Co., 60 filed its petition in the Circuit Court of Cook County aforesaid, for the removal of the said cause to the United States Circuit Court in and for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division thereof, and complied with the statutes of the United States in that regard, and said cause was and now is transferred to and pending in the said Circuit Court of the United States in and for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division thereof; and your orator has entered his appearance and filed his answer to said bill, and the said bill and other pleadings and proceedings in said cause are now on file and of record in this Honorable Court as by reference thereto will more fully appear.

Your orator further shows that each and every of the allegations contained in said bill of complaint, charging your orator, or any of the other defendants to said bill of complaint with being, or attempting to create, or be a pool, trust, combine or illegal monopoly, or with committing any act, or taking any steps for the purpose of defrauding said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, or of affecting the value of its said stock in said Corn Products Company, or with attempting or threatening to transfer or divert from said Corn Products Company any of its business, property, plants, trade secrets, or assets, or with committing any act contrary to any law of the State of Illinois, or of the United States, or charging any fraud, conspiracy or wrong-doing, whatsoever, is wholly and unqualifiedly false and untrue; and that your orator has denied each and every of said allegations in said bill of complaint in the answer which your orator heretofore filed thereto.

Your orator further shows that the laws of the State of Illinois, which said bill of complaint alleges have been violated, and particularly the Act therein referred to as "An Act to define trusts and conspiracies against trade," approved June 20, 1893, in force July 1, 1893, is contrary to the constitution and laws of the State of Illinois, and to the constitution of the United States of America, and the Amendment thereto, and particularly the Fourteenth Amendment thereto, and is unconstitutional and void.

And your orator further shows that said bill of complaint further avers that the alleged acts of the defendants thereto are in violation of the laws of the United States, and that said averment has reference to a statute of the United States entitled "An Act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies;" and your orator shows that said complainant, Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, in and by its said bill of complaint, claims and contends that the transactions referred to in said bill are illegal because they contravene said statute of Illinois, and said statute of the United States; whereas your orator avers and states the fact to be that each and every of the acts, doings and transactions complained of in said bill of complaint against said Corn Products Company, and said other defendants, was and is in all respects legal, valid and constitutional, and never contravened or violated, and in no way contravenes or violates either the said statute of Illinois, or the said statute of the United States, or any other statute or law of either said State of Illinois, or of the United States.

Your orator further shows unto your Honors that said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, at the time of the filing of its said bill of complaint, was and still is a corporation organized, existing and doing business under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Illinois, and of no other State; that said Corn Products Company is a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New Jersey on February 6, 1902, having a capital stock of $80,000,000., consisting of 300,000 shares of preferred stock of the par value of $100. each, and 500,000 shares of common stock of the par value of $100. each; that over $27,000,000. par value of said preferred stock and over $45,000,000. par value of said common stock have been issued and are outstanding, and are owned by a large number of stockholders scattered throughout the United States and elsewhere.

Morton, filed

Your orator further shows that the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, on or about February 6, 1902, purchased 450 shares of said preferred stock and 550 shares of said common stock of said Corn Products Company, and since then has been and still is the owner thereof; that said 1000 shares of stock were acquired by said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, not by way of security for nor in payment of or on account of any obligation, indebtedness, claim or demand due or owing to said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, but were purchased by said company solely as an investment.

Your orator further represents that said complainant, Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, never had and has not now any power, right or authority to purchase, acquire, own, hold or possess any of the said 1000 shares of stock of said Corn Products Company, or to vote any of said stock at any meeting of the stockholders of said Corn Products Company, or in any manner to direct, control, regulate, interfere with, or have any voice in the business, or management of any of the affairs of said Corn Products Company, and that the said purchase and ownership by said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company of said 1000 shares of stock was and is ultra vires, and beyond its powers, and that said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company has no power to exercise any right of ownership over any of said 1000 shares of stock, or to file the bill of complaint herein, or to take any other steps or proceedings as a stockholder of said Corn Products Company.

Your orator further represents that said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company threatens to and will, unless prevented from so doing by this Honorable Court, vote its said 1000 shares of stock in said Corn Products Company at the meetings annually held by the stockholders of said Company, and at all other meetings of said stockholders, and interfere with the due and proper management and control by said Corn Products Company, of its business and property.

Your orator further represents on information and belief, and therefore so says, that said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company did not file its said bill of complaint in good faith, or because of the supposed existence of any of the matters therein alleged, or because it believed any of the allegations therein of wrong-doing to be true, or for the purpose of actually protecting its interest as a stockholder in said Corn Products Company, or for the purpose of protecting any of the property, business or affairs of said Corn Products Company, or conserving the same, or because it believed that there was any occasion or necessity for so doing; but said bill of complaint was filed and said proceedings instituted by said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, as your orator is informed and believes, and therefore says, solely for the purpose of harassing and annoying said Corn Products Company, and its co-defendants to said bill of complaint, including your orator, and diminishing and destroying the value of the business and properties of and the shares of stock in said Corn Products Company, and its said co-defendants, Glucose Sugar Refining Co., Corn Products Refining Co. and New York Glucose Co., and to discredit said companies, and particularly said Corn Products Company, with the general public and the numerous stockholders in said defendant corporations, by praying for a receiver of said Corn Products Company, and for a reorganization thereof under the directions of the Court; that said bill of complaint was filed by said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company in the hope and with the expectation on the part of said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company that some or all of the defendants to said bill of complaint, including your orator as a stockholder and director of said Corn Products Company, would, for the purpose of protecting and conserving the business and properties of said corporation, purchase from said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company at some exorbitant or fabulous price many times many its said 1,000 shares of stock in said Corn Products in excess of its real value.

Your orator further represents that he now is and ever since the organization of said Corn Products Company has been the owner and possessor of a portion of the capital stock of said Corn Products Company, and has also, during all 64 of said time, been and still is a director thereof, and that your orator is interested in the welfare, management, business and property of said Corn Products Company, both as a stockholder therein and a director thereof.

Your orator further represents that the value of the property, business and assets of said Corn Products Company and of your orator's interest therein as a stockholder and director thereof, have been and are diminished, impaired and affected to the extent of more than $5,000., exclusive of interest and costs, by the filing of said bill of complaint and the prayer therein for the appointment of a receiver of the property of said Corn Products Company and for a reorganization of said company under the directions of the Court; that the precise amount of damages which said Corn Products Company and your orator severally have sustained and will sustain by the filing and prosecution of said bill of complaint by said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company can not be definitely ascertained or measured, but as you orator verily believes, and therefore says, will amount to to-wit: ten thousand dollars, and that said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company is not financially able to adequately respond to your orator and said Corn Products Company for such damages as have been and will be severally sustained by them, as aforesaid, and that by reason of the premises, said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company should be enjoined from further prosecuting its said suit and from taking any action or proceedings as a stockholder of said Corn Products Company in any manner seeking or tending to control, regulate or interfere with any of the business or property of said Corn Products Company, or the management thereof, or from voting or asserting any rights as owner of said 1,000 shares of stock in said Corn Products Company.

Forasmuch, Therefore, as your orator is wholly without remedy in the premises, except by the filing of this cross-bill in said proceedings commenced by the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company against your orator and said other defendants, and to the end that said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, its directors, officers, agents, attorneys, solicitors and employes may be forthwith temporarily, and on final hearing, forever enjoined from voting or attempting to vote, directly or indirectly, at any meeting of the stockholders of said Corn Products Company any of the 1,000 shares of stock of said Corn Products Company so held by said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company; that it may be decreed herein that said complainant, Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, had and has no power, right or authority to purchase, acquire, own, hold or possess the said 1,000 shares of stock in said Corn Products Company, and that the said 1,000 shares of stock may be cancelled and forfeited, and that the said complainant, Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, may be forthwith temporarily, and on final hearing hereof, forever enjoined from owning, holding or possessing the said shares of stock, or any part thereof, or from, directly or indirectly, exercising or asserting any acts or ownership over the same, or as a stockholder in said Corn Products Company, and from further prosecuting its bill of complaint filed herein, and from taking any further proceeding therein, or taking any other proceedings of any kind as a stockholder in said Corn Products Company, or, as such stockholder, attempting in any manner whatsoever to regulate, control, interfere with, or have any voice in said Corn Products Company, or the management of its property, business or affairs; and that the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company and the said Corn Products Company, who are hereby made defendants hereto, shall be required, to make full and direct answer to this cross-bill, but not under oath, their and each of their answers under oath being hereby severally waived; and that said Corn Products Company may be forthwith temporarily, and on final hearing hereof, forever enjoined and restrained by this Honorable Court from permitting any of said one thousand shares of its capital stock to be voted by or on behalf of said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, or otherwise, at any meeting of the stockholders of said Corn Products Company, and from recognizing said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company as a stockholder in said Corn Products Company; and that your orator may have not only a subpoena to the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company and to the said Corn Products Company, but also a writ of injunction under the seal of this Honorable Court enjoining the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company and Corn Products Company, as herein prayed.

May Your Honors Also Grant to your orator such other and further relief in the premises as the nature of the case shall require and as your Honors shall seem meet.

to the bill of complaint of Chicago Real Estate Loan and

These defendants by protestation, not confessing or ac-manner and form as the same are therein set forth and al-bill, made or stated such a case as doth or ought to entitle it to any such discovery or relief as is thereby sought and prayed for, from or against these defendants, or any or iether of them.

2. That there is a misjoinder of parties defendant to the said bill of complaint.

3. The said bill of complaint is multifarious in that there is a misjoinder of several separate causes of action therein whereto some of said defendants are not proper parties, and which said causes of action cannot be properly joined in one bill of complaint.

4. The said bill of complaint is multifarious in that it raises several distinct issues which cannot be properly or equitably joined or determined upon one bill of complaint.

5. That there is a non-joinder of necessary parties defendant to said bill of complaint.

6. It appears from the allegations of said bill of complaint that the courts of New Jersey have the sole and exclusive jurisdiction of the subject matter of said bill of complaint.

7. The said bill of complaint is uncertain, ambiguous, contradictory and insufficient.

75 Wherefore, and for divers other good causes of demurrer appearing in the said bill these defendants do jointly and severally demand the judgment of this Honorable Court, whether they or any of either of them, shall be compelled to make any further or other answer to the said bill; and jointly and severally pray to be hence dismissed with their costs and charges, in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

Cross-Bill.

Demurrer to Cross-Bill.

The demurrer of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company as defendant to the Cross-bill of Joy Morton filed in the above entitled cause.

This defendant, the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, by protestation, not confessing or acknowledging all or any of the matters and things set forth in the said

Cross-bill of the said Joy Morton to be true, in such manner and form as the same are therein set forth and alleged, demurs to the said Cross-bill for the reason that the same is wholly insufficient in law to be answered unto by this defendant and does not show that the said cross-complainant is entitled to any relief in equity in the premises.

cross-bill, filed
Aug. 5, 1907.

And for special causes of demurrer to the said cross-bill said defendant shows and assigns the following:

1. In that the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company and the said Corn Products Company are improperly joined as co-defendants to said cross-bill, it fully appearing from said cross-bill that said Corn Products Company is interested wholly on the side of and with the said cross-complainant, Joy Morton, in the subject matter of the said cross-bill, and should, therefore, be a co-complainant with the said Joy Morton in the said cross-bill and not a defendant thereto.

2. In that there is a non-joinder of proper and necessary parties complainant in said cross-bill it appearing from the said cross-bill that the said Corn Products Company, and other defendants to the original Bill of Complaint in said cause, are proper and necessary parties to the said cross-bill, respectively, and none of them are made parties thereto.

3. In that the said cross-bill is not germane to the original Bill of Complaint filed in said cause, but is wholly foreign thereto.

4. In that the allegations in the said cross-bill that said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company "never had and have not now any power, right, or authority to purchase, acquire, own, hold or possess any of the said 1000 shares of stock of said Corn Products Company, or to vote any of said stock at any meeting of the stockholders of said Corn Products Company, or in any manner to direct, control, regulate, interfere with, or have any voice in the business, or management of any of the affairs of said Corn Products Company," and that the purchase and ownership thereof by said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company was and is ultra vires, and that said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company has no power to exercise any right of ownership over any of said one thousand shares of stock or to file its said Bill of Complaint herein or take any other steps or proceedings as a stockholder of said Corn Products Company, and all other allegations of like character in the said cross-bill, are, wholly, and respectively, mere conclusions upon the part of the said cross-complainant, and no facts are set forth in the said cross-bill upon which said conclusions are or can be based, and said cross-bill is, therefore, wholly insufficient in law to be answered unto.

cross-bill, filed

80 5. In that the complainant in the said cross-bill cannot, in this proceeding, question the right of said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company to purchase, acquire, own, hold or possess the said one thousand shares of stock of said Corn Products Company, or any of them, or the right of said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company to exercise any and all acts incidental to its ownership of such stock.

6. In that the allegations of the said cross-bill that the value of the property, business and assets of said Corn Products Company, and of said cross-complainant's interest therein as a stockholder and director thereof, "have been and are diminished, impaired and affected * * * by the filing of said Bill of Complaint", etc., are statements of mere conclusions of said cross-complainant, as no facts are set forth in said cross-bill upon which said said conclusions are or can be based, and said cross-bill is therefore wholly insufficient in law to be answered unto by this defendant.

7. In that it does not appear from the matters and things set forth in said cross-bill that said cross-complainant is entitled to the relief thereby sought, or therein prayed for, or any part thereof, or any relief whatsoever, in the premises.

8. In that the said cross-bill is otherwise so uncertain, ambiguous, and insufficient, that the said cross-complainant is not entitled to an answer thereto from this defendant.

Wherefore, and for divers other good and sufficient causes of demurrer appearing in said cross-bill this defendant thereto doth demur thereto and humbly demands the judgment of this Honorable Court whether it shall be compelled to make any further or other answer to the said cross-bill, and prays to be hence dismissed with its costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained, and this defendant will ever pray, etc.

This defendant, now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto itself all manner of benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties, and other imperfections in said bill of complaint contained, for answer thereunto or to so much and such parts thereof as it is advised it is or are material and necessary for it to make answer unto, answering says:—

1. That as to each and every allegation in said bill of complaint contained, not herein specifically admitted or denied, this defendant neither admits nor denies such allegations but asks for strict proof of each and every thereof.

86 2. This defendant admits that said complainant, Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, did on or about the 6th day of February, A. D. 1902, become the holder and owner of to-wit, one thousand (1,000) shares of the capital stock of the Corn Products Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of New Jersey, and that four hundred and fifty (450) shares of said one thousand (1,000) shares were and are preferred shares of stock of the said Corn Products Company, and five hundred and fifty (550) shares of said one thousand (1,000) shares were and are common shares of stock of the said company; and this defendant, further answering, says that said Corn Products Refining Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of New Jersey, and that it has the express power, under and by the terms of its charter, to purchase and acquire, and that prior to the filing of said bill it purchased and acquired, and now owns a majority of the capital stock of the said Corn Products Company.

3. Further answering, this defendant says that said complainant, as such stockholder as aforesaid, did on the 6th day of February, A. D. 1902, and continuously since said time, up to and including the date of the filing of the bill of complaint herein, know each and every act and transaction of the officers and board of directors of said Corn Products Company, and all of the acts and doings, business and transactions of said Corn Products Company, and did at all time immediately before the purchase of said stock of said Corn Products Company by said Corn Products Refining Company know of such contemplated purchase, and at the time of such purchase did know thereof; and said complainant has at all times, and at each annual meeting of stockholders of said Corn Products Company known of all acts, transactions and business of said Corn Products Company, and of each of its officers and directors, made, had and taken during the fiscal year of said Corn Products Company, immediately preceding each annual stock-holders' meeting as aforesaid, and that knowing such facts, and each and every of the same, said complainant, as the owner of said one thousand (1,000) shares of stock of said Corn Products Company, has at all times continuously since February 6, 1902 expressly concurred in, consented to and ratified and approved all of the acts, doings, business and transactions of every kind of said Corn Products Company, and of all of its officers, directors and stockholders, and that said complainant has at each and all of the annual meetings of said Corn Products Company (such annual meetings having been held once each year since said February 6, 1902 up to and including the year 1907) at all times voted said one thousand (1,000) shares of said stock in full approval and ratification of, and has approved and ratified all of the acts, business, doings and transactions of said Corn Products Company, and all of its officers, directors and stockholders, and at no time has said complainant objected to or made any objection to the acts, doings, business and transactions, management and conduct of the business of said Corn Products Company, or of any or all of its officers, directors and stockholders, as aforesaid.

That at said annual meetings of the stockholders of said Corn Products Company, held in March 1902, March 1903, March 1904, March 1905, March 1906, and March 1907, respectively, said complainant, with full knowledge, as aforesaid, voted said one thousand (1000) shares of stock in ratification of, and did then and there at each of said stockholders' meetings, as aforesaid, ratify and approve, by express vote, all of the acts, doings, business and transactions of the officers, board of directors and stockholders of said Corn Products Company, and that said complainant did not at any of said meetings, or at any other time prior to the filing of the bill of complaint herein, make any objection to any of the conduct, management, business or transactions of said Corn Products Company, or any of its officers, directors or stockholders.

4. This defendant, further answering, says that prior to its acquiring said Corn Products Company stock, the question of making such sale was duly submitted to the stockholders of said Corn Products Company, at a meeting duly called for that purpose in, to-wit: the month of March 1903; that at such meeting said complainant, as the holder of said one thousand (1000) shares of stock of said Corn Products Company, attended and did vote its said one thousand (1000) shares of stock for and in favor of said sale, upon certain terms then and there disclosed to said meeting and to said complainant, and that such purchase and sale was made 88 upon said terms, and that said one thousand (1000) shares of stock so as aforesaid voted by said complainant in favor of making said sale, together with the other shares of stock present at said meeting, constituting a majority of all the capital stock of said Corn Products Company, induced this defendant to make such purchase of the majority shares of the capital stock of said Corn Products Company, and that such purchase was made pursuant to said action at such meeting, and that this defendant relied upon the vote of the stockholders of said Corn Products Company, including the vote of said complainant, and upon such reliance, made and paid a valuable consideration for said purchase as aforesaid, and that said complainant at all times prior to said sale, and continuously since the making of said sale, up to the time of filing complainant's said bill of complaint herein, expressly approved of said sale and the purchase and acquirement by this defendant of the majority of the capital stock of said Corn Products Company, and expressly ratified, acquiesced in, and approved of the terms and conditions of such purchase, and said complainant voted said one thousand (1,000) shares of stock in ratification of said sale and purchase as aforesaid.

That said complainant, immediately prior to and at the time of the sale of the majority of such capital stock of said Corn Products Company and the purchase of such majority shares of stock by this defendant, was the owner and holder of other shares of preferred and common stock of said Corn Products Company, and that said complainant did vote said shares also in favor of the sale and transfer of a majority of the shares of stock to this defendant upon the terms and conditions then and there disclosed to and known by said complainant, and upon which such sale and transfer was made, and that pursuant to such vote of said complainant of the shares of stock so owned by said complainant, such sale and transfer was made, and that as a part and parcel of such sale and transfer of a majority of said stock as aforesaid to this defendant, the shares of preferred and common stock so voted by said complainant, other than said one thousand (1,000) shares as aforesaid, were immediately transferred by said complainant to this defendant, and in exchange therefor said complainant did take and receive under the terms and conditions of such sale and transfer, preferred and common shares of this defendant, and that said complainant has at all times retained said preferred and common shares of this defendant, and with full knowledge at the time, of all acts, doings and conduct of this defendant, and its officers, directors and stockholders, voted the same at the various meetings of the stockholders of this defendant in favor and approval of all its acts and has for many years from time to time received dividends thereon from this defendant, and at no time has said complainant, as the owner of said preferred and common shares, although it always had full knowledge thereof, objected to any of the acts or doings, or the business or transactions had by this defendant, or any of its officers, agents, directors, or stockholders, but, on the contrary, said complainant has at all times knowingly acquiesced in, voted for, and approved of the same, and that since February 6, 1902, said complainant has quarter-annually received and accepted dividends upon said preferred and common shares of stock so owned and held by it in said Corn Products Company and still retains all such dividends so received from this defendant and said Corn Products Company, respectively.

5. And said defendant has at all times relied upon the actions as aforesaid of said complainant with reference to the sale of said stock of said Corn Products Company, and the purchase of the same by this defendant, and this defendant avers and charges that said complainant has been guilty of laches, is estopped by reason of said actions as aforesaid from in any manner questioning the purchase or acquirement by this defendant of the stock of said Corn Products Company, or the conduct or management of the business of said Corn Products Company, or of this defendant, or of their respective officers, directors or stockholders, and that this defendant relies upon said estoppel and laches of said complainant, and charges the same to be a bar to the maintenance by said complainant of its bill of complaint, and now here prays the same advantage of said estoppel as if it had specially pleaded the same herein.

6. This defendant says that said complainant has not in and by its said bill of complaint made or shown any such 90      cause of action as entitles it to any of the relief therein prayed for, and that said bill of complaint is wholly without equity.

7. And this defendant denies any and all manner of unlawful combination or confederacy wherewith it is by said bill of complaint charged, without this that there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's bill of complaint contained, material or necessary for this defendant to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered, confessed, traversed and avoided or denied, is true to the knowledge or belief of this defendant, all of which matters and things this defendant is ready and willing to aver, maintain and prove, if this Honorable Court shall direct, and humbly prays to be hence dismissed with its reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

92 PETITION OF CORN PRODUCTS REFINING COMPANY

Petition of Corn Products Refining Co., filed
Nov. 4, 1907.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

Northern District of Illinois

Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company,
vs.

No. 28,695.

Corn Products Company, et al.

Now comes Corn Products Refining Company, one of the defendants to said bill, and states the following:

1: Said bill was filed in the Circuit Court of Cook County, Illinois, on May 4, 1907; on June 8, 1907, by leave of this court, a transcript of the record in said cause in said State Court was filed in this court, and on the same date this court entered an order herein staying the proceedings in said State Court and restraining, until the further order of this Court, the said complainant its officers, agents, representatives, counsel, solicitors and attorneys from proceeding further with the prosecution of said cause in said State Court; that on July 8, 1907, said complainant moved to remand said cause to the State Court, and on the same date said motion was denied and overruled; that said bill is signed, "Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, by A. B. Joyner, its Solicitor".

2: That notwithstanding the premises, on October 19, 1907, there was filed in the Superior Court of said Cook County a certain bill, as General Number 263,565; that said bill was printed before it was filed, and, as appears on the face thereof, was first entitled in the Circuit Court of said Cook County:

93 that the complainant first named in said printed bill before it was filed was Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, which as appears on the face of said bill, was changed to that of George F. Harding, and that the bill so changed in its caption and in the name of its complainant, was so filed in said Superior Court, where it is still pending; that on October 25, 1907, said bill was amended; that said bill and said amended bill are signed, "A. B. Joyner, solicitor for complainant." that an original-duplicate of said printed

bill, as filed, in said Superior Court is attached hereto and made a part hereof.

Your petitioner, upon information and belief, states that George F. Harding was until recently the President of said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, and that for many years last past he owned or controlled, and now owns or controls substantially all of the capital stock and control all of the directors of said company, and that his son George F. Harding, Jr., is now the President thereof; and that the board of directors of said company is now composed of either members of his family or of clerks or irresponsible nominees.

Your petitioner further alleges that said company was originally organized under the name of Peoria Starch Manufacturing Company, under the charter granted by the Legislature of the State of Illinois on or about February 11, 1857; that as its name implies, one of its objects of incorporation was to manufacture starch, and that its charter fixed the minimum of its capital stock at forty thousand dollars ($40,000.) and the maximum at not more than Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000.); that on or about March 27, 1894, the name of said Peoria Starch Manufacturing Company was changed to that of Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company.

Your petitioner further alleges, upon information and belief, the following:

that said company has been used as a cloak and shield for the concealment of the property and effects of said George F. Harding, and that for some years last past he was a defendant to litigation in which his wife, in the State Courts of the payment of such maintenance and alimony, said company was used as a device whereby he might be enabled to either secrete his property or belittle the amount of his effects, and the various phases of said litigation appear in the printed reports of the decisions of the Illinois courts and of the United States Supreme Court, to which reference is hereby made, among them being Harding v. Harding, 79 Ill. App. 590; 79 Ill. App. 621; 180 Ill. 481; 180 Ill. 692; 205 Ill. 105; 198 U. S. 317.

Illinois, sought to secure maintenance and alimony, which

94 was finally decreed to her, and that in order to evade

That said George F. Harding was, as your petitioner is informed and believes, born in the State of Illinois; and that he is now over seventy years of age, and that he has con-continuously during his life been a resident and citizen thereof until he moved to California, wherein he instituted proceedings for a divorce against his wife, and which proceedings are the same proceedings referred to in Harding v. Harding, 198 U. S. 317, and which proceedings were unsuccessfully used as a defense to the said alimony and maintenance proceedings pending in the Illinois Courts, as is shown by said decision of the United States Supreme Court.

4. That the bill herein is a class bill and alleges that said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company is the holder and owner of one thousand shares of the capital stock of said Corn Products Company, and that four hundred and fifty thereof are preferred, and that five hundred and fifty thereof are common shares; that said second bill is also a class bill and alleges that said George F. Harding is the owner and holder of five hundred shares of the stock of said Corn Products Company, consisting of equal amounts of preferred and common stock; and your petitioner alleges upon information and belief that the stock upon which said first bill is based, and also that upon which said second bill is based, was owned, held or controlled on May 4, 1907, when said first bill was filed, and continuously since has been and still is owned, held or controlled by said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company and said George F. Harding, or either of them.

95 Your petitioner further shows that the parties defendant to both suits are substantially the same, and that the subject-matter thereof is likewise so, and that this court, in said cause pending herein, has first acquired jurisdiction, with the full power to hear and determine all controversies relating thereto.

Wherefore, the premises considered, your petitioner prays that said George F. Harding and said A. B. Joyner, his Solicitor, be enjoined and restrained from the further prosecution of the said bill so filed in said Superior Court of Cook County, on October 19, 1907, as amended on October 25, 1907, and from taking and all further proceedings therein; and that they be required by the order of this court to dismiss said bill so filed in said Superior Court of Cook County on October 19, 1907, as amended on October 25, 1907.

Respectfully submitted

In Chancery.
No. 28,695.

IN THE MATTER OF THE RULE TO SHOW CAUSE ENTERED NOVEMBER 4, 1907, ON THE MOTION OR PETITION OF THE CORN PRODUCTS REFINING COMPANY.

Now comes George F. Harding, who is not a party to this case, specially appearing only in obedience to the order of this Court entered herein on November 4th, 1907, and shows cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued against him and A. B. Joyner restraining them from the prosecution of a certain suit by said Harding in the Superior Court of Cook County, and why he should not be directed to dismiss said suit, as follows, viz:

The suit in the State Court was begun in the Superior Court

Answer of George
F. Harding,
filed Nov. 12,

George F. Harding, Plaintiff, vs. Standard Oil Company, Corn Products Company, Corn Products Refining Company, Corn Products Manufacturing Company, all corporations of the State of New Jersey, and Conrad H. Matthiessen, Charles L. Glass, William W. Heaton, Norman B. Ream, William J. Calhoun, Joy Morton, Benjamin Graham, T. B. Wagner, H. C. Herget, Thomas P. Kingsford, Edward T. Bedford, W. H. Nichols and E. F. Wemple, Defendants; said bill being in accordance with said title, and containing appropriate allegations as is more fully shown by a copy thereof presented with this answer as Exhibit A and made part hereof.

107 That the said suit in said State Court as shown by said bill differs from the suit in this case not only as to parties, but, also, as to subject matter and as to the relief sought, as will appear by said copy of said bill; that scarcely a fact stated in the State bill is to be found in the present bill in this court as therein stated, and this will more fully appear by said bill.

That the principal defendants in the two bills are different, the said Superior Court bill asking relief and making its charges against the Standard Oil Company, as the chief beneficiary of the offences charged in said bill and the principal actor.

The bill in this court asks relief against the New York Glucose Company, E. A. Matthiessen, F. C. Sherwood, J. B. Greenhut, and other defendants not mentioned in or made defendants in said Superior Court bill, while W. H. Nichols, E. F. Wemple, Benjamin Graham, are defendants to the Superior Court bill and charged as conspirators with the Standard Oil Company as more fully shown by said bill.

The two bills are for or in relation to different pieces of property belonging to different parties respectively owned by widely different and unlike plaintiffs as alleged in said bill, and there is no foundation or justice in the claim set out in the said motion or petition, that your respondent has the slightest interest in the stock or property claimed by the plaintiff in the Federal bill in this court.

That there is no pretense in the said Petition and no allegation of any kind that the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company is or ever was the owner of the stock or property for which this bill was filed by said Harding, and your respondent states that it is entirely untrue that said

Plaintiffs in said State Court and in this Court have any common interest of any kind whatever in said stock described in said several bills, and this is adroitly concealed and suppressed in the said motion and petition herein.

That every statement in said petition, or motion, or both, whatever they may be called, as to any combinations, or union, or relation, between the said Plaintiffs, relate to events that occurred many years ago, and the alleged facts and inferences touching them in said petition are every one of 108 them false, misstated, and misrepresented, and meant to obscure the question of identity of the Plaintiffs, in said two suits, respectively.

Your respondent further answering says that he does not own and has not at any time for many years last past owned a single share of stock in the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, nor has he been a President, or Officer, or Director, therein or connected with the management of said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company at any time for many years, last past and it is utterly false that he ever used the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company as a cloak or shield for the concealment of his property or effects, or to defeat his wife or any other person, or to evade the payment of alimony or any other matter, or, in any way or to any extent, to secrete his property or belittle the amount of his effects, and it is not true that the various phases of said litigation appear in the printed reports of the decision of the Illinois Courts and of the United States Supreme Court, and the case referred to in 198 U. S., 317, has no reference whatever, as appears upon its face, to the said subject matter of, or to the recovery of alimony or any other matter material in this case, and your respondent alleges that nothing in said litigation can be found which in any way reflects upon your respondent, and this ancient scandal, immaterial and indifferent in this case, is simply brought in because of the want of meritorious matter and in the endeavor to suppress the real truth and divert the court's attention from the real facts in this case.

Your respondent further answering says that the affidavit attached to the said petition by Hal C. Bangs is a fraud and subterfuge on its face, for it fails to define, so that the maker of the said affidavit should be prosecuted for perjury as to what facts or alleged facts are stated in said petition or motion which are true to his knowledge, though meant to be so understood, and are probably used to deceive the court.

F. Harding,
filed Nov. 12, 1907.

Answer of George
F. Harding,
Filed Nov. 12, 1907.

Your respondent further states that nothing is contained in said alleged motion or petition which purports to be within the knowledge of the maker of said petition, except matters of record relating to the proceeding, and having no bearing on the question of the right to an injunction. All else in substance is stated upon information and belief as the said petition shows.

Your respondent further answering says that it is untrue, namely, the legal conclusion stated in said petition, as follows:

"Your petitioner further shows that the parties defendants in both suits are substantially the same and that the subject matter thereof is likewise so, and that this court in said cause pending herein has first acquired jurisdiction with the full power to hear and determine all controversies relating thereto;" but the truth about the matter is, that about half the parties are different and that the subject matter involves the personal liability of many different defendants not less than a half a dozen of which are named as so liable in the present bill in this court and were liable to different plaintiffs.

Your respondent further answering says that he had neither knowledge or notice of said motion or petition or of the said order herein obtained on November 4th, 1907; until after said order was entered and alleges that it was obtained without the knowledge of or any notice to respondent, the plaintiff in state bill, or by or to attorney for plaintiff, in either of said cases, and as he believes without the knowledge of any one, except said defendant in this case, and the attorneys representing said defendants.

Your respondent further states and alleges that this injunction was simply obtained to stop this plaintiff in said case in the Superior Court from attaching the defendants, Morton, Glass and Calhoun, for contempt; and in order to protect them from punishment for failing to obey the subpoenas commanding them to testify to the truth concerning the matters involved in said State case.

That the said defendants were ordered to testify by said subpoenas, at 11 o'clock on November 4th, 1907, and just before the said restraining order was obtained. That they were about to be proceeded against in said court of justice for their misconduct in refusing to testify and in thus evading the authority of the said State Court, when this motion was secretly made and said injunction order was obtained forbidding the Plaintiff in said case "from proceeding further with the prosecution of or taking any steps of any kind in said case of George F. Harding against the Standard Oil 110 Company of New Jersey and others;" and so your respondent alleges the truth to be that the said petition and motion were made in this court wilfully, wrongfully, and secretly to prevent the State Court from punishing the said defendants therein for contempt in refusing to appear and tell the truth, as witnesses in said cause.

That said Moran, Mayer & Meyer obtained said order and injunction by fraud and concealment of the truth, viz: that no notice had been given, and of the other facts above stated, and that the prior and paramount jurisdiction was in the said State Court, and that your respondent was simply proceeding to maintain the justice of the charges in said bill out of the mouth of the defendants themselves, and your respondent submits that this court had no jurisdiction or authority or power whatever over either this respondent, George F. Harding, or his said attorney, A. B. Joyner, or in any manner restrain the prosecution of said State case.

Your respondent further answering denies any other allegation or fact set up, in said petition or motion, not elsewhere noticed in this answer and charges that this whole proceeding is simply a fraud upon this court effected by its officers, said attorneys, by this false petition and concealing the fact that the court had no jurisdiction whatever in the premises, and respondent alleges that it was improper that one who is not a party to the case before this Court should be restrained from enforcing his own rights in the State Court.

And this defendant further answering says that said restraining order of November 4, 1907, was and is wholly void and of no effect, because of the entire lack of jurisdiction on the part of this Honorable Court to enter the same. And this Court has no authority or jurisdiction over this respondent in the premises, and no authority or jurisdiction to enjoin this respondent or his said attorney, A. B. Joyner, from further prosecuting said suit in said State Court and no authority or jurisdiction to order this respondent or said Joyner, to dismiss said suit, and by this answer this defendant does not intend to submit himself to the jurisdiction of this Court, in the premises, but denies the same. Further this respondent saith not.

MATTER OF THE RULE ENTERED ON

vs. } No. 28,695.
Corn Products Company, et al. }

In the matter of the rule entered on November 12, 1907, in the above entitled cause, that George F. Harding, George F. Harding, Jr., William J. Ammen, and A. B. Joyner, show cause why they should not be attached for contempt of said court for violating the temporary stay and restraining order entered in said cause on June 8, 1907.

To the Honorable, the Judges of said Court, in chancery sitting:

This respondent, George F. Harding, Sr., one of the persons named in the said rule above referred to, for answer thereto, respectfully submits and states to the Court the following, namely:

1. This respondent hereby refers to the answer filed by this respondent in the above entitled cause on November 12, 1907, to the rule entered in said cause on November 4, 1907, and this respondent asks leave to make his said former answer

Answer of George
filed Nov. 13,

a part of this, his present answer, and, to that end, this respondent refers to and adopts the same as a part of this answer, and this respondent states that his said former answer was and is true as stated in his affidavit thereto and states the essential fact required to how the truth touching this alleged contempt.

2. This respondent is advised and informed and believes, and so states the fact to be, that this respondent has not violated any order of this Court, or committed any contempt of this Court, and, certainly, this respondent has not knowingly or intentionally violated any order of this Court, either directly or indirectly, or knowingly or intentionally, been guilty of any contempt of or even any disrespect towards this Honorable Court.

3. This respondent further states that the said case 118 brought by him in the said Superior Court differs from the above entitled cause, both as to the parties and as to the subject matter, as more fully shown in said former answer filed in this cause by this respondent, half of the defendants being different in the two cases, and relief being sought in said Superior Court case against a half dozen defendants not parties to the above entitled cause, though necessary parties to this respondent's said bill, they being charged by this respondent as trustees, jointly and severally, and alleged to be liable to account to this respondent, and before this Court, by reason of the offenses and wrongs charged against them in the said bill, such offenses being other than those charged in the bill in the above entitled cause, all of which will more fully appear from an inspection and comparison of the said bills of complaint now pending before this Court by removal from the said State Courts and reference to the said bills of complaint is hereby made by this respondent for greater certainty.

4. In addition to the plaintiffs in the said two cases being different, it appears from the said bills that the plaintiffs, respectively, are differently affected by a different conspiracy of different defendants, and this respondent's bill is thrice the length of the bill in this cause, and contains several times as many allegations, and scarcely one of its allegations, if any, is, in form or in substance, like any allegation or allegations in the other of said bills, as will be seen by an inspection thereof.

5. The said bill in the said Superior Court was prepared by this respondent for his own use, and in his own case, and the allegations on their face, as printed, throughout said bill, refer to an individual as complainant, and not to any corporation, as complainant, as shown by the changes therein in ink, as, for example, on pages

6. This respondent further answering says that this respondent was so far from intending the commission of any contempt, as charged against him, that this respondent was in fact advised, and informed and believed that the said complainant corporation, had caused a notice to be served upon the defendants in the above entitled cause of its motion to dismiss the same, by leave of Court, and was prevented from presenting said motion by the absence of the Judges of 119 said Federal Court, for a considerable period, and this respondent was further advised and informed and believed that said complainant in this cause intended to ask leave of this Court to file an amended and supplemental bill herein, and still intends so to do, in due time, the delay in so doing having resulted chiefly, if not entirely, from the absence of said Judges, as this respondent is advised and informed and believes.

7. This respondent further answering says that the facts set up in his former answer in this cause, together with the facts stated in this answer, and otherwise shown to the Court, show the real animus and purpose of said defendants, namely: To delay a hearing of said Superior Court case, and prevent the taking of testimony therein, and, especially, to protect the defendants therein who had been duly served with subpoenas to appear and testify as witnesses for this respondent, and refused so to do, and said order of November 4, 1907, in this cause was obtained to prevent the punishment of said defendants for contempt of the said Superior Court in refusing to obey said subpoenas.

8. This respondent further states that one object of this respondent in filing his said bill in the said Superior Court was to obtain such testimony promptly, and because the same could not be promptly obtained before this Court, until after issue joined by all parties and delays of perhaps years resulting from this and other causes.

9. This respondent further says that he has never seen the alleged order of June 8, 1907, in this cause, or been served with a copy thereof, or with notice thereof, and this respondent knows of no intimation given to him that this Court had forbidden or restrained this respondent from filing an independent bill in the State Court, such as was filed by this respondent in the said Superior Court case, the same being for relief against substantially different defendants, and upon an entirely different subject matter upon the part of this respondent, and upon an entirely different subject matter as related to the liability of said half dozen new defendants in said Superior Court case; and that this respondent knows of no ground or reason upon which any charge of contempt can be based against him, because of his having used any printed matter or written matter which might be found in any other document or bill prepared for any other party, and this respondent's alleged contempt, if this respondent can understand the same it not having been stated in any petition or motion or document or order in this cause, is only that this respondent used in said Superior Court bill a portion of a printed bill apparently intended to be used but never in fact used by said complainant in the above entitled cause.

10. This respondent further answering says that he is and has been for some time past as alleged in his said bill in the said Superior Court, the owner and holder of said stock in said Corn Products Company, free and clear from all claims of the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company therein or thereto, his said stock being entirely separate and distinct from the stock of said Corn Products Company held and owned by the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, as alleged in its bill of complaint in the above entitled cause, and this respondent's said bill in the said Superior Court was filed by this respondent for his own use and benefit as the holder and owner of such stock, and without any understanding or collusion or agreement whatsoever between this respondent, or any one representing this respondent, and the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, or any one connected with or representing that Company, and this respondent is advised and believes and so states the fact to be that this respondent had and has the right to prosecute his said suit, and that the said order of June 8, 1907, did not and does not and was not intended to restrain this respondent, or anyone acting for him, from beginning and prosecuting such suit and at no time did it occur to the mind of this respondent, for a moment, that the beginning or prosecution of such suit would or could be or be construed as a violation of said order of June 8, 1907, or as a contempt to any extent whatsoever or in any sense whatever of this Honorable Court.

11. The said bill filed in the said Superior Court was prepared entirely by this respondent, and filed, personally, by this respondent, the said A. B. Joyner, having, in this particular case, had nothing to do with the preparation thereof, except some informal suggestions to this respondent in regard to the same, and this respondent in fact acted as his own attorney and solicitor in the preparation and filing of said bill, and should have signed the same as the chief solicitor or counsel in said cause, and his omission so to do was not by design but from forgetfulness or inadvertence only.

12. The said bill in the said Superior Court was prepared by this respondent at the home of this respondent's son, George F. Harding, Jr., in Chicago, during a period of some months just preceding the filing of the same, and, during that period, this respondent, and his said son frequently talked together with reference to the above entitled cause, and, in a general way, as to the general features, of the bill then being prepared by this respondent, and in the course of such interviews, this respondent, while insisting upon his independent rights and his purpose of filing an independent bill, discussed with the said George F. Harding, Jr., as his father and friend, but not as his solicitor or counsel, or as solicitor or counsel for said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, the best course to be pursued in the above entitled cause, leaving to the said George F. Harding, Jr., however, as the president and manager of said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, the control of its affairs free from any dictation or interference by this respondent, this respondent at the same time acting in his own interest, individually, as the independent owner and holder of stock in the said Corn Products Company, as above set forth, and the said George F. Harding, Jr., in fact had nothing whatever to do with the beginning or prosecution of the said suit in the said Superior Court, and neither did the said William J. Ammen, have anything whatsoever to do with the beginning or prosecution of the said last named suit, at any time, or in any way, although this respondent, conferred more than once with said Ammen as the attorney and representative of the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, in reference to such proper uses as might be made by that Company of the new facts discovered by this respondent or of the general features of the bill in course of preparation by this respondent and afterwards filed by this respondent in said Superior Court case, but, at no time, was there any intimation or suggestion between this respondent and said Ammen as to any possible violation or evasion of any order of 122 this Court, or in relation to any contempt of this Court, and this respondent, at all times, explicitly informed said Ammen that the stock of said Corn Products Company, claimed by this respondent, was entirely separate and distinct from the stock of said Corn Products Company claimed by said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, and this was and is the truth as already fully shown by this respondent.

13. This respondent further respectfully represents and states to this Honorable Court that this respondent never, knowingly or intentionally, violated the said order of June 8, 1907, or any part thereof, either in its letter or spirit, or advised or aided or abetted in any violation thereof, and this respondent has always entertained and still entertains the profoundest respect for this Honorable Court, and, particularly, for the Judge who entered the said order of June 8, 1907, and this respondent has never by act or speech, or otherwise, directly or indirectly, intentionally or voluntarily or knowingly, been guilty of any contempt of or toward this Honorable Court, or even of any disrespect of or toward this Honorable Court, and this respondent never heard or had notice of any intimation from said George F. Harding, Jr., or said Ammen, or said Joyner, of any intent or purpose to avoid or violate or evade in any way or to any extent whatsoever, any order whatsoever, of this Court.

In the Matter of the Rule Entered on November 12, 1907, in the Above Entitled Cause, that George F. Harding, George F. Harding, Jr., William J. Ammen, and A. B. Joyner, Show Cause why They Should Not Be Attached for Contempt of Said Court for Violating the Temoprary Stay and Restraining Order Entered in Said Cause on June 8, 1907.

To the Honorable, the Judges of said Court, in chancery sitting:

This respondent, William J. Ammen, one of the persons named in the said rule above referred to, for answer thereto, respectfully submits and states to the Court the following, namely:

1. This respondent is and has been for nearly twenty years last past an attorney at law of this Court, as well as of the State Courts of Illinois, and still is such attorney and solicitor.

2. Before the filing of the Bill of Complaint in the above entitled cause, in the State Court, this respondent, at the request of George F. Harding, Jr., as president and manager of the said complainant corporation, assisted Mr. A. B. Joyner, then and still an attorney at law in the said State Court, in preparing the Bill of Complaint subsequently filed by the said A. B. Joyner, in said cause, in said State Court, as appears from the said Bill of Complaint now of record in said cause, reference thereto being hereby made by this respondent.

3. After the filing of the said Bill in the said State Court, this respondent had nothing further to do with the said cause until a motion was made in said State Court to remove said cause to this Court, whereupon this affiant, at the request of the said president and manager of the said corporation, appeared in said cause before said State Court, and then and there assisted the said Joyner in opposing the said motion for removal of said cause, on or about the 8th day of June, A. D. 1907.

4. After the removal of the said cause to this Honorable Court, this respondent, by request of the said president and manager of said corporation, assumed entire charge and management of the said cause, as the sole solicitor and attorney of the said complainant corporation therein, and from that time to the present this respondent has had and still has the entire control and management of said cause as the attorney and solicitor of said complainant, the said A. B. Joyner not being an attorney at law authorized to practice before this Honorable Court, and the assent and concurrence of the said A. B. Joyner to this respondent's exclusive control of the said cause, as above set forth, was duly given by the said Joyner, and at no time since said removal of said cause to this Court has the said Joyner had any connection therewith, or any control thereof, as an attorney or solicitor of said complainant.

5. Soon after the said removal of said cause to this Court, this respondent advised the said president and manager of said corporation, that, in the opinion of this respondent, an amended and supplemental bill should be prepared and leave asked of this Court to file the same in said cause, in this Court; and, thereupon, said George F. Harding, Jr., informed this respondent that his father, George F. Harding, Sr., then, and still, and for many years last past, an attorney at law, of this Court, and of said State Courts, was then engaged in the preparation of a Bill of Complaint to be filed by some stockholder of the said Corn Products Company, other than the said complainant in this cause, and that his said father had been diligently investigating the facts in relation to the matters involved, and had discovered many facts not known to the said complainant at the time its said bill was filed in said State Court, and, thereupon, this respondent stated to the said George F. Harding, Jr., that this respondent 127 would wait until the said George F. Harding, Sr., should have completed the preparation of the said Bill of Complaint then in course of preparation by him, as above set forth, and, that, after seeing the same, this respondent would be better able to prepare an amended and supplemental bill to be filed, by leave of Court, in the above entitled cause.

6. Accordingly, this respondent waited for some weeks for the completion of the said Bill of Complaint by the said George F. Harding, Sr., this respondent having had no information or knowledge, or notice, in the meantime, as to who was to be the complainant in the said bill so prepared by the said George F. Harding, Sr.; and, on or about October 1st, 1907, or shortly prior thereto, said George F. Harding, at the request of this respondent furnished to this respondent, a voluminous document purporting to be a draft of a Bill of Complaint to be filed against said Corn Products Company, and others, as defendants, and informed this respondent that the same was the Bill of Complaint prepared by him, and this respondent upon examination thereof found that it did not appear therefrom in what Court the same was to be filed, and this respondent has no recollection now as to who was the complainant mentioned in said bill, except that respondent does recollect distinctly, and so states the fact to be, that said complainant in the above entitled cause was not mentioned as the complainant in the said bill so furnished to this respondent, and, at the same time, or about the same time, namely, on or about October 1st, 1907, or shortly prior thereto, this respondent was informed by said George F. Harding, Sr., that the said bill so prepared by him, the said George F. Harding, Sr., would be printed, or was then being printed, and thereupon this respondent further examined the said bill so furnished to this respondent, immediately, and thereupon suggested to the said George F. Harding, Jr., as the attorney and solicitor for said complainant corporation, that, the said said bill so prepared by the said Harding, Sr., might, with some changes, be used as an amended and supplemental bill in the above entitled cause, or, that the above entitled cause might be dismissed, by leave of this court, and the said bill so prepared by the said Harding, Sr., with proper changes therein, might be filed in the State Court, by Harding, Jr., as the president and manager of said complainant corporation, to confer with said George F. Harding, Sr., as to cooperation, so far as practicable, and proper, between the said corporation and said George F. Harding, Sr., and, after such conferences, this respondent, as the attorney for said corporation, decided to take proper steps for the dismissal of the bill in the above entitled cause, and, thereupon, filed in the State Court another bill for said corporation, substantially like the bill so prepared by said Harding, Sr., with such changes therein, however, as this respondent might deem advisable as the attorney for such corporation, all of which was well known to said George F. Harding, Sr., as he, and this respondent, freely conferred together with a view of such cooperation between said Harding and said corporation as separate and distinct holders and owners of the stock of said Corn Products Company, as alleged in their said respective bills of complaint.

7. Pursuant to the said request of the said George F. Harding, Jr., and the said plan of this respondent, as above set forth, this respondent served notices in the above entitled cause to dismiss the same, but on account of the absence of the Judges of this Court this respondent was not able to present such motion, for a considerable period, and, later, the same was abandoned for the reasons hereinafter shown.

8. While this respondent was waiting for an opportunity to present said motion to dismiss said suit, as above set forth, the said copy of bill so prepared by said Harding, Sr., and so furnished to this respondent, was taken out of the hands of this respondent by said George F. Harding, Sr., for the purpose, as this respondent was then informed, of being printed, and this respondent is informed and believes, and so states the fact to be, that Abner C. Harding, a brother of said George F. Harding, Jr., and a director and stockholder of said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, and acting for such company, caused the same to be printed, or at least some copies thereof to be printed, as a bill to be filed in the State Court, namely, the Circuit Court of Cook County, Illinois, by such corporation after the dismissal of the above entitled cause, this respondent having theretofore advised said George F. Harding, Jr., and said Abner C. Harding, that, in the opinion of this respondent, such dismissal would be allowed by this Honorable Court, and, thus it happened, as this respondent is informed and believes, that said Bill was printed with a view of filing the same in the Circuit Court of Cook County, Illinois, by said corporation as complainant therein.

129 9. On or about October 16, 1907, a printed copy of the said bill of the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company was furnished to this respondent by the said Abner C. Harding, and, thereupon, this respondent advised the said Abner C. Harding, that said George F. Harding, Jr., as the president and manager of the said complainant corporation had informed this respondent, that upon further investigation and consideration, he had decided, that it would be better to apply to this Honorable Court for leave to file such printed bill, with proper changes therein, as an amended and supplemental bill, in the above entitled cause, instead of proceeding, as had been contemplated, to secure a dismissal of the above entitled cause, and thereafter to file another bill in the State Court for said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company as complainant therein, and, thereupon, the said George F. Harding, Jr., pursuant to said decision last above named stated to this respondent, requested this respondent that the copy so delivered to this respondent of the printed copies of the said bill of complaint, printed as above set forth, be revised and changed by this respondent, as this respondent, as the attorney and solicitor for said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, might deem proper, with a view of then presenting the same to this Honorable Court with a motion for leave to file the same as an amended and supplemental bill, in the above entitled cause. And for this very purpose this respondent has since that time had and still has in his possession the said printed copy of said bill, and this respondent is now engaged, from day to day, in the revision thereof, and in making proper changes therein, for the purpose of asking leave of this court to file the same in the above entitled cause, as an amended and supplemental bill therein, at an early date.

10. This respondent further answering states that this respondent is informed and believes, and so states the fact to be, on such information and belief, that said George F. Harding, Sr., and his attorney and solicitor, A. B. Joyner, secured from the said Abner C. Harding some of the printed copies of the said bill prepared as aforesaid by the said George F. Harding, Sr., and caused to be printed, as aforesaid, by the said Abner C. Harding, and, thereupon the said George F. Harding, Sr., and the said A. B. Joyner, as his attorney and solicitor, having first changed the said 130 printed copies by making the said George F. Harding, Sr., complainant, and otherwise changing the same as they deemed advisable, proceeded to file the same, and did file the same in the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, the said last named suit being General Number 263565, in said Superior Court, being the same suit subsequently removed to this Honorable Court, and to the Bill of Complaint therein, and to the Amended Bill of Complaint therein, now on file in the office of the Clerk of this Honorable Court, reference is hereby made by this respondent.

11. This respondent further answering says that said suit Number 263565 was not begun by this respondent, or by the advice or suggestion of this respondent, and this respondent is not and has never been the attorney or solicitor of or for George F. Harding, Sr., as complainant therein; but, this respondent did, as the attorney and solicitor of the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, meet the said George F. Harding, Sr., (pursuant to the said request of the said George F. Harding, Jr.,) and the said A. B. Joyner, in conferences in relation to the common interests of the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, and the said George F. Harding, Sr., as separate and independent holder of stock in the said Corn Products Company, as set forth in the said two bills of complaint now before this Honorable Court, respectfully, the date of one of such conferences being on or about October 16, 1907, and the object thereof being to determine, among other things, to what extent, if any, the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, and the said George F. Harding, Sr., might co-operate in securing and producing proof of their respective bills of complaint, above mentioned, or in support of the allegations thereof, and after the filing of the said bill, in the said Superior Court, another conference was had between this respondent and the same parties with the same object in view, namely, the making of the proof of the allegations in the said respective bills of complaint, and at or before each and every of such conferences, and at all other times, this respondent was informed by the said George F. Harding, Sr., and the said George F. Harding, Jr., that both the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, and the said George F. Harding, Sr., were separate and distinct and independent holders of stock 131 of and in the said Corn Products Company, as alleged in the said respective bills of complaint, and had been such holders thereof as alleged in the said bills, respectively, and this respondent fully believed and still believes such information to be true, and it never occurred to the mind of this respondent, for a moment, nor was it ever suggested to this respondent, that the filing of the said bill in the said Superior Court by the said George F. Harding, Sr., as complainant therein, or by said Joyner, as his attorney therein, would, or could, by any possibility, be a violation of the letter or spirit of the said order of June 8, 1907, in the above entitled cause, or any part thereof, and, although this respondent had nothing to do with the institution of the said suit in the said Superior Court, and was not the attorney or solicitor of the said complainant therein, this respondent, further answering, respectfully represents to this Honorable Court that this respondent, if it had occurred or been suggested to this respondent that the bringing of said suit in said Superior Court would or could have been, by any possibility, a violation of the said order of June 8, 1907, or a contempt of this Honorable Court, this respondent would have instantly and persistently advised against and protested against the bringing of the same. And this respondent respectfully represents and states to this Honorable Court that this respondent never, knowingly or intentionally, violated the said order of June 8, 1907, or any part thereof, either in its letter or spirit, or advised or aided or abetted in any violation thereof, and this respondent has always entertained and still entertains the profoundest respect for this Honorable Court, and, particularly, for the Judge who entered the said order of June 8, 1907, and this respondent has never by act or speech, or otherwise, directly or indirectly, intertionally or voluntarily or knowingly been guilty of any contempt of or toward this Honorable Court, or even of any disrespect of or toward this Honorable Court; and this respondent further answering the said rule represents and states that this respondent is informed and believes, and so states the fact to be on such information and belief, that the said George F. Harding, Sr., and the said George F. Harding, Jr., and the said A. B. Joyner, respectively, during the entire period embraced within this answer, have entertained and still entertain the 132 same feelings as those above set forth on the part of this respondent, and never, intentionally or knowingly, violated the said order of June 8, 1907, or any part thereof, either in letter or spirit, directly or indirectly, by word or act, or knowingly, or intentionally, were guilty of any contempt of or disrespect towards this Honorable Court, and this respondent never heard any suggestion or intimation from any of them of any intent or purpose to avoid or violate or evade in any way, any order of this Court whatsoever.

To the Honorable, the Judges of said Court, in chancery sitting:

This respondent, George F. Harding, Jr., one of the persons named in the said rule above referred to, for answer thereto, respectfully submits and states to the court the following, namely:

1. This respondent is and has been for some years last past the president and manager and principal stockholder of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, the complainant in the above entitled cause, his brother Abner C. of, the total stock of the said company being $250,000; and it is not true that said last named Company has ever been used, directly or indirectly, as a cloak or shield for the concealment of any property or effects of said George F. Hard-respective holders thereof, separately, distinctly, and independently.

140 6. This respondent further answering says that this respondent never, knowingly or intentionally, violated the Harding, Sr., and the said A. B. Joyner, and the said William J. Ammen, respectively, have, together with this respondent, at all times entertained and still entertain and feel the highest respect for this Honorable Court and have not by act or speech, or otherwise, directly or indirectly, knowingly or intentionally violated the said order of June 8, 1907, or any part thereof, or been guilty of any contempt or disrespect toward this Honorable Court, and this respondent never heard any intimation or suggestion from said Harding, Sr., or said Joyner or said Ammen of any intent or purpose to avoid or violate or evade in any way any order of this Court whatsoever.

The Answer of said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company to the Said Cross-Bill of Joy Morton.

This respondent, the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, saving and reserving to itself all right and benefit of exception to the many errors and insufficiencies and imperfections in said cross-bill, and without waiving or intending to waive its objections and exceptions to the action of the Court in overruling or denying its motions to dismiss this suit, respectively, and without intending to waive its objections or exceptions to the action of the Court in overruling its other motions heretofore presented to the Court in this cause, respectively, and, particularly, without waiving its objection and exception to the action of the Court in 176 denying its motion that the said cross-bill be dismissed within a certain time to be fixed by the Court unless the said cross-complainant shall, within the period so fixed, bring in the said Corn Products Company as defendant to said cross-bill by service of process or appearance, for answer to the said cross-bill, or to so much and such part thereof as this respondent is advised it is material or necessary for this respondent to answer unto, answering says:

1. Said cross-bill is not germane to the subject matter of the said original bill, and, on this ground, this respondent prays the same relief under this answer as it might have by or under a demurrer to the said cross-bill.

2. This cross-bill sets up merely matters of defense to the said original bill, and denies the material averments of the said original bill, and shows no ground for affirmative relief to said cross-complainant, and, on this ground, this respondent prays the same relief under this answer as it might have by or under a demurrer to the said cross-bill.

3. Said cross-bill is not complete in itself, but seeks aid by reference to the allegations of the said original bill, and, on this ground, this respondent prays the same relief under this answer as it might have by or under a demurrer to the said cross-bill.

4. Said cross-bill substantially and vitally conflicts with the answer of the said Joy Morton to the said original bill, in material particulars, as will be seen by an inspection thereof, and, for this purpose, reference is hereby made to the said answer and said cross-bill and said original bill, and, on this ground, this respondent prays the same relief under this answer as it might have by or under a demurrer to the said cross-bill, or on a motion to dismiss said cross-bill or strike the same from the files.

5. The said cross-bill shows no right to discovery, or other affirmative relief, but seeks relief which cannot be granted said cross-complainant in this cause, the said cross-complainant having no right in this suit to raise the question as to whether or not this respondent has acted or is acting beyond its charter powers, as an Illinois corporation, in its acquisition and holding of stock in the said Corn Products Company, and, on this ground, this respondent prays the same relief under this answer as it might have by or under a demurrer to the said cross-bill.

6. The said cross-bill is defective for want of necessary parties complainant in that other stockholders of the said Corn Products Company should be made parties thereto, to the end that this respondent may be protected by whatever adjudication may be reached in this cause in relation to the

bill filed March

questions raised by said cross-bill, and to the end that this respondent may not hereafter be required to relitigate such questions with other stockholders of said Corn Products Company, and, on this ground, this respondent prays the same relief under this answer as it might have by or under a demurrer to the said cross-bill.

7. Said cross-bill is otherwise defective in that it appears from the allegations thereof that the said Corn Products Company should be made a complainant therein instead of being made a co-defendant thereto, and, on this ground, this respondent prays the same relief under this answer as it might have by or under a demurrer to the said cross-bill.

8. This respondent further answering said cross-bill admits that said Joy Morton is one of the defendants in said original Bill; that this respondent is a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the Laws of Illinois; that said Corn Products Company, Corn Products Refining Company, Glucose Sugar Refining Company, and New York Glucose Company, named as defendants in said original bill, were at the time of the filing thereof, each and all, corporations organized and existing under and by virtue of the Laws of the State of New Jersey; and that C. H. Matthiessen, C. L. Glass, William W. Heaton, Norman B. Ream, W. J. Calhoun, W. T. Gorman, T. B. Waggoner, H. C. Herget, T. P. Kingsford, F. C. Sherwood, E. T. Bedford, J. B. Greenhut, are named with E. A. Matthiessen, and said Joy Morton, as co-defendants in the said original bill of complaint, with the said New Jersey corporations above named.

9. As to the allegations of such cross-bill regarding the contents of the said original bill, this respondent denies 178 that the said cross-bill correctly, or accurately, or fairly, states the material allegations of the said original bill, and this respondent hereby refers to the said original bill and adopts the same as a part of this answer to the said cross-bill, the same as if here inserted in full, and this respondent further answering says that the allegations and matters and things stated in the said original bill are true, as therein stated.

10. This respondent further answering denies that the said Glucose Sugar Refining Company has had its name duly changed to Corn Products Manufacturing Company, within the knowledge of this respondent, and this respondent prays strict proof of that allegation in said cross-bill, and this respondent further alleges that the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, or said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, by whatever name it may be called, is, and has been for some years last past, the mere agent and representative of the Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey, as is also true of the said Joy Morton, who, with his co-defendants to said original bill, have used, the name of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company in filing the petition filed in its name in the Circuit Court of Cook County, Illinois, to remove said original cause to this United States Circuit Court, and this respondent alleges that said removal of said cause to this Court was not in compliance with the Statutes of the United States, and that this cause was not properly transferred, or rightfully transferred, to this Court, as claimed in said cross-bill, and this respondent denies the jurisdiction of this Court in this cause, and this respondent alleges that such action in removing said cause to this court was merely a step upon the part of said conspirators, the defendants in said original bill, to delay and ultimately defeat justice, as hereinafter more fully shown.

11. This respondent further answering says that each and every allegation in said original bill charging said cross-complainant, and others, with creating a pool, trust, combine, and illegal monopoly, and the taking of such steps for the purpose of defrauding this respondent, and others, and so affecting the value of the said stock of the said Corn Products Company, belonging to this respondent, and others, and with attempting and threatening to transfer and divert from said Corn Products Company, its business, plants, trade-secrets, and other property, and with the committing and doing of other acts charged against them in said bill, contrary to the Laws of the State of Illinois, and the Laws of the United States, are true, as stated in said original bill, and all and every of the allegations in the said original bill, charging fraud, conspiracy, and wrong-doing, on the part of the said defendants thereto, are entirely true as therein stated, and the denials thereof in the said cross-bill, and all denials in said cross-bill of the allegations in said original bill, and all denials thereof in the answer of said Joy Morton to said original bill are, respectively, and as to every part thereof, false, and untrue, and fraudulent, and meant and intended to aid the said conspiracy set forth in said original bill, in which said conspiracy said Joy Morton is and always has been since its inception, a conspicuous and leading party, as set forth in said original bill.

12. This respondent further answering says that the Laws of the State of Illinois, and of the United States, have been, as alleged in said original bill, violated by said conspiracy, and by said conspirators, in and by the acts of the said defendants, as set forth in said original bill, and this respondent denies the statements and allegations in said cross-bill, touching the same.

13. As to the allegation in the said cross-bill that said Corn Products Company is a corporation organized under the Laws of the State of New Jersey, on February 6, 1902, with a capital stock of Eighty Million ($80,000,000) Dollars, and that Twenty-seven Million ($27,000,000) Dollars of preferred stock out of Thirty Million ($30,000,000) Dollars and Forty-five Million ($45,000,000) Dollars out of Fifty Million ($50,000,000) Dollars, of common stock, have been issued, and are outstanding, and are owned by a large number of stockholders throughout the United States, and elsewhere,—as to these allegations in said cross-bill this respondent alleges the truth to be that said Corn Products Company has been substantially destroyed, by the said defendants in said original bill, as set forth therein, and most of the stockholders of the said

Corn Products Company were induced by fraudulent representations of the said conspirators to surrender their stock in the said Corn Products Company, to said Corn Products Refining Company, in exchange for the latter's stock, as alleged in said original bill, the said Corn Products Refining Company having been formed and created by said conspirators to carry out and make effectual said conspiracy to defraud all the stockholders of the said Corn Products Company, other than said conspirators, as alleged in said original bill, and only your respondent's and others' stock in said Corn Products Company, aggregating less than Five Million ($5,000,000) Dollars out of the said Eighty Million ($80,000,000) Dollars of stock of the said Corn Products Company are now outstanding, all the rest having been so acquired by the said Corn Products Refining Company, by exchange for its stock, as set forth in said original bill; and the extraordinary falsity of said cross-bill appears from the fact, as shown by the affidavit of E. T. Bedford, the President of the said Corn Products Refining Company, and director of all of the other New Jersey corporations above named, filed herein, the said Bedford being the beneficiary of the said transaction and the representative of the said Standard Oil Company, the ultimate beneficiary, and the manipulator, through said Bedford, of the said conspiracy, and said monopoly in the manufacture of glucose, starch, and by-products in the name of said Corn Products Refining Company, as shown by the affidavit of its said president, the said Bedford, who is the "Deus ex Machina," holding office in every of the said subsidiary companies, all of which are in truth subsidiary companies of the said Standard Oil Company he, the said Bedford, being manager, as well as president, and in active control of the said factories mentioned in said bill, all of which were acquired practically for nothing by the said Standard Oil Company, but with the property of the said Corn Products Company, as set forth in the said bill, the said affidavit of the said Bedford on file herein being made by one having the fullest acquaintance with all the glucose and starch connections and affiliations of the said Standard Oil Company, the said Bedford having established for the said Standard Oil Company the complete monopoly that company now has in the manufacture and sale of said products in the United States, the said affidavit having been filed herein on November 11, 1907, and it being stated therein that he, said 181 Bedford, "is president of the Corn Products Refining Company and has been since its organization in 1906; that said Corn Products Refining Company owns 247,910 shares of the preferred stock and 438,874 shares of the common stock of the Corn Products Company; that the total number of shares of the Corn Products Company owned by the Corn Products Refining Company amount to 686,784 shares; that the Corn Products Refining Company owns 94-5/10 of the issued capital stock of the said Corn Products Company."

14. This respondent further answering says, that it further appears from the affidavit of the said Bedford that the said Corn Products Refining Company, by its ownership, as above stated, of nearly all of the capital stock of the said Corn Products Company, outside of about Five Million ($5,000,000) Dollars thereof owned by this respondent, and others not engaged in said conspiracy, as above stated, became, by said exchange of its own stock, the owner of the capital stock of the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, as shown by the statement in the said affidavit "that the Corn Products Company is the owner of 98-9/10 of the issued capital stock of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company." So that, in effect, the said Standard Oil Company, through said Bedford and his associates of the New York Glucose Company, own and control nearly all of said so-called Corn Products Company; the directors thereof being chiefly Standard Oil Directors, in whose names the said Standard Oil Company has chosen to place the stock thereof, thus perpetuating the control of the said entire property so fraudulently obtained. But this respondent denies the truth of the statement in the said cross-bill touching the ownership of the said Standard Oil Company; and this respondent alleges that the money, the earnings and proceeds of said factories are, from day to day, and ever since the inception of said conspiracy, have been, sent by said obedient agents and sub-agents of the said Standard Oil Company to said Standard Oil Company, at its office, No. 26 Broadway, New York; and alleges that they, the said agents, find a fit and useful associate in Joy Morton, who has been specially selected to accomplish the end sought to be effected by the filing of said cross-bill herein, as elsewhere more fully stated in this answer.

182 15. This respondent further answering admits and alleges that this respondent, as alleged in said cross-bill, on or about February 6, 1902, purchased 450 shares of the said preferred stock and 550 shares of the said common stock, in said Corn Products Company, and acquired the same as stated in said original bill, and not otherwise, and paid therefor the par value thereof, and such purchase of the said stock was with the view, on the part of this respondent, of holding the said stock so purchased as an investment, and this respondent thereby acquired  $\frac{1}{8}$  of 1% of the Eighty Million (\$80,000,000) Dollars of said capital stock of the said Corn Products Company, as alleged in said cross-bill, being the said 1000 shares of said stock as alleged in the said original bill of complaint.

16. This respondent further answering says that it is not true as alleged in said cross-bill, and this respondent therefore denies that this respondent has ever threatened to or will, unless presented from so doing, vote said 1000 shares of stock at any meeting of the stockholders of the said Corn Products Company, or otherwise, or will, or can, or threatens to interfere with the management or control by said Corn Products Company of its business or property or affairs, but, on the contrary, this respondent alleges the truth to be that this respondent believed, in good faith, when it acquired said stock, and at the time it filed its said original bill herein that it had a legal right to acquire and hold and own said stock, and this respondent did not then know or believe that it could not hold such stock; as now decreed and found and declared by this Court, as decreed, not only by its action in overruling the demurrer of this respondent to said cross-bill, but also by the action of this Court in sustaining the demurrers filed herein by the said Glass, Calhoun, and said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, to said original bill; but it is now settled as the law of this case, by this Court, that, under the law and policy of the State of Illinois, no corporation, foreign or domestic, can hold stock in any other corporation, foreign, or domestic, as an investment, and enforce or control by proceedings in Court, or otherwise, any property rights, in the State of Illinois, either by affirming, or by protecting against attack, in the 183 Courts, any title or property-right therein or thereto, in this state, under or by virtue of such ownership of stock in such other corporation, and this respondent further answering insists that this settled rule of law is equally applicable to the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, as a holder of stock in other corporations above named, and also to the said Corn Products Refining Company, as a holder of stock in the said Corn Products Company, and in other corporations, and this will of course effectually defeat, also, the said Standard Oil Company in its attempting to fasten and perpetuate its monopoly of glucose, starch and by-products upon the people of the United States.

17. This respondent further answering says not only that the said bill of complaint was filed in good faith upon the part of this respondent, but also with the firm and honest belief upon the part of this respondent in the truth of all the allegations of wrong-doing contained in said bill; all of which were made for the honest purpose of actually protecting the interests of this respondent as a stockholder in said Corn Products Company, and for the purpose of protecting the property, and business and affairs of the said Corn Products Company, and conserving the same, and because this respondent believed that there was then an occasion and necessity for the filing of the said bill; and this respondent denies as untrue all the allegations and insinuations in the said cross-bill to the contrary.

18. This respondent further answering says in answer to the allegations in the said cross-bill, as follow, namely:

"Said bill of complaint was filed and said proceedings instituted by said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, as your orator is informed and believes, and therefore says, solely for the purpose of harassing and annoying said Corn Products Company, and its co-defendants to said bill of complaint, including your orator, and diminishing and destroying the value of the business and properties of and the shares of stock in said Corn Products Company, and its said co-defendants, Glucose Sugar Refining Co., Corn Products Refining Co. and New York Glucose Co., and to discredit said companies, and particularly said Corn Products Company, with the general public and the numerous stockholders in said defendant corporations, by praying for a receiver of said Corn Products Company, and for a reorganization thereof under the directions of the Court; that said bill of complaint was filed by said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company in the hope and with the expectation on the part of said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company that some or all of the defendants to said bill of complaint, including your orator as a stockholder and director of said Corn Products Company, would, for the purpose of protecting and conserving the business and properties of said corporation, purchase from said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company its said 1,000 shares of stock in said Corn Products Company at some exorbitant or fabulous price many times in excess of its real value,"—as to said allegations above quoted from said cross-bill this respondent answering says that all and every of the said allegations, and every part thereof, are untrue, both in general and in detail, and have no basis whatsoever in fact or in truth.

19. This respondent further answering says as to the allegations in said cross-bill that said Joy Morton "now is and ever since the organization of said Corn Products Company has been the owner and possessor of a portion of the capital stock of said Corn Products Company, and has also, during all of said time, been and still is a director thereof, and that your orator (the said Morton) is interested in the welfare, management, business and property of said Corn Products Company, both as a stockholder therein and a director thereof"—as to these allegations last quoted from said cross-bill, this respondent answering says that the said allegations are substantially untrue; and this respondent denies the same, and puts upon said cross-complainant the burden of strict proof thereof, and every part thereof; except that this respondent admits and alleges that the said Joy Morton has been kept in the directorship of said several New Jersey Corporations subsidiary to the said Standard Oil Company, as a convenient tool of the said Standard Oil Company, for many years; and this respondent alleges that said Morton has been during said period, and still is, merely the agent, representative and tool of the said Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey, and of its allies the defendants, in the filing herein of the said cross-bill, which cross-bill has been filed herein by the same solicitors who appear and act for the said Standard Oil Company, and for all defendants to the said original bill herein, whether summoned or not, in this cause; and who appeared upon the transfer thereof from the state court to this court, and that the said cross-bill was thereupon prepared and filed herein by the said Morton at the instance of and for the protection of the said Standard Oil Company, and its said subsidiary corporations, and its co-conspirators in said conspiracy as alleged in the said original bill, and as more particularly alleged and set forth in a certain amended original bill of complaint filed by George F.

Harding, as complainant, against the Standard Oil Company, 185 pany, and others, as defendants, in the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, on the 25th day of October, A. D. 1907, a true copy of which amended bill, marked "Exhibit A" to this answer is filed with this answer; and the same is hereby referred to and made a part of this answer; and this respondent alleges that all the allegations and matters and things stated in the said amended bill, as shown by said "Exhibit A," are true, as therein stated; and this respondent further answering says that the said cross-bill herein was filed herein for the sole purpose of preventing this respondent and other minority stockholders of said Corn Products Company, from defending or securing relief against the wrongs and misconducts of the said defendants to the said original bill herein, as set forth therein, and the said cross-bill has been so used ever since the same was filed herein, and the same was filed herein without justice and without reason and for no good purpose whatsoever, and has been kept pending herein for the purpose only of defeating and delaying justice, and, especially, to prevent the hearing of this cause; or to prevent the dismissal of this cause, to the end that a way might be made clear for an effective hearing of the said suit brought by the said George F. Harding, shown by said Exhibit A, and the protection therein of the said minority stockholders; and thus the pendency of said cross-bill herein has been wrongfully used by said conspirators in the procuring of an injunction against the prosecution of the said suit brought by the said George F. Harding, such injunction having been obtained by deceiving the Court in the premises.

20. This respondent, as to the allegations of said cross-bill, namely:

"That the value of the property, business and assets of said Corn Products Company and of your orator's interest therein as a stockholder and director thereof, have been and are diminished, impaired, and affected to the extent of more than $5,000, exclusive of interest and costs, by the filing of said bill of complaint and the prayer therein for the appointment of a receiver of the property of said Corn Products Company and for a reorganization of said company under the directions of the Court; that the precise amount of damages which said Corn Products Company and your orator severally have sustained and will sustain by the filing and prosecution of said bill of complaint by said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company cannot be definitely ascertained or measured, but as your orator verily believes and therefore says will amount to to-wit: ten thousand dollars and that said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company 186 is not financially able to adequately respond to your orator, and said Corn Products Company for such damages as have been and will be severally sustained by them, as aforesaid, and that by reason of the premises said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company should be enjoined from further prosecuting its said suit and from taking any action or proceedings as a stockholder of said Corn Products Company in any manner seeking or tending to control, regulate or interfere with any of the business or property of said Corn Products Company, or the management thereof, or from voting or asserting any rights as owner of said 1,000 shares of stock in said Corn Products Company."

—answering thereto, this respondent denies the same, and every part of the same; and this respondent further specifically answers that the property, business, and assets of the said Corn Products Company, consisted of 35 large and valuable factories and plants, and the stock of the companies operating the same, chiefly in the State of Illinois, but partly in the states of Indiana, Ohio, Iowa, and elsewhere, which had been engaged and employed in the manufacture of glucose, starch, and by-products, and also 49% of the stock of said New York Glucose Company of New Jersey, with its manufacturing business yielding large profits, said factories having cost and being then worth up to the time of said conspiracy and misconduct (of which conspiracy said Joy Morton has been the principal actor and mover as elsewhere stated in this answer and more fully stated in the said original bill, in this case, and in said bill filed by said George F. Harding above referred to), more than $50,000,000.00, and said Corn Products Company then had, also, a surplus of several millions of dollars, and a working capital of over $3,000,000.00, in addition to said surplus, and, up to January 6, 1906, and on February 28, 1906, when it was about to be destroyed by said Joy Morton, and his said allies, defendants in said original bill herein, the said Corn Products Company during its whole career from February 28, 1902, had been a most prosperous company, with its factories in the best condition, and its net earnings over $15,000,000.00, and in addition, to paying dividends upon its said stock of $80,000,000.00, it had been able to keep in perfect order and condition all its said factories until, by the action of said conspirators, and by said conspiracy, as set forth in said original bill, all its property was given away to the said Corn Products Refining Company, of New Jersey, and sought to be surrendered by the terms of the said contract, recommended and concluded by the aid and influence of said Morton, at a loss of $20,000,000.00, as more fully stated in said bill herein and, especially, in said bill filed by said Harding in said second case above referred to; and said prosperous company (the said Corn Products Company) did not then owe a dollar of indebtedness, and its capital of $80,000,000.00 was then invested in said 35 factories, and in stock of the said companies, which were then worth every dollar of the said $80,000,000.00 of its said capitalization, and said company held, besides, 49% of the stock of the said New York Glucose Company with its factory, as more fully set forth in said bills aforesaid; and all this property was by the act of said Morton, and his said allies, exchanged and swapped, as above set forth, said Morton acting as director and as an individual in said transaction, for the paper, the newly created stock of the Corn Products Refining Company, a corporation organized for the purpose of said exchange, as more fully set forth in said bills. In short, said Morton and his said allies sold said property, business, and assets of said Corn Products Company long before said cross-bill was filed herein and so had nothing thereof or therein to be injured by the filing of said original bill.

21. This respondent further alleges in answer to said pretenses in said cross-bill as to the value of the business and assets and property of the said Corn Products Company, and as to the interest of said Morton therein, and the alleged injuries effected by filing said bill, or that may or will be effected, as he (said Morton) prophesies in said cross-bill, by the further prosecution of this cause, that the whole of said statement is untrue and that said Corn Products Company when this original bill was filed had no property that had not been by the action of the plaintiff in said cross-bill (and his said co-conspirators) transferred and given to a company of his own, (the said Corn Products Refining Company), and had nothing left of any value whatever, except the litigated interest of its minority stockholders, the existence of which is denied by said cross-bill; and said Morton, this respondent further answering says, was not a genuine stockholder or director of said Corn Products Company when said original bill or said cross-bill was filed, but was merely the tool and representative of the Standard Oil interests, as 188 elsewhere more fully stated, and neither he, as a stockholder, nor said Corn Products Company lost a dollar by the filing of either of said bills.

22. This respondent, further answering, says, touching "the precise amount of damages which said Corn Products Company and your orator (said Morton) severally sustained and will sustain by the filing and prosecution of said bill of complaint," which said cross-bill alleges will amount to $10,000.00 and, hence said cross-bill alleges that this respondent shall be enjoined from prosecuting this suit, and from taking any action to control, regulate or interfere with any of the business or property of said Corn Products Company or the management thereof, or even from voting or asserting any rights as owner of said 1000 shares of stock in said company, —as to these allegations in said cross-bill, this respondent says that the said Joy Morton filed his said cross-bill (as he admits and his attorneys boast) to keep and prevent this respondent from dismissing its bill herein; and ever since said cross-bill was filed herein on June 14, 1907, and Morton through his said attorneys, has resisted the dismissal of this suit, for which dismissal this respondent has repeatedly asked and has moved for in this case, but has always been opposed and resisted by said defendants to said original bill, including said Morton, and their attorneys; that such orders of dismissal, for which this respondent asked, ought to be given every one of them as asked; but were erroneously denied

maintained by the filing of said cross-bill, and for no other reason.

23. This respondent further answering says that said Joy Morton, who asks damages that he alleges in said cross-bill will be sustained by the prosecution of this suit, knew when said cross-bill was filed and when said original bill herein was filed in the State Court that the said original bill could not be maintained by reason of the said law of Illinois, as recently announced by the Supreme Court of Illinois, which fact was, however, wholly unknown to this respondent; and said Morton was bound, in good faith, at all times, upon the discovery of this truth, to permit the dismissal of this suit; but, instead, has schemed to prevent such dismissal, in the interests of said Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey, which company has used this suit, through the agency of said Morton, and his co-defendants, to delay and cheat justice in the premises; and this respondent alleges that this action of said Morton, and his co-defendants, has been, and is, in equity, fraudulent, and, he, and they thus come into this case with unclean hands and are not entitled, in any way, to relief on their pretenses of right or justice—justice which they have so long prevented by their own action, in every form, and their said cunning devices already indicated in this answer.

24. This respondent further answering says that said affidavit of said Bedford, and the matters which he claims to be true, as stated in said affidavit, were thus set up and filed by said Morton and his co-defendants, under pretense of defeating a motion by this respondent for receiver, as asked by said bill herein; and said Bedford, and said Morton, and their said allies have resisted the motion by this respondent to strike said affidavit from the files predicated upon the filing of the same without leave of Court, under color and cover of said desire and right to use the same upon the part of the said defendants with a view to defeat such receivership, which might be asked under said bill; but which receivership has never been moved for, in this cause, and which they well knew could never be moved for successfully, and would never be moved for, because the relief asked for by said bill could not be had, by reason of the law as declared by this Court, to-wit: that said corporation (this respondent) could not hold said stock in said Corn Products Company.

24. That said Morton and his co-defendants come into this suit in equity with unclean hands, for they are guilty in Answer to cross-

bill, filed March

the management of their defense of this case of the grossest injustice, in this, namely, that they have, by deceit of this Court, procured the entry of the interlocutory order of date December 13, 1907, herein, by which order all the stockholders of the Corn Products Company who have been robbed by the Standard Oil Company and said co-conspirators, are denied justice, and their great offenses, as charged in the bill herein, will go unpunished and, worst of all, the monopoly, by said Standard Oil Company, of said necessities of life is secured and established against the American people; for by this order no suit against the Standard Oil Company and 190 said co-conspirators can be prosecuted except by becoming a party in this case and therefore sharing in its irremediable ruin and defeat, as already adjudged by this Court.

25. This respondent further shows, in further exposure of the said pretenses touching the prosecution of this suit and injuries effected by this suit, and to show that the same were self-inflicted, and that said Joy Morton, and his fellow defendants, knew when said cross-bill was filed that this respondent would, upon discovery of the truth touching its inability to prosecute this case, move for its dismissal, that when this respondent first knew that fact, and was assured of its inability to prosecute this case, the said defendants, including said Morton, declared to said respondent, and others, that they should resist and thereupon and ever since did resist the dismissal of this case; that this respondent moved for the dismissal of this case, and filed its motions for such dismissal of record, herein, after giving notice of its desire to dismiss the case at the first moment possible after the institution of this case and said discovery of said infirmity of said bill, to-wit: On October 1, 1907, and presented said motion to this court, and thus asked for a dismissal of this case; but said Morton resisted such dismissal, although demanded and moved for by this respondent without prejudice, as stated, in said motion on file, to said cross-bill, and without prejudice to the rights of said Morton, as cross-complainant herein; and said Morton and his co-defendants defeated the dismissal of this case on October 1, 1907; and your respondent shows that this respondent continued to move for the dismissal of this case as per said motion, and in every other form, as more fully shown by the motions filed in this case, six in number, which have been defeated by the action of said Morton, and his attorneys, who pretend to be injured by the prosecution of this case and have asked by said cross-bill, and still ask, that this respondent shall be enjoined from further prosecuting said suit and protecting said Standard Oil Company in the possession and enjoyment of said monopoly and the proceeds of said robbery set out in said bills.

26. And this respondent further answering says that the hollowness and absurdity of said cross-bill is further shown, in its asking that this respondent shall be enjoined from taking any action or proceeding as a stockholder of said Corn Products Company, in any manner seeking or tending to control, regulate, or interfere with any of the business or property of said Corn Products Company, or the management thereof, in this, namely: that the said Corn Products Company has no property, and no business, and is engaged in no management, is substantially dead, and merely kept on foot, in name or form, for the further use of said conspirators, and said Standard Oil Company; that there are no meetings, in substance, of said company, or, if there are, nothing is involved in such meetings, and no injury could be sustained by any action of this respondent, and no attempt has been made by this respondent to take part in such meetings, or any other meetings, annual or otherwise, of said Corn Products Company; and it has never been advised of any such meetings, and believes none has been had since said destruction of said company, or since its property was transferred, as it was, to the Corn Products Refining Company, the agent of the Standard Oil Company, as above set forth.

27. And this respondent further answering says that the prayer and the request in said cross-bill to enjoin this respondent "from voting or asserting any rights as owner of said 1000 shares of stock in said Corn Products Company" is equally a false and deceitful request and prayer, and merely colorable, in said cross-bill, as shown by the facts set forth, and the history of this case, in which it appears that this respondent has never voted, or had any opportunity to vote, its said stock, or any part thereof, and has never asserted any rights, since said cross-bill was filed herein, to prosecute this suit but only to dismiss the same, and the danger which said cross-bill intimates of this respondent's voting or asserting any rights as owner of said stock sufficiently appears by said affidavit of said Bedford, and the facts therein stated touching the ownership by the Corn Products Refining Company of almost all the stock of said Corn Products Company, all save that of a few minority stockholders of said Corn Products Company, and including therein control of 99%, or thereabouts, of the entire stock of said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, all of which are claimed by said Corn Products Refining Company, in defiance of the laws of Illinois; and said Corn Products Refining Company, with the aid of said Morton, is asserting its alleged rights under said purchases of corporate stock in defiance of the laws of Illinois, as adjudged by this Court and by the Supreme Court of the state, and for the purpose of creating and perpetuating a monopoly of glucose, starch, and by-products, throughout the United States in contempt of the laws and policy of the government of the state and of the United States; and the pretended fear of said Morton lest this respondent shall vote its stock, and thus control the management of said Corn Products Company is sufficiently indicated by the fact that if this respondent were able, as this court adjudges it is not, to hold its said stock, it could then, at best, exercise only the power of  $\frac{1}{4}$  of 1% of said \$80,000,000 of stock of said Corn Products Company while the Corn Products Refining Company, the co-defendant of said Joy Morton, which company has possession of all the said factories and properties of the Corn Products Company, has and holds, as shown by said affidavit of 193 said Bedford, nearly 95% of said stock, or some \$70,000,000.00 of the issued stock of said company, as above set forth.

28. This respondent further answering says that the prayer of said cross-bill, and the allegation therein that said Morton "is wholly without remedy in the premises except by the filing of this cross-bill" and asking a temporary injunction, forthwith, against this respondent, and this respondent "on final hearing be forever enjoined from voting or attempting to vote, directly or indirectly, at any meeting of the stockholders of said Corn Products Company, any of the said 1000 shares of stock"; and that it may be decreed that this respondent has had and now has no power to buy or hold such stock "and that the said 1000 shares of stock may be cancelled and forfeited", and that said Corn Products Company be temporarily, and forever, enjoined from permitting any of said 1000 shares of stock to be voted at any meeting, etc., and that said Corn Products Company be brought in by subpoena as a defendant to said cross-bill, are each and all fit evidence of the real character of said cross-bill, which this respondent answering says is a fitting proof that said cross-bill has been filed herein to effect the ends of the Standard Oil Company, and its co-conspirators, who pretend a desire to be protected by injunction, sued out from this Honorable Court against the danger lest this 1/8 of 1% of the capital stock of said company shall be allowed to interfere with such management and control and the election of directors and officers, at any meeting of said dead company, and of which said president of said Refining Company swears, by said affidavit, that it holds nearly $79,000,000.00 of the total stock of $80,000,000.00 of said Corn Products Company, and 98-9/10% of the stock of said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and your respondent alleges that said Bedford, and his associates, own the whole of said New York Glucose Company, factories and stock, as they claim, and this respondent, so charges; and as your respondent also shows that the said Refining Company, owns, also, all the stock of the Warner Sugar Refining Company and of the St. Louis Syrup and Preserving Company,—companies organized and existing under the laws of Illinois and is in possession and control and management by its agents of every one of the 38 factories engaged in the manufacture of glucose sugar, and by-products, in the United States; and 194 it must be plain to a court of equity and this respondent answering says that every step pointed out and that will be pointed out in this answer, including the filing of said cross-bill was made merely to obtain the entering herein of the interlocutory order heretofore entered herein enjoining the further prosecution of the said suit brought by said Harding in said Superior Court and protect said Standard Oil Company and its co-conspirators against justice and proper punishment.

29. This respondent further answering says that said Joy Morton was and is the principal actor in the conspiracy of January, 1906, shown in said original bill on file in this case and especially as shown in said second bill in said second case brought by said Harding, and for the purpose of certainty the allegations in said second bill of said Harding vs. the Standard Oil Company, and others, and the statements therein wherever in conflict with the statements in the original bill in this cause, this respondent alleges are more accurate, and should control in this answer in this case; and that said Morton was one of the directors of said Corn Products Company, and combined and confederated with said Matthiessen, Ream, Heaton, Glass, Calhoun, Wagner, Herget,

Answer to cross-
bill, filed March

Wemble, Graham, Nichols, and Bedford, who for a long time had been officers and directors of said Corn Products Company and holders and owners of a large part of its stock, and combined and confederated together with said Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and others, in the interest of the said Standard Oil Company in an unlawful conspiracy to cheat and defraud this respondent as a holder of its said stock, and all other holders and owners of the stock of the Corn Products Company not parties to said conspiracy, and undertook, wrongfully to transfer the entire assets and business of said Corn Products Company to a new corporation, said Corn Products Refining Company, of New Jersey, afterwards organized and managed by said Standard Oil Company under and in pursuance of said so-called plan, which was afterwards wrongfully and unjustly carried into partial execution to the great wrong and injury of this respondent, and the other minority stockholders of said Corn Products Company, viz: said plan set out in said second bill at pages 6 and 7 of Harding vs. the Standard Oil Company, and others, made an exhibit hereto.

195 And said Morton united with said "undersigned stockholders" and appended to said plan a statement issued as a circular to the stockholders of the Corn Products Company, or some of them, stating as follows: "The undersigned stockholders, among others, have agreed to deposit stock under the foregoing plan."

(Signed)

"C. H. MATTHIESSEN.

NORMAN B. REAM.

WILLIAM W. HEATON.

JOY MORTON.

J. B. GREENHUT."

30. And this respondent alleges that the said plan was untruthful and calculated to deceive the stockholders of said Corn Products Company, to whom said Morton caused to be sent said plan with the statement that he had agreed to deposit stock under it; and this respondent alleges and charges that the essence and effect of said plan was the enforced liquidation of said Corn Products Company and chiefly for the purpose of giving to the said Standard Oil Company said monopoly of glucose, starch, and by-products, manufactured in the United States as already stated; and said plan and the division stated therein gave to said Standard Oil Company, the holder of the said stock of two and a half companies, and their factories, a profit of more than $15,000,000.00 outright, and provided for the permanent ownership and monopoly of the new company by said Standard Oil Company, whose directors constituted and now constitute the majority of the directors of said company, who have held the control and management ever since; and this Plan was simply a gift and bargain by which said Morton, and his fellow directors of said Corn Products Company, including said Bedford, who were trustees of said company and of the said minority of said stockholders, sold said $80,000,000.00 of Corn Products stock for themselves and their own profit, with the gift of 40% of the capital of the company and its right to conduct its own business to the Standard Oil Company and thus and thereby paying to the Standard Oil Company and its agents $17,000,000.00 for property worth not exceeding $3,000,000.90, and said Morton urged his fellow stock-196 holders to accept and carry out the proposition stated in said plan, by which this great loss was inflicted upon them; and that the said Corn Products Company was thereby annihilated and gave up its property and factories in Illinois and elsewhere to said Corn Products Refining Company, in the interest of said Standard Oil Company.

31. This respondent as an effective answer to said cross-bill, further alleges that said cross-bill is the cross-bill only in name of said Joy Morton, but in truth and fact it is the cross-bill of all of the said conspirators; and hence was filed in his name only as the most convenient tool and believed by them to be for said purpose the least objectionable one of said conspirators; and when said cross-bill and the several orders in this case are examined closely it will be found that not only was this cross-bill filed to delay justice and has been used for that purpose by said Standard Oil Company and the said allies of said Morton with lavish use of four injunctions against the complainant, every one of them against the law, and obtained by deception and falsehood; but that this is a gross attempt by the said corporation which is really the owner of the whole of the Corn Products stock, or nearly so, against another corporation, the complainant,—the said Refining Company far more certainly as such monopoly is within shot of the law of the State of Illinois and its policy which forbids ownership by corporations of the stock of other corporations, for the said Corn Products Refining Company although a corporation of the State of New Jersey and claiming exemption and immunity from said law and policy of this state by virtue of the powers granted to it as to ownership of stock in other corporations by the charter given by the state of New Jersey, it is equally as impotent, as domestic corporations of this state, to hold said Corn Products stock and in truth comes in by said Joy Morton, its associate co-conspirator and agent, to exercise its power as unjustly claimed under the laws of New Jersey; and that such power is equally forbidden by our laws and policy from holding and enforcing rights over the real estate of said factories in Illinois, or claiming the same as given by such alleged ownership of stock which power it also seeks to exercise in this Court by this cross-bill and by the numerous injunctions and the petition shown in this record.

32. This respondent further answering represents and 197 shows unto your Honors that said Corn Products Refining Company never had and has not now any power, right, or authority, to purchase, acquire, own, hold, or possess any of the shares of stock of the said Corn Products Company or of the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company or of the said New York Glucose Company or of the said Glucose Sugar Refining Company or of the said Warner Sugar Refining Company or of the said St. Louis Syrup and Preserving Company, or to vote any of such stock at any meeting of the stockholders of said respective companies, or in any manner to direct, control, regulate, interfere with or have any voice in the business or management of any of the affairs of said Corn Products Company, or of any or all of said other companies, And this respondent further represents and shows unto Your Honors that said Corn Products Refining Company in defiance of the laws of this state bought and acquired during the year 1906, or thereabouts, in pursuance and execution of said Plan all the capital stock of all of said companies aforesaid named in said plan, and all the stock of said companies subsidiary to and claimed or held or bought and acquired by said companies; that all said stock was acquired by said Corn Products Refining Company not by way of security for, nor in payment of or on account of any obligation, indebtedness, claim or demand due or owing to said Corn Products Refining Company, but the same was purchased by said Corn Products Refining Company solely under and in pursuance of and to carry out said Plan aforesaid, and said conspiracy, and said purchases of stock were each and all obtained with the avowed purpose and intent of creating a monopoly on behalf of said Standard Oil Company in the business and manufacture of glucose, starch, and its by-products, as elsewhere shown more fully in this answer, and as depicted and illustrated more fully in said plan of 1906.

Answer to cross-bill, filed March 30, 1908.

33. And this respondent alleges and shows that the said purchases and ownership by said Corn Products Refining Company of said stock of said several companies, and each of them, were and are, severally, ultra vires, and beyond its powers, and that said Corn Products Refining Company has no right or power to exercise any right of ownership over any of said shares of stock, or to file any of the petitions 198 filed herein or to take any other steps or proceeding as a stockholder of said several companies and each and all of them, or any of them, and especially as a stockholder of said Corn Products Company and of said Corn Products Manufacturing Company.

34. This respondent further shows unto Your Honors that the said Corn Products Refining Company claims to own or owned, when this bill was filed, and now owns, or claims to own, as the purchaser of more than 95% of the capital stock of said Corn Products Company; and the said Corn Products Company was then the nominal owner and is still the nominal owner but acquired for the use and benefit or now holds really for the use and benefit and belonging to said Corn Products Refining Company 99% of the issued capital stock of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company, which is also known by the name of the Glucose Sugar Refining Company as described in the bill herein; and the said Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in truth is the real owner of the entire capital stock and absolutely controls and manages all the property through its agents and directors of both companies last named of all the companies heretofore named in said bill including their said factories and trade secrets, market, and capital stock, of every description.

35. And this respondent further alleges and shows unto Your Honors that said Corn Products Company being the holder of the stock of the subsidiary companies of the Illinois Sugar Company organized under the Laws of the State of Illinois and having its factory at Pekin, Illinois, and of the stock of the Charles Pone Company with its two factories at Geneva, and Venice, Illinois, and of the stock of the United States Glucose Company, and of the entire stock of the National Starch Company, composed of twenty-four subsidiary starch companies and factories, to-wit: the factories known as Kingsford's and of Erkenbrecher's of Gilbert's and Argos and others of national reputation; that all said stocks and factories were the property of the said Corn Products Company in 1906 and were transferred to and became part of the assets of said Corn Products Refining Company by its purchase of the property and assets and stock of the Corn Products Company as hereinbefore stated in 1906 under said Plan.

And said Corn Products Refining Company never had 199 and has not now any power, right, or authority, to purchase, acquire, own, hold or possess any of said stocks or said property of said above named companies or to vote any of said stocks at any meeting of the stockholders of any of said companies or in any manner to direct, control, interfere with or have any voice in the business or management of any of the affairs of said several companies aforesaid, and its purchase and ownership of said stock was and is ultra vires and beyond its powers; and that said Refining Company has no power whatever to exercise any right of ownership over any of said stocks of said companies, or to file any of the petitions for removal of any cases against said companies, or against itself, to this Court, or any petitions in this case, if it should be deemed by its attorneys able or necessary to take any steps or proceedings as a stockholder of any of said companies aforesaid; and especially the said Corn Products Refining Company has no right or power to direct, control, regulate or interfere with or have any voice in the business or management of any of the affairs, factories or properties of any of said companies and especially of these factories and their realty in the State of Illinois as shown by this bill.

36. This respondent further represents unto Your Honors that said Corn Products Refining Company threatens to and will unless prevented from so doing by this Honorable Court vote any and all of said shares of stock in said several companies aforesaid at the meetings annually held by the stockholders of said companies, and at all other meetings of said stockholders, and interfere with the due and proper management and control by said Corn Products Company of its business and property and of the business and property, management and control of any or all of said companies aforesaid.

37. This respondent further represents unto Your Honors that said Corn Products Refining Company under and by virtue of said conspiracy and by its combination with the said officers of the said Corn Products Company has attempted to enter into the control of all the factories of said Corn Products Company and by its agents, officers, representatives, and tools, is engaged in attempting to control, and to the extent of said factories in Illinois owning and controlling and managing daily the greater part of the same; and that 200 under the alleged purchases of the stock of the Corn Products Company and of said companies described in the bill herein, organized and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, and elsewhere, has placed or is now endeavoring to place the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company of New Jersey in possession of said factories in Illinois, and elsewhere, and to continue the existence and control of said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, but only as its agent, of the said factories; and the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company as such agent and representative of the Corn Products Refining Company is in the actual possession and control of the said factories in Illinois and elsewhere.

38. And this respondent alleges that the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company has been found guilty of a conspiracy to defraud and of establishing a monopoly in the manufacture and in regulating and fixing the price of glucose, grape-sugar and their products and by-products by and with said corporations aforesaid, and this is more fully shown in the case of George F. Harding and the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company in the bill filed on August 3, 1907, against said Matthiessen and the American Glucose Company and others and the said Glucose Sugar Refining Company which was then the owner or holder of the options described in said opinion as set out therein, and that by the decree of the Supreme Court of Illinois entered in said case (as shown in its opinion published in 182 Ill. pp. 551-644) the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, then the Glucose Sugar Refining Company, was held guilty of said conspiracy to defraud the public by the creation of said monopoly under and by a fraudulent and criminal combination conducted and created by the said J. B. Greenhut, Levy Mayer, and other defendants in said bill, including said C. H. Matthiessen.

39. This respondent further shows and represents that the said Corn Products Refining Company and all of said corporations and individuals engaged in said formation of said monopoly shown in this case have made, created and organized for their purpose the said Corn Products Refining Company, really the secret tool of the said Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and acting contrary to the public policy of the State of Illinois as declared by its statutes and decisions of its Courts, and as shown by the constant practice of it by the government officials of the state; and in the case of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company this doctrine has been adjudicated and enforced against these very defendants and in favor of this plaintiff and said George F. Harding; and this respondent alleges that it is the "settled doctrine of this state established by many decisions of this Court" viz, of the Supreme Court of Illinois as shown in said 182 Illinois, "that foreign corporations do not come into this state as a matter of legal right, but only by comity, And That Said Corporations Are Subject to the Same Restrictions and Duty as Corporations Formed in This State and Have No Other or Greater Power"; and that this doctrine is thus declared by the Supreme Court of Illinois in said cause, where said corporations, including said defendants, were operating the same plants in Illinois under the name of the Glucose Sugar Refining Company and were found attempting to evade the common law and the statutes of Illinois against trusts and combines and to defy the public policy of the state, by going into a foreign state, in that case as in this, the State of New Jersey, and chartering a corporation in order to do business in this state in violation of its laws. That such foreign corporations and said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, now known as the Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and the other corporations, aforesaid, defendants are such violators and offenders against law and cannot come into this state to do business except when they conform to the laws and public policy of the state; and that this is more especially true in the case of real estate located in Illinois; and this respondent alleges that the real estate in this case upon which said factories are situated, is largely in Illinois "And Nothing Is Better Settled", as Declared by the Supreme Court of Illinois in Said Case of said Harding and Others Against the American Glucose Company and Others, "Than That the Validity of All Transactions Relating to Land Depends Upon the Laws of the State Where the Land is Situated"; and this respondent shows unto Your Honors that in this case it is the real estate in Illinois which is owned or claimed by these foreign corporations, which is attempted to be used for the purpose of carrying on the business of an illegal trust or combination, and as the Supreme Court of Illinois declared in said case touching said New Jersey corporations, their New Jersey charters can give them the right to bring or hold such stock in other corporations, 202 and "Real Estate in Illinois Owned by Foreign Corporations Cannot Be Used for Such a Purpose."

Answer to cross-bill, filed March 30, 1906.

40. And this respondent answering expressly asks that said Corn Products Refining Company and Corn Products Manufacturing Company, their directors, officers, agents, attorneys, solicitors and employes, and each of them may be forever enjoined from voting or attempting to vote, directly or indirectly, at any meeting of the stockholders of said Corn Products Company or any or either of said companies any of the shares of stock so held by said companies, or any of the stocks of any of the subsidiary companies of said Corn Products Company at any meeting of the stockholders of any or all of said subsidiary companies; that it may be decreed herein that said Corn Products Refining Company and said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and each of them had and has no power, right, or authority to deal with said real estate in the State of Illinois, and said factories in said State, nor to purchase, acquire, hold, own or possess such real estate for the purpose of such combination or said shares of stock, or any part of them, in said Corn Products Company, and that the said stock may be cancelled and forfeited, and that the said Corn Products Refining Company and the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and each of them, may be forever enjoined from owning, holding or possessing any of said real estate, and factories, and from using them for said purpose or purposes set out in the bill herein, or from possessing, owning or holding any shares of said stock or any part thereof or from directly or indirectly exercising or asserting any acts of ownership over the same or as a stockholder in said subsidiary companies of said Corn Products Company, or as a stockholder in said Corn Products Company or in said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, or from prosecuting said cross-bill and said petitions respectively filed herein.

41. And this respondent further answering the said cross-bill herein says that the said Joy Morton is not entitled to maintain such cross-bill herein, in any event, independent of the other objections above stated therein, for the reason that such cross-bill purports to be filed by him alone, and for himself alone and not in behalf of any other stockholders of the said Corn Products Company, and, on this additional

ground, this respondent prays the same relief under this 203 answer as it might have by or under a demurrer to the said cross-bill.

42. And this respondent further answering says that the said Joy Morton is not entitled to maintain said cross-bill herein for the additional reason that said cross-bill is not in compliance with the equity rules of the United States, Numbered 94, perscribed by the Supreme Court of the United States at the October Term, 1881, to which reference is hereby made and the same is made a part of this answer the same as if here inserted in full, and, on this additional ground, this respondent prays the same relief under this answer as it might have by or under a demurrer to the said cross-bill.

43. This respondent further answering says that the said cross-bill improperly joins as co-defendants this respondent and the said Corn Products Company, it fully appearing from the said cross-bill that said Corn Products Company is interested wholly on the side of and with said cross-complainant, in the subject matter of the said cross-bill, and should, therefore, be made a co-complainant with the said Joy Morton in the said cross-bill, and not a defendant thereto and, on this additional ground, this respondent prays the same relief under this answer as it might have by or under a demurrer to the said cross-bill.

44. And this respondent further answering says that there is a non-joinder of proper and necessary parties complainant in said cross-bill and that the other defendants to the original bill herein are not joined as complainants in said cross-bill, or otherwise made parties to said cross-bill, and, on this additional ground, this respondent prays the same relief under this answer as it might have by or under a demurrer to the said cross-bill.

45. And this respondent further answering says that it does not appear from the matters and things set forth in said cross-bill that the said cross-complainant is entitled to the relief thereby sought or therein prayed for, or any part thereof, or any relief whatsoever in the premises, and, on this ground, this respondent prays the same relief under this answer as it might have by or under a demurrer to the said cross-bill.

204 46. This respondent further answering denies all the averments and matters and things contained in the said cross-bill not hereinbefore specifically answered unto.

And this respondent having fully answered the said crossbill prays to be hence dismissed with his reasonable costs and charges in this behalf wrongfully sustained.

Answer of the Cross-Defendant, Corn Products Company, to said Cross-Bill of Joy Morton, Cross complainant.

The Corn Products Company, cross-defendant to said

cross-bill, saving and reserving unto itself the benefit of all exception to the errors and imperfections in said cross-bill contained, for answer to so much of said cross bill as this cross-defendant is advised it is necessary or material for it to make answer unto, answering says:

1. This cross-defendant admits that it is a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New Jersey on the date and with the capital stock, consisting of the shares, of the par value and with the amount of its capital stock issued and outstanding and owned by a large number of stock-holders, as alleged in said cross bill.

2. This cross-defendant has no knowledge, information, or belief, but demands proof of the allegation that said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, on or about February 6, 1902, or at any other time, purchased 450 shares of preferred, or any other amount, or 550 shares of common, or any other amount of the capital stock of this cross-defendant, or that since or prior to said date said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company has been or still is the owner of said shares, or any part thereof, or any other shares of the capital stock of this cross-defendant; or that said 1,000 shares, or any part thereof, or any other shares of the capital stock of this cross-defendant were acquired by said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company not by way of security for, or in payment of or on account of any obligation, indebtedness, claim or demand due or owing to said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, or were purchased by said Chicago Real Estate Loan and Trust Company solely as an investment, as alleged in said cross-bill.

In the matter of the rule entered Nov. 4, 1907, that George F. Harding, and his solicitor, A. B. Joyner, show cause why the suit of said Harding in the Superior Court of Cook County should not be enjoined, and be ordered to dismiss the same. Also, in the matter of the rule entered Nov. 12, 1907, that George F. Harding, George F. Harding, Jr., William J. Ammen and A. B. Joyner, show cause why they should not be attached for contempt for violating the temporary stay and restraining order entered on June 8, 1907.

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908

Certificate of Evidence.

Be it remembered that on November 12, 1907, being one of the judicial days of the July Term, A. D. 1907, of this Court, before the Undersigned, Kenesaw M. Landis, one of the Judges of the said Court, in chancery sitting, there came on for hearing the rule entered of record in the above entitled cause on November 4, 1907, ex parte, and without notice to or appearance by any person or party other than the Corn Products Refining Company, upon whose petition that they filed in said cause, and now on file therein, the said rule was entered, reference being hereby made to the said petition and the same being hereby made a part of this Certificate of Evidence, together with the said rule entered on and pursuant to said petition and the said George F. Harding and A. B. Joyner, mentioned in the said rule having filed their answers thereto under oath, on said date, November 12, 1907, and the said hearing of the said rule, upon the said answers thereto, having thereupon proceeded, the said Corn Products Refining Company appearing by Levy Mayer, as its solicitor, and the said George F. Harding and A. B. Joyner appearing both personally and by William J. Ammen as their solicitor, for the purpose only of such hearing, and limiting their appearance to such purpose only, and respectfully objecting to and denying the authority or jurisdiction of this Court over them, or either of them, in the premises, and insisting, jointly and severally, that the entry of the said rule of November 4, 1907, against them, was and is, wholly void, by reason of the lack of authority, or power, or jurisdiction of this Court in or over them, respectively, in the premises, and thereupon the following proceedings were had on such hearing:

Mr. Mayer: Now if it pleases your Honor, a very brief statement of the condition of this record in necessary in order to understand the purport of the motion in this case, which has been before your Honor in one phase. I presume you have forgotten it, excepting when you hear it you will recall what it is. I mean you will not remember what your decision was until your attention is invited to it.

A bill was filed in the State, Cook County, Circuit Court, in May of this year. The plaintiff in that case is the Chicago Real Estate, Loan & Trust Company. There are a large number of defendants, principally the Corn Products Refining Company, the Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and the Corn Products Company and a lot of co-defendants.

Among the allegations in the bill, and there are many 223 of them, is the charge that "the Standard Oil crowd"— that is the expression that is used in the bill—was destroying the corporate property and assets of the company which the complainant alleged itself to be holding 1,000 shares of stock; the bill alleging that the principal defendants, or one of the principal defendants, the Corn Products Company, is an eighty million dollar New Jersey corporation, that its capital is divided into thirty million of preferred stock and fifty million of common stock, or a total of 800,000 shares, and that the complainant, the Real Estate Company—which I shall use to be brief, because the name is a long one—owns 1,000 of those shares, of the 800,000, and the bill alleges that it was filed—I read from page 11, paragraph 8—that it was filed as follows:

"Your orator"—that is the Real Estate Company—"brings this bill of complaint not only for the benefit of your orators, but also for the benefit of the holders and owners of the stock of said Corn Products Company in the same situation as your orator and said other holders and owners of the said stock are hereby invited to come in as co-complainants with your orator in this bill of complaint, and to share in the benefits of whatever relief may be obtained under it or by virtue of this suit, upon contribution of their pro rata share of the expenses thereof."

224 The bill makes a great many charges of fraud and conspiracy, and alleges that the vast property effects of the Corn Products Company are being dissipated, destroyed, fraudulently converted and secreted "by the Standard Oil crowd" and it prays that the Corn Products Company shall be put in the hands of a receiver, that its property shall be administered by the Court, that it shall be reorganized in the interests of the stockholders complaining and all other stockholders' interests protected and adjusted. It alleges that nearly all of the stock of the Corn Products Company, that is nearly all of its $80,000,000 of capital stock have been acquired by the Corn Products Refining Company, which is another New Jersey corporation; that the Corn Products Refining Company was organized in New Jersey as was the Corn Products Company; that the Corn Products Refining Company through the manipulations, combines and conspiracies of "the Standard Oil crowd", who are the Corn Products Refining Company, has secured control of that company to the extent of nearly all of its capital stock; and that the complaining Real Estate Company, a minority shareholder, is by the manipulations and defalcations and crookedness of the "Standard Oil crowds", and their associates who are made defendants, so operating, running and manipulating and controlling the Corn Products Company, of which the complainant is a shareholder, as to destroy the complainant's rights as a shareholder.

The bill alleges that the Corn Products Company and the Corn Products Refining Company and the other companies are New Jersey corporations and that the Chicago Real Estate Company, complainant, is an Illinois Corporation.

It charges all sorts of violations of the anti-trust statute of Illinois and of the United States.

The bill was filed in the State Circuit Cook County Court, and we made an application to remove the case to this court, on the ground, first, that there was a Federal question involved in the bill; second, that there was a diversity of citizenship, the complainant being an Illinois corporation and all of the defendant corporations being New Jersey corporations and citizens of that State; and thirdly, that there was a separable controversy between the Corn Products Company on the one hand, and the complainant, the plaintiff, the Real Estate Company, on the other.

That was submitted on argument on the motion to remove to the State Circuit Court. The judge deemed it proper to reserve his decision, and took it under advisement, and pending that consideration we applied to the Federal Circuit Court for leave to take it to this court and your Honor entered an order permitting the docketing of the case and an injunction enjoining the further prosecution of that case, the Real Estate Company case, until the further order of the court.

Thereupon a motion was made in this court by the counsel for the Real Estate Company, by Mr. Ammen and Mr. Joyner to remand and the case was a year ago before your Honor.

evidence, filed

and now your Honor will probably recall the points of difference of the case at that time.

We contended that there was a Federal question presented on the face of the bill, and your Honor will remember probably that your attention was called to the allegations of the bill. I read one from paragraph 15, page 19 of the printed copy of the bill, where it was charged that the action of the defendants complained of constituted a combination of many millions of dollars of capital and skill, and firms and corporations, and individuals, to limit and control the production of glucose and grape sugar and other commodities and regulate and fix and control and change at the will of said conspirators, the price of the same, and to prevent competitions in the manufacture and sale of such products, all of which is in violation of the statute of Illinois; "An Act to Define Trusts and Conspiracies Against Trade". Then follows a recital of what that act prohibits. And the concluding paragraph of the section is as follows:

227 "and thereby control the price and supply and manufacture thereof, in violation of the common law of the said state, and in violation of the laws of the United States in and for such case made and provided."

Upon that proposition the argument turned. We never got to the question of diversity of citizenship or separability, and your Honor held that a Federal question was presented on the face of the bill because the complainant claimed relief under a Federal statute, and you refused to remand.

Thereupon demurrers were filed by some of the defendants and answers by two of the defendants, and a cross-bill by one of the defendants, and so the record in that case stands to-day; the demurrer raising the question of law, that there is no case made out on the face of the bill; the answer denying the allegations of fact and setting up wherein they were untrue and without foundation of any kind, and another answer pleading estoppel namely, that everything that had been done of which this abused complainant complained had been voted on expressly and affirmatively at every annual stockholders' meeting the date being given and concurred in and approved by this complainant.

With a record in that case showing, first, a denial of all the facts; secondly, a denial of there being equity on the 228 face of the bill; and thirdly, pleading an estoppel, showing that every one of these various acts which are complained of in this bill had been affirmatively and expressly

Certificate of
evidence, filed

voted for by the complainant; with the record in that condition, they made a motion to get out of this court, to dismiss that case. The motion they served upon us was never brought up or disposed of; it was a motion in which the complainant gave notice to my firm that they would move to dismiss the bill of complaint in the above entitled case without prejudice, and without prejudice to the right of the cross-complainant in said cause to prosecute his cross-bill of complaint. This was served on October 2. That is, a complainant which had been enjoined from prosecuting its case in the State Court, and whose motion to remand had been overruled, in a case in which there was a plea of estoppel, and a cross bill asking affirmative relief, gave notice that it would dismiss its bill of complaint.

Mr. Ammen: I want to correct that statement. The answer setting up estoppel was filed long after that.

Mr. Mayer: I will discuss that. I cannot answer, because I do not know just when the cross-bill was filed. The same day that your Honor denied the motion to remand—I say the same day, the same or the next day after the motion to remand which was overruled on June 8, 1907, a cross-bill seeking affirmative relief was filed on either June 8 or June 9th, I will give your Honor the exact date, and after it 229 has been on file four months, we are met with a notice to dismiss. The notice was not called up.

We then met the following situation; with an injunction pending restraining further proceedings in a State Court. with your Honor refusing to remand, with a cross-bill and answer and demurrers, and a motion to dismiss served but not called up, the next thing that happens is the filing of another bill in a State Court; and that was filed on October 19, or 17 days after the motion was served to dismiss the bill of complaint. And I have here, and it is made an exhibit to our motion, the duplicate original copy of the second bill which was filed in the State Court, which was first entitled "Circuit Court of Cook County, Chicago Real Estate, Loan & Trust Company Complainant versus The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and others." That has been changed so as to make it read "Superior Court of Cook County," and "George F. Harding, complainant," instead of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company; and there has been eliminated from the bill the words; "and of the United States."

twelve or fourteen thousand dollars. George F. Harding took some four appeals to the Appellate and Supreme Court. In all of these cases, the counsel who appear for him here appeared for him there. And all of a sudden, Harding, who was born in Illinois, some seventy years ago, changed his residence to California and became a citizen of the Golden State, and he was not a citizen of Illinois, and therefore he filed a bill there for divorce against his wife who had pending here her separate maintenance proceedings, and he secured his divorce against his seventy-year old wife on the ground of alleged desertion; and then he came back from California and interposed the decree of divorce as a plea in bar to the further maintenance of the separate alimony suit.

Mr. Ammen: Does that appear in this record?

Mr. Mayer: Yes.

234 Mr. Ammen: Where?

Mr. Mayer: In the cases which I referred to in the petition.

The Court: Now regardless of all this, let me ask, is Mr. Joyner here?

Mr. Joyner: Yes, sir.

Mr. Ammen: I appear for Mr. Harding and Mr. Joyner, the latter not having been admitted to this Court. I do not understand the object of all this talk outside of the record, and I think it is a very simple proposition.

The Court: I want to make it a simple proposition. Is the George F. Harding for whom you filed this bill in the State Court connected in any way with the Chicago Real Estate, Loan and Trust Company?

Mr. Joyner: Not to my knowledge, he is not an officer and has not been for many years.

The Court: Was he connected with it in any way when the original bill was filed?

Mr. Joyner: Now, your honor, not to my knowledge.

The Court: You filed the original bill for the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company?

Mr. Joyner: I did.

The Court: How did he happen to become interested in a legal proposition that that company raised in its bill?

Mr. Joyner: He owns stock.

The Court: Did he know of that litigation?

Mr. Mayer: He appeared to and his son did.

The Court: Did he know anything about the litigation, the questions legal and of fact which were tendered as the result of the bill filed by the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, a year ago, brought here?

Mr. Joyner: As to the proceedings in that?

The Court: Yes?

Mr. Joyner: I think he was advised.

The Court: Have you any doubt about that?

Mr. Joyner: No.

The Court: You can answer me with perfect frankness, or you can claim your rights under the Constitution.

335 Mr. Joyner: I am not asking any rights to protection under the Constitution. I want to say that after Mr. Harding returned to this country—he was absent at the time of filing the first bill—I think everything was disclosed to him as to the action taken in this court.

The Court: Who would know whether he had been?

Mr. Joyner: Mr. Harding would.

The Court: You are his counsel?

Mr. Joyner: Yes, in the State Court. I disclosed everything.

The Court: You are filing this bill for him in the State Court?

Mr. Joyner: In the State Court, yes.

The Court: You filed the original bill of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company?

Mr. Joyner: I did.

The Court: You knew about what had happened there and here? You would not have filed this bill without telling your client?

Mr. Joyner: I don't think there was anything transpired that he was not informed about.

The Court: Now is his son president of this Trust Company?

Mr. Joyner: I believe he is.

The Court: Is there any doubt about it?

Mr. Joyner: No. I was not present when the election was being held, but I think he was.

The Court: Is he?

Mr. Ammen: That is my understanding, that George F. Harding, Jr., is and has been.

The Court: Do you know he was elected?

Mr. Joyner: I have no personal knowledge?

The Court: You have no personal knowledge?

Mr. Joyner: I understand he is President. He is owner of nearly all the stock.

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1906.

The Court: Was there ever an application made to dissolve that order, to vacate that injunctive order in the former suit?

236 Mr. Mayer: Right in this court. The record will show there was a motion made to remand, and set aside the docketing order which gave the injunction, and that was overruled.

Mr. Ammen: Motion was made to remand.

The Court: That order stands, does it?

Mr. Mayer: Yes, sir.

The Court: This is a most extraordinary situation to me. I may get a wrong view of it, but I will hear anything you have to say.

Mr. Ammen: Our contention is that these plaintiffs are as different as if their names were Jones and Smith.

The Court: I will hear you on that contention.

Mr. Ammen: I cannot understand why Mr. Mayer should go out of the record to make so many statements here, unless it was to arouse some prejudice here. He has gone out of the record here upon matters that do not appear in this court.

The Court: You need not bother about any such questions, I will control that. Mr. Ammen, I am not at all afraid of that. When I come in here, I leave all that on the other side of the door.

Mr. Ammen: The complainant in the first suit is the corporation, the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company. The complainant in the second suit in the State Court is George F. Harding. Since this order was obtained from Judge Kohlsaas, ruling us to answer by ten o'clock this morning showing why an injunction should not issue, these same gentlemen have proceeded to remove the other case to this Court, so they are both now in this court. Mr. Joyner is present and he has acted openly, frankly and squarely, and if there has been any mistake here, it has been an honest mistake. Our view has been and our contention is that the second suit in the State Court is by a separate and independent plaintiff, honestly and squarely brought, who elected to bring that case in that court for what he supposed good and sufficient reasons, rather than to accept the invitation to come into the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company suit before this court, not with a view of getting rid of the Federal Court or of getting out of the Federal Court.

April 30, 1904.

The cross-bill of Joy Morton in the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company suit, the first one removed to this court, sets up, among other things, and the answer also does, that the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company as an Illinois corporation, has no right to hold this stock in the Corn Products Company. And the cross-bill, setting up the same facts, prays that this stock may be cancelled. That is the affirmative relief that Mr. Joy Morton claims in this court, that the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company may be decreed to be incapable of holding that stock, and that its stock may be cancelled.

Now Mr. Harding did not want to get involved in that controversy.

Then the last answer filed also sets up laches, and I understand sets up this question of estoppel.

These are things that we understand are not open to be urged against Mr. Harding, personally, and I understand he did not want to go into those controversies here. My understanding and contention will be, and Mr. Harding's will be, that a party is not bound to accept the invitation to join with the complainant in any other suit, that he may bring his own suit.

Questions may be raised later as to the court's consolidating the cases, or hearing them together, but my understanding is this, that a complainant seeking rights as a stockholder is not bound to accept the invitation and join in the prosecution of another suit.

Now, while the first bill refers to Standard Oil methods, and Standard Oil financing and all these things, it does not make the Standard Oil Company a defendant to the suit. We understand from facts that have developed since the first bill was filed, that the Standard Oil Company has been engaged in an effort to freeze out stockholders which seems to have been successful as far as we have been able to find, except as to Mr. Harding and the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, and perhaps a few others. We understand from the present situation, from our present information, that not only have Standard Oil Company's methods been resorted to but that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is at the bottom of and behind the entire scheme. We have in the State Court, therefore, made the Standard Oil Company a defendant, but that Company was not a defendant in the first suit.

Now I positively know—I have represented Mr. Harding in

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

all these litigations and I have represented the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company and Mr. Harding both for nearly twenty years, and my clear understanding is—and I think I know the exact facts—the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company for at least ten years, or as much as six years ago at least, that he has never had anything to do with it since, that his only connection with it is in an advisory capacity, and that Mr. Harding is now 78 or 79 years of age—

The Court: Where is he?

Mr. Ammen: At his son's house, 2536 Indiana Avenue. When the first bill was filed, I understood he was then on a sick bed in Paris, suffering from an operation there and it was very doubtful if he would recover, but he is here now and can come into Court. There is nothing we wish to conceal. There has been no intention to do anything whatsoever in violation of the first order of injunction, and this is the first suggestion we have had that the filing of this 2nd bill is claimed to be in conflict with the first order.

The Court: I do not know that anybody claims it, but the atmosphere is surcharged with so much that suggests a violation, that I wish to follow it up.

Mr. Ammen: Of the first order?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Ammen: Suppose the plaintiff is different—

The Court: What is the use of taking up time with such affectation as that! Here is the same lawyer that brings the same suit.

Mr. Ammen: But different complainants.

The Court: It is the second bill for the same complainant.

Mr. Ammen: No, your Honor. My understanding of this was that Mr. Harding at first expected that he would go into the Federal Court and that this bill was prepared to be presented as an amended supplemental bill in the Federal Court. That is my understanding. I do not know how it came to be printed, but he decided later on to file it as a bill by George F. Harding.

The Court: Who decided that?

239 Mr. Ammen: Mr. Harding himself, as I understand it.

The Court: What interest did he have in supplemental proceedings in either suit?

Mr. Ammen: He was associated with his son in a friendly way in an advisory capacity: he is a lawyer. We plant our standing on his plain proposition, that this has nothing to do with the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, that he has no interest in this stock, that he is not an officer or a director, and is entirely independent of that suit. If we are wrong in that, that is entirely a different situation. This is different stock, we are not filing this bill on the same stock.

The Court: I did not assume that you were.

Mr. Ammen: Oh, certainly not. I know this, I have had conferences with Mr. Joyner and Mr. Harding; we have discussed these questions openly, without reservation, with each other; and I never understood from Mr. Harding that there was any disposition or desire to avoid in any way the first suit, not at all, it was just a question as to whether he was bound to raise this question, as to whether he was bound to go into that suit on the invitation of the complainant, or whether he had a right to proceed independently; and I said to him as a lawyer that I understood—without stopping to look it up in this connection—that I understood that a party invited to enter a litigation did not have to, that I thought it was a question of law, if they brought an independent suit, it was a question for the court to determine what should be done about hearing them together.

Now if your Honor wants to hear the facts about Mr. Harding being entirely independent as an individual, we set it up in our answers to the rule that he does not own a dollar of the stock of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, is not an officer or director, and had nothing to do with the former proceedings. His sons are directly interested in it, but outside of the friendly relations or understanding with members of his family, for many years he has had no connection, no business connection whatsoever with that company. And we have assumed that, that being true, he was no more bound to come into the first suit and no more bound 239½ by the injunction in the first suit than Marshall Field would have been, if living; that he is a stranger to the suit, a stranger to the litigation, and this suit, this new injunction now is made against Mr. Harding, not against the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, and against Mr. Joyner as attorney for Mr. Harding. Mr. Joyner is not the attorney in this court for either of the parties—

The Court: Isn't he in the State Court?

Mr. Ammen: Certainly, in the present State Court suit, and we plant ourselves on the proposition—

The Court: I may be wrong on the facts.

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

Mr. Ammen: —that the plaintiffs are different, that is all.

The Court: What is Mr. Joyner in the second suit seeking?

Mr. Ammen: Mr. Joyner represents a new plaintiff in the new suit in the state court, but assuming even that he may have availed himself on the same kind of relief and the same facts, we say the question rests on the proposition that he has an independent claim, and he had a right to come over here and have his typewriter copy the entire bill and adopt it for his suit.

The Court: Who did?

Mr. Ammen: Mr. Joyner for Mr. Harding.

The Court: Well, you may be right, but I don't think you are.

Mr. Ammen: Leave Mr. Joyner out of this for a moment—

The Court: When that first bill was filed and got here, the order of injunction was against the counsel for that complainant.

Mr. Ammen: It was only against its counsel.

The Court: I am not very busy, but I am too busy to sit here and split hairs on propositions where a lawyer is involved. A lawyer ought not to want to try his case that way. Where a lawyer is enjoined in a case of that kind, why of course he doesn't go and get another client by himself through whom he may litigate the same situation.

Mr. Ammen: Nothing of that sort was ever dreamed of.

The Court: Now, when a second client turns up alleging the same relations, the situation exists which on your own statement where anybody who happened to call would 240 receive the same kind of advice as to action in these two suits.

Mr. Ammen: It is not the same stock. Suppose Mr. Harding individually does own separate stock in the Corn Products Company, as Mr. Joyner in his answer to the rule says, and that he has nothing to do with these matters, except as attorney, and of course will abide by any order that may be entered against his client, has no relations except as attorney; it was furthest removed from his mind that there should be any attempt to avoid the order of this Court and I may disabuse your Honor's mind on that.

We planted the case squarely on the proposition that the stock is different and the plaintiff is different and if your Honor wants the fullest hearing on that, we shall be glad, as we have not a thing to conceal.

The Court: Do you claim there was ever any possibility of Joyner in the original suit, under the injunction, ought not to go any further, that it never occurred to anybody?

Mr. Ammen: This was a new plaintiff, and it never occurred to us for a moment in any of our discussions together. Why, Mr. Joyner would have stopped instantly. Your Honor may give us credit for sufficient intelligence to know that as lawyers, but it never occurred to us; if it had occurred to us we would not do that; that is, we never intended to be in conflict with this court, the idea of a conflict by reason of the other order never occurred to anybody. I know it could not have occurred to Mr. Harding, because he is a very open, frank, square man, and in all our discussions it never was hinted.

The Court: Who is president of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company?

Mr. Joyner: Mr. Harding, Jr., I understand.

Mr. Ammen: That has been our information for some time.

The Court: Unquestionably. I want to know, because I am getting ready to enter an order on the facts. Send for Mr. Harding, Jr., to come over here.

Mr. Joyner: I don't know whether I can reach him.

The Court: Get Harding, Senior, or Harding, Junior.

Mr. Ammen: Both of us have understood for years 241 that George F. Harding, Jr., was President.

The Court: If you know where he is, telephone him to come over here, go to the telephone, and telephone for him yourself.

Mr. Joyner: 3394 Main is Mr. Harding, Junior's, office phone.

The Court: Go to my chambers and telephone him.

Mr. Ammen: May it be understood that all the record and files in both of these cases are before the court? They are both in this court.

The Court: I understand the first case is in this court, and the motion to remand overruled, and injunction against the complainant from proceeding in the state court. The second is here on order docketing that case on petition of defendants.

Mr. Ammen: I would like to have it understood that the

Certificate of
evidence, filed

entire record in both cases is before this court, on this hearing.

Mr. Mayer: Most assuredly. We make them a part of our record in our petition. Said files and record in said second suit are hereinafter shown as a part of this certificate of evidence.

Mr. Ammen: Does your Honor understand that George F. Harding was not the plaintiff in the first suit, and he is the plaintiff in the second suit?

(No answer.) Here follows some argument by Mr. Mayer * * * * *

Mr. Ammen: Our idea was that they cannot in this suit raise that question, the question about the incapacity of the complainant, to hold stock in the Corn Products Company but fearing that they could, and fearing we might have to stand or fall with the complainant in that case, on that question, we thought we had a right to file this second bill, independently, by the same attorney or by anybody else. Now if we are wrong in that, we have made a mistake, that is all; but, so far as any idea or intention of evading any order of this court, or of any contempt, it was the furthest from our minds. We were not trying to turn corners nor to do any sharp practices; nothing of the kind. We squarely planted ourselves on the proposition that Mr. Harding was entirely independent. Now if it should develop, your Honor, upon a hearing of proof, if any proof should be heard, that they are not independent, that would be a different question. I know Mr. Joyner and I relied on that being the fact.

242 The Court: You mean to say you understood but that you never talked it over when this matter was discussed!

Mr. Ammen: Yes, Mr. Harding in his sworn answer to the rule states that he has nothing to do with the other stock, and that this is his own stock, and he is not the president of the Company. (Handing said answer to the court.)

I admit that the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, that it is charged it has been used to conceal facts and to cover up property, but we are able to disprove it by Mr. John S. Miller, and Mr. Harding, and everybody else connected with it. This intimation that there was a trick in moving to California is also without foundation.

Mr. Mayer: What does the Supreme Court say in the 198 U. S.? If you are interested, just look over the 198 U. S.

Mr. Ammen: Mrs. Harding appeared there, the court heard her, and the California courts differed with the Supreme Court of the United States.

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

Mr. Mayer: Yes, quite materially.

The Court: Has he an office?

Mr. Ammen: Oh, yes, your Honor, his office phone is Main 3394, at 157 Washington Street. He (George F. Harding, Jr.,) usually don't get down till 11 o'clock.

Mr. Mayer: I am advised, your Honor, by Mr. Bangs of my office, that the name of George F. Harding, Jr., and the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company are on the panel of the same door, in the same office, have the same office.

Mr. Ammen: For the purposes of this case it may be stated that the president of the Company, and the controller of the company is George F. Harding, Junior.

The Court: You have him here at 2 o'clock; I will take this matter up at 2 o'clock—just wait a minute.

(George F. Harding and George F. Harding, Junior, here came into Court.)

Mr. Ammen: If the court please, Mr. Harding, Senior, and Mr. Harding, Junior, are both here.

243 GEORGE F. HARDING, JR., was here questioned by the Court, and answered as follows:

George F.
Harding, Jr.

Q. Mr. Harding, will you kindly tell the Court if you have any connection with the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company?

A. Yes, sir, I am president of it.

Q. How long have you been president of it?

A. In the neighborhood of ten years.

Q. Who did you succeed?

A. I succeeded, I think, a man named Callow, and before him was also my father. There have been several presidents of it.

Q. Were you the president of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company at the time that a suit was started in the State Court months and months ago, maybe a year?

Mr. Mayer: May, 1907.

Q. (Continuing) May of this year, when a suit was started against certain Corn Products Companies, the complainant being the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, in which suit certain defendants filed a petition to remove that case here and the case came here?

Testimony of
George F.
Harding, Jr.

A. I was.

Q. Did you know about the filing of that proceeding in the state court?

A. I did.

Q. And about its being brought here?

A. I think I was so informed, your Honor.

Q. Have you any doubt about your having knowledge that that suit was gotten into the Federal Court? Who was your counsel?

A. Mr. A. B. Joyner, the counsel for the company.

Q. You are not sure whether you ever heard from him that that suit was removed from the State Court to this court?

A. Yes, I have a distinct recollection of it.

Q. Now, what is the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, what is its business?

A. We have—we buy and sell real estate, deal in real estate all the time.

Q. What is its capital stock?

A. $250,000.

244 Q. Are you a holder of some of the stock?

A. I am a large holder of it, a very large holder.

Q. Is your father a holder of stock?

A. Not a dollar.

Q. Has he ever been?

A. Yes, many years ago, fifteen years ago or more than that; I cannot tell the exact date, I think I bought his stock in 1893.

Q. Did you ever hear that there had been started or was to be started a suit in the State court by your father, George F. Harding, against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, which suit bears General Number 263,565 in the Superior Court of Cook County?

A. I heard of it in a general way.

Q. When did you hear of it, and from whom?

A. I just heard—I heard my father speak of it and I heard Mr. Ammen speak of it and Mr. Joyner speak of it. I paid no attention to it.

Q. Did Mr. Joyner ever talk to you about it?

A. Not that I remember of, no.

Q. Do you know how he happened to become counsel for your father in this State Court suit?

A. Why, Mr. Joyner has always been connected with my father, and also with me, for many years.

Q. Do you know how the suit happened to be started, the suit of George F. Harding against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, this last suit started in the State Court?

Testimony of
George F.
Harding, Jr.

A. No, I don't know how it happened to be started.

Q. Well, did the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company contemplate starting a suit in the Superior Court of Cook County against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey to litigate certain questions of certain glucose Corn Products Companies in which litigation it was expected to go into certain charges against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey?

A. The Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company only started one suit.

Q. You never contemplated any other suit?

A. I never contemplated any other suit in any way, shape, style or manner in the smallest degree.

245 Q. You never gave Joyner instructions to draw a bill in behalf of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company to be filed in a State Court against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey?

A. Never.

A. B. JOYNER, was here further questioned by the Court and answered as follows:

A. B. Joyner

Q. Mr. Joyner, how did you happen to draw this second bill?

A. Beg pardon?

Q. How did you happen to draw this second bill?

A. Why I only assisted in the drawing of that bill.

Q. This bill, this bill, how did you happen to draw this second bill?

A. It was prepared, if the court please, it was prepared in discussing the matter with Mr. Ammen, upon or about the time the motion was made to dismiss the other proceeding in this court, and if this proceeding in this court was dismissed, we might begin another proceeding in another court but not while this proceeding was pending.

Q. Who did you discuss it with?

A. Mr. Ammen, and I discussed it—Mr. Ammen.

Q. Did you ever discuss it with your client?

A. With Mr. Harding, Junior?

A. B. Joyner.

Q. No, your client, the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company?

A. Why, I don't recall it, I discussed it with Mr. Harding.

Q. Were you going to start it without their knowledge?

A. No, sir; no, sir.

Q. Did you have it printed with his knowledge?

A. I don't recall consulting Mr. Harding, Junior, about the matter.

Q. Did you consult anybody else representing the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company on that, about it?

A. I consulted Mr. Ammen.

Q. Is he an officer of the company?

A. He is not.

Q. A stockholder?

A. He is not.

Q. Is he a director?

A. No, sir.

246 Q. Who, for the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, had any connection with the drawing of this second bill?

A. I don't know that I ever discussed it with anybody except Mr. Harding, Senior.

Q. When you drew this bill in which the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company is plaintiff, did you consult with George F. Harding, Senior, about the litigation?

A. I cannot say that.

Q. You would not have drawn this Harding bill without anybody having known about it?

A. That Harding bill was drawn by Mr. Harding, Senior, and I only assisted in the work.

Q. How came you to use the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company as the plaintiff in this Harding suit?

A. Why, Mr. Harding, he drew the bill.

Q. How did you happen to use the name, Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, a corporation, as the complainant in a bill which Mr. Harding, Senior, drew?

A. Oh, it was discussed by Mr. Harding, Mr. Ammen, and I, that we would dismiss the proceedings in this court and begin a new proceeding.

Q. What right had Mr. Harding Senior to file a new bill in behalf of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company?

A. Why he was simply advisor to Mr. Harding, Junior, the president of the company.

Q. Then you did advise with Mr. George F. Harding, Junior, about starting a new suit?

A. No, simply with Mr. Harding, Senior. Mr. Harding, Senior, is the only one I advised with. I simply assisted Mr. Harding, Senior.

Q. You assisted Mr. George F. Harding, Senior, in preparing the second bill to be filed in the chancery court of the state?

A. In the chancery court of the state, and it was only to be filed in the event that the proceedings in this court were dismissed.

Q. And you proposed in that suit to litigate in the name of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, as complainant?

A. It was thought of at the time, after we should dismiss the first suit.

247 Q. You proposed to do that?

A. Not while this suit was pending.

Q. No, but subsequently?

A. It was discussed with him I believe—

Q. Oh, just answer without the "believe"; you are a lawyer.

A. I was, but only connected as assistant in the matter, assisting Mr. Harding, Senior, practically in a clerical capacity in that case.

Q. Did you draw the bill, a copy of which is now here before me, bearing term number 9213, which appears to have been filed in the Superior Court of Cook County on the 19th day of October, 1907, at 11:45 A. M., and entitled "George F. Harding vs. Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and others, defendants", on the cover of which is scratched out "Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, a corporation" which appears to have been printed originally as the complainant, did you have anything to do with the drawing of that bill?

A. In a clerical capacity, yes, I assisted Mr. Harding, Mr. Harding, Senior.

Q. How old are you?

A. Thirty-five.

Q. Did you file the original bill in the first suit, which was removed to this court?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And which was entitled "Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company" against certain defendants, being the first one of the two suits that we are talking about, did you file that as counsel?

A. B. Joyner.

A. Yes, Mr. Harding was not here at the time.

Q. You filed it as counsel?

A. Yes, as solicitor.

Q. Who was the complainant?

A. The Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company.

Q. Who drew that bill?

A. Mr. Ammen, and myself.

Q. Did you have that bill before you when you drew this second bill?

A. Mr. Harding drew it, the second bill, if your Honor please; I only acted in a clerical capacity.

Q. Did you do anything except loan your name as complainant's solicitor?

A. I think I did, yes.

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

248 The Court: Mr. Ammen, this is positively pathetic. What do you say to the question? What do you, a member of the bar, in this court, what do you say upon the question of institution of this second suit under these conditions, and after this injunctive order?

Mr. Ammen: Do you want to hear from me?

The Court: I say, what do you say?

Mr. Ammen: As I understand it, your Honor, I want to answer the best I can. This second bill—your Honor does not understand that Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, Mr. George F. Harding, Senior, Mr. George F. Harding, Junior, and myself and Mr. Joyner have been associated intimately for twenty years, and have been working together, we confer together very freely and we did in this entire matter. This bill which appears to be so suspicious in the changes on its face is capable of a perfectly fair and honest explanation. It was contemplated by myself—Mr. Joyner and I have always worked together—it was contemplated that this first suit its defendants having raised this question about capital stock, about the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company holding this stock and bringing this suit, it was contemplated in view of these questions being raised, that if this court would permit us to dismiss that bill, in view of that expectation—

The Court: What do you mean by "us"?

Mr. Ammen: All of us. If you want me to—

The Court: I do not want anything but the facts, that is all I want to know now.

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

Mr. Ammen: I mean, Mr. Harding, Senior, Mr. Harding, Junior, Mr. Joyner, and myself.

The Court: You four gentlemen discussed that question, did you?

Mr. Ammen: We discussed it, Mr. Harding, Junior, was not present at any of those conferences that I know of, but between us, Mr. Harding, Mr. Joyner representing Mr. Harding, I being associated with them, I representing the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, it was contemplated that the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company's suit would be dismissed; so this bill in the—I did not have anything to do with the printing of this second bill.

249 The Court: You say it was contemplated. You mean there were conferences at which it was agreed it should be dismissed?

Mr. Ammen: We expected it would be dismissed.

The Court: By whom?

Mr. Ammen: By the Court.

The Court: You were going to ask the dismissal of this first suit?

Mr. Ammen: Yes, Mr. Harding, Senior, myself and Mr. Joyner contemplated that.

The Court: Was Harding, Senior, a party to that litigation?

Mr. Ammen: No.

The Court: How did he expect to get it dismissed?

Mr. Ammen: He was an attorney at this bar.

The Court: Was he attorney in this litigation?

Mr. Ammen: No, he is a friend—

The Court: When did Mr. George F. Harding, Senior, have anything to do with the original litigation, either directly or indirectly or indirectly?

Mr. Ammen: I understand through correspondence between himself and his son, Mr. Harding giving his son such suggestions as he could regarding the first bill filed, but Mr. Harding was not in this country at that time nor for some time afterwards. They contemplated that this suit would be dismissed, as I understood them. Now I did not have anything to do with the printing of this second bill. Mr. Harding is an old lawyer, and knowing these facts, drew this second bill; and I was informed by Mr. Harding and Mr. Joyner both, that it was the expectation that that bill would be filed in the name of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company in the Circuit Court of Cook County after a dismissal of this first suit here. It was contemplated that this first suit would be dismissed by an order of this court. For some reasons which I do not understand myself, and never did, it was decided by them that there would be no further attempt to dismiss this bill here, so that that printed bill was changed and adopted with considerable changes and reprinting of first pages and reprinting of last pages and some 250 changes through the center, and there was a bill then filed by George F. Harding, in the State Court. The fact that this erasure occurs, that is the complete explanation as far as I understood, it was intended originally to file it in the name of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company after a dismissal of the first suit, but in view of this question being raised as to its right to bring such a suit, Mr. Harding says, he says, Mr. Harding as I understand then intended to go into the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company suit, but he decided to file an independent bill, and that is the reason for the change.

evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

The Court: Who is the complainant in this last?

Mr. Ammen: George F. Harding, alone.

The Court: Who was in the other?

Mr. Ammen: The Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, alone.

The Court: Is the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company in control of the plaintiff of this last suit?

Mr. Ammen: Mr. Harding is acting in an advisory capacity.

The Court: How did the complainant in this second suit expect to use the name of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company in this second suit, in case the former should be dismissed?

Mr. Ammen: Mr. Harding acted in an advisory capacity, but is not interested in the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company. The father and son are as intimate as it is possible for people to be.

The Court: I should say so.

Mr. Ammen: And the father in his advisory capacity talked freely; there was no concealment by either from the other. If there are any other facts, Mr. George F. Harding, Senior, is here and will testify or make any statement as to facts. If there has been any conflict or any violation of any order of the court, I want to repeat we never heard it intimated that we were to come in here before your Honor on such a question; this petition did not hint at anything of the sort, this motion was that the plaintiff, or Mr. Harding, or the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, were to answer this rule and that is the proposition we were prepared to meet and disprove; and so far as these gentlemen are concerned, they are associated through counsel but in a friendly way, and not a collusive way.

The Court: (Addressing George F. Harding Sr.) Have you anything you want to say, Mr. Harding?

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

GEORGE F. HARDING, Senior, in reply to the Court thereupon stated, as follows:

Statement of
George F.
Harding, Sr.

I have. I would like to be examined in any way you please. I spent two months preparing that bill for myself, and my stock has nothing to do with the other concern. I was abroad when the former bill was filed. I declined to go into it. I knew no reason why I should. I had nothing to do in the case which was first brought, I was abroad in France, I was sick, absent, and was not in America, when that bill was filed. I do not understand what I have to do with it and I have committed no offense. I was not in with anybody, no other person, I am alone in that; in the second suit, it was my stock and my bill. How it was drawn originally, it was drawn for me, and I do not understand what possible conflict there can be any more than there can be a conflict between two men entirely removed. I have not been connected with the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company for many years. The gentleman asserts I have. It isn't true. I have not any stock. My son is president of the company, and the stock is held by other people. I cannot understand what I have to do with it. We all have claims against the Standard Oil Company and I was invited to go in with the stockholders who were consolidated together, I had a claim but I would not go in with them, no, I would stand on my own feet. I preferred to go to some other court and have my rights adjudicated.

The Court: This question has not been raised by your adversary; it has been raised by the court.

Mr. Harding: It is perfectly new to me; I don't know what I have to do with it, unless I am not a free man to file a bill or not as I choose. We are dead in earnest and all independent stock, and we are only a part of the people that have got stock. Others have got stock also, and there is no question about my right, as I see it, to file an independent bill.

George F.
Harding, Sr.

252 Now, about the bill, it was printed originally with a totally different view and printed with something else in view. When we got this notice we thought he intended to dismiss his bill, to dismiss this Chicago Real Estate bill and later on this bill was changed and revised. Now we have been acting in this matter in perfect good faith and without any idea of coming in conflict with this court.

253 The Court: What is the application here?

Mr. Mayer: The application, your Honor, is for a rule to be made absolute and complete, to make the injunction permanent, to compel the dismissal of the suit in the state court and for such further action as the court thinks best to avoid any sneaking attempts to avoid your Honor's first order.

I want to say a word or two, and without any heat or passion. There has been an exhibition before your Honor during the last thirty minutes that I hope is new to this court. It is far from me to condemn the character of a man on whose head there is gray hair and who has been so long a member of this bar. All of these four parties, your Honor, are lawyers. The oldest of the four passes under that title and is a member of the bar of this state and has been for a good many years. Mr. Ammen is a lawyer, Mr. Joyner is a lawyer and I thought the son was a lawyer. I may be in error as to that. I do not mean by saying that they are lawyers that Mr. Harding is a lawyer in the sense in which your Honor would use the term, but he is admitted to the bar.

Now it is clear an effort was made to dismiss this first suit, in which they either failed or changed their minds, and it appears that Mr. Harding himself drew that second bill and that he waited two months to do it.

Mr. Harding: I did.

254 Mr. Mayer: And drew it in the name of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company.

Mr. Harding: I said exactly the contrary.

Mr. Mayer: It is entitled the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company—

Mr. Harding: That is untrue.

Mr. Mayer: And the bill was deliberately intended to carry out practices for which he stands condemned by the official report of the United States Supreme Court and when I say that, I base it on the decision of the Supreme Court.

Mr. Harding: I never heard that before in my life and I don't believe it.

Mr. Mayer: The purpose has been to use that as a cloak to cover the purpose for which this bill was started by Mr. Ammen and Mr. Joyner and by the eldest of the four and is a confession that they expected to get out of this court. They deliberately scratched out of the second bill the allegation of the Federal law, and they deliberately offend and insult the jurisprudence of the United States and its courts by deliberately saying we do not want any help from them, lie upon your jurisdiction and your law, deliberately saying we do not want any assistance. If that is not an effort to get away from your Honor's injunction, there has never been one made.

I think the example should be made of these men and particularly of the eldest Harding.

255 Mr. Harding: If anybody has offended, I am the man.

Mr. Mayer: And that your Honor shall enter an order just as Judge Kohlsaas did in another case where a similar attempt was made, only it was made as appears honestly, by Mr. Eddy—not A. D. but A. J.—through inadvertence. A bill was filed when they were arguing a case before Judge Kohlsaas, and it was thought that Judge Kohlsaas was going to sustain their position, and Mr. Eddy had prepared a bill, and his office had filed it, thinking he was going to get a favorable decision by the Federal Court to which we had remanded the case, and that he would obtain prior jurisdiction by filing his bill first in the State court, and against the bill we filed before Judge Jenkins and Judge Kohlsaas entered this order; and he purged himself of contempt by showing, and we conceded that Mr. Eddy, that that bill was filed in the State Court that his office filed it in excess of diligence, thinking this bill we were arguing would be dismissed, and notwithstanding, Judge Kohlsaas entered an order—

Mr. Ammen: The plaintiff was the same

Mr. Mayer: No, sir, different plaintiffs, different parties, but the same relief and that was on a cross bill that we filed. Now in another case—

Mr. Harding: Has this petition and answer been read?

Mr. Mayer: The court has read the answer.

6 and the contents of the petition has been stated to your honor.

Statement of
George F.
Harding, Sr.

Mr. Ammen: I would like your Honor to look at the petition.

Mr. Mayer: If it pleases your Honor, if there were no hint at all, the court can sua sponte, make an example of this disgusting, unprofessional and disreputable method of endeavoring to avoid the order of the court, and every explanation that is advanced emphasizes the offense.

Now I am perfectly willing to take the statement of Mr. Ammen and take the statement of Mr. Joyner precisely for what they give it. What do they show in their statements? They filed first a bill in the name of the Real Estate Company with the name of the president of the Company George F. Harding, Junior, the son of the eldest of the four parties; that after they had made an effort to get the case out of this court, they proceed to file a second bill and it has been stated that the first bill was filed after correspondence with the old man. He says he was abroad. Mr. Joyner or Mr. Ammen stated that they had correspondence with him, so as to get his full advice as to the kind of bill to draw. They sent the first bill that Mr. Harding had drawn against these parties, say they conferred with him while he was abroad. He therefore 257 knew this first bill was being drawn and filed, and when he himself comes back he devotes two months to drawing a similar bill, and Mr. Ammen states they had the first bill before them, that they eliminated some here, added some there, took out a page or two from the middle and substituted a page or two therefor, and used the bill as the frame work of the second, and that was drawn in the name of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company. And I have a suspicion though I do not state it as a fact, that the very change of the title which appears on the flyleaf is in the handwriting of the old man. That is my understanding.

Mr. Harding: Why it is undoubtedly. I drew everything in this bill, including taking the printed matter and changing it to fit the State court, yes.

Mr. Mayer: We are asking a rule against Mr. Joyner, and if it appears on the record that you are responsible, we want a rule against you. Now it is a fact the old man has not been practicing, has not been a practicing member of the bar, but he has been admitted to the bar for some forty or fifty years and that he himself did this very act. There is Mr. Joyner and Joyner says he acted in a clerical capacity. What does the fact show? The four are together, their offices are together, for twenty years they have been co-operating and joining in their various cases and the commission or omission of this kind of a bill was drawn deliberately.

Statement of
George F.
Harding, Sr.

258 Mr. Harding: Why certainly.

Mr. Mayer: For the purpose of getting out of your jurisdiction, and there is stricken out of the bill evidently in the handwriting of the old man, the words as shown here (indicating.)

Mr. Harding: Certainly.

Mr. Mayer: He drew another bill striking out the allegations by which that first bill was removed to this court and endeavoring to defeat your jurisdiction and violate both the letter and the spirit of your restraining order.

Now we submit the order to dismiss goes of course but that there should be some example made and that the rule should be extended so as to include the old man because he is the most guilty violator, and with his experience of 75 or 80 years, his conduct is characterized as I have indicated, in the 198, in language that cannot be mistaken.

Mr. Harding: There is not a word about it in the volume.

Mr. Mayer: Now, about the Corn Products, I asked the court to read the case in the 198 U. S. ....

Mr. Harding: Now a word in it.

Mr. Mayer: To show how the Supreme Court regard the character of this offender.

Mr. Harding: There wasn't a word said against me 259 in it.

Mr. Mayer: Now we ask your honor that some sort of punishment be meted out. To Mr. Joyner, if I may suggest it a fine; because I think that he is the least offensive of the offenders, but as to the old offender, there ought to be a rule to show cause why he should not be sentenced to a few days imprisonment. Only in that way can that great respect which we all have, and which must be maintained to preserve this government, for the Federal Courts at least be preserved; and and I think in my own recollection, in my own experience in a matter, if I am not mistaken, in which this same old offender was indirectly a party before Judge Blodgett, where Judge Barnum was interested and one of the attorneys, where certain papers had been secreted and lost, taken from a safe which the Federal Court thought it had jurisdiction of, I refer to a will case where a man named Hill was either plaintiff or defendant—

Mr. Harding: I don't know of the case at all.

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

Mr. Mayer: Now we urge your Honor that some definite example be made of such conduct as this.

260 Mr. Ammen: This motion and petition upon which this rule was obtained, does not hint at any violation of the former order of this court. It sets up that the plaintiffs are the same, that we are working under cover. That is the issue that we came here prepared to meet. That is the averment we are here prepared to disprove. As to our having committed a contempt of this court in violating its former order, we have had no opportunity to meet that issue. We will meet it, we will certainly show, if it appears that there was a violation of that order, we will show by the plainest possible proof, conclusive proof, that it was entirely beyond our purpose or intent to put ourselves in contempt of this court or toward this court in any way.

The Court: When can you make that showing.

Mr. Ammen: Within a short day.

The Court: Tomorrow morning?

Mr. Ammen: We are ready to show conclusively to this court that the idea of avoiding the former order, the idea of going beyond the former order, much less the idea of violating it, the idea of evasion in any way, direct or indirect, of the former order, did not occur to any of us.

The Court: I will have to draw my own conclusions of what the former order means. Were you counsel for that trust company in the first suit, Mr. Ammen?

Mr. Ammen: No. I have always been employed by Mr. Harding.

The Court: In connection with that suit, were you?

Mr. Ammen: I am attorney of record in that suit; I am not however attorney in the second suit.

The Court: Not the attorney of record?

Mr. Ammen: I don't know that I am attorney at all.

The Court: Who did you represent?

Mr. Ammen: I, in the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company suit?

Mr. Ammen: Yes, sir.

Mr. Harding, Senior: I am not a party, I have not been served by any notice, never have been served with any injunction, I have never seen any paper in any case, I am asked to come in here and explain something. It was not even suggested there could be a contempt. I may say I have been fifty or sixty years a lawyer and I don't know now what the suit is about, nor do I know what the real order was because there was no notice given to me and I know nothing about it.

The Court: Do you now represent for the purposes we are discussing, these three other gentlemen?

Mr. Ammen: Yes, your honor.

The Court: Let an order be entered on these four gentlemen to show cause tomorrow morning at ten o'clock why they should not be adjudged in contempt.

Mr. Harding: Will your Honor advise me one moment—

The Court: I say in contempt, I will hear that tomorrow.

Mr. Mayer: Will your Honor enter an order?

The Court: I will dispose of the entire matter tomorrow.

Mr. Ammen: I would like to have this rule, as I understand it, it is to show cause why we should not be adjudged in contempt for violating the former order.

The Court: Yes, that is it. There ought to be no difficulty in drawing that order. The clerk can do it; he has done it before.

Adjourned to ten A. M., the following day, Wednesday, November 13, 1907.

262 Wednesday, November 13, 1907, 10 A. M. Present the same as on yesterday, and said hearing continued as follows:

The answers filed this morning to the rule to show cause entered on yesterday, by George F. Harding, Sr., George F. Harding, Jr., William J. Ammen, and A. B. Joyner, under oath, were thereupon read to the Court, and each of the said answers on file herein is hereby referred to and made a part of this Certificate of Evidence, and a part of the record in this cause, the same as if here inserted in full.

263 Mr. Ammen: Now your Honor, I do not understand why opposing counsel have persisted in going outside of the record in this case. He has referred to opinions of the Supreme Court as though they were proof of facts, he has insinuated some misconduct by Mr. Harding in some proceeding before Judge Blodgett, without any proof. I do not understand why such tactics are adopted before this court. We have no objection to your Honor examining the opinions and other pleadings. We think they are wholly immaterial in this proceeding. We think they are wholly incompetent and immaterial in this proceeding, and there must be some ulterior motive in so persistently talking about them.

Mr. Harding: They don't exist at all.

264 Mr. Ammen: Now we understand ourselves, Mr. Harding Mr. Joyner and Mr. Harding, Junior, if this question of contempt, violation of the order had occurred to us at all, our understanding would have been then as it is now that this order is the ordinary order entered upon the removal of a cause from the state court, enjoining the complainant and his solicitors in that case from further prosecuting that case.

Now there is no need of our contending that it would not apply if colorable proceedings were filed in the same name. That is a proposition of law. It might not be a violation of the order. It might if the proof were clear that it was in fact another suit by the same complainant, in the interest of the same complainant. Why then, there might be some question; but that is not going to arise here. Here we have it affirmatively and clearly shown undisputed and indisputable, that this bill was filed by Mr. Harding as an independent stockholder in his own interest alone.

Now if it be true, as contended by Mr. Mayer, that all stockholders are bound to come into this suit, we do not understand it to be the law, in view of the differences in the former bill, particularly; but even if this is true, that is not a question of contempt, that is only a question of difference of legal rights and the rights to have a new suit instead of going 265 into this one; and that will arise on subsequent proceedings in the different cases, as to whether they should be heard together as one suit. They are all questions to be met and decided, but they do not involve any question of contempt. An explicit answer is made, denying in the most positive terms any intent to violate the order of the court, and we understand that is conclusive on the contempt proceeding. Your Honor will be familiar with the law on that, and we understand that to be the law.

Mr. Mayer: Let me take as premise for reply, that which was said last by counsel. Throughout this controversy I have been met with sweeping assertions from opposing counsel that the law is so and so and that "we have an abundant array of cases to support our positions." That method of generalization does not go down with me. I am from Missouri and want to see the cases; and I have experienced this for the third or fourth time in this court on the prior hearing on the motion to remand and in the State Court before Judge Honore.

Now his last statement is that it is the Federal and the State law, decided by numerous authorities, that where the answers unequivocally and positively and affirmatively show that there was no intent to commit contempt, that that is conclusive. That was the last statement, and I take it for my reply because it is applicable to what I have just indicated, these sworn assertions that such and such is the law, without support of authority produced in court are ineffectual with litigants of this character.

I hold in my hand a decision just fresh from the press, by the United States Supreme Court, in the 203, and it is the case of the United States against Ship, decided on December 30, 1906. I anticipated that that argument would be made when I heard the answers read, that the respondents had the highest regard and respect for this honorable court and for the individual who is presiding therein. I knew what was coming, that it would be followed by an unequivocal and absolute sworn denial of intent to violate the order of the court, and I sent for the 203 U. S. That case is historical. It was the case, your Honor, in which a negro in Tennessee had been tried and convicted of raping a white woman, in a state court. His counsel was denied the challenge of the array of panel; his counsel was denied the right by Tellerism to move for a new trial, arrest of judgment or for appeal; and some enlightened, broad gauge, manly lawyer in Tennessee had the courage to petition the Supreme Court of the United States for a habeas corpus on the ground that constitutional rights had been denied the benighted, ignorant negro who had been convicted and sentenced to death. The United States Circuit Judge denied the writ, and an appeal was prayed, 267 and Mr. Justice Hollan entered a stay, a restraining order to the sheriff of Tennessee—Hands off—and the night that stay was entered and knowledge had been brought home to the sheriff he conveniently absented from the jail, and a mob took possession and dragged the condemned negro from its portals and hung him to a tree.

The United States Supreme Court directed the law officer of the Government to file an application for contempt against the sheriff and his deputies, sous suponte, without being moved by any litigant. The litigant was dead. They directed the law officer to file a petition to have a rule issued, and to that rule all of the respondents swore that they had the highest respect for the Supreme Court, that they did not intend to violate its order, that they intended in every way to comply with it, that they had no intent to avoid its jurisdiction, nor avoid or violate its order; and they stood by very eminent counsel who had then been brought into the case to assist them, such as Mr. Judson Harmon, former Attorney General, and other members of the bar of that type; but the Supreme Court said that is no answer, that a denial of an intent, that an assertion of good faith, is not the law. They cited in support of their ruling not only their own a priori reasoning, but a large number of State authorities. I find among them none of Illinois. And they answer the contention that there was no intent by saying that such an answer could always deprive the court of the power to punish for contempt because the contemnor could always answer that he meant to abide by and not to avoid the Court's orders. And such, your Honor, has been the decision by this court in the teamsters cases, now pending on appeal in the Circuit Court of Appeals and that point was made also in that case. So much for the denial of an intent to violate the court's order.

Now, what are the facts? It has often been said by reviewing tribunals, as well as by nisi prius courts, that there are certain things that the common sense of the court will take notice of without proof and in the teeth of denial. What were the statements yesterday of counsel and of the respondents, and what are their answers to-day? That they were contemplating the filing of a supplemental bill for the real estate company, that a bill had been drawn, that it was in print, for the same complainant, and that when it was suggested that it might be filed for another complainant or that he might intervene in the case pending in this court, what was contemplated? What was discussed? Why, that they would dismiss that first bill; and one of the respondents states in his answer that he advised a dismissal and therefore a motion was made or served to dismiss. Thus there is a confession that counsel knew, that the respondents knew that while that first appeal was pending in this court a second suit should not be filed; that if a second suit should be filed, it should be filed in this forum as an amended or supplemental bill, and the bill which was filed in the State Superior Court shows on its face that it was drawn to be filed by the complainant, the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company. Is that all? It is true that these gentlemen wanted to remain in this jurisdiction? Do not these answers state that to remain in this jurisdiction would prevent the taking of testimony until issues were joined and reference had to a Master, and that therefore, they preferred to remain in a jurisdiction where they pretend they could take testimony forthwith, and it is stated that on November 4 Judge Calhoun and Joy Morton were in contempt for refusing to obey the order to testify.

The facts are, your Honor, that the bill was filed on October 19, the amended bill on October 25, and they immediately gave notice to take testimony before a Notary Public who issued subpoenas returnable on November 4, which was the appearance day in the State Court. No order of court to take testimony, no issue, nobody in court, no summons served, no answers, no appearance, no plea, but a bill filed on October 19th and amended on October 25, and notice served to take testimony before a Notary Public immediately in his office 270 before any issue before anybody was in court, and to take testimony of Judge Calhoun, Joy Morton and a third person, all of whom are defendants to the bill, and to take their testimony on the very day that the state rules of court required them to appear.

It is true that on November 4th application was made to this court for an injunction, and it is true that no notice was given; and none ever will be given of such applications, it was a restraining order to stay the hands of such conduct. So much for the subpoenas.

Now the record in this case shows that they discussed for days and days and months this litigation and yesterday the statement of the eldest of the four was that while he was abroad he had had several months of correspondence with reference to the filing of the first bill and gave advice. It is suggested that the only relation between father and son were those of father and son, that the father is not the attorney for the son, that the son is not the client of the father.

Your Honor knows the story of the Duke who was also a priest of the high church. Your Honor knows how as the duke he led a most profane and immoral life. Possibly not resorting to the courts for divorce, possibly not being sued on the ground of adultery, though leading a most profane and licentious life, his name does not appear in the 198 U. S.

as Haring against Harding, but as a high priest he led 271 a most exemplary life; and when some one of his church admirers took him to task for that duplicity and he said that when he was immoral and licentious, it was as the duke and not as a bishop, the parishioner said "Reverend father, tell me, what will become of the bishop when the devil takes hold of the duke?" And that is this case. This thimble rigging, this shifting, this chasing to and fro is no answer to the conceded facts that it was contemplated to file a bill to get outside of your jurisdiction.

Do you want any more proof? The second bill filed on its face has eliminated the Federal question from the bill and contains the affirmative allegation, for fear your Honor or the Federal Court may come to the relief of these frightfully, outraged complainants, the Hardings, in that tremendously desperate conflict between the poor downtrodden George F. Harding and the tremendous octopus the Standard Oil Company, for fear your Honor might want to protect them against the outrages conspiracies and dominations and violence of the Standard Oil Company, they say to your Honor: "Please keep your hands off"—we expressly say to you: "We don't want any relief from you; we expressly notify you—Hands off." "But our orator expressly disclaims any right to any relief whatever under this bill and in this cause except under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Illinois alone, and hereby disclaims that he desires and seeks any decree whatever against said defendants to which he is not entitled under the state laws. "Why is that put in? What is there about the Federal law that is poisonous? What is there to the Federal law, where lies this poisoned sting, this anguis in herba? Why necessary to say to this court, "We do not want any assistance from you, we disclaim any right under the Federal statute, and we say we do not want you to assist us?" Why was that put in? Was that put in to have a parallel case by a separate and distinct and independent stockholder? Or was it to get rid of your jurisdiction? What has been the conduct of the parties in this case? First a motion to remand. Perfectly proper, their constitutional right, to get out of this court if the court has no jurisdiction. The motion to remand is argued; it is overruled, and the court retained jurisdiction, and the court entered a restraining order. That was on June 8. Fearful that they would try and violate your Honor's jurisdiction, we filed a cross-bill on June 14th by leave of court.

First a motion to remand overruled. There was unwillingness to remain in this forum. Then we filed a cross-bill to prevent them from getting out of this forum because I anticipated a motion to dismiss. And then on October 2 served with a motion to dismiss.

Now let me say to your Honor—I did not say it before 273 —they made two motions to dismiss, we were served with two motions; I have them in my files; not on the same day by any means. Mr. Bangs, will you please turn to both motions whether—and I don't mean to intimate—it had anything to do, whether it was to bring the notice before a particular judge or at a particular time, I don't know and I don't care, but they served us with two notices and I have them here. One is October 1st to Moran, Mayer & Meyer, it was addressed to my firm and to Mr. Sheehan, solicitor for defendants and cross-complainants; "You are hereby notified that on Tuesday, October 1st, 1907, at 2 P. M. we will apply to Judge Bethea, for leave to dismiss the bill of complaint." That is October 1st.

Another notice followed, dated October 2nd, addressed to my firm and to Mr. Sheehan, notifying that on Wednesday, October 2nd, at 10 A. M. "We shall before his Honor Judge Kohlsaas move to dismiss."

Now why were these two motions to dismiss given? Were they satisfied to remain within this forum and in its jurisdiction? No. They wanted to dismiss their bill.

Now take these facts: Motion to remand overruled; two notices endeavoring to get out of your jurisdiction, to dismiss—mind you, the cross-bill was filed months before this notice, June 14th, three months, four months nearly. Then the various conferences and co-operative work with a view to getting the bill supplemented or amended, and then to getting a bill in the State Court with a positive declaration that they do not want this court to inquire into their case, that they do not want your Honor's relief. Now I say to your Honor this is a palpable, open, unequivocal attempt to avoid your order.

Now let me be charitable, let me be charitable and I will be; let me concede that there was no attempt to affirmatively offend the jurisdiction of this court. Let me concede it. The purpose which these respondents sought to attain was to get away from this court.

Now wherein does the contempt consist? That they deliberately and openly and defiantly wanted to offensively disobey your order? No. But cunningly, schemingly, by trick, by device, by shadowy processes, by tortuous methods they devise a scheme which though violating the order to the spirit would comply with it in the letter. Now that is what they have done.

Another suggestion: Why did the eldest, the senior of the four, he who has practiced—or rather who has been by certificate authorized to practice for fifty years or more—

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

Mr. Harding: Sixty, sixty; you better put it right once in your statements.

Mr. Mayer:—this insulting individual to whom 275 experience and gray hairs have added no wisdom, integrity or probity, undertakes to draw a bill which will give him the relief sought in the first bill, but he is going to make some new defendants parties, and he is going to make himself complainant. Why? The first bill on file in this court if it should have jurisdiction is, as I have indicated, a bill on behalf of all stockholders, a bill whose prayer, your Honor, seeks absolutely the relief that this bill seeks. It is true that the venom of the oldest offender did abound more in the second than it did in the first; it is true there are more epithets in the second than in the first, it is true that the name Standard Oil Company is repeated with nauseating emphasis, more evident in the second than in the first bill, but, your Honor, the first bill is filed by a stockholder on behalf of himself and all others, to wind up his company, to appoint a receiver, to reorganize its effects, and to throttle the Standard Oil Company, to prevent it from interfering with the outraged rights of the innocent and inoffensive complainant in that case.

Now the second bill is precisely the same excepting that instead of designating the "Standard Oil crowd"—and your Honor can perceive with what offensiveness and legal acumen these bills are drawn—the corporate entity is called "the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey;" both bills seeking to protect this offended and outraged Harding against the 276 majority of the stockholders of the Standard Oil Company crowd," but in the second case endeavoring to get away from your jurisdiction in violation of your injunction and restraining order. We say a contempt has been committed, we say that the facts conceal a violation of the order and that the only response made is: "We did not intend it, we did not regard your injunctive order as being violated by our proceeding." "When I was corresponding from France" says the eldest Harding, "I was advising the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company; and when I came back and drew the second bill I was advising merely myself, acting as my own attorney. I was in France when the first bill was drawn by George F. Harding, Jr., my son, the president of the company, and Mr. Ammen, his attorney." In the case which I have, which I have your Honor

evidence, filed
April 30, 1906.

in a book, I refer to the Merrit case there was an associate federal tribunal where a second bill was merely sworn to by the same person who swore to the first bill. Not even signed by the same solicitor, but merely sworn to by a different solicitor, one bill being filed in a state court, a court having abundant jurisdiction, and a prior bill upon removal, the judge in that case said "This is a contempt of my injunctonal order, hands off," and ordered an instant dismissal.

There, your Honor, was a case signed by different solicitors, by different complainants, but merely sworn to 277 by a person who knew the facts in the first bill and knew the facts in the second bill and the court said that it was an administration for the identical purpose and of the identical interest, and a violation of the order.

Now I suggested yesterday to your Honor, and I repeat the suggestion now, as to Mr. Joyner it was my conviction then and my conviction has been strengthened today, that he is an innocent dupe, that his principal offense is stupidity and probably necessity, whose office is in their office, who has been used by them as their attorney or solicitor in this litigation and also in other litigations. Not a member of the bar of this court—not an offense, but indicative of the fact that his practice is circumscribed to the local tribunals, and that his practice is circumscribed, his clientele is small and circumscribed. In his necessities, it is my judgment that it is through ignorance and weakness that he has been used as a dupe and as a tool.

Now with reference to Mr. Ammen, who says he has been a member of the bar for twenty years of this court it is my judgment, your Honor, that his answer shows enough to indicate that he was not a party actively participating in the filing of that second bill. We have no evidence to contradict what Mr. Ammen says in his answer; we have no evidence to dispute his allegation that he did not know 278 of the filing of that second bill. But he does show that he knew that the second bill was in contemplation, that he himself was drawing a supplemental or amended bill; but I do not believe, in a case of this character where the evidence ought to be strong, that Mr. Ammen has violated to such a degree the order of this court that would justify any severe punishment, if any.

I think that Mr. Joyner had the actual knowledge, and that a small fine ought to be inflicted upon him.

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

But I think with reference to the eldest of the four defendants who is confessedly a fifty or sixty year practitioner, who says he drew this bill for himself, who says he knew of the first bill, who advised with reference to it, who, your Honor, is not merely a solicitor but a party in interest, the situation is different. He has neither the excuse of ignorance, of necessity nor innocence, and he came in here yesterday, your Honor will recall, and interrupted Mr. Ammen by saying: "I am the responsible party, if there is any responsible party. I did it" said Mr. Harding.

And to his son, I do not think the evidence shows that his son was a party to the filing of the second bill; but I think that the evidence shows that Mr. Joyner was not only a party but he signed it; that he acted as he stated in a clerical capacity. I am very sorry for him your Honor, 279 though I have contempt, I always have sorrow for a professional man who by necessity or by inexperience or by lack of proper environment is put in a position where he can be used by designing knaves; but as to the chief knave, he has no such excuse.

Now it has been suggested by Mr. Ammen that I have traveled out of the record. I have not, your Honor. In the petition which we filed we refer to those cases and we give the names of the parties and the pages, for the purpose of showing why the Real Estate Loan and Trust Company was used.

Now you will remember that yesterday George Harding, Junior, said that his father had not been president for many years, at least ten years, and then you will recall that he said a man named Kelloe, or something like that, I have forgotten the exact name now, was president; but now I find that George F. Harding has been president or connected with the company until within seven years.

Mr. Ammen: If it is material I can get the dates.

Mr. Harding: He is quoting statements and testimony here that are a series of false statements.

Mr. Mayer: Your Honor, I am taking the answer, which is supposed to have been drawn with a great deal of care.

Mr. Harding: But you are comparing it with something else that is not true.

280 Mr. Mayer: Your Honor has heard the statement from the lips of that individual, that this is not true, and we will hear it again before we get through. His answer however is that it is seven years.

Now why did we refer to this case? I would not travel out of the record one bit but the cases are referred to in the petition filed. You will remember your Honor yesterday saw a certified copy from the Secretary of State as to the change of the corporate name, and it was signed by George F. Harding, president in 1894. The litigation began in 1890. I am speaking from the book without reading the case, I am speaking from the books referred to in the petition, when he was sued for separate maintenance in the State Court; and his defense was there had been no desertion, and the reply was that his wife was living separate and apart from him because of his adultery.

From 1890 to 1893 that litigation proceeded. I am strictly confining myself, your Honor, to those cases as they are printed, and what I am now saying I am taking from the 198 U. S., Harding v. Harding. The wife contended that his life was licentious and adulterous and that therefore when she left him it was not desertion.

He litigated from 1890 to 1893, when he filed—

Mr. Harding: If your Honor please, I object to the whole statement as improper and immaterial. I am ready to discuss it if you wish to, but he does not read the statement tself, he doesn't read the case but simply is stating his inference.

The Court: I assume that it has something to do with the case.

Mr. Mayer: Yes, your Honor, it has.

Mr. Harding: I would like him to read anything that has anything to do with this motion.

Mr. Mayer: Your Honor, I am stating it accurately, without deviating one punctuation mark, the facts as stated by the United States Supreme Court in Harding v. Harding.

Mr. Harding: Did they say anything about this matter? Not one word.

Mr. Mayer: No, your Honor, the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company is not mentioned in that opinion, but it will not take me long to show the connection.

Mr. Harding: That is what your Honor says, show the connection.

Mr. Mayer: In 1893 he filed in that case in the State Court a document which is set out in haec verba in the Federal Supreme Court reports in which he said he now consents to a decree for maintenance and adds that he is offering to pay twice as much as his wife is entitled to. He was married in 1855. With a record of 52 years, the wife refused to accept.

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

Mr. Harding: I object. There is no pretense that the name is in there, or that there is any connection; it is just pure scandal. I must discuss it, of course, if your Honor requires it,—

Mr. Mayer: It is scandal, I regret to say you brought it into this case.

Mr. Harding: Well, I am no such liar as you are.

Mr. Mayer: Your Honor will perceive the character of the man I am dealing with.

The Court: I do not want to notice, but I will have to take notice if that kind of expression is used again in this case. I do not sit here and allow litigants or lawyers to call each other liars in this court.

Mr. Harding: Your Honor—

The Court: You will have a chance to leave, but under no circumstances do I want you or any other lawyer to call anybody in my presence a liar.

Mr. Harding: Very well.

Mr. Mayer: In 1893 there was filed the statement which I have indicated, and which is set out in the report, that his wife was unwilling to accept that settlement for fear it would leave on the record an inference there had been no decree in her favor for maintenance on the ground of desertion—

Mr. Ammen: If the court please, I object—

The Court: Let us get along; I do not know what the object is, I assume counsel does, and we have been twenty 283 minutes trying to get past this. If there is anything in it I will find it out very shortly.

Mr. Mayer: In 1893 or 1894 the State Court referred the case to a Master, and the litigation went through the Appellate Court twice or three times and to the Supreme Court twice. In 1904 he was President of the Real Estate Company and in 1893 this stipulation was filed by him. In 1896 a decree of alimony was rendered.

Thereupon he moved to California, and there filed a bill for divorce. Now the next thing was the attempt of the wife to get her alimony. I think there were three appeals to the Appellate Court and two to the Supreme Court after this first litigation. Then he moved to California and there sued his wife for divorce on the ground for desertion. The California Court gave him a decree, and it was taken to the United States Supreme Court and reversed on the ground that the California Court had violated the Constitution of the United States. That is the exact language of the Supreme Court:

"This being the case it follows that the Supreme Court of California in affirming the judgment of divorce failed to give to the decree of the Illinois Court the due faith and credit to which it was entitled, and thereby violated the Constitution of the United States."

In other words, he endeavored to use in the California case as a ground of divorce, the desertion which was the very ground upon which the wife had based her bill in Illinois, justifying the separation on the ground of his conduct, and secured a decree.

Now I say these dates fit in with what this record shows Young Harding told your Honor yesterday that he bought the stock of his father. I have no doubt if we came to a close investigation of that question we would find out where young Harding got his money with which he bought from his father the stock and if we were to search into the evidence given in the separate maintenance suit, there would be disclosures which would undoubtedly show that the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, of which George F. Harding Sr. was the President, of which his son is now President and of which his other son Abner C. Harding is director, is Mr. George F. Harding in disguise. That is my contention, that it is the alter ego, it is the alias of George F. Harding.

Now we submit urgently, your Honor, that the conduct of Harding Senior justifies the infliction of a substantial punishment.

That as to George F. Harding, Junior, there ought to be no punishment because I do not think the record convicts him.

There ought to be some fine against Mr. Joyner because he knowingly and of record is a party to the violation. (Here follows argument of Mr. Mayer on the legal power and right of the court to enjoin the prosecution of the second suit.)

Thereupon the Court took the said matters involved in the said hearing as above shown under advisement.

The court further certifies that he it received in Indianapolis, while holding the Federal Court there, on or about November 21st or November 22nd, 1907, leave thereto having previously been given, a memorandum brief entitled, "Points submitted by George F. Harding, Sr.," and also containing this notation: "Note: The brief of Mr. Ammen, on behalf of all respondents, is submitted under separate cover," and that said brief of George F. Harding, Sr., was accompanied by the brief of William J. Ammen, which was entitled, "Brief for Respondents," and bore this notation: "The suggestions of George F. Harding, Sr. are submitted under separate cover."

The court further certifies that at that time he had under advisement said motion for an injunction and also the rule to show cause, which was entered of the court's own motion.

The court further certifies that in said brief of said George F. Harding, Sr. he took, among other positions, the position that "the plaintiff cannot hold the stock described and cannot enforce any rights under it or prosecute this case."

The court further certifies that at that time said William J. Ammen, the then solicitor of record of said complainant, had in open court taken the position and made the argument that said complainant could hold the stock described in the bill and could enforce its rights under said bill and could prosecute said case.

286 The court further certifies, at the request of George F. Harding, Sr., and William J. Ammen, that after the court had heard the arguments upon and taken under advisement the motion for an injunction herein, and which motion is covered by the injunctional order entered herein on December 13, 1907, and some time after December 1, 1907 but before December 13, 1907 said George F. Harding, Sr. and William J. Ammen inquired of Kenesaw M. Landis, the Judge of this Court after he had adjourned court for the day, whether he, the court, would hear a motion to remand to the State court the cause entitled George F. Harding Sr., v. Standard Oil Company, et al, a copy of the bill in which cause is a part of this certificate of evidence; that no notice was served upon or given to any of the defendants, or their solicitors of said matter, and none of the defendants and none of their solicitors was present at the time, or had any knowledge or information about the same; the court then and there said to said George F. Harding, Sr. and William J. Ammen that they should serve notice upon the solicitors of the defendants of what said Harding and Ammen desired to present to the court, and that within a few minutes thereafter the court, after reflecting upon the matter, directed the deputy clerk of this court to telephone to said Harding and Ammen that the court deemed it the proper thing to do to postpone any hearing or action in the matter about which said Harding and Ammen had spoken to him, as aforesaid, until the court had disposed of the said motion for an injunction which the court then had under advisement.

The court further certifies that the deputy clerk of this court did so telephone to said Harding and Ammen, and 287 that at no time did said Harding and Ammen, or either of them or any one on behalf of said George F. Harding, Sr., submit or present to this court a motion to remand said cause, except the motion to remand said cause which was ever presented to this court or filed in said cause is the motion to remand filed in said cause in the Clerk's office of this court on December 23, 1907, and not until December 26, 1907, was said motion to remand brought to the attention of the court.

288 And afterwards, namely, on December 13, 1907, again came the same parties and the Court orally announced its decision, as follows, and the following proceedings were had, namely :

The Court: In the matter of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company versus the Corn Products Company, and others, and in the case of George F. Harding versus the Standard Oil Company, and others; the first being a bill originally filed in the Circuit Court of Cook County on the twentieth day of May, and removed to this court; and the second being a bill filed in the Superior Court of Cook County on the seventh day of October, filed in this court on presentation of transcript of record of the State Court docketed here, in which first suit there are pending a motion for stay order against the prosecution of the second suit and motion to compel dismissal of the second suit by the plaintiff, and a certain matter of contempt, the rule having been entered by the court, of the court's own motion, on the hearing of the two first named motions. The facts in this situation appear to be that during the time preceding the filing of what I would call the first bill, being the Chicago Real Estate Loan and Trust Company bill, there was a negotiation or conference between certain gentlemen interested in the second bill and in the first bill, respecting the filing of a suit to bring about a re-organization of the Corn Products Company. At that time there were two holders of the shares of that corporation, which is a New Jersey corporation; one of the holders of these shares was the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, whose president was George F. Harding, Jr. Another holder was George F. Harding, individually, the father of the president of the Real Estate Company.

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

The first bill was finally filed in the name of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company. After conferences, as I say, between the president of that company, rather between his counsel and himself and his father, then in Paris, the conferences being conducted by mail with the father who was absent, as a result of these conferences, finally the bill was filed. It was removed to this court, on the ground that 289 there was adversity of citizenship, and on the ground there was a separate controversy, and a federal question involved, the point being that the Sherman Anti-Trust law of the early nineties was necessarily involved in the litigation in the fixing of the rights of the parties. The court overruled the motion to remand the first case, mainly, as the court recalls on the ground last stated, namely, a federal controversy arising under the federal laws.

Shortly after these things happened, while this first case was pending in this court, the second bill was filed. After a motion had been filed in this court and notice to bring up the motion had been given by the plaintiff to the defendant in the first case in this court to dismiss that case, the second bill was drawn. The solicitor for the Chicago Real Estate Loan and Trust Company, complainant in the first suit, is the solicitor of record of the complainant in the second suit. The second suit, like the first, is a bill, which, among other things, seeks the injunction process of this court to a very broad extent, involving a great many other defendants in connection with the future existence of the Corn Products Company, which is the concern whose stock is the subject of the litigation in the first suit.

The second suit, like the first, also seeks the appointment of a Receiver—the winding up of the Corn Products Company, etc., etc.

The first suit contained a number of allegations to the effect that the defendants in that suit, corporations and individuals, had been intriguing and conspiring with what is called in the first bill, The Standard Crowd—the Standard Oil People. The Standard Oil Company is not a party defendant to the first bill. The second bill names as the first defendant, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, which is classed with the other defendants of the second bill individually, largely the same as the defendants in the first bill, as conspirers and intriguers in connection with a certain enterprise, the ultimate object and purpose of which was the wrecking of the Corn Products Company, and the absorption of its property by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and its co-defendants.

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908

It appears that the president of the Chicago Real Estate Loan and Trust Company had but little to do with the filing of the first bill. His attitude in respect to the first bill, as disclosed by his oral replies to the questions put by the court, is a strange attitude for the president of a corporation who has filed a bill of this character.

The admission by Mr. Joyner, solicitor for the complainants in both bills, in substance, is that the second bill, which was originally drafted to be filed in the name of the Chicago Real Estate Loan and Trust Company, was drawn without the knowledge of the president of the Chicago Real Estate Loan and Trust Company; although the specific reply of Mr. Joyner, when the court asked certain questions here on the different arguments, was, that the matter had been talked over between Mr. Ammen, and Mr. George F. Harding, Sr., and Mr. Joyner, counsel for complainant in both bills, and had been decided to file the second bill in the name of the Chicago Real Estate Loan and Trust Company, which, of course, taken with the statement of George F. Harding, Jr., that he knew nothing about the second proceeding, except a casual reference to it by his father, or his father's counsel, has a strong tendency to indicate that the interests behind the first suit were the interests behind the second suit, and that both suits are under the same control, and not independent suits. In other words, the conclusion is irresistible, to my mind, that the moving spirit behind the first suit is the moving spirit behind the second suit; and that the fact that the Chicago Real Estate Loan and Trust Company's name was rubbed out and an individual's was put in to the extent that this is, in effect, in the situation, serves only to confuse rather than to clarify and get at the facts.

There was an injunction issued in the first case against the further prosecution of that suit. That injunction ran against the plaintiff in that suit, and its officers, stockholders, directors, agents and attorneys.

The complainant named in the second bill was not specifically named in this injunction issued in the first suit; however, in the view which the court has taken of the identity of these two suits, the omission of mentioning the name of the complainant in the second suit can hardly be regarded as failing to cover the complainant in the second suit involved, as the complainant clearly appears to have been responsible for the institution of the first suit.

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

The court is clearly of the opinion on these facts, that there was a violation of that order of injunction. However, the court, of the court's own motion, will discharge that rule without the infliction of punishment on anybody. The court will perpetuate the order restraining the further prosecution of that suit, which order will be enlarged to include the complainant by name in the second suit, and in that position the litigation will remain until the further order of this court.

Mr. Mayer: In a similar case before Judge Kohlsaat there was a prayer of dismissal.

The Court: I have disposed of this matter. This extends now to that as a disposal and some order should be entered here.

Mr. Ammen: The second suit had been renewed after this motion was made.

The Court: The order of dismissal in the second suit?

Mr. Mayer: It is covered by the order.

The Court: I have intimated that this settles the case for the time being as to both suits; the order stands as to the second suit under like circumstances; I want to consider the question a little bit further before I enter the order. That may be taken up upon motion.

Mr. Ammen: The order which is to be entered now will be in the first suit.

Mr. Mayer: The order we will offer will be an order in the first suit perpetually enjoining the second suit.

The Court: I think it ought to be in the first suit.

Mr. Ammen: Will a copy of it be sent me?

The Court: Yes of course.

Mr. Harding: If your Honor please, the motion to remand, I desire to call your Honor's attention to the fact that we wish to argue and present this question at your earliest convenience.

The Court: This disposes of that question.

Mr. Harding: Without argument? I mean the question of remanding.

The Court: I shall of course dispose of the question on which the Court heard arguments at the last hearing till something is done under the order restraining the further prosecution of the suit, dispose of the motion to remand. In other words, the motion to remand is not in order now in view of what the Court has done in this litigation.

Mr. Harding: We will study on that. In the meantime, we want to make a motion to remand and ask your Honor to hear.

The Court: We will come to that after this order has been entered, unless it is modified, it will not permit the consideration of the motion which counsel now indicates.

Mr. Ammen: It is an endeavor to preserve the rights of the parties in the other case.

The Court: The order can be drawn. And you can communicate with your adversaries in regard to it.

Mr. Ammen: When will this be done?

Mr. Mayer: I am going to New York this afternoon and will be there through next week, will be away seven or eight days.

Mr. Harding: If your Honor please, we think this is an attempt on the part of the defendants to prevent this case being heard. We are, therefore, against all forms of further delay. We are going to seek a trial of this case as soon as possible; there is a great deal of money involved.

The Court: What will seven or eight days amount to in an important matter in connection with a litigation of this kind. This order for injunction will be presented by counsel a week from next Monday and counsel for the complainant and defendant will then be present at half past two.

Mr. Mayer: Without any notice?

The Court: Without any notice.

Mr. Harding: Now, will that prevent us from going ahead with our motions?

The Court: When the order is entered, you understand, there will be plenty of time to proceed with your motion, 293 so long as this order stands.

Mr. Ammen: We would like first to see the order to have a copy of it before we come in here.

The Court: Oh, certainly, it will be furnished you a week from Monday by your adversaries. You can come in the afternoon.

294 The court further certifies, at the request of George

F. Harding, Sr. and William J. Ammen, that after it had entered in said first suit the said order of injunction on December 13, 1907, the said George F. Harding, Sr. brought to the attention of this court said contemplated motion to remand in language as follows:

"Mr. Harding: If your Honor please, the motion to remand, I desire to call your Honor's attention to the fact that we wish to argue and present this question at your earliest convenience."

Upon which the court ruled that the motion to remand was not then in order in view of what this court had done in this litigation, viz: the entering of said injunction. To which said Harding replied:

"We will study on that. In the meantime we want to make a motion to remand and ask your Honor to hear it."

Adjourned to 2:30 P. M. Monday, December 23, 1907.

295 And, afterwards, namely, on December 23, 1907, at the hour of 2 o'clock P. M., again came the same parties, and thereupon the following proceedings were had:

Mr. Ammen: If the Court please Mr. Mayer had drafted an order to be entered in the case but did not furnish us with a copy of the same until 12:30 today, and I would like to have two or three days in which to furnish to him our draft of the order as we think it ought to be entered, if entered according to your Honors opinion, and we object to the order as prepared by Mr. Mayer.

It was thereupon agreed that Mr. Ammen would furnish to Mr. Mayer such draft of order on or before December 25, 1907, and that the parties should appear before the Court again at 10 A. M. on Thursday, December 26, 1907, with the view of having the terms of the order to be entered then settled by the Court.

And, afterwards, namely, on December 26, 1907, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., again came the said parties by their said solicitors, and thereupon proceedings were had in said cause as follows:

Mr. Ammen: If the Court please I have here a motion to dismiss the suit.

(Said motion is hereby referred to and made a part of this Certificate of Evidence.)

Mr. Mayer: I don't think this motion to dismiss the suit is going to supplant what your Honor has set for hearing this morning?

The Court: What is that motion?

Mr. Ammen: This is bringing up the motion that was filed October 1st.

The Court: That motion is denied, and complainant excepts.

Mr. Ammen: I have numbered that motion Number 1. I have here a series of four others, numbered, respectively, 2, 3, 4, and 5, which I desire to present in order. I have authorities here in support of these motions.

The Court: No, make your motions; I will rule on 296 the motions. I can take care of the motions in one minute.

Mr. Ammen: Number 2 is a motion by complainant without waiving its objection and exception to the Court's action in overruling its Motion No. 1, is a motion to dismiss the bill at the cost of the complainant. It leaves out the words "without prejudice", contained in Motion No. 1.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Ammen: Do you want to hear any authorities on it?

The Court: No, the situation of this litigation is such that the Court is familiar with it.

Mr. Ammen: The third motion states that it is made without waiving either one of the former two motions, and without waiving any of the objections or exceptions to the action of the Court in overruling such former motions, and this third motion is a motion by the plaintiff to dismiss the Bill of Complaint at its costs, without prejudice to right of cross-complainant to prosecute his cross-bill herein.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Ammen: The fourth, states that it is made without waiving either of the former three, and without waiving the objections or exceptions to the action of the Court in overruling the same, and this fourth motion is a motion to dismiss the bill of complaint as to all defendants thereto, excepting Joy Morton, at the cost of the plaintiff, without prejudice, and without prejudice to the right of said Morton to prosecute his cross-bill in this cause.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Ammen: The fifth, states that it is made without waiving either of the former four, and without waiving the objections or exceptions to the action of the Court in denying the same, and this fifth motion is a motion to dismiss the bill as to all the defendants except Joy Morton, at the cost of the plaintiff. In support of these several written motions, in order, I have here the affidavit of George F. Harding, Jr., the president of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, the plaintiff in this suit, setting up, in substance, the reasons for thus moving to dismiss the suit, including the good faith of the suit in the first place; the efforts heretofore made to dismiss it, and setting up the reasons and grounds for these motions to dismiss, and, in that connection, calling particular attention to the fact that the answer and cross-bill of Joy Morton attack the right of complainant to prosecute this suit on the ground that under the law it cannot hold stock in another corporation, and setting up that the president of the company, who makes the affidavit, is now advised and believes that it is doubtful whether the plaintiff can prosecute this suit, and, on that account together with the other reasons stated in the affidavit, the plaintiff wishes the suit dismissed and has directed accordingly. I would like to have this affidavit considered by the Court.

298 Mr. Mayer: I object to the filing of that affidavit, and I will give my reasons to the Court if the Court wants to hear them.

Mr. Ammen: I am merely asking to have it considered in support of these motions, and would like to read it, if your Honor desires to hear it.

Mr. Mayer: Are you through with your motions?

Mr. Ammen: Yes.

Mr. Mayer: Now, with your Honor's permission, I will answer. This is pure, naked trickery. On the 12th of November your Honor had a returnable rule, and you will remember, and the record will show, that they came in and said they did not have the answers to the rule ready, and your Honor gave them until November 13th. On November 13th the hearing ensued. Your Honor rendered the decision on December 3rd, I think, or 5th—I have forgotten the date—and after your Honor had announced your ruling,—but of course the order that your Honor will enter on that ruling 299 will be entered as of that date,—and when we came in here last Monday with the order for your Honor to enter, they said that they did not have time, that it was served upon them, which was true, between 12 and 1 o'clock, and that they wanted a short time to prepare their form, to conform their form with the order; and your Honor put it off until today, and said they should serve me with a copy.

Now, on yesterday, when I came to return from my Christmas dinner, I found in my room at the hotel one notice of motion, which was to dismiss without prejudice; and an affidavit of George F. Harding, Jr., as to why the motion to dismiss had not been pressed; and a draft of the proposed order. There have been here made five motions. Of one motion I had notice—I had notice yesterday afternoon.

But there has been committed on your record rank perjury, and I am going to show it your Honor in less than two minutes. In the affidavit which they now desire to file, of George F. Harding, Jr., he says that the motion to dismiss was filed on October 1st. That is true. It was filed without any leave of Court and without any order; and he states in that affidavit that the reason that he did not 300 press the motion to dismiss was, first, because Judge Be-thea was busy and refused to hear it, "because of that and other reasons". I use the language of the George F.

Harding affidavit. That then they wanted to go before Judge Kohlsaas, but, somehow or other, he was not in court that day. But the affidavit sets up that we agreed that we would appear in court without notice upon a telephone communication that they wished to call it up.

From October 1st until now nothing has been done about that motion to dismiss. The motion was not filed until December 23rd—I may have the exact date later on—and between the time that your Honor adjourned the entry of the order on the injunction and now, they slipped in that motion and the motion to remand.

Now, in George Harding's affidavit—

Mr. Ammen: The one I just offered.

Mr. Mayer: The one you just offered.

Mr. Ammen: Your Honor, now I object to his considering it unless it is received by the Court.

Mr. Mayer: I am objecting to its being filed because it puts rank perjury on the record. That is why I am objecting to it. George F. Harding, who makes this affidavit, president of the Real Estate Company—I want to read 301 just a few lines of it, and then I want to read a sworn answer that is one file, that went to the rule for contempt, and if your Honor does not pronounce rank perjury as having been committed in your court, it never has been and never can be committed; and the thing takes a much more serious aspect than a mere rule for filing an ordinary injunction.

Now, the affidavit of George F. Harding, Jr.,—which, by the way, your Honor, they have changed this morning and notified me that they have substituted a last page,—I am reading from the affidavit of which they served me with a copy yesterday afternoon. And if your Honor will indulge me, I would like to read substantially the pertinent parts of this curious and inoculating poisonous instrument:

"The undersigned, George F. Harding, Jr., in behalf of the complainant in the above entitled cause, and in support of the motion of the complainant". This is in the Chicago Real Estate case, your Honor. "Respectfully represents unto your Honor the following facts: That he, George F. Harding, Jr., was at the time of the beginning of the suit and ever the one before, and this gentleman boasted, you remember, that he had fixed it so that it could not be dismissed, that it must stay there. Then he sets up this sham, the sham of the old case as the reason why—

The Court: There is a very plain and easy way to disentangle this snarl, for the creation of which the Court has no possible responsibility, but which has been created by the parties themselves. That way is to reverse the order of this Court restraining the prosecution of the second suit.

Mr. Harding: We have given them our draft of the order to be entered.

The Court: You have no ordinary, conventional situation. It is not a case where the ordinary rules that control the complainant's right to dispose of his own bill obtain, and, as I say, it is a situation or predicament or entanglement for which the Court has no responsibility. The parties themselves have created it.

Mr. Harding: We come straightforwardly. We filed the first straightforwardly. The second bill was filed by that party who has a right to file it.

The Court: Why, I have passed on that question; I have heard all that, on the question of the propriety of that second bill.

Mr. Harding: We gave the other side the order that your Honor required we should give, corrected as we thought it should be corrected. Then we thought that this motion to dismiss this case, which we had made originally was the only way out of the trouble, the snarl, as stated by your Honor, and we have taken straightforwardly, the right, exercised the right, as every complainant has, to dismiss that case. Why not? I don't know why not? If we can't dismiss the case your Honor will know why. And can they hold us here? Can they put your Honor in collision with the Supreme Court of this state, who hold that the complainant in this case cannot maintain an action? There never was a case in this Court which gave this Court jurisdiction. Did your Honor consider that? I don't know that it was presented to your Honor.

The Court: Yes, it was presented.

306 Mr. Harding: Then your Honor has decided that the principles of the Supreme Court shall not be followed?

The Court: No. I have decided this: When five or six gentlemen get together and get up a lawsuit and bring it and it gets into my court, I will insist that it is their lawsuit and they cannot thereafter, when dissatisfied with the means they have deliberately employed to accomplish their purpose, to procure the relief they desire, they cannot thereafter, by the use of another name, in another court, complicate the situation which has been created by bringing the suit.

Mr. Harding: That, your Honor has decided. With all due respect, we stand by that. We have got the order prepared and submitted to the other side.

The Court: As long as that situation is in this court, that is the law of the situation. There is just one way to get it disentangled and that is to take it to the reviewing court.

Mr. Harding: Your Honor would not compel us—

The Court: I am not compelling you, Mr. Harding, to do anything.

Mr. Harding: This difference between your Honor and the Supreme Court of the state upon this proposition, that this corporation has no right to file this bill; that difference has led us to say, why the only course out, the only way for us is to dismiss the case. Is there anything against that?

Mr. Ammen: During the last several weeks this Fish-Harriman controversy has been on in the Superior Court, and the authorities have been collated and cited on both sides, as to the right of a corporation to hold stock in another corporation in this state. We have become very doubtful and are inclined to fear and believe that the law is against us on our right to hold this stock. Mr. Mayer's client has raised that question in this first case and says that this plaintiff cannot prosecute this suit because it is a corporation incapacitated to hold this stock.

Now, this affidavit sets up that in view of this situation, and on the belief that the law is probably against us on 307 that, that we are unwilling to further prosecute this suit, and therefore we move to dismiss this suit.

I have the authorities here, that where the defendants have not become entitled to some affirmative relief, either upon proof take nor upon a tender made by the bill, the original bill, and an answer accepting the tender, or something like that, that a motion to dismiss is in order and should be allowed, and it is an abuse of discretion not to do it. The authorities are absolutely uniform, including the Supreme Court of the United States. The mere danger of another suit is no objection at all to a motion to dismiss.

The Court: I am familiar with those authorities. No

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

sane man can have a quarrel with those authorities. The trouble is they have not anything to do with this situation.

Mr. Ammen: Unless the defendants have become entitled now to affirmative relief in this case—

The Court: I think if you will calmly sit down some day and take your first bill, which you gentlemen drew and filed with knowledge of the law of the land and a knowledge of the fact, and then take the proceedings under the first bill; then take your second bill, which you same gentlemen drew deliberately with the knowledge of the law of the land, and the same knowledge of the facts—

Mr. Harding: I didn't draw the first bill. I have not been in this country; it is two years now since.

The Court: —and then follow up the proceedings under that second bill, that you will then, if you examine the Supreme Court decisions that you have referred to, you will see how they do not, how they were not written by Justices who had in mind such a situation as this.

Mr. Ammen: In that view, we ask leave to read in evidence this affidavit of George F. Harding, Jr.

The Court: This order to restrain the prosecution of the second suit is of the 13th of December; the motions which subsequently follow are plainly out of order.

Mr. Ammen: They are made in the first suit, not in the second.

308 The Court: I understand that perfectly.

Mr. Harding: We should like to have your Honor advised by the affidavit of the facts touching our inability to get that hearing for a long time.

The Court: We went all through that prior to the entry of the order of December 13th.

The Court: Those motions have already been made. I ruled on the motion to remand in this case months ago.

Mr. Harding: In the first case, but I am talking about the second case. The motion to remand in the second case has been filed. You say it is substantially determined by your ruling in the other. That record don't contain any hearing on that point. If your Honor will kindly make an order upon that. We cannot get out of this Court until we get that refusal to remand.

The Court: The order restraining the prosecution of the second suit is of the 13th of December. I will allow the record to show these motions to dismiss the first suit made today. I will not allow the affidavit to be filed. You may save your point on that. I think it is unseasonable, it is entirely out of place now.

Mr. Ammen: This is an interlocutory order. We except to the Court's rulings and to the refusal to receive in evidence said affidavit of George F. Harding, Jr.

The Court: This order is of the 13th day of December.

Mr. Mayer: I have drafted the order.

Mr. Ammen: And we have drafted one.

Mr. Mayer: I object to their order in every form and every line.

Mr. Ammen: And we object to their order in every form and every line.

Mr. Mayer: Well, I have drawn that order following your decision, line for line.

Mr. Harding: The gentleman's order is very objectionable. It recites various things that are untrue, and here is the order as we have corrected it and noted it here. It is in exact accordance with your Honor's judgment and your Honor's opinion. The other is confusing and improper. It recites a variety of evidence presented and heard, and so on, and that is not proper in this order. Here was a rule to show cause. We appear. It is decided. Neither the rule nor the decision appear directly or distinctly. There was attachment for contempt and answer,—we present them both in our order,—and judgment upon it, I believe I gave your Honor the order that we drew.

The Court: (Reading) The Court finds that by the institution of said suit against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey— Is that what the Court found?

Mr. Harding: No, sir, nothing like that. The court stated that in its opinion it was clearly of the opinion from the facts stated to the Court, that the order of the injunction had been violated. It did not state by whom and whether knowingly or willfully.

The Court: Could there be any question about whether the Court meant, whether it was a conscious or unconscious violation?

Mr. Harding: Nothing stated.

The Court: Could there be any question what was in the Court's mind, whether it was conscious or unconscious?

Mr. Ammen: Mr. Mayer admitted on the record that I did not have anything to do with the second case?

Mr. Mayer: No, sir.

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

Mr. Harding: Your Honor will also pass upon the other motion, the motion to remand in the other case, of record.

The Court: The second case stands in whatever situation this order finds it.

Mr. Harding: We offered a motion to remand and filed it. We want that motion simply passed upon by your Honor.

The Court: The order of the Court in the first case restrains the parties from proceeding in any other case with this litigation; holds the first case in this court, until this order of injunction is reversed, in whatever posture the order finds the record in the first case. I don't care to go on and enter any other orders in the second case, on motion to remand, or any motions in the second case.

Mr. Harding: We want an order overruling it. We have filed the motion. We cannot take anything up. The cases are independent upon this record, except in the opinion of your Honor. We moved to remand long before the entry of this order, and now we only want an order upon that motion; if you say it is too late, or whatever you are pleased to say.

The Court: Did you ask me to remand before this Court came—

Mr. Harding: During the hearing.

The Court: While this matter was being heard—this motion in the first case was being heard?

315 Mr. Ammen: Yes, in this respect, I remember this one thing that occurred. We asked your Honor if we could give notice—

The Court: Afterwards.

Mr. Ammen: That was pending this hearing.

The Court: You came here after the matter had been submitted to the Court on this application.

Mr. Ammen: Yes, before the decision.

The Court: Yes, now the view of the Court in this matter is this, as I have indicated four or five times. The view of the Court is that this order restraining the parties from going on with the first case applies to the parties here and in the State court and anywhere, going on in the second case.

Mr. Ammen: In our draft of the order we asked that this be without prejudice to the motion to remand.

The Court: I won't enter that order.

Mr. Ammen: I merely want to call the Court's attention to that. After they got this injunction from Judge Kohl-suit and ruled us to show cause why this second suit should not be restrained, they removed the second case to this court. Now the view of your Honor is that although they took that step after they got that restraining order, we must leave it there. Are we not liable to be thus prejudiced in that suit?

The Court: Not if you read the order of injunction. The motion to take up these other matters may come along when this motion, when this order which the Court has entered has been modified under an order of the court authorized to give instructions to this Court.

Mr. Harding: Then we are locked up entirely until there is a hearing. Can't we move to dismiss in the first case?

Mr. Mayer: That has been overruled.

Mr. Ammen: Will this order state that we have objected and excepted to the terms of this present order just entered.

The Court: The record will show that.

Mr. Harding: It will show our several motions to dismiss.

The Court: You have made several motions.

Said several motions to dismiss filed herein are hereby referred to and made a part of this certificate of evidence.

316 Mr. Harding: And the motion to remand?

The Court: I have said at least a half dozen times that that motion to remand I would not hear. This order enjoining the parties in the first suit from prosecuting the second suit or going on with the second suit covers a motion to remand as plainly as it covers any other sort of a motion in the second case. Do you understand that proposition?

Mr. Harding: But who understands that in that record? If we take up the second case, the motion to remand is found there. There is no order made upon it and no order made in that case at all. Isn't it a very easy thing for your Honor to say that you have already overruled it, if—

The Court: My view of this situation is such that I don't think you have a right to be going on with these two suits at once, in the federal court and state court, or anywhere else.

Mr. Ammen: In order to prevent our being prejudiced ought not your Honor in this present order specifically to state, so that there can be no controversy, that it does enjoin our proceeding with the motion to remand.

The Court: If you desire it to specifically state that.

Mr. Ammen: We think that in order to protect us fully from our neglect or failure to push that motion—

Mr. Mayer: May it please your Honor—

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

Mr. Ammen: Now, let us see the good faith of this defendant.

The Court: We don't get anything by this constant talk of good faith or bad faith. To the extent that there is any good faith just trust the Court to see.

Mr. Mayer: The order which you have just entered is in the first suit. The motion to remand which was long since overruled—

Mr. Ammen: It is in the second suit.

Mr. Mayer: Will your Honor kindly prevent the repetition of any such tactics.

This present order is in the first suit and should be entered as of December 13th. There is no motion to remand pending in the first suit; that has been overruled long ago. The motion to remand in the second suit is here on file. You are not disposing of that motion, you are entering no order in the second suit.

The Court: I am entering an order in the first suit, that there shall not be even a motion to take up the motion to remand.

Mr. Harding: That is all right. I would only want your Honor to say so, otherwise Mr. Mayer will say there was no order.

Mr. Mayer: Well, I have been through practical experience with these gentlemen before, and you follow this case as it proceeds and see if I am right.

Mr. Ammen: All we want is to make sure that your Honor states in the order specifically what you hold.

The Court: I will do whatever Judge before whom it comes up the justice to assume that he will understand.

Mr. Harding: This order says nothing about the motion to remand.

Mr. Mayer: This present order is entered as of December 13th, Mr. Clerk.

The Court: December 13th.

And thereupon said respondents, severally, objected and excepted to the respective findings of the Court in the said order last above referred to, and to the entry of the said order, and the respective portions thereof, and the action of the Court in entering the same, or directing the entry thereof, and, particularly, to the action of the Court in directing the entry thereof to be made as of December 13, 1907.

And afterwards, namely, on Decemebr 27, 1907, again came the said parties, by their attorneys aforesaid, and thereupon the following proceedings were had:

Mr. Ammen: Your Honor, the clerk proposed to enter your order under the oral directions of the court as if it were actually entered of record on the 13th, not a nunc pro tunc order, and we found that it would cut off our appeal.

The Court: My attention was called to it.

318 Mr. Ammen: The petition for an allowance of time for the certificate of evidence was at a subsequent term and we thought, of course, it was not the intention of the court to cut off our chance to have the order reviewed.

The Court: Not at all.

Mr. Ammen: The certificate of evidence will, of course show the order of proceedings, when your Honor rendered your opinion, and whatever he decides and wishes to put in of that opinion; it will show order of the proceedings; it will show we presented our motion to dismiss.

The Court: Why not have the order entered as of December 13th, and an order of the same date giving you time.

Mr. Ammen: The statute requires us to perfect an appeal within thirty days.

The Court: Well, that given you thirteen days—there will be sixteen days yet.

(Here follows further argument by Mr. Mayer)

Mr. Ammen: We have now upon the record, as the clerk proposes to make it, an order of last term with an order of this term.

The Court: The clerk was directed by the court in open court to enter that order, as the Court ordered it entered.

Mr. Ammen: Wasn't that intended to be a nunc pro tunc order?

The Court: Not at all.

Mr. Ammen: Does your Honor think that by an oral direction to the clerk, that a clerk can enter an order as of a former term? Must not the court speak by its order?

The Court: At the time this matter was disposed of, the Court said to enter an order in a certain way as it then decided and when the order is prepared it is entered that way.

Mr. Ammen: Not nunc pro tunc.

The Court: Not at all.

Mr. Ammen: If that is true, would not our objections and exceptions and allowance of time for certificate of evidence,

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

would not that necessarily have to be of the same term?
319 The Court: I don't know anything about that. I will have to examine the question every time it comes before me. I presume you have looked it up?

Mr. Ammen: I have.

The Court: What authority have you?

Mr. Ammen: I understand there is no conflict of authorities that a certificate of evidence must be presented during the term, or within the time which the court fixes during the same term to present it. The Court must extend the time, but it must be done at the same term.

Mr. Mayer: Now, why am I insistent that this judgment should appear as of December 13th? Your Honor knows why. Because it antedates the notices that they gave of motions—five motions to dismiss, and why do we ask December 13th? Because that was the date of your judgment. Your decision was rendered on December 13th and if we had had the time, or possibly your Honor's minute clerk would have made the minute of your order, and, therefore, it is not an order nunc pro tunc; it is an order as of the date on the day when your Honor rendered the judgment.

Counsel say the term has run. They cannot be cut off from their right of appeal, if the order is appealable. Upon that they will hear something in the Court of Appeals, not here. I am not contesting any motion that your Honor is going to allow. Upon appeal upon that subject we may be heard in the Court of Appeals. Now, the 20 days run from December 13th, the date of the order and if the 20 days is not enough, I have no objection to making it 25 or 30. I am not standing here on time, and all that is necessary is that at the foot of your decree, as though asked yesterday—is the certificate of evidence 20 days or 30 days?

The Court: 30 days from the 13th—

Mr. Mayer: To the 13th of January.

The Court—will give you practically 20 days from yesterday.

Mr. Mayer: And then if that time is not adequate let them come in in the interim.

Mr. Ammen: The clerk, though—the special occasion of our being here—the clerk, Mr. Joyner informed me that 320 the clerk would not add that 20 days from that date for the certificate of evidence.

The Court: Yes, of course. There had not been anything said about 20 days.

Mr. Ammen: Only the same oral direction by which he was told to enter the other.

The Court: That is all right. The clerk when he refused to do that, he was all right, and he is a good clerk, because nothing was said on the 13th of December about a certificate of evidence.

Mr. Ammen: Now, I would like to have this record show your Honor, that we particularly object and except to dating this decree back to the 13th, unless it be done by a nunc pro tunc order, and then we will preserve an objection to that; and we say the Court has no power to do it by an oral direction to the clerk—that the Court must speak by its order, of record.

The Court: Yes. Your position would wipe out every order that has been entered in this court for 40 years; it would wipe out every judgment that has been entered in this court.

Mr. Ammen: I don't understand what your Honor means by that.

The Court: I mean, a judgment is entered today, but it is not written up for probably 6 weeks—

Mr. Ammen: That is not the question at all. I say that the opinion is not a judgment in this sense —

The Court: I thought there was no misunderstanding in anybody's mind from the language that I endeavored to use on the 13th of this month as to what the Court at that time found.

Mr. Ammen: My contention on that is that it should be a nunc pro tunc order. We don't want any question about our right to review this order.

The Court: You can't possibly be more anxious than this Court to have that order reviewed.

Mr. Ammen: I believe that.

The Court: Now, you can have your 30 days added to that order of the 13th of December, or 40 days, if you want it; and any objection that you desire to present, going to the question of the propriety of the order being entered.

Mr. Ammen: We presented yesterday the copy of the order that we thought ought to be entered, on that point as to the time for a certificate of evidence.

Mr. Mayer: The difficulty is, counsel is not conversant with the method of perfecting an appeal in this court.

The Court: Now, what do you want added to this for your certificate of evidence?

Certificate of
evidence, filed
April 30, 1908.

Mr. Ammen: We want, whenever the decree is entered, we want this added: "and to this order and decree and every part thereof the said George F. Harding and A. B. Joyner, William J. Ammen and George F. Harding, Jr., jointly and severally denying and objecting to the jurisdiction of the said Court over them, object and except; and they, and each of them, are hereby granted days"—30 days, now—"from this date in which to present to this Court a certificate of evidence, or bill of exceptions, to be signed and filed and made a part of the record herein."

That was the language that we had in the order as drafted by us.

The Court: Can you cut that out and add it on here?

Mr. Ammen: Yes, sir. (Cuts out portion) Just one interlineation, with a pencil here, I will put it in with a pen.

Mr. Mayer: May I trouble your Honor to read that?

The Court: (Reading) "And to this order and decree and every part thereof the said George F. Harding and A. B. Joyner, jointly and severally denying and—"

Mr. Ammen: George F. Harding, Jr., and William J. Ammen should be in there, too.

The Court: "denying and objecting to the jurisdiction of the Court over them, object and except; and they and each of them are hereby granted 30 days from this date in which to present to this Court a certificate of evidence or bill of exceptions." Certificate of evidence. I don't want to write down that I am allowing time for a bill of exceptions in a chancery case.

322 Mr. Ammen: That is what I thought, and yet Rose's Federal Procedure calls it a bill of exceptions in all of these cases. Please put in, your Honor, George F. Harding, Jr., and William J. Ammen after those other two names where it mentions those other two.

The Court: Add that to the bottom of this order, Mr. Clerk.

The Clerk: Disregard that part of the order of yesterday!

The Court: Yes. Anything further in this matter?

Mr. Mayer: Nothing, your Honor.

323 The court further certifies, at the request of said George F. Harding, Sr. and William J. Ammen, solicitors, as aforesaid, that on December 25th, 1907, there was served upon said Levy Mayer a notice in words and figures as follows:

MOTION TO REMAND CAUSE TO THE SUPERIOR COURT OF COOK COUNTY, ILLINOIS.

Now this day comes George F. Harding, complainant in the above entitled cause, and appearing specially for the purposes of this motion only, saving and reserving any and all objections which he has to the manifold imperfections in the mode, manner and method of the removal papers, and expressly denying that this Court has jurisdiction of said cause, or of said complainant herein, respectfully moves the Court to remand said cause to the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, from whence it was removed for the following reasons, namely.

1. That this cause does not present a controversy of a civil nature wholly between citizens of different states, nor does said suit present a separable controversy between 327 said complainant and said petitioner therein, and as improperly alleged in said petition and that no such controversy exists as therein alleged.

2. That said Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, never was and is not authorized to surrender jurisdiction of said cause and that said Circuit Court of the United States never was and is not authorized or entitled to take jurisdiction of said cause.

3. Because it is not properly shown by said petition for removal or by the record, in said cause, in legal language and form as required in such pleading, that the parties to said cause were citizens of different states either at the time of the commencement of said suit or at the time of presenting said petition for removal to said Superior Court, or at the time of the filing of said petition therein.

4. Because it is not shown by the record herein, or by said petition, of what state or states said defendants, respectively, were residents of at the time of the commencement of said suit and at the time when said petition for removal was presented to said Superior Court, or filed therein.

5. Because the complainant in said cause was, at the time of the commencement of said suit and at the time of the presenting of said petition for removal therein to said Superior Court, and of the filing of the same therein, a citizen of the State of California, and a citizen of no other state, and at the times aforesaid was not a resident of the aforesaid district; and Charles L. Glass, Joy Morton, William J. Calhoun and H. G. Herget, defendants in said cause were, respectively, at the times aforesaid, citizens and residents of the said State of Illinois, and the other defendants, respectively, were not, at the times aforesaid, citizens of said State of Illinois, or residents of said district, but were, at said times, citizens of states other than said State of Illinois, and not residents, respectively, of said district.

6. Because said petition for removal fails to allege in manner and form as required by law, what is, or was, the alleged separable controversy between said complainant and the said petitioner in said cause, and because the said allegation therein that a separable controversy existed therein between said petitioner and said complainant were and are untrue.

328 7. And, because the Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey, one of the defendants in said cause, did not unite and join in said petition for removal and because of other imperfections, errors and insufficiencies in said petition for removal and proceedings thereunder and of other matters shown by the record in said cause.

8. Because said order of removal is unlawful and should be set aside, in that it improperly and unlawfully enjoins said complainant from prosecuting said suit in said Superior Court of Cook County.

Wherefor complainant respectfully moves that said cause be remanded to said Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois.

vs. } No. 28,695.
Corn Products Company, et al.

To the Honorable Kenesaw M. Landis, Judge of said Court, in Chancery Sitting:

The undersigned, George F. Harding, Jr., in behalf of the Plaintiff in the above entitled cause, and in support of the motion of said Plaintiff to dismiss its Bill of Complaint, respectfully represents and shows to your Honor, the following facts, viz:

That, he, said George F. Harding, Jr., was, at the time of

the beginning of this suit, and has ever since been, and still is, the President and Manager of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, the Plaintiff in this cause, and the Superintendent and Manager of its property and affairs, and, with its attorneys of record in this suit, has been and still is in charge of this suit, at the time of and ever since the time of the beginning thereof, in the State Court; that when said suit was begun it was by his direction, and upon due conference with and the advice of the attorneys of record in said cause, and in the utmost good faith upon the part of said Plaintiff, and upon the part of this affiant, and said attorneys, and with the firm belief that said Plaintiff had a good and honest case as stated in said bill, and would and should be successful therein; and that such suit was brought not only for the benefit of such Plaintiff, but with the belief if said Plaintiff was found to be a stockholder with the right to prosecute such suit, as was then firmly believed by said Plaintiff, and by this affiant, that, in such event, such decree would prove to be for the benefit and advantage of all stockholders of the said Corn Products Company affected by the conspiracy or misconduct alleged in said bill, and, also, for the benefit of all consumers of glucose, starch, and their by-products, in this country, and of all others suffering from the oppressive monopoly, established by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, or by parties in its interest, controlling the defendants in this suit, acting as its agents for such purpose. That this suit was therefore to advance the ends aforesaid brought in the State Court, in the County, in or near which, the larger part of the 38 factories mentioned in the said bill are located, the said Plaintiff having thus invoked the aid and jurisdiction of the Courts of the State where the wrongs complained of in the said bill were done, or being done, as set forth therein, and such jurisdiction was invoked and preferred for that and other reasons upon the part of the said Plaintiff, and of this affiant.

That when certain defendants in this suit, acting, as this affiant is informed and believes, in the interest of the said Standard Oil Company, caused this suit to be removed to this Court, the Plaintiff herein, resisted such action, and moved to remand said suit to the State Court, believing that the allegation that a Federal question was involved was a mere colorable pretense, and that the mis-conduct charged in the bill was a violation of the Statutes of Illinois, and of the common law, as stated in said bill, and that to obtain the relief sought

George F.
Harding, Jr.

there was no need of the aid of any Federal Statute; and that such removal of the case to this Court was wholly in the interest of the said Standard Oil Company; and that this was also true of the obtaining of the order of this Court restraining the further prosecution of this case in the State Court; and thereupon the Plaintiff herein, and this affiant, and said attorneys for this Plaintiff, were surprised by the fact that in this case, by one of the defendants, Joy Morton, acting by and through the common attorneys of said defendants, set up in and by his answer and cross-bill herein, that the Plaintiff herein falsely or wrongfully pretends to be the legal owner of stock as alleged in said bill, and further set up and claimed that said Plaintiff cannot own or hold any such stock, or maintain or prosecute this suit as such stockholder, and that such plaintiff, under the law, has no right as such stockholder, and that said defendants have been and are being unjustly prosecuted and injured by the bringing of this suit, and that the same cannot be maintained, and is in fact fraudulent; 332 and said cross-bill prays that said stock be cancelled, and declared void, as shown by such cross-bill, and that the plaintiff in this case shall be punished for bringing and prosecuting this case; and should pay the alleged damages that said Morton has suffered amounting as alleged to $10,000, or thereabouts, because of the bringing and prosecution of this case, as stated in such cross bill and answer of said Morton.

Said cross bill and answer of said Joy Morton were filed in this cause, in June, 1907, soon after this case had been begun in May, and the justice and propriety of said cross-bill and answer were and are vouched for by said Levy Mayer, and the other attorneys for said defendants, whose signatures are attached to the same; and this affiant is informed and believes that said cross-bill and answer were in truth filed by or for the said Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, with the object of defeating and delaying this suit, and obstructing the cause of justice, and preventing the hearing of this case upon its merits, and avoiding a decree against the parties maintaining said monopoly of the said necessities of life, glucose, starch, and by-products, now enjoyed by the agency and in the name of its agents, the newly created corporations of New Jersey, defendants herein, and exacting from the American people wrongfully and unlawfully not less than $6,000,000 a year; and the jurisdiction of the courts of this state was defeated by said order of removal, while said defendants are invoking, in this very suit, the aid of the laws of this state, denying to its corporations the right to hold such stock.

Affidavit of
George F.
Harding, Jr.

This affiant further states that the plaintiff in this case finding itself in this situation, in September, 1907, instructed its attorney herein to dismiss this suit; and in pursuance of said instruction the plaintiff herein gave to said Morton, and the other defendants, who had appeared by their attorneys, Levy Mayer, and others, notice of its intention to dismiss this case, and of its motive to dismiss the same. That said first notice of said motion to dismiss was given to said attorneys on October 1, 1907, and was to the effect that said motion to dismiss would be presented to

Judge Bethea of this Court, on October 1, 1907; that said motion was presented to Judge Bethea in pursuance of said notice, but said Judge declined to hear said motion because engaged in other matters, or for other similar reasons assigned; that no order was entered in consequence thereof, but said motion to dismiss was then filed in this court on October 1, 1907, as shown by the record, herein, and is as follows, viz:

Defendant's Attorneys.

(Endorsed) Filed Oct. 1, 1907, H. S. Stoddard, Clerk.

*Affidavit of
George F.
Harding, Jr.*

334 That a similar notice was then given on October 1, 1907, for the next day, or the same day, for a hearing of said motion to dismiss before His Honor, Judge Kohlsaat, who was then expected to hold Court, but said motion was not heard because said Judge was not holding Court as had been expected that such Court would be then held; and after appearing in said Court and finding the said Judge thereof absent, this affiant is informed and believes, that, by stipulation with said attorneys for said defendants, further notice in writing of said motion was waived, and it was agreed that oral notice by telephone would only be required when the attorney for the plaintiff herein could ascertain that the motion could be heard before His Honor, Judge Landis, or some other Judge of this Court. That it was uncertain when said motion could be heard and it was therefore postponed and has been ever since postponed.

That one of the reasons for delay in procuring a dismissal of this case or bringing on said motion to dismiss the same, for hearing, was due to the fact that subsequently it was found that said Judge Landis was absent upon a vacation, or was not holding Court, and the attorney for said Plaintiff was not advised and could not learn when His Honor, Judge Landis, would hold Court, and other and later opportunities for the hearing of said motion, upon the return of said Judge Landis, were necessarily postponed by the engagements of counsel elsewhere.

That, on October 19, 1907, a bill was filed by George F. Harding in the Superior Court of Cook County against the Standard Oil Company, and other defendants, asking similar relief, in part, and with similar allegations, in part, to those made in the bill in this case at bar, which said case is now transferred to this Court and touching which this Court is now fully advised. That the ensuing period has been occupied with the motions and hearings growing out of said case, including rules to show cause why affiant and others should not be attached for contempt, and why said attorney should not be attached for contempt, and during said motions 335 and hearings the attention of this Court had been called by all the parties to such hearing to said efforts to dismiss this case. That said Mayer, counsel for the defendants herein, has read and produced before this Court the said two notices served upon him, and others, of said motion to dismiss, and declared that the said motion to dismiss was on file. That the said Mayer stated on such hearing that the object of said Morton, and other defendants, and said attorneys for them, was to defeat the dismissal of this case; and that the said defendants had rendered the dismissal of this suit impossible and intended to do this by said cross-bill, and that said cross-bill had the effect of defeating the intention of said plaintiff to dismiss this bill which he had suspected.

Affiant further states that these were the confessions, assertions and admissions openly and boastfully made before your Honor on behalf of said defendants by said Levy Mayer, their attorney, upon the hearing of the rules to show cause in this case on November 12th and 13th, 1907.

Your affiant further states that he is advised and believes that this suit cannot result in a valid and effective decree by a stockholder and cannot give jurisdiction of the subject matter of this suit in this Court as adjudged and determined by the law of this State as recently declared by its Supreme Court and it may well be that any order and any decree entered by this Court in pursuance of the contrary opinion or in disregard of the law as so declared will result in final defeat in this suit.

That it should be necessary, that such nefarious scheme pointed out upon the part of the Standard Oil in the case at bar delaying and defeating perhaps the righteous prosecution by the stockholders undertaken by this bill, should be defeated as it can only be by a dismissal of this case as your affiant is advised.

By reason of the facts and circumstances above stated this affiant has been advised by the attorney for the plaintiff herein to dismiss this suit and has directed the attorney for the plaintiff to move for such dismissal before Your Honor and respectfully asks for said dismissal in order to prevent the entry of the proposed order in said case based upon the doctrine and opinion of Your Honor that this case can result in a valid and effective decree and stockholders should be compelled to come into this Court and into this case for relief.

Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust	} In Equity. No. 28,695.
Company,
vs. Corn Products Company, et al.

To the Honorable Kenesaw M. Landis, Judge of said Court, in Chancery Sitting:

The undersigned, George F. Harding, Jr., in behalf of the Plaintiff in the above entitled cause, and in support of the motion of said Plaintiff to dismiss its Bill of Complaint, respectfully represents and shows to your Honor, the following facts, viz:

Copy of affidavit
of George
F. Harding, Jr.

That, he, said George F. Harding, Jr., was, at the time of the beginning of this suit, and has ever since been, and still is, the President and Manager of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, the Plaintiff in this cause, and the Superintendent and Manager of its property and affairs, and, with its attorneys of record in this suit, has been and still is in charge of this suit, at the time of and ever since the time of the beginning thereof, in the State Court; that when said suit was begun it was by his direction, and upon due conference with and the advice of the attorneys of record in said cause, and in the utmost good faith upon the part of said Plaintiff, and upon the part of this affiant, and said attorneys, and with the firm belief that said Plaintiff had a good and honest case as stated in said bill, and would and should be successful therein; and that such suit was brought not only for the benefit of such Plaintiff, but that the decree therein, if said Plaintiff was found to be a stockholder with the right to prosecute such suit, as was then firmly believed by said Plaintiff, and this affiant that, in such event, such decree would prove to be for the benefit and advantage of all stockholders of the said Corn Products Company affected by the conspiracy or misconduct alleged in said bill, and, also, to all consumers of glucose, starch, and their by-products, in this country, and all others suffering from the oppressive monopoly, established by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, or by parties in its interest, controlling the defendants in this suit, acting as its agents for such purpose, this suit having been brought in the State Court, in the County, in or near which, the larger part of the 38 factories mentioned in the said bill are located, the said Plaintiff having thus invoked the aid and jurisdiction of the Courts of the State where the wrongs complained of in the said bill were done, or being done, as set forth therein, such jurisdiction being invoked and preferred for that and other reasons upon the part of the said Plaintiff, and this affiant.

That when certain defendants in this suit, acting, as this affiant is informed and believes, in the interest of the said Standard Oil Company, caused this suit to be removed to this Court, the Plaintiff herein, resisted such action, and moved to remand said suit to the State Court, believing that the alle-

of George
F. Harding, Jr.

gation that a Federal question was involved was a mere colorable pretense, and that the mis-conduct charged in the bill was a violation of the law of the Statutes of Illinois, and of the common law, as stated in said bill, and that to obtain the relief sought there was no need of the aid of any Federal Statute, and that such removal of the case to this Court was wholly in the interest of the said Standard Oil Company, and that this was also true of the obtaining of the order in this Court restraining the further prosecution of this case in the State Court; and thereupon the Plaintiff herein, and this affiant, and said attorneys for this plaintiff were surprised by the fact that in this case, by one of the defendants, Joy Morton, acting by and through the common attorneys of said defendants, set up in and by his answer and cross-bill herein, that the Plaintiff herein falsely or wrongfully pretends to be the legal owner of stock as alleged in said bill, and further set up and claimed that said Plaintiff cannot own or hold any such stock, or maintain or prosecute this suit as such stockholder, and that such Plaintiff, under the law, has no rights whatever as such stockholder, and that said defendants have been and are being unjustly prosecuted and injured by the bringing of this suit, and that the same cannot be maintained, and is in fact fraudulent, and said cross-bill prays that said stock be cancelled, and declared void, as shown by such cross-bill, and that the plaintiff in this case shall be punished for bringing and prosecuting this case, and should pay the alleged damage that said Morton has suffered amounting as alleged to $10,000, or thereabouts, because of the bringing and prosecution of this case, as stated in said cross-bill and answer of said Morton.

Said cross-bill and answer of said Joy Morton were filed in this cause, in June, 1907, just after this case had been begun in May, and the justice and propriety of said cross-bill and answer were and are vouched for by said Levy Mayer, and the other attorneys for said defendants whose signatures are attached to the same; and this affiant is informed and believes that said cross-bill and answer were in truth filed by or for the said Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, with the object of defeating and delaying this suit, and obstructing the cause of justice and preventing the hearing of this case upon its merits, and avoiding a decree against the parties maintaining said monopoly of the said necessities of life, glucose, starch, and by-products, now enjoyed by the agency and in the name of its agents, the newly created corporations of New Jersey, defendants herein, and exacting from the American people wrongfully and unlawfully not less than $6,000,000 a year; and the jurisdiction of the courts of this state was defeated by said order of removal, while said defendants are invoking, in this very suit, the aid of the laws of this state, denying to its corporations the right to hold such stock.

Copy of affidavit
of George
F. Harding, Jr.

This affiant further states that the plaintiff in this case finding itself in this situation, in September, 1907, instructed its attorney herein to dismiss this suit, and in pursuance of said instruction the plaintiff herein gave to said Morton, and the other defendants, who had appeared by their attorneys, Levy Mayer, and others, notice of its intention to dismiss this case, and of its motion to dismiss the same. That said first notice of said motion to dismiss was given to said attorneys on October 1, 1907, and was to the effect that said motion to dismiss would be presented to Judge Bethea of this Court on October 1, 1907; that said motion was presented to Judge Bethea in pursuance of said notice, but said Judge declined to hear said motion because engaged in other matters, or for other similar reasons assigned; that no order was entered in consequence thereof but said motion to dismiss was then filed in this court on October 1, 1907, as shown by the record herein.

342 That a similar notice was then given on October 1, 1907, for the next day or the same day for a hearing of said motion before His Honor, Judge Kohlsaas, who was then expected to hold Court, but said motion was not heard because said Judge was not holding Court as had been expected that such Court would be then held; and after appearing in said Court and finding the said Judge thereof absent, this affiant is informed and believes, that by stipulation with said attorneys for said defendants further notice in writing of said motion was waived, and it was agreed that oral notice by telephone would only be required when the attorney for the plaintiff herein could ascertain that the motion could be heard before His Honor, Judge Landis or some other Judge of this court. That it was uncertain when said motion could be heard and it was therefore postponed and has been ever since postponed.

That one of the reasons for delay, in procuring a dismissal of this case or bringing on said motion to dismiss the same, for hearing, was due to the fact that subsequently it was found that said Judge Landis was absent upon a vacation, or was not holding Court, and the attorney for said plaintiff was not advised and could not learn when His Honor, Judge Landis would hold Court, and other and later opportunities for the hearing of said motion, upon the return of said Judge Landis, were necessarily postponed by the engagements of counsel elsewhere.

of George

That, on October 19, 1907, a bill was filed by George F. Harding in the Superior Court of Cook County against the Standard Oil Company, and other defendants, asking similar relief, in part, and with similar allegations, in part, to those made in the bill in this case at bar, which said case is now transferred to this Court and touching which this Court is now fully advised. That the ensuing period has been occupied with the motions and hearings growing out of said cases, 343 including rules to show cause why affiant and others should not be attached for contempt, and why said attorney should not be attached for contempt, and during said motions and hearings the attention of this Court had been called by all the parties to such hearing, to said efforts to dismiss this case. That said Mayer, counsel for the defendants herein, has read and produced before this court the said two notices served upon him, and others, of said motion to dismiss, and declared that the said motion to dismiss was on file. That the said Mayer stated on such hearing that the object of said Morton, and other defendants, and said attorneys for them was to defeat the dismissal of this case; and that the said defendants, by their attorneys, had rendered the dismissal of this suit impossible, and that the filing of the said cross-bill herein was intended by them to prevent the dismissal of this suit, on the motion of the Plaintiff herein, and has had that effect, this having occurred before your Honor upon the hearing of the motion of the said Levy Mayer, and his associates, to compel the dismissal of the said second suit, upon the hearing of which motion, said Mayer has repeatedly demanded, that this affiant, and the attorneys for the plaintiff in this suit, should be punished for contempt, as shown by the record in this suit, and the proceedings recently had before your Honor, it being a part of the schemes of the said Standard Oil Company, and others, defendants in this suit, confessed and boasted of on such hearing, to stop further prosecution against them, by reason of the fact, as claimed by said defendants, that this present suit is and will remain wholly inefficient and ineffective and cannot result in a decree in favor of the Plaintiff herein, for the reason

of George
F. Harding, Jr.

that, such Plaintiff in this suit has no right to prosecute 344 this suit as a holder of stock of said Corn Products Company, and yet, this suit, which, it is claimed, as above shown, cannot result in a decree in favor of the Plaintiff herein, is used as the basis of or for an order of this court, denying, on the one hand, the right of this Plaintiff to dismiss this suit, and, on the other hand, enjoining the further prosecution of the said Standard Oil Company, and others, as contemplated by the order of this Court now about to be entered in this cause.

By reasons of the facts and circumstances above stated, and, particularly, by reason of the said objection raised in this suit as to the capacity of said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, to hold or own stock in said Corn Products Company, and obtain relief in this suit as such stockholder, which objection this affiant has been advised by the attorney for the Plaintiff herein, may prove to be well founded, under the laws of Illinois—for these reasons, and others, the Plaintiff herein desires to dismiss this suit, and has directed its attorney herein to move for such dismissal before your Honor.

Amended Bill of Complaint.

To The Judges of the said Circuit Court in Chancery Sitting:
Your orator, the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, a corporation, duly organized and existing under the

Amended bill of

laws of the State of Illinois, a resident and citizen of the State of Illinois, humbly complaining, respectfully represents unto your Honors: That your Orator on or before the year 1903 was the owner of 1000 shares of the capital stock of the Corn Products Company of New Jersey and ever since has been and still is the owner and holder of the same and that the value of said stock exceeded one hundred thousand dollars.

1. That the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and the defendants hereinafter named, constituting and controlling the Directory of the said Corn Products Company then and ever since have occupied the position of Trustees of your 350a Orator, as to said stock, and while acting as such Trustees they have wrongfully impaired and injured the value of all of said stock and are now further injuring and impairing the same by the conspiracy and misconduct hereinafter set out in this bill.

That said Standard Oil Company, and co-defendants, have wrongfully obtained possession by said conspiracy and misconduct of all the property of the Corn Products Company, including thirty-five and one-half factories engaged in the manufacture of glucose, starch and by-products, and that by a combination in the year 1906 the said defendants having also acquired the stock of two and one-half companies and of their factories engaged in the same business, have, while ruining the value of your Orator's stock, created a monopoly in the manufacture and sale of said necessities of life, contrary to the interests and policy, and to the great injury of the people of the United States; and thereby now control more than 90% of the manufacture of the same, and have advanced the price of the same more than 100%.

1 1-2. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors, that it was incorporated on February 11, 1857, by an act then duly enacted by the Legislature of the State of Illinois, a copy of which marked Exhibit "A" is hereto attached, and your Orator prays that the same may be taken and regarded as a part of this bill.

That your Orator was duly organized under the provisions of said act and on and ever since its enactment and organization has been authorized and empowered to do and perform the several acts set out in said Statute; and was thereby specially authorized to buy and sell stock and other personal and real property; and your Orator shows unto your Honors that this right and power to hold the stock of other corporations has been expressly adjudicated, determined and recognized by the Supreme Court of Illinois (volume 182, page 551 of the Reports of the Supreme Court of Illinois) in the case of your Orator and George F. Harding, complainants, against the said defendants, the Corn Products Manufacturing Company then known as the Glucose Sugar Refining Company, and others.

That the name of your Orator was originally known, and it was incorporated as the Peoria Starch Manufacturing Company, but its name was changed in 1894 to that of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company.

That under and by virtue of its said Charter your Orator was engaged in Peoria, Illinois, in the manufacture from corn, of starch, glucose and by-products for nearly thirty years.

That your Orator acquired said stock in the Corn Products Company in payment of a debt and obligation due to your Orator, and necessarily incurred in the due course of its business, as such corporation, and as authorized by its Charter, and originating and growing out of its business of manufacturing aforesaid.

2. That the Corn Products Company was and is a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New Jersey on February 23, 1902, with a capital stock of $80,000,000, divided into preferred stock of $30,000,000 and common stock of $50,000,000; and the stock of your Orator of 1000 shares consisted and consists of 450 shares of said preferred and 550 shares of said common stock, in shares of $100 each.

3. That when your Orator acquired the said stock, and for a considerable period theretofore, and for some time thereafter, the said Corn Products Company was the owner of said thirty-five large and valuable factories and plants aforesaid, and of the stock of the companies owning and operating the same in the States of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Iowa, and elsewhere, and also owned 49% of the stock of the New York Glucose Company of New Jersey with its factory in Edgewater, New Jersey, and that their said business of manufacture was then and theretofore and thereafter during the life of said company yielding large profits; that said factories had cost and continued to be worth up to the time of said conspiracy and misconduct hereinafter stated in this bill, more than $50,000,000; that the price of said stock of said Corn Products Company on the New York Stock Exchange

at the formation of said company in February 1902 amounted to a total of $44,413,019; that the net earnings of only six of said companies (while owned by the said defendant, the Corn Products Manufacturing Company) from August, 1897, to February 28, 1902, exceeded $11,500,000; that the net earnings of said thirty-five and one-half factories for the ensuing period from February 28, 1902, to February 28, 1906, were $15,355,140 as stated by defendants (assuming only for the last year for which no statement has ever been published, that the earnings equaled that of the prior year).

That during the respective periods aforesaid, from August, 1897, to February 28, 1902, out of the proceeds of the six factories, the Corn Products Manufacturing Company earned as stated and paid dividends to the amount of $6,765,356; and out of the proceeds of the thirty-five factories, the Corn Products Company earned as stated and paid in dividends $6,942,040; and there was expended out of said earnings over $6,000,000 in repairing, rebuilding, and modernizing, and keeping said factories in the best condition; and that said defendants had as stated by themselves, during their whole career, a large surplus of several million dollars, and up to January 6, 1906, and on February 28, 1906, the Corn Products Company had a working capital of over $3,000,000 in addition to said surplus and did not owe a single dollar of indebtedness, bonded or otherwise.

That the Corn Products Company up to 1906, and up to the conspiracy hereinafter described, was during its whole career a most prosperous company; its factories were in the best condition; its greatest and most important plant in Chicago had just been rebuilt, remodeled, and modernized, and equipped for a large production, at the cost of $2,000,000. That the company must have shown much larger earnings and amply sufficient to pay dividends upon its preferred and common stock both, had it not gradually fallen into the control of the said Standard Oil Company, which company caused it to expend its money upon extensive improvements of its factories and also more than $1,100,000 upon the payment of debts which were in large part the debts of the Standard Oil Company itself; and the Standard Oil Company caused it to stop the payment of dividends in 1905 although this company was then amply able to pay the same, but this suspension served to advance the interests of said Standard Oil Company, as the sequel shows.

53 That the outlook for increased prosperity in the manufacture of glucose and by-products in January, 1906, had signally improved. That the margin of profit in such manufacture was the greatest ever known in its history; for the price of glucose and starch depending chiefly upon the market price of corn, its raw material, and said corn having been 53 cents per bushel on July 1, 1905, had thereafter steadily fallen so that on January 1, 1906, it was worth but 43 cents per bushel; and still rapidly fell in price so that the market price of corn on March 1, 1906, was less than 38 cents per bushel; and the cost at which starch and glucose could be manufactured was as low as it had ever been in the history of this company.

4. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors, that this successful condition of the Corn Products Co. at the period in question, when it was about to be destroyed, and the profitable character of its factories, are still further exemplified and proved by the sequel and expenditure of the succeeding years; for the earnings, chiefly from the operation of said factories for the year 1906, were over $6,000,000; and the earnings for 1907 have been at the rate of $600,000 per month and are increasing, and this too, also appears by the annual and quarterly statements of the defendants for those periods, and your Orator alleges that nothing had occurred in the history of the Corn Products Company up to January 6, 1906, to impair the solid value and the excellent condition of said company.

That the real value of said stock of your Orator would have continued and ought now to be, at the time of filing this bill, the full sum of the par of said shares, and cumulative dividends and interest upon said preferred stock at 7% annually, and also yearly dividends upon said common stock when and as earned out of the profits aforesaid, and which were adequate to the payment of the same from time to time yearly at 4%, had it not been for the misconduct, and the conspiracy, and the illegal acts of the said defendants against your Orator hereinafter described.

5. That prior to the 6th day of January, 1906, the exact date being unknown to your Orator, Conrad H. Matthiessen Norman B. Ream, William W. Heaton, Joy Morton, Charles L. Glass, William J. Calhoun, T. B. Wagner, H. G. Herget, E. W. Wemple, Benjamin Graham, W. H. Nichols, and Edward T. Bedford, were and for a long time had been the Officers and Directors of said Corn Products Company, and were the owners and holders of a large part of the stock, chiefly of the Common stock, of said Corn Products Company; that combining and confederating together, and with the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and others in the interest of said Standard Oil Company, which had for a long time named said Board of Directors and said officers, entered into an unlawful conspiracy to cheat and defraud your Orator, as the holder of the stock aforesaid, and all other holders and owners of the stock of the Corn Products Company not parties to said conspiracy, and undertook wrongfully to transfer the entire assets and business to a new corporation, the Corn Products Refining Company of New Jersey, to be organized and managed by the Standard Oil Company, and under and in pursuance of the following so-called Plan, which was afterwards wrongfully and unjustly carried into partial execution 354 to the great wrong and injury of your Orator as herein after set forth in this bill and to the extent hereinafter set forth.

PLAN.

6. "The Corn Products Refining Company will be organized under the laws of New Jersey with a capital of $30,000,000 Preferred and $50,000,000 Common Stock, the same as the Corn Products Company and with the same provisions as to preference.

Mr. E. T. Bedford will take the Presidency of the company and the management of its business, bringing into the Board of Directors those associates who have been actively connected with him in the New York Glucose Company.

When the plan becomes effective the Corn Products Refining Company will own: (1) At least a majority of the capital stock of the Corn Products Company; (2) the entire capital stock of the New York Glucose Company, not already acquired by the Corn Products Company; (3) the entire capital stock of the Warner Sugar Refining Company; (4) the entire capital stock of the St. Louis Syrup & Preserving Company and the new company, with its subsidiary companies will have a net working capital of approximately $5,000,000.

All stock set apart for exchange for stock of the Corn Products Company and not used for that purpose will remain in the treasury.

In effect, the Corn Products stockholders will surrender one-third of their holdings for the purpose of acquiring the entire interest in the three companies above named, not already owned by the Corn Products company. Plan.

Those three companies have modern works, and no bonded debt except $2,300,000, while the subsidiary companies of the Corn Products Company, have a total bonded debt of $7,293,000.

The three companies, New York Glucose Company, Warner Sugar Refining Company and St. Louis Syrup & Preserving Company, contribute a net working capital of about $2,000,000 toward the joint working capital of $5,000,000.

During the year just ended those three companies did about 50% of the entire business, domestic and export.

The financial status of all companies to be verified by public accountants and titles to be examined by counsel.

The undersigned stockholders among others have agreed to deposit stock under the foregoing plan.

Your orator alleges that the printed plan aforesaid was sent, as your Orator is informed and believes, to some of the stockholders of The Corn Products Company at some date unknown to your Orator, but believed to be in the year 1906, and was accompanied by a paper, of which the following is a copy, viz.:

to depositor, upon surrender of the certificates of deposit issued therefor, suitably endorsed, on or after March 31, 1906.

The time to deposit stock under the Plan will expire February 1, 1906, at 3 p. m.

The Certificates must be accompanied by power of its transfer in blank, the execution of which must be witnessed or guaranteed by someone known to this Company, or acknowledged before a Notary Public, under his official seal.

complaint.

8. Your Orator alleges and charges that the essence and effect of this Plan was the enforced liquidation of the Corn Products Company.

That this liquidation was to be accomplished under color and by means of a bargain for the benefit of the Standard Oil Company, and all of said schemes, divisions, and details of said Plan were in effect, merely, for the purpose, on the part of the Standard Oil Company and the parties in its interest, to give to said Standard Oil Company the monopoly of the glucose, starch, and by-products manufactured in the United States as already stated.

That the object of the Standard Oil Company was more easily accomplished by special contracts in advance with the said conspirators by which they were enabled to sell their stock on better terms than stated in said Plan; but there was reserved for your Orator and other stockholders the necessity of uniting in said Plan and consenting to said bargain, with no other alternative, as the Standard Oil Company had assured itself of the entire market for said Corn Products stock; and, if it could be sold at all, it must either be sold on the terms of this Plan or at private sale to the said Standard Oil Company, as elsewhere more fully shown in this bill.

9. Your Orator shows to your Honors that said Plan provided for the formation of the Corn Products Refining Company, capitalized at $80,000,000, and divided said stock between the holders of the $80,000,000 stock of the Corn Products Company so far as issued ($72,500,000), on the basis of two shares of the new company for three of the old, giving 60% of the stock of the new company to the stockholders of the Corn Products Company who should accept these terms.

That this division left the remaining 40% of said 356 stock of said company to the holders of the capital stock of the Warner Sugar Refining Company and of the capital stock of the St. Louis Sirup and Preserving Company, and of 51% of the capital stock of the New York Glucose Company.

That as stated in said Plan: "in effect the Corn Products shareholders will surrender one-third of their holdings for the purpose of acquiring the entire interest in the three companies (last) above named, not already owned by the Corn Products Company."

That said 40% given to the holders of said two and a half factories had then a total value on the New York Stock Exchange of $16,854,569.

10. That the actual value of the said stock of said two and a half companies and their factories did not exceed three million dollars ($3,000,000). That they were then owned by the Standard Oil Company which had then bought the same for less than said sum. That the said 51% of the stock of the New York Glucose Company was absolutely worthless as it had nothing to represent it in value except its factory at Edgewater, New Jersey, that could not be economically used for the manufacture for which it was built; and this is now admitted by said defendant in their first annual statement. That said two and a half companies were capitalized at less than $5,500,000 and were subject to an indebtedness, bonded and floating, of $3,250,000 dollars; that they never had reported dividends or net earnings during their existence, of from five to ten years, and that they had no right to declare such dividends, and had no net earnings, is sufficiently explained by said indebtedness approximating the amount of their capital. That the statements of said three companies of January and February, 1906, evidently prepared for the purpose of justifying this division at the time show that at the highest estimate they were then worth less than $8,200,000.

That the gross earnings by the Warner and St. Louis factories for the only year for which comparison can be made, due to the suppression by said Trustee of the statement of the Corn Products Company for the year, as reported in 1905, give gross earnings, Warner, $83,417, St. Louis, $111,932, total, $195,349.

The gross earnings of the thirty-five companies of the Corn Products Company for the same period were $2,968,312; (omitting as a negligible quantity the gross earnings of the New York Glucose Company, being the half factory in each case). These gross earnings of the said two companies show that they the said owners should have been given upon the basis of their gross earnings 6% of the stock of the Corn Products Refining Company, instead of what this plan gave, viz.: 40%, and the management and control thrown in, and assured by the terms of the charter for many years to come.

So far as known said two factories had neither trade marks, patents, good will, nor any fruits to show of successful experience, were loaded with debt, nearly to the amount of their capital, and were burdened with infirmities of their own as to water supply and location.

11. That said Plan and Division gave to said Standard Oil Company, the holders of the said stock of the two and 357 a half companies and their factories, a profit of $15,000,000 outright. That said Division and Plan further provides for the permanent ownership and monopoly in the provision, namely: "Mr. E. T. Bedford will take the presidency of the company and the management of its business, bringing into the Board of Directors those associates who have been actively connected with him in the New York Glucose Company." That said Bedford, and his associates, of the New York Glucose Company, were simply Directors and Officers and Agents of the Standard Oil Company, and said Bedford and others of said associates were also openly Trustees of your Orator and the stockholders of said Corn Products Company, so that this Plan was simply a gift and bargain by which our Directors and Trustees sold said $80,000,000 of Corn Products stock to themselves.

12. That by this Plan, according to the valuation given the 40% of the stock of the Corn Products Refining Company, (which was paid for by said two and a half factories worth $8,200,000, at the very highest price named by themselves) then the 60% of the capital which remained was to be treated as only worth $12,000,000; and this proportionate sum of $12,000,000 was a fair and adequate division according to the equity of said Plan as administered by our Trustees to the holders of the $80,000,000 of Corn Products stock; and this was so just a Division and Plan, that it was certified to by the remaining Trustees and leading stockholders, who agreed to it in advance as shown by the following statement annexed to said Plan, namely:

"The undersigned stockholders, among others, have agreed to deposit stock under the foregoing Plan.

C. H. MATTHIESSEN,
NORMAN B. REAM,
WILLIAM W. HEATON,
JOY MORTON,
J. B. GREENHUT."

That this was a certificate by a part of our Trustees and a part of the Directors of the Corn Products Company to their cestuis que trust, that it was a fair division, and an honest Plan, namely: That they should give up a third of their capital and surrender their right to the conduct of their own business to the Standard Oil Company, that they should besides pay $17,000,000 for two and a half factories one of them worthless, and the other two picked up by the Standard Oil Company at less than $2,000,000, and all incumbered for more than their value—that this fixing a valuation of $12,000,000 for the $80,000,000 capital of the Corn Products stock (in proportion to said $8,000,000 valuation of the said two and a half factories) was a fair one and should have the consent of every stockholder—urging that all their fellow stockholders should hasten to accept these terms (for their 35½ factories, for their trade secrets, good will, long experience, market and independence, and control of their own affairs, always successful, and about to be more prosperous than ever,) giving three shares of their stock, for two shares of stock in the Corn Products Refining Company, which stock at its highest value, proved worth in the market of 1906, less than $27,000,000, an immediate loss of $20,000,000—which 358 has now become $30,000,000, as elsewhere shown in the bill.

13. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors, that while it may not be further necessary to show that this Plan is most inequitable—that our trustees and the Standard Oil Co. should have given themselves the benefit of a bargain, both sides of which they made themselves, yet it may be wise to show what was the actual character and value of the assets represented by the $80,000,000 Corn Products Stock, sacrificed by this plan; and your orator therefore alleges the following facts, namely:

I.

Six factories formerly owned and operated by the Glucose Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey.

(1.) The Chicago Sugar Refinery, which had actually cost, and was worth more than $8,000,000, with its valuable site

on Taylor street and Chicago River, which, was, and is worth, site alone $3,000,000;

The legal description of the said property now held and operated in the name of the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, in the City of Chicago, in the County of Cook, in the State of Illinois, as above shown, is as follows, namely: Blocks Seventy-five (75) and Seventy-eight (78) (except Taylor street) in School Addition to Chicago, in Section Sixteen (16), Township, Thirty-nine (39) North, Range Fourteen (14) East of the Third Principal Meridian, in the City and County and State aforesaid.

(2.) The factory of the American Glucose Company of Peoria, Illinois, then equal in value as a factory to that of Chicago; and both factories were unrivaled in capacity and excellence of products.

(3.) The factory of the Davenport Sugar Refining Company, of Davenport, Iowa, very favorably situated, for the manufacture of Glucose, sirup and by-products, and of great value, exceeding $2,000,000.

(4.) The factory of the Peoria Grape Sugar Company in Peoria, Illinois.

(5.) The factory of the Rockford Sugar Works, of Rockford, Illinois.

(6.) The factory of the Firminish Manufacturing Company, of Marshalltown, Iowa. That the said last three factories had cost more than $1,500,000 each and had a grinding capacity of 30,000 bushels daily.

14. That all of said six factories, with a working capital of $1,500,000 had belonged to the Glucose Sugar Refining Company, incorporated August 7, 1897, with a capital stock of $14,000,000, 7% cumulative Preferred, and $26,000,000 Common stock; that the Corn Products Company was organized on February 28, 1902, and then acquired nearly all the capital stock of the said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, in exchange for shares of the Corn Products Company, paying for said capital stock to the extent of $13,000,000 of the Glucose Preferred stock and of Twenty-one millions and a quarter of Glucose Common stock, by $16,081,750 of Corn Products Preferred stock, and $26,600,000 of Corn Products Common stock, holding in reserve $1,000,000 of Corn Products Preferred, and $3,500,000 of Common to acquire outstanding Glucose shares, nearly all of which were later exchanged for the said Corn Products Company's stock; the Corn Products Company paying in said exchange One and a quarter shares of their stock for each share of Glucose Sugar stock; in short paying fifty millions of the capital stock of the Corn Products Company for $40,000,000 of the capital stock of said Glucose Sugar Refining Company.

complaint.

15. The Glucose Sugar Refining Company owning only six factories and surplus and working capital, had no bonded debt, and had earned and paid dividends to the amount of $6,763,000 from the earnings of said six factories, (7% upon the Preferred ever since said company was organized in August, 1897, and 6% on the Common, commencing December 1, 1898, up to December, 1901, when the yearly rate was reduced to 4%); that until these six factories became the property of the Corn Products Company in February, 1902, the Glucose Sugar Refining Company expended $2,152,000 upon said factories, and the average net earnings of the same for the three prior fiscal years were annually $2,969,624, or 8% on the total capitalization of $40,000,000; and these are the facts as given in the annual statements of the said defendant, said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, now known as the Corn Products Manufacturing Company. That the value of the said six factories with said million and a half of working capital, and a surplus of $2,632,985, was then equal to the value of the stock of the Corn Products Company as given in exchange on February 28, 1902; and that value at the time of said exchange was 95c on the dollar for the Preferred and 38½c on the dollar for the Common stock upon the New York Stock Exchange; and said Glucose Sugar Refining Company was not only enjoying a highly prosperous business, but was in all respects in a very strong condition.

That the total actual value in cash of the said six factories alone in February, 1902, was more than $27,000,000; and your orator alleges that said six factories as a whole were never afterwards of less value, but were of this value or more at the time of said Plan, and their seizure by the Corn Products Refining Company in 1906.

II.

16. Your orator further shows that the Corn Products Company at its formation, on February 28, 1902, in addition to the six factories aforesaid, acquired 29½ additional factories, with the stock and good will of the companies owning the same, and also with ample working capital as follows: namely; 4½ of said factories engaged in manufacturing glucose were bought by acquiring the stock of the Charles Pope Glucose Company, with its two factories at Geneva and Venice, Illinois; and the factory at Pekin, Illinois, was acquired with the stock of the Illinois Sugar Refining Company; and 49% of the stock of the New York Glucose Company with the same per cent. of its factory at Edgewater, New Jersey.

17. And said company also acquired the stock of the United States Glucose Company; which last named stock with its glucose factory and the remaining 24 factories of the 35½ 360 factories aforesaid, which were starch factories, were acquired by the purchase then made of the entire stock of the National Starch Company; by which they were up to February 28, 1902, owned.

18. That the Corn Products Company acquired by exchanges of its own capital stock, amounting to $80,000,000, practically all the said stocks, and with them the factories of said companies; and paid therefor by apportioning the shares of the Corn Products stock as follows: (1.) It paid $46,082,050 of Common and Preferred stock as above stated for said Glucose Sugar Refining Company stock of $40,000,000 with its six factories aforesaid. (2.) That it paid $7,125,240 Preferred stock and $15,539,565 Common stock for said 49% of the New York Glucose Company stock amounting to $1,225,000; and for $750,000 of the shares of the Illinois Sugar Company with its factory at Pekin; and for $120,000 shares of the Charles Pope Company stock with its two factories at Geneva and Venice; and the Corn Products Company also acquired in consideration of the stock given for said three and a half factories last named, $1,400,000 in cash for additional working capital; the sum paid in cash by said Corn Products Company at the then value of its stock so paid, was $12,673,012.

19. That the sums paid for the factories at Geneva and Venice and Pekin were the sums upon which dividends had always been paid; and the factory at Pekin is that claimed by the Corn Products Refining Company, defendant, in its statement of 1907, as that in the best location for a glucose plant and also as being extended in grinding capacity for that reason. That in the purchase for the stock and factories, twenty-five in number, of the National Starch Company, there was apportioned, and paid for them, $3,469,000 Preferred stock, and $2,201,220 Common stock; making the sums paid in cash as ascertained by the value of the Corn Products shares on the New York Stock Exchange at the time, namely $4,132,212.

20. That said National Starch Company had a capital stock of $10,000,000, of which half was Preferred stock upon which a dividend of 6% had been paid ever since the organization of said company in 1900, and it had also a bonded debt of $7,763,000 upon which it had paid interest; and upon which interest has ever since been paid.

That said twenty-four starch factories included most of all the starch factories in the United States, and supplied most of the entire market for starch of every standard quality; and included all the factories of the greatest reputation, producing goods of the highest excellence and favorites in every household; in which should be named especially Kingsford's, and various factories, Erkenbrecher's, Gilbert's, Argo's and others, of national reputation, and all worth every dollar of the capitalization and indebtedness above described.

21. And your Orator alleges that outside the 49% of the New York Glucose Company's stock, the factories and stock of the constituent companies of the Corn Products Company as stated were fully worth the values of the stock of said Corn Products Company paid therefor; and that the cash value of said Corn Products Companies stock determined by its price as fixed by the market of the New York Stock Exchange at the time of the formation of said company, 361 amounted to a total of $44,413,019, and they continued to be worth this sum up to the time in 1906, when they were nominally given to the Corn Products Refining Company of New Jersey, and surrendered by the terms of said Plan at a loss of $20,000,000, as elsewhere more fully stated.

22. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors that the actual earnings of said 35½ factories of the Corn Products Company, as shown by the annual statements of said defendants have been such as to show the solid basis upon which the value of said stock rests and are as follows. Earnings from February 28, 1902, to February 28, 1903, the first year, the Corn Products Company earned $4,013,841.

Earnings for the year, ending Feb. 28, 1904, $5,571,003.

Earnings for the year, ending Feb. 28, 1906, $2,885,148 (estimated), report suppressed.

Earnings of 49% of the New York Glucose Company; for the year ending December 31, 1904, $391,851; and for the year ending December 31, 1905, $307,252, as reported.

That the total earnings of the Corn Products Company for the years from February 28, 1902, to February 28, 1906, were $16,054,253, as shown by the annual statements of the defendants themselves, excepting only for the one year from February 28, 1905, to February 28, 1906, which have never been reported, being due after the liquidation of said company by the Standard Oil Company and its associates, and so its earnings have been assumed to be equal to the reported earnings of the previous year, the smallest in its history, namely, $2,885,148.

That these large earnings were expended by the Corn Products Company in dividends to the amount of $6,942,040.

That said earnings were further expended in repairs and rebuilding and remodeling of its factories, namely, $3,538,003.

That said earnings were further expended by paying the interest upon the debts of the New York Glucose Company and of said starch companies, namely, $1,662,598.

23. That there remained a surplus of nearly $4,000,000 belonging to the Corn Products Company on February 28, 1906; and to this should be added its working capital to the amount of at least $3,000,000; a total of $7,000,000 of surplus and unexpended earnings; and this prosperous company did not then owe a dollar of indebtedness, and its capital of $80,000,000 was invested in the stock of thirty-five companies and their thirty-five factories worth every dollar of said capital and besides in the 49% of the said New York Glucose Company and its factory.

24. Your Orator further alleges that the said Plan is an old and ingenious device by which the stockholders of the Corn Products Company, and of your Orator are to be forced into a surrender of their stock under this Plan to the Standard Oil Company, through its new agent, the Corn Products Refining Company of New Jersey; that the name itself of the Corn Products Company in 1906, when in its most prosperous condition was taken from the list of companies listed upon the New York Stock Exchange, by the action of the 362 Standard Oil Company and their fellow associates and defendants, and substituting the name of the new company in order that the stockholders of the Corn Products Company could have no other disposition of said stock except that furnished by the Plan.

That the said Standard Oil Company keep on foot the nominal entity and control of the Corn Products Company and now retain its stock so far as exchanged under this Plan for that of the Corn Products Refining Company; and the Board of Directors is selected from the Directors and Agents of the Standard Oil Company, and entirely in their interests, and the factories are in possession and under control of the Standard Oil Company, every one of the thirty-eight factories charged in said plan, being so managed as the property, and in the name of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and conducted under orders from the Standard Oil Company through said Corn Products Refining Company; and that each one of the factories is managed from the office of the Standard Oil Company at 26 Broadway, New York; and the manufacture and sale is conducted without any consideration for the real interests of your Orator, and the stockholders of said Corn Products Company, but solely for the benefit of the Standard Oil Company, yet the said Standard Oil Company ingeniously keeps on foot through its agents and subsidiary companies the pretense of management and control through the Directors of the Corn Products Company aforesaid, who are simply agents of the Standard Oil Company.

That the very name of the Corn Products Company does not longer appear in the market, is unknown in the production and manufacture of glucose and by-products; and for purposes of concealment and to defeat all publicity or knowledge of what has occurred, the very brands, trade marks, good will of the Corn Products Company, and every detail of its manufacture and sale is now done in the names of said companies, scarcely distinguishable from that of the Corn Products Company; that the factories are run in the name of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and the business is done in the name of the Corn Products Refining Company; that the Corn Products Company has no office or telephone, and its stockholders are denied all information of its business; and every attempt is made to blot out the name and connection of the Corn Products Company with the said business and manufacture in which it was so successful, and on the eve of its greatest success, and of its brightest future; and the money earned by the 35½ factories of the Corn Products Company amounting annually to $7,000,000 a year, are now pouring into the hands of the Standard Oil Company, at 26 Broadway, New York.

25. Your Orator alleges, that the Standard Oil Company was really the Trustee of your Orator, and managed the business and property of your Orator and fellow stockholders during the entire history of said Corn Products Company, and up to and ever since the said conspiracy charged in this bill that said Standard Oil Company and their co-defendants have been in said position of trust and are now in said position of trust, for your Orator and other stockholders in like condition, and should be made to account for the profits they 363 have made in said business of said Trust, and should be compelled to surrender it through the appointment by this court of a receiver.

Your Orator alleges that the Standard Oil Company began its campaign and conspiracy to create this monopoly in the manufacture and sale of starch and glucose, in 1898, by the formation of the New York Glucose Company of New Jersey and the construction of its factory at Edgewater, Bergen Point, New Jersey. That in 1898, had been recently formed the Glucose Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey, which with its six factories in Illinois controlled the manufacture and market of said products; and the factory at Edgewater New Jersey, was intended to secure the monopoly of said manufacture and markets for the Standard Oil Company; that finding its first move in building its factory was abortive because it was built outside the corn belt and could not be used to manufacture economically, the said Standard Oil Company joined in a wider combination and assisted in forming the Corn Products Company of New Jersey, and managed to have apportioned to it in said formation one-fifth or thereabouts of the Corn Products Company's $80,000,000 of stock but said Standard Oil Company only put into said Corn Products Company 49% of the stock of the New York Glucose Company, reserving the control, the better to accomplish its purposes; that the fellow stockholders of the Corn Products Company, including the stock of thirty-five companies engaged in the same manufacture, very soon found themselves in the control of the Standard Oil Company; especially because the Standard Oil Company by the formation of the Corn Products Company had gained access to the patents, trade secrets, and everything that gave it the business success; and still more because the Standard Oil Company was thereby enabled to name the Directors of the Corn Products Company, and placed in said Directory one of its ablest Directors, Edward T. Bedford, who dominated the Company and continued its Director with other associates, really Directors of the Standard Oil Co., itself or its agents, thereafter. That the manufacture and market of the Corn Products

Company was from its formation controlled by the Standard Oil Company, though without the knowledge of its stockholders to the real extent of such control, until later developed by the sequel when the said Bedford, and his associates, in the New York Glucose Company presented and since have enforced up to this hour the said Plan hereinbefore stated and shown.

26. That there were outside the Corn Products Company the factory of the Warner Sugar Refining Company at Waukegan, Ill., and another factory of the St. Louis Sirup and Preserving Company, at Granite, Ill., besides other factories in the Corn belt engaged in the manufacture of Starch or glucose, and the Standard Oil Company found it necessary to complete its monopoly to buy up the said two factories to make its monopoly more effectual. That in order to buy and control the Stock of the Corn Products Company required a further investment of but one or two million of dollars, but this was effected through the agency of the New York Stock Exchange, upon which said Standard Oil Company caused the stock of the Corn Products Company to be listed, and by the devices familiar to said company of fictitious sales and purchases from and to themselves of the stock of the said Corn Products Company, said Standard Oil Company easily and profitably raised and lowered the stock of the said Corn Products Company; so that at one time it was worth one hundred cents and at another time ten cents or less, judging of its value by the index furnished by the sales so manufactured on the New York Stock Exchange; that these fictitious sales and purchases were begun in 1902, and were continued during the life time of the Corn Products Company by said Standard Oil Company, and were aided by actual statements of the said Corn Products Company required by law annually, which, and rumors of the same nature, furnished alleged facts, so much to the prejudice of the Corn Products Company, half truths, and other falsehoods, that aided the Standard Oil Company in its campaign upon the New York Stock Exchange; so that finally after the conduct of said campaign during 1903, 1904 and 1905, these false sales and purchases, led to sales of real stock to said Standard Oil Company, at prices named by the Standard Oil Company. That the campaign of the Standard Oil Company was in point of fact financed from the inside of the Corn Products Company, and so it is, that said Standard Oil Company, absolutely controlled, and controls, the majority of the stock of the Corn Products Company. That by the device of the Corn Products Refining Company of New Jersey and the bargains shown in the Plan already detailed, said Standard Oil Company in effect have been given them $15,000,000 at least for the pretended consideration of said two factories at Waukegan and St. Louis and of said 51% of said New York Glucose Company, and have placed the new company permanently in the hands of themselves and their Directors. That said Standard Oil Company has thus by easy stages and at slight cost, if any, but through the ruin of the said stockholders of the companies owning the said thirty-eight factories, obtained the entire business of the manufacture and sale of glucose and starch products in the United States.

27. Your Orator further alleges that the said Plan is especially inequitable as against your Orator and other Preferred stockholders of the said Corn Products Company. That they are invited by this Plan to give up one-third of their Preferred stock to the amount of $10,000,000, and its 7% yearly dividends. That the surplus then existing in 1905, was abundantly sufficient to pay such dividends as so contracted to be paid. That said Plan requires a surrender of their stock, ignoring entirely such interest at 7% due them; and the owners of said stock have ever since under this Plan and management and control and monopoly, suffered the loss of said interest and will continue to suffer that loss until the property is taken out of the hands of said defendants.

Your Orator alleges that the contract under which your Orator and other stockholders held their stock and stated in the charter of said Corn Products Company, and repeated in the Certificate of the Preferred and the Common stock aforesaid, issued to your Orator, or held and owned by it, is as follows, namely:

"The holders of the preferred stock shall be entitled to receive when and as declared from the surplus or net profits of the company yearly dividends at the rate of 7% per annum and no more, payable quarterly on dates to be fixed by the by-laws. The dividend on the preferred stock shall 365 be cumulative and shall be payable before any dividend on the common stock shall be paid or set apart so that if in any year dividends amounting to 7% shall not have been paid thereon the deficiency shall be payable before any dividend shall be paid upon or set apart for the common stock.

Whenever all cumulative dividends on the preferred stock for all previous years shall have been declared and shall have become payable and the accrued quarterly installments for the current year shall have been declared and the company shall have paid such cumulative dividends for previous years and such accrued quarterly installments or shall have set aside from its surplus or net profits a sum sufficient for the payment thereof, the board of directors may declare dividends on the common stock payable then or thereafter out of any remaining surplus or net profit * * *

In the event of any liquidation or dissolution or winding up, whether voluntary or involuntary, of the company, the holders of the preferred stock shall be entitled to be paid in full both the par amount of their shares and the unpaid dividends accrued thereon before any amount shall be paid to the holders of the common stock."

28. Your Orator alleges that these provisions in the contract of the Preferred stock, as above stated held by your Orator, were and are a part of the contract and contracts with your Orator as to each amount and all amounts of the said shares of Preferred stock held by it, and were in full force and binding upon the said Corn Products Company and all other persons dealing with said Corn Products Company at all times during its history and are still in force and have never been set aside or destroyed by any action or consent upon the part of your Orator, but your Orator alleges and shows unto your Honors, that by said action of said Trustees, the defendants herein, in the attempted execution of said Plan, all the said property of the Corn Products Company have been taken out of its hands, wrongfully and without right, and that its factories, and all its business, and its market, good will, trade secrets and patents, and licenses, necessary to the conduct of business, are now wrongfully in the possession, management, and control, of the Standard Oil Company, and others of said defendants, and the said Corn Products Company and the rights and interests of your Orator have been annihilated, by and under the execution of said Plan and in pursuance thereof.

29. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors, that said Plan effects the preservation of a part of the common stock of the Corn Products Company and thereby secures to the conspirators the consequent control of both the Corn Products Company and the Corn Products Refining Company accomplished by the defeat and confiscation of the Preferred stock

and of its preference; for it is claimed by said defendant that it was wise with due regard to the interest of all parties to cut down the Preferred stock and thereby take away $10,000,000 of the money put into it, yet at the same time it is also pretended and the Plan secures to the holder of the Common stock a value capitalized at $33,444,000 in the capital stock of the Corn Products Refining Company; and it is now, as the sequel shows, pretends that a dividend can be shortly made on this very common stock of the Refining Company.

366 So that your Orator respectfully shows unto your Honor, that this common stock secures the control of the Corn Products Company and of the Corn Products Refining Company and can be manipulated into this immense sum; although said common stock was not entitled to a penny under the terms of said charter of the Corn Products Company until all of said Preferred stock, including the $10,000,000 of the Preferred stock cut off by said Plan had first been paid in full and until all unpaid cumulative dividends and interest thereon were also paid to the last dollar.

That it is the truth and your Orator charges that this Plan was made to effect the common objects of said conspirators, namely: (1st) To secure to the Standard Oil Company the $17,000,000 given by said division in behalf of the factories held by it, and (2nd) to give value to the Common stock of the Corn Products Company which had been theretofore bought up by the Standard Oil Company and its said associate defendants in said conspiracy, and (3rd) the creation of the said monopoly of the manufacture and sale of glucose, starch and by-products. That as elsewhere stated in this bill the Standard Oil Company by the manipulation of the market, by the sale of the stock of the Corn Products Company on the New York Stock Exchange for years, without reference or regard to the real value of the stock as by fictitious sales of stock, that never were made or delivered, reduced said stock to nearly a tenth of its value. That a majority of the stock of the Corn Products Co. being acquired by this monstrous series of operations backed by the irresistible wealth and influence of the Standard Oil Company, and with entire indifference to the interests of other stockholders, the said Standard Oil Company was able at its pleasure, and at a price fixed by themselves, to acquire from their worn-out stockholders when compelled to sell, and now control, the greater part of the $80,000,000 of actual capital and money of the Corn Products Company, and are now managing the business of all the property which they have acquired substantially for nothing, financed by itself and at the sacrifice of many individual stockholders, including your Orator, as elsewhere stated in this bill.

30. That your Orator had the right, specially contracted stockholders of the same class, Preferred and Common, to have the $80,000,000 of assets of the Corn Products Company given to said stockholders in the order fixed by their respective contracts, and cannot be ousted of the same by and in behalf of their Trustees.

That the Preferred stock must be paid and after that the Common stock had a right to be paid out of the assets of the Corn Products Company; and that said stockholders had a right to refuse the bargain and substitute presented to them by their Trustees by this Plan. That the assets of the Corn Products Company were sufficient many times over to pay the Preferred stock without the surrender of a dollar of it. That what remained of the assets of the Corn Products Company was sufficient to pay the stock of the Common shareholders of said company, and it was a criminal act to compel said stockholders to have their properties destroyed and their independent right to control annihilated by this

Plan, and the creation of this monopoly was an unjust 367 and unlawful change of this condition.

31. Your Orator alleges that if the assets of the Corn Products Company were distributed in a Court of Equity, such court would have distributed to the Preferred stockholders full payment at par of their stock, instead of the liquidation under this Plan by which the Preferred stockholders must surrender one-third of their stock, including back dividends and interest, in order to give place to the common stock which is left a large residuum; that the assets of said Corn Products Company were ample to effect such distribution in a court of equity and that the effect of this Plan not only causes this injustice, but to this must be added the fact, that the price on the New York Stock Exchange of Preferred stock of the Corn Products Refining Company, if accepted as an index of its value, shows that this Plan compels a sale of the Preferred stock of the Corn Products Company or its exchange for the Preferred stock of the Corn Products Refining Company, worth less than 42 cents on the dollar, and this sacrifice is coupled with the assurance that the Corn Products Refining Company must manage the 35½ factories under the control of the Standard Oil Company engaged in the misconduct and criminal violations of law for which the National government is demanding its punishment.

32. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors, that the facts herein alleged in regard to the action of the defendants in this conspiracy aforesaid remained unknown to your Orator until within a short time, a few months at best, when they were learned little by little, information being denied and withheld by said trustees, as were the said defendants; and it charges that no notice was given to your Orator by defendants of any of their action or proposed action aforesaid, as set out in this bill, and what knowledge your Orator has obtained was gathered from time to time, and only after having been first concealed from it, and only learned with difficulty; one of the acts of concealment showing the secret manner in which they were done, namely, was that the very name of the Corn Products Company was counterfeited and concealed by the name given to the Corn Products Refining Company and of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and their actual existence and relations were concealed. That these devices of said conspirators were meant to conceal, confuse and deceive your orator and other stockholders not in the said conspiracy; and your Orator alleges that had the truth been known to it it would have filed a bill in apt time to prevent the execution of said Plan and the consummation of said conspiracy. That your Orator alleges that it has been unable to learn or state more fully than as herein set forth how the designs of the said conspirators were effected and with what action, if any, of record, in any book or books, showing the conduct and action of the directors of the Corn Products Company, or of the Corn Products Refining Company (if they were so preceded, accompanied or followed), nor whether a merger was attempted, or if so, how made, under the color of the law, or laws, of New Jersey, or what will be so claimed by said defendants in that regard; but your Orator shows unto your Honors and charges, that whatever was done by said defendants for said end or ob-
368 ject, whether by merger or otherwise, in said conspiracy, was wrongful, fraudulent, and grossly inequitable as against your Orator; and that said Plan, the formation and apportionment of said Corn Products Refining Company, were unequal, unjust and inequitable, as elsewhere more fully shown.

complaint.*

33. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors that the Standard Oil Company and its Directors, including the Directors of the New York Glucose Company, and the Directors of the Corn Products Refining Company, as well as the Directors and Officers of the Corn Products Company, who were all engaged in the conspiracy herein described, were in reality trustees for the stockholders of the Corn Products Company, including your Orator. That they managed and controlled the Corn Products Company and its business for their own benefit; that they bought the factories of the Warner Company at Waukegan and of the St. Louis Company at Granite City, using the control of the market of glucose, and of the market on the New York Stock Exchange of the stock of the Corn Products Company to that end, and for the purposes of said conspiracy; and that in addition to the loss directly inflicted upon your Orator of said stock, the said conspirators by their manipulation and misconduct, destroyed the value to a great extent of the stock of said Corn Products Company, and inflicted a loss of $2,000,000, outside of the stock aforesaid still owned and held by it upon your Orator, the value of the stock of the Corn Products Company disposed of by him at a great loss caused by the said Standard Oil Company and its associates in said conspiracy, who compelled and enforced the sale to themselves, for which loss they are liable as trustees who have violated their trust for their own benefit in this and the other various manipulations of the stock values of the New York Stock Exchange, and of the property of your Orator and other stockholders of the Corn Products Company, as elsewhere stated fully in this bill.

34. Your orator shows unto your Honors, that this condition, to which the Corn Products Company is reduced, is in effect a form of liquidation by which the Trustees of the stockholders of the Corn Products Company hold its assets and prevent the distribution due the stockholders until they are ready to accept what should be given them by this Plan. That it is one of the most effective devices known by which the predatory corporations achieve their ends. That it is in effect in contempt of the law; that it preserves the skeleton, cheats all interested, and is calculated to enable the beneficiary to was advanced to 24 cents per gallon in July, 1906, and the public will be compelled to pay whatever the said Bedford and his Standard Oil friends choose to demand, and this is not a beneficial monopoly.

38. At the time your orator purchased said stock, as aforesaid, and for a long time prior thereto, and for a considerable period thereafter, the capital stock of the said Corn Products Company was duly listed upon the stock exchanges of New York and Chicago, and other large cities, and was daily bought and sold, in open market, as one of the standard investments of the country, the market value thereof being as above stated, and the same was based upon the ownership of the properties above described, and other valuable properties and the profitable manufacturing business to the carrying on of which all the said properties were devoted by the parties aforesaid, for the benefit of the said Corn Products Company, and its stockholders, including your Orator, as aforesaid; and, in reliance upon the said facts, your orator acquired the said stock, and your Orator has ever since held, and still holds the same to the extent stated already in this bill, for such purpose, and at the time your Orator so acquired the same, and afterwards, the said Corn Products Company was paying, regularly dividends to the holders of the said stock, including your Orator, on the par value of said stock, from the profits of the said business so controlled by the said Corn Products Company and so conducted and managed for the benefit of the said Corn Products Company, and its stockholders, including your orator; and it was the duty of the said Corn Products Company, and its officers and directors, to continue to so manage its affairs, including the said properties and business above mentioned, through its control thereof, as aforesaid, that such dividends upon the stock should and would continue from year to year, and your Orator avers that if the said Corn Products Company, and its officers and directors, had, honestly and in good faith, continued its said business, and the management thereof, the said stock of your Orator, together with the stock of other stockholders in said Corn Products Company, not parties to said conspiracy, would still be earning and paying such dividends, and now be worth one hundred ($100) dollars per share; but, instead of that now being the case, your Orator avers that by reason of the bad faith, and misconduct, of the officers and directors of the said Corn Products Company, and 371 others, pursuant to and as a part of the said conspiracy, the entire stock of the said Corn Products Company, has by reason of the said conspiracy and the said wrongful conduct, pursuant thereto, ceased to be listed stock, and ceased to pay or earn dividends, and its value has thus been entirely destroyed, the said conspirators having fraudulently caused the same to be dropped from the list of the said stock exchanges, and have fraudulently stopped the payment of dividends thereon pursuant to said conspiracy, and are now managing all of the said properties in the exclusive interest of said conspirators, and in total disregard of the rights of your Orator as the owner and holder of the said stock, and in total disregard of all the rights of the holders and owners of the stock of the said Corn Products Company, other than said conspirators.

complaint.

39. Your Orator further represents that, pursuant to said conspiracy, and for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid, said conspirators are now planning and arranging to cause all of the said properties and the said business to be transferred and conveyed to the said Corn Products Refining Company, or to said aforesaid defendants or others, and thus permanently destroy the value of your Orator's said stock and the value of the other stock of the said Corn Products Company held or owned by persons or parties other than said conspirators, and your Orator brings this Bill of Complaint not only for the benefit of your Orator, but also for the benefit of the holders and owners of the stock of the said Corn Products Company, in the same situation as your Orator, and said other holders and owners of the said stock are hereby invited to come in as co-complainant with your Orator in this Bill of Complaint, and to share in the benefits of whatever relief may be obtained under or by virtue of this suit, upon contribution of their pro rata share of the expenses thereof.

40. Your Orator is informed and believes, and so charges the fact to be, that the said stock of said thirty-five and one-half companies and factories, and with the other properties and assets of the Corn Products Company, are now about to be transferred and conveyed to the said Corn Products Refining Company, or other parties, pursuant to said conspiracy, and for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid, and will be so transferred and conveyed unless the said conspirators, hereinafter made defendants to this Bill of Complaint, be restrained from so doing, or causing the same to be done, by the order of this court, thereby working irreparable injury to your orator, and to the other stockholders of the said Corn Products Company, not parties to said conspiracy.

41. Your Orator further represents that the officers of said Corn Products Company are as follows, namely: J. A. Moffett, President, W. J. Matthiessen, Vice President, and F. T. Fisher, Treasurer; and the Directors of said Corn Products Company are as follows, namely: Charles L. Glass, William J. Calhoun, W. H. Nichols, Joy Morton, W. J. Matthiessen, F. Q. Barstow, J. A. Moffett, Edward T. Bedford, T. B. Wagner, William W. Heaton, F. T. Fisher and William C. Sherwood; and your Orator is informed and believes and so charges the fact to be that all the officers and directors of the said Corn Products Company are either parties to 372 the said conspiracy or so interested with said conspirators that none of them will take any steps to prevent the carrying out of the said conspiracy for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid; that they are really acting as nominal directors of an automaton without any initiative and absolutely subject to the control and orders of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in which many of them are Directors and Officers or clerks and agents or attorneys, as elsewhere stated; and said Corn Products Company is really serving its enemies and in a state of suspended animation, as elsewhere stated in this bill.

42. Your Orator further represents that the said Corn Products Refining Company is a giant pool, and trust, and combine, formed by said conspirators for the purpose of unlawfully regulating and fixing and controlling the price of glucose and grape sugar, and other products, all of which are articles of merchandise and commodities manufactured and sold in this state, and through the United States; that the names of the persons forming such pool, trust, and combine, other than these hereinbefore mentioned, are now unknown to your orator, and your orator has not been able, after diligent inquiry, to ascertain the same, but your Orator is informed and believes, and so charges, that all the persons above named, including the said officers and directors of the said Corn Products Company, are parties thereto, or interested therein, together with others unknown to your Orator; that said pool, trust and combine is to be accomplished, and carried out, and made effectual for the purposes aforesaid, under the forms of the law, namely: in and through such corporation under the name of the said Corn Products Refining Company; that the parties organizing, creating, promoting and managing or interested in the said pool, trust and combine, are now perfecting their arrangements, with the intent and purpose of unlawfully monopolizing, controlling, regulating and fixing the price of glucose and grape sugar and by-products within the State of Illinois, and throughout the United States, and for such fraudulent and unlawful purpose, as well as for the further purpose of defrauding your Orator or your Orator's said stock and defrauding other holders of the stock of said Corn Products Company similarly situated with your Orator, have already arranged to obtain control of substantially all the corporations and individuals heretofore engaged in the manufacture and sale of said commodities throughout the United States, and the said Corn Products Refining Company will, pursuant to said conspiracy, and for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid, unlawfully acquire and now hold complete control of the said corporations and individuals, and of the manufacture and sale of the said products, throughout the United States, unless restrained from so doing by the order or decree of this Honorable Court; that the purpose and intent of the said pool and combination, and of the said parties forming the same, or interested therein, jointly and severally, and especially of the Standard Oil Company, is to create a trust in, and a complete monopoly of, the said articles and commodities, and give to the Corn Products Refining Company, as the representative and embodiment of such trust, and pool, and combine, the power to regulate and fix, and absolutely control both the supply and the price of said articles and commodities, in the State of Illinois, and throughout the United States, amounting now 373 in the aggregate to several billions of pounds annually and consuming many millions of bushels of corn, annually; that said pool and trust and combine, and the effect, intent and purpose thereof, and the intent and purpose of the parties forming the same, or interested therein, as aforesaid, is in direct violation of the laws of this state, and of the United States, and in violation of the statutes of this state in and for such case made and provided, and for the purpose and plan of the said pool, trust and combine, and of said parties forming the same, or interested therein, is to swallow up and merge in the said Corn Products Refining Company, all the organizations and plants in the United States, heretofore engaged or used in the manufacture or sale of said articles and commodities, or any of them, issuing to the said organizations heretofore so engaged stock in the said Corn Products Refining Company to hereby perfect its control of said organization, and, where this method fails, to buy said organizations and plants for cash or its equivalent, and, in any event, to thus merge and swallow up all the said organizations and plants, including the said Corn Products Company, in said pool, trust and combine, thus leaving to your Orator, and other stockholders similarly situated, the option only of participating in such unlawful trust, pool and combine, or submitting to the destruction of the stock so held by your Orator, and others similarly situated in said Corn Products Company, or the destruction of the value thereof, and your Orator charges that the officers and directors, and majority stockholders of the said corporations, defendants herein named, are actively and knowingly, and unlawfully, aiding and participating and joining in, said trust, pool and combine, and preparing fraudulently and unlawfully to sell and transfer all the said plants and properties of the said Corn Products Company to the said Standard Oil Company or to the said Corn Products Refining Company representing said Standard Oil Company, for the unlawful and fraudulent purposes aforesaid, and will so do unless restrained therefrom by the order or decree of this Honorable Court.

43. Your Orator further charges that the forming and carrying out of the said pool, trust and combine, in and by the formation and action of the said Corn Products Refining Company, pursuant to said conspiracy, is an unlawful and fraudulent stock-jobbing scheme and frenzied finance upon the part of the said conspirators, for the purpose of fleecing the public, as well as your Orator, and others similarly situated, in the devious ways and methods originating in Wall street, and practiced by financial pirates, constituting "the system" by which the public are fleeced and plundered continually, and by which it is intended by said conspirators to freeze out and defraud your Orator, as the holder and owner of the said stock in the said Corn Products Company, and other holders of such stock, not parties to such conspiracy, all of which is contrary to equity and good conscience and in violation of the Common law and laws of this state.

44. Your Orator further represents that a part and parcel of the plan of said conspirators, in carrying out the said conspiracy, is to dismantle and destroy such of said plants as are now yielding profits applicable to the payment of dividends on the said stock belonging to your Orator, and others similarly situated, and build up and operate other plants for the manufacture and sale of said products, from the earnings of which dividends will be paid to said conspirators, exclusively, and not to your Orator, or others similarly situated, all of which is pursuant to said conspiracy, and for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid, there being now no occasion for the sale or transfer of any of the plants, controlled, aforesaid, heretofore, by said Corn Products Company, and from the net earnings of which plants dividends have heretofore been paid, and ought to continue to be paid to the holders of the stock of said Corn Products Company including your Orator, and there is now no occasion or excuse for the dismantling or abandonment, or destruction, of any of the said plants, but it is to the interest of the public, and to the interest of your Orator, and other stockholders of the said Corn Products Company, that all of the said plants continue a separate existence and business, and carry on the same, without becoming merged and swallowed up in the said Corn Products Refining Company constituting the said pool, trust and combine, as aforesaid, for the manufacture of the said products has already become profitable, and is becoming more profitable every year, and all that prevents such profitable conduct of said business for the benefit of your Orator, and others interested therein, is the fraudulent conspiracy aforesaid, and the said unlawful action and conduct of the parties thereto, pursuant to the conspiracy aforesaid, and to the end that such fraud may be prevented, your Orator is advised and believes, and so charges, that a receiver should be appointed by this Honorable Court of the said Corn Products Company, and its property, and, particularly, of the said plants thirty-five and one-half lately owned and held in the name of and operated by the said Corn Products Company, in Chicago, Illinois, and in Peoria, Illinois, and elsewhere and that said plants be managed and operated by said receiver, under the orders and directions of this Honorable Court, pending the hearing of this cause, and the said conspirators thereby ousted from the possession or control thereof, and a reorganization had of the said Corn Products Company, and of the several corporations heretofore controlled by said Corn Products Company, under the orders and directions of this Honorable Court, and that said conspirators including said Corn Products Refining Company be enjoined from paying any dividends and from making, or causing to be made, any sale, or transfer, or conveyance, of the said properties, or plants, or any or either of them, or any part thereof, to said Corn Products Refining Company, or any other or others of said conspirators, or to other corporations or persons.

45. Your Orator further represents and charges that all the acts of the said conspirators above named, or referred to and of said pool and trust and combine, and of the parties forming or interested therein, have been and are with the fraudulent intent and purpose to thereby effect a combination of many millions of dollars of capital, and skill, and firms and corporations, and individuals, to limit and control the production of glucose, starch and by-products, and other commodities, and regulate, and fix, and control, and change 375 at the will of said conspirators, the price of the same and to prevent competitions in the manufacture and sale of such products, all of which is in violation of the Statute of Illinois, entitled: "An Act to provide for the punishment of persons, copartnerships or corporations forming pools, trusts and combines, and mode of procedure and rules of evidence in such cases," approved June 11, 1891, in force July 1, 1891 and of other statutes of said state, and with the intent and purpose on their part to place the control, of such products in the hands of the said trustee, the said Corn Products Refining Company, and thereby control the price and supply and manufacture thereof, in violation of the said Statute of the State of Illinois, and in violation of the common law of the State, and its Statutes in and for such case made and provided, and of the statutes and laws of the United States.

46. Your Orator further represents that the glucose business has grown to enormous proportions in this country, and its products are everywhere in use, and of vast commercial importance, in their varied and manifold uses, and in carrying on of such business great skill and vast capital are employed and required, and it is for the interest of the public that competition be unrestrained and uneffected by such pools and trusts, and combines, as the said Corn Products Refining Company, it not being an easy matter for persons or corporations to go into and engage in such business, as it requires considerable time and much capital to erect plant for the same, and many of the most important processes are patented and owned or controlled heretofore by the said several corporations above named, other than the said Corn Products Refining Company and said Standard Oil Company aforesaid, and it requires skill and experienced men to erect and operate such plant, and the supply of such men is limited, and not equal to the public demand, and it will be impossible to compete with the Standard Oil Company, or its agents or its agent said Corn Products Refining Company in such business, in the State of Illinois, or elsewhere in the United States, unless such conspirators be prevented from carrying out their conspiracy aforesaid, and, if such conspiracy be so carried out the said property of your Orator and others similarly situated will be entirely destroyed, and the said pool, trust and combine, would be in complete control of said products throughout the State of Illinois, and throughout the United States, and all competition therein thus prevented.

47. Your Orator further represents that said pool, trust and combine, formed under the name of the said Corn Products Refining Company, cannot succeed in its said fraudulent purposes, unless it secures control of the said plants located in Illinois, and a prevention of its control thereof will prevent the carrying out of the conspiracy aforesaid, as the State of Illinois is the center of the corn belt of the United States, and if free competition be maintained in this State, in the manufacture and sale of such products, the welfare of 376 the entire public will thus be promoted, and the loss of the stock of your Orator, and others similarly situated, in the said Corn Products Company, will be, at the same time, thus prevented, and your Orator charges that whatever may be the form, or forms, adopted and to be adopted, or pursued, by said conspirators, forming or constituting the said Corn Products Refining Company, the substance and effect thereof is, and will remain, a united control of the plants and corporations of this country engaged in the manufacture or sale, of said products, by and in the name of the said Corn Products Refining Company; and the formation and operation of the said Corn Products Refining Company, by said conspirators, is simply a mode of union after the manner of the Standard Oil Company, a part of that gigantic monopoly, and constituting a giant monopoly for the purpose of controlling, fixing, and regulating, both the supply and the price, of glucose, and its varied by-products, syrups and sugar,

throughout the State of Illinois, and throughout the United States.

48. Your Orator alleges, that the action and policy of the Standard Oil Company by which they have been enabled to destroy the competition and create monopolies in and control many of the leading products of the country, has been in great part effected by secret and criminal rebates, and other advantages given to said Standard Oil Company by the railroad companies of the United States to the exclusion of independent competition, and to the destruction of the capital engaged in such competition; and your Orator alleges that such secret and criminal contracts and rebates, and other misconduct of the said Standard Oil Company will attend the future control and management of the Corn Products Company, and of said Corn Products Refining Company and of said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and of said thirty-five and one-half factories by whatever agents they are managed under the Standard Oil Company and its allies, if not ousted by the order of this court.

49. Your Orator further alleges and shows unto your Honor that said Standard Oil Co. and its agents, individuals and corporations, the defendants, who have secured the management and control of the property and assets of the Corn Products Co., cannot be trusted with the said management and control, as assured to them by this Plan; yet they are past-masters in the manipulation of market and manufacture to suit their own interests and will destroy and crush the opposition of your Orator and other stockholders who have not surrendered their property under this Plan, by all methods open to corrupt Trustees, and will commit every offense known to predatory corporations of which this defendant, the Standard Oil Company, is easily the first,—offenses against the laws meant to protect the rights of your Orator and of the People of this country against said malefactors, unless prevented by the action of this court. Your Orator shows that said Trustees, the defendants, have already destroyed and junked two or more of said thirty-five and one-half factories and are now engaged in completing the destruction of the factory in Peoria, which was held and regarded as one of the most profitable and successful factories engaged in said manufacture and had cost in its construction more 377 than a million dollars—a factory for which the Corn Products Company had paid more than $2,000,000 in 1902, and the Corn Products Manufacturing Company in August, 1897, had paid nearly two million dollars therefor; and your Orator charges that said factory was destroyed in order to give to him and the objecting stockholders an object lesson of the character and determination of the Standard Oil Company and its co-defendants, and of the policy which they would mercilessly pursue as Trustees.

50. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors, that the Standard Oil Company through its agent, the Corn Products Refining Company, continues to pay dividends, in favor of itself, and others in its interests; but said dividends were payable upon the Preferred stock of said company, but none to the stockholders of the Corn Products Company, owners of the thirty-five and one-half factories, but payable only to the owners of the two and a half factories, which never before are known to have paid dividends to their stockholders, or are known to have shown net earnings as elsewhere more fully stated in this bill; dividends from pretended earnings of the two and a half factories and their companies holding the same, of which the contribution to this Plan was the said indebtedness of over $3,250,000 created in their short experience.

51. Your Orator further shows that out of the earnings for the year ending February 28, 1907, reported at $6,500,000, not a dollar has been divided to your Orator or the other stockholders of the stock of the Corn Products Company objecting to this Plan—but some millions of dollars are left undivided in the Treasury; and this under color of various pretenses hinted at in said report—every one of which your Orator alleges were and are untrue and made to suit the ends of the Standard Oil Company; that the real truth is that your Orator and other objecting stockholders are to be punished in this amongst many other methods, by this master monopoly until driven to consent to their new monopoly, condemned as a crime by the common law and the Statutes of this State.

52. That to further show the inequitable character of the management of our Trustees who owned the two and a half factories and put them in to this Plan at a profit of nearly $15,000,000, and pretend to make dividends out of their earnings while denying dividends to the owners of the thirty-five and one-half factories, your Orator states unto your Honors the following facts, namely: That the grinding capacities of the thirty-five factories of the Corn Products Company are greater than those of the two and a half factories by five fold; that they had all the experience in the manufacture of glucose, starch and by-products, trade secrets and patents, and had always been successful with immense earnings and dividends as elsewhere shown in this bill; that the market of starch was chiefly in the hands of said Corn Products factories; that the market of the said Kingsford Company alone in the starch business exceeded that of any other factory and was preferred in the market to all others and in every household and with a profitable business for sixty years past, entirely unequaled and amounting to at least $500,000 per year, and certainly worth at a reliable estimate 378 made in annual profits far more than that of the two and a half factories put in by said Standard Oil Company.

complaint.

53. That the management of the business and market of the thirty-five and a half factories of the Corn Products Company cannot be safely entrusted to the Standard Oil Company, because it is a great monopoly and therefore a great and distinguished offender, being prosecuted as guilty of criminal offenses by the National Government, and declared, condemned, and adjudged guilty of great offenses against the policy and interests of the American People; and that the management and control of the assets of $80,000,000 of the Corn Products Company while under control of the said Standard Oil Company, are, and will be, like that of the management and control of the Standard Oil Company itself, and of the many other companies, and corporations, conducted from its office in 26 Broadway, New York, in contempt of and in conflict with the laws of this state and of the United States and to entrust them with the same is to hand over the ownership, management and control of nearly forty factories of which the greater and more important are situated in the State of Illinois, and if allowed to remain under such control will be in the hands of criminals as held and adjudged by the laws of this state and of the nation.

379 Sec. 54. Your Orator further alleges and shows unto your Honors, that said Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and said Corn Products Refining Company, defendants herein, never were authorized and could not lawfully buy and cannot lawfully hold the said stock nor of any of said defendant corporations or their subsidiaries, or any part of the stock of the Corn Products Company, as elsewhere more fully set forth in this bill; that to buy and hold such stock was and is against the policy of the State of Illinois where the property and factories chiefly lie and where the companies to whom belonged said stock, and property are chiefly engaged in manufacturing said products; and your Orator alleges that the laws of said State forbid said corporations to buy and hold the stock of said Corn Products Company, or of any of said defendant corporations or of any of their subsidiaries.

Your Orator alleges that said purchases, sales and holdings of said Corn Products stock, or of any of said defendant corporations or their subsidiaries, by said Corn Products Refining Company and Standard Oil Company were ultra vires, because made to secure and tending to secure a monopoly of the manufacture and business, including the purchase and sale, of glucose and by-products and starch in the United States.

Your orator further alleges that the title of record is now in the Glucose Sugar Refining Company, known as the defendant Corn Products Manufacturing Company, of the six factories above described in this bill, and described as "formerly owned and operated by the Glucose Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey"; and the said factories and plants are now operated in the name of the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company by which name the Glucose Sugar Refining Company is now known; and the stocks of the several companies owning said factories are now still standing in the name of the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company; and your Orator charges that they have never been transferred to, and never were put in possession of the Corn Products Refining Company, and are still owned and held as they were owned and held up to the formation of the Corn Products Company, so far as concerns the legal and equitable title to said factories and stocks; and whatever title or right is now owned, or can be claimed and held by the Corn Products Refining Company, is and must be derived from its ownership of the stock of the Corn Products Company, as elsewhere set forth in this bill; and that the plan has never been completely executed of merging, consolidating, or transferring the $80,000,000 of stock of the Corn Products Company, or of its title and right in said factories and all of them, including the whole of the thirty-five and one-half factories, and the companies owning the same; that said factories and stock have never been legally or equitably transferred or conveyed to the Corn Products Refining Company; and your Orator asks that the execution of said Plan may be stayed and enjoined as hereinafter set forth in the prayer of this bill; and your Orator charges that until such transfers have been made and such conveyances had of the legal title to said stock and of the possession of said factories, the said Plan of Merger or Consolidation in the Corn Products Refining Company is still executory and it is within the power of a court of equity to deal with the said property and with the whole 380 transaction of which their sale and conveyances are a part, as an executory contract.

55. Your Orator alleges that the Standard Oil Company and its co-conspirators never have completely executed this plan, but have left the possession of the thirty-eight factories described in this Plan so that their possession is now in the hands of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company of New Jersey, as their agent, which now conducts and controls the manufacture in the several factories, in obedience to the orders of the Standard Oil Company; and the products thereof, now bear the brands of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company; and your Orator alleges that this Corn Products Manufacturing Company is the old Glucose Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey, which was condemned as a monopoly and offender against the trust laws of the state, and now remains under the condemnation and ban of the laws of this State, as adjudged by the Supreme Court of Illinois; and said manufacture and control of so extensive and important an industry, in open and flagrant contempt of the law, will remain in said criminal corporation until ousted by the Receiver appointed by this Court.

56. That the said Standard Oil Company and its co-defendants intend to vote the stock of the so-called subsidiary companies described in said Plan and in this bill including both the Warner and St. Louis companies, and said Corn Products Company, and the companies constituting or belonging to said Corn Products Company described in this bill, which are believed to be and claimed to be by said defendants as still existing for such purposes as the said defendants choose to promote, and especially to secure the continued existence of said monopoly of said business and manufacture of glucose, starch and by-products and to control and conduct the same in defiance of the laws and the orders and decrees of this court; and your Orator therefore especially prays that the said defendants and each and every and all of them be respectively enjoined from voting the stock of said companies and all of said companies aforesaid.

57. To the end therefore that your Orator may have a remedy and equity in the premises and that the Standard Oil Company and the said Corn Products Company and the said Corn Products Refining Company and the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company all corporations of the State of New Jersey, and the said Conrad H. Matthiesen, Charles L. Glass, William W. Heaton, Norman B. Ream, William J. Calhoun, Joy Morton, Benjamin Graham, T. B. Wagner, H. G. Herget, Thomas P. Kingsford, William C. Sherwood, W. H. Nichols, Edward T. Bedford and E. P. Wemple, all of whom are hereby made parties defendant to this Bill of Complaint, may be duly summoned to answer the same (but not under oath, the oath to their respective answers being hereby expressly waived); and to the end that a receiver may be appointed of the properties and affairs of the said glucose and starch manufacturing companies, including the Corn Products Company, the Corn Products Refining Company and the Corn Products Manufacturing Company, respectively; and to the end that said defendants, and every of them, respectively, and their respective attorneys, agents 381 and servants, shall be made to account for the moneys they have improperly received, and generally as trustees; and may be enjoined from paying dividends or doing or performing any of the unlawful acts above complained of by your Orator, and, particularly, from selling or conveying, or causing to be sold or conveyed, to the said Corn Products Refining Company or to any other company, corporation or individual, or from meddling with, any of the property now standing in the name of the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company or any of the property and assets of the Corn Products Company, including the said real estate situated in the State of Illinois, and the thirty-five and one-half factories and plants above described; and your Orator further prays that the said defendants, and each of them, and their respective agents, attorneys and representatives, may be enjoined and restrained from interfering with the title or possession of said factories, or the stock of the companies owning or controlling the same described in this bill, and from advising or attempting to control the action of their several and respective officers, directors, or agents, in the management of said factories, or in the business of buying or selling the products of said factories described in this bill, and of each and all of them; that said defendants respectively, may be further restrained from selling or otherwise disposing of the said shares of stock of the Corn Products Company, or from voting the same, or any part of the same, at any meeting of the stockholders of said

complaint.

Corn Products Company, and that the stock of the Corn Products Company purchased by or for the said Corn Products Refining Company in exchange for its stock, or otherwise, or held by or for any other of said defendants, engaged in said conspiracy, and used for the purpose of advancing the same may be cancelled; and especially that said defendants may be enjoined from the further execution and enforcement of said Plan or of said conspiracy by conveyances of the title or conveyances of said factories, or of the sites or grounds of the same, or of further carrying out or executing the said Plan; your Orator further prays that the moneys, surplus, working capital, or otherwise, of the Corn Products Company, or received from the Corn Products Company, or derived from any of its factories, or officers aforesaid, and the moneys received by the Corn Products Refining Company, or any of its agents, officers or representatives, from its business, from the manufacture and sale of any of the products of the said factories described in this bill and in this Plan, and claimed to be owned or controlled by said Refining Company, including all the receipts in the hands of said Refining Company or any of its agents or officers, or paid over and in the hands of said Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and the finished or unfinished product of said factories of said Refining Company, or the moneys received from junking said factories, or otherwise, from the proceeds of the property of the Corn Products Company, may be impounded and placed in the hands of a Receiver appointed by this court, and that the said defendants and each of them may be enjoined from meddling with said moneys, and all and each of the same, and with said property, and from junking and destroying or disposing of the same, and especially may be enjoined from paying out 382 the same upon dividends or otherwise, and in the payment of salaries or otherwise; and to that end there may be a reorganization of the said Corn Products Company under the directions of this Honorable Court; and to the end that your Orator may have such other and further or different relief, in the premises, as equity may require, your Orator prays that a writ of subpoena in due form be issued commanding the said defendants, the said Standard Oil Company and the said Corn Products Company, and the said Corn Products Refining Company, and the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, the said Conrad H. Matthiessen, Charles L. Glass, William W. Heaton, Norman B. Ream, William J. Calhoun, Joy Morton, Benjamin Graham, T. B. Wagner, H. G. Herget, Thomas P. Kingsford, William C. Sherwood, W. H. Nichols, Edward T. Bedford and E. F. BILL OF COMPLAINT.

To the Judges of the said Circuit Court in Chancery Sitting:

Your Orator, Geo. F. Harding, a resident and citizen of the State of California, humbly complaining, respectfully represents unto your Honors: That your Orator on or before the year 1904 was the owner of 500 shares of the stock of the Corn Products Company of New Jersey and ever since has been and still is the owner and holder of the same and that the value of said stock exceeded $20,000—

1. That the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and the defendants hereinafter named, constituting and controlling the Directory of the said Corn Products Company, then and ever since have occupied the position of Trustees of your Orator, as to said stock, and while acting as such Trustees they have wrongfully impaired and injured the value of all of said stock and are now further injuring and impairing the same by the conspiracy and misconduct hereinafter set out in this bill.

That said Standard Oil Company, and co-defendants, have wrongfully obtained possession by said conspiracy and misconduct of all the property of the Corn Products Company, including thirty-five and one-half factories engaged in the manufacture of glucose, starch and by-products, and that by a combination in the year 1906 the said defendants having also acquired the stock of two and one-half companies and of their factories engaged in the same business, have, while ruining the value of your Orator's stock, created a monopoly in the manufacture and sale of said necessities of life, contrary

filed Oct. 19,

tion of said factories for the year 1906, were over $6,000,000; and the earnings for 1907 have been at the rate of $600,000 per month and are increasing, and this, too, also appears by the annual and quarterly statements of the defendants for those periods, and your Orator alleges that nothing had occurred in the history of the Corn Products Company up to January 6, 1906, to impair the solid value and the excellent condition of said company.

That the real value of said stock of your Orator would have continued and ought now to be, at the time of filing this bill, the full sum of the par of said shares, and cumulative dividends and interest upon said preferred stock at 7% annually, and also yearly dividends upon said common stock when and as earned out of the profits aforesaid, and which were adequate to the payment of the same from time to time yearly at 4%, had it not been for the misconduct, and the conspiracy, and the illegal act of the said defendants against your Orator hereinafter described.

5. That prior to the 6th of January, 1906, the exact date being unknown to your Orator, C. H. Matthiessen, Norman B. Ream, William W. Heaton, Joy Morton, C. L. Glass, W. J. Calhoun, T. B. Wagner, H. G. Herget, E. F. Wemple, Benjamin Graham, W. H. Nichols, and E. T. Bedford, were and for a long time had been the Officers and Directors of said Corn Products Company, and were the owners and holders of a large part of the stock, chiefly of the Common stock, of said Corn Products Company; that combining and confederating together, and with the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and others in the interest of said Standard Oil Company, which had for a long time named said Board of Directors and said officers, entered into an unlawful conspiracy to cheat and defraud your Orator, as the holder of the stock of aforesaid, and all other holders and owners of the stock of the Corn Products Company not parties to said conspiracy, and undertook wrongfully to transfer the entire assets and business to a new corporation, the Corn Products Refining Company of New Jersey, to be organized and managed by the Standard Oil Company, and under and in pursuance of the following so-called Plan, which was afterwards wrongfully and unjustly carried into execution to the great wrong and injury of your Orator as hereinafter set forth in this bill.

PLAN.

Plan.

6. "The Corn Products Refining Company will be organized under the laws of New Jersey with a capital of $30,000,000 Preferred and $50,000,000 Common Stock, the same as the Corn Products Company and with the same provisions as to preference.

Mr. E. T. Bedford will take the Presidency of the company and the management of its business, bringing into the Board of Directors those associates who have been actively connected with him in the New York Glucose Company.

When the plan becomes effective the Corn Products Refining Company will own: (1) At least a majority of the capital stock of the Corn Products Company; (2) the entire capital stock of the New York Glucose Company, not already acquired by the Corn Products Company; (3) the entire capital stock of the Warner Sugar Refining Company; (4) the entire capital stock of the St. Louis Syrup & Preserving Company; and the new company, with its subsidiary companies will have a net working capital of approximately $5,000,000.

All stock set apart for exchange for stock of the Corn Products Company and not used for that purpose will remain in the treasury.

In effect, the Corn Products stockholders will surrender one-third of their holding for the purpose of acquiring the entire interest in the three companies above named, not already owned by the Corn Products company.

Those three companies have modern works, and no bonded debt except $2,300,000 while the subsidiary companies of the Corn Products Company, have a total bonded debt of $7,293,000.

The three companies, New York Glucose Company, Warner Sugar Refining Company and St. Louis Syrup & Preserving Company, contribute a net working capital of about $2,000,000 toward the joint working capital of $5,000,000.

During the year just ended those three companies did about 5% of the entire business, domestic and export.

The financial status of all companies to be verified by public accountants and titles to be examined by counsel.

Plan.

The undersigned stockholders among others have agreed to deposit stock under the foregoing plan.

C. H. MATTHIESSEN,
NORMAN B. REAM,
WILLIAM W. HEATON,
JOY MORTON,
J. B. GREENHUT.

7. Your orator alleges that the printed plan aforesaid was sent, as your Orator is informed and believes, to some of the stockholders of The Corn Products Company at some date unknown to your Orator, but believed to be in the year 1906 and was accompanied by a paper, of which the following is a copy, viz.:

"Title Guarantee and Trust Company,
146 Broadway.

To the Stockholders of The Corn Products Company:

In accordance with the annexed Plan, The Title Guarantee and Trust Company is prepared to receive your stock on deposit and to issue transferrable certificates of deposit therefor, exchangeable for stock of The Corn Products Refining Company, on the basis of three shares of your stock, Common or Preferred, for two shares of the same class of the stock of The Corn Products Refining Company.

Scrip will be issued for fractions of shares, exchangeable for full shares in sums of one hundred dollars or multiples thereof.

The right is reserved to declare the Plan inoperative, in which event all stock deposited will be returned without cost to depositor, upon surrender of the certificates of deposit issued therefor, suitably endorsed, on or after March 1, 1906.

The time to deposit stock under the Plan will expire February 1, 1906, at 3 p. m.

The Certificates must be accompanied by power of its transfer in blank, the execution of which must be witnessed and guaranteed by someone known to this Company, or acknowledged before a Notary Public, under his official seal.

C. H. KELSEY,
President

8. Your Orator alleges and charges that the essence and effect of this Plan was the enforced liquidation of the Corn Products Company.

Bill of complaint,
filed Oct. 19,

402 That this liquidation was to be accomplished under color and by means of a bargain for the benefit of the Standard Oil Company, and all of said schemes, divisions, and details of said Plan were in effect, merely, for the purpose, on the part of the Standard Oil Company and the parties in its interest, to give to said Standard Oil Company the monopoly of the glucose, starch, and by-products manufactured in the United States as already stated.

That the object of the Standard Oil Company was more easily accomplished by special contracts in advance with the said conspirators by which they were enabled to sell their stock on better terms than stated in said Plan; but there was reserved for your Orator and other stockholders the necessity of uniting in said Plan and consenting to said bargain, with no other alternative, as the Standard Oil Company had assured itself of the entire market for said Corn Products stock; and, if it could be sold at all, it must either be sold on the terms of this Plan or at private sale to the said Standard Oil Company, as elsewhere more fully shown in this bill.

9. Your Orator shows to your Honors that said Plan provided for the formation of the Corn Products Refining Company, capitalized at $80,000,000, and divided said stock between the holders of the $80,000,000 stock of the Corn Products Company so far as issued ($72,500,000), on the basis of two shares of the new company for three of the old, giving 60% of the stock of the new company to the stockholders of the Corn Products Company who should accept these terms.

That this division left the remaining 40% of said stock of said company to the holders of the capital stock of the Warner Sugar Refining Company and of the capital stock of the St. Louis Sirup and Preserving Company, and of 51% of the capital stock of the New York Glucose Company.

That as stated in said Plan: "in effect the Corn Products shareholders will surrender one-third of their holdings for the purpose of acquiring the entire interest in the three companies (last) above named, not already owned by the Corn Products Company."

That said 40% given to the holders of said two and a half factories had then a total value on the New York Stock Exchange of $16,854,569.

10. That the actual value of the said stock of said two and a half companies and their factories did not exceed $3,000,-

Bill of complaint,
filed Oct. 19,

000. That they were then owned by the Standard Oil Company which had then bought the same for less than said sum. That the said 51% of the stock of the New York Glucose Company was absolutely worthless as it had nothing to represent it in value except its factory at Edgewater, New Jersey, that could not be economically used for the manufacture for which it was built; and this is now admitted by said defendant in their first annual statement. That said two and a half companies were capitalized at less than $5,500,000 and were subject to an indebtedness, bonded and floating, of $3,250,000 dollars; that they never had reported dividends or net earnings during their existence, of from five to ten years, and that they had no right to declare such dividends, and had no net earnings, is sufficiently explained by said indebtedness approximately the amount of their recapital. That the statements of said three companies of January and February, 1906, evidently prepared for the purpose of justifying this division at the time show that at the highest estimate they were then worth less than $8,200,000.

403 That the gross earnings by the Warner and St. Louis factories for the only year for which comparison can be made, due to the suppression by our Trustee of the statement of the Corn Products Company for the year, as reported in 1905, gives gross earnings, Warner, $83,417, St. Louis, $111,932, total $195,349.

The gross earnings of the thirty-five companies of the Corn Products Company for the same period were $2,968,312 (omitting as a negligible quantity the gross earnings of the New York Glucose Company, being the half factory in each case). These gross earnings of the said two companies show that they the said owners should have been given upon the basis of their gross earnings 6% of the stock of the Corn Products Refining Company, instead of what this plan gave, viz: 40%, and the management and control thrown in, and assured by the terms of the charter for many years to come.

So far as known said two factories had neither trade marks, patents, good will, nor any fruits to show of successful experience, were loaded with debt, nearly to the amount of their capital, and were burdened with infirmities of their own as to water supply and location.

11. That said Plan and Division gave to said Standard Oil Company, the holders of the said stock of the two and a half companies and their factories, a profit of $15,000,000.

Bill of complaint.

entright. That said Division and Plan further provides for the permanent ownership and monopoly in the provision, namely: "Mr. E. T. Bedford will take the presidency of the company and the management of its business, bringing into the Board of Directors those associates who have been actively connected with him in the New York Glucose Company." That said Bedford, and his associates, of the New York Glucose Company, were simply Directors and Officers and Agents of the Standard Oil Company, and said Bedford and others of said associates were also openly Trustees of our Orator and the stockholders of said Corn Products Company, so that this Plan was simply a gift and bargain by which our Directors and Trustees sold said $80,000,000 of Corn Products stock to themselves.

12. That by this Plan, according to the valuation given the 40% of the stock of the Corn Products Refining Company, (which was paid for by said two and a half factories worth $8,200,000, at the very highest price named by themselves) then the 60% of the capital which remained was to be treated as only worth $12,000,000; and this proportionate sum of $12,000,000 was a fair and adequate division according to the equity of said Plan as administered by our Trustees to the holders of the $80,000,000 of Corn Products stock; and this was so just a Division and Plan, that it was certified to by the remaining Trustees and leading stockholders, who agreed to it in advance as shown by the following statement annexed to said Plan, namely: "The undersigned stockholders, among others, have agreed to deposit stock under the foregoing Plan.

C. H. Matthiessen,
Norman B. Ream,
William W. Heaton,
Joy Morton,
J. B. Greenhut."

That this was a certificate by a part of our Trustees and a part of the Directors of the Corn Products Company to their cestiuis que trust, that it was a fair division, and an honest Plan, namely: That they should give up a third of their capital and surrender their right to the conduct of their own business to the Standard Oil Company, that they should besides pay $17,000,000 for two and a half factories, one of them worthless, and the other two picked up by the Standard Oil Company at less than $2,000,000, and all incumbered for more than their value—that this fixing a valuation of $12,000,000 for the $80,000,000 capital of the Corn Products stock (in proportion to said $8,000,000 valuation of the said two and a half factories) was a fair one and should have the consent of every stockholder—urging that all their fellow stockholders should hasten to accept these terms (for their 35½ factories, for their trade secrets, good will, long experience, market and independence, and control of their own affairs, always successful, and about to be more prosperous than ever), giving three shares of their stock, for two shares of stock in the Corn Products Refining Company, which stock at its highest value, proved worth in the market of 1906, less than $27,000,000—an immediate loss of $20,000,000—which has now become $30,000,000, as elsewhere shown in the bill.

13. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors, that while it may not be further necessary to show that this Plan is most inequitable—that our trustees and the Standard Oil Co. should have given themselves the benefit of a bargain, both sides of which they made themselves, yet it may be wise to show what was the actual character and value of the assets represented by the $80,000,000 of Corn Products Stock, sacrificed by this plan; and your orator therefore alleges the following facts, namely:

I.

Six factories formerly owned and operated by the Glucose Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey.

(1.) The Chicago Sugar Refinery, which had actually cost and was worth more than $8,000,000, with its valuable site on Taylor street and Chicago River, which was, and is, worth site alone $3,000,000;

The legal description of the said property now held and operated in the name of the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, in the City of Chicago, in the County of Cook, in the State of Illinois, as above shown, is as follows, namely: Block Seventy-eight (78) (except Taylor street) in School Addition to Chicago, in Section Sixteen (16), Township, Thirty-nine (39) North, Range Fourteen (14) East of the Third Principal Meridian, in the City and County and State aforesaid.

(2) The factory of the American Glucose Company of Peoria, Illinois, then equal in value as a factory to that of Chicago; and both factories were unrivaled in capacity and excellence of products.

(3.) The factory of the Davenport Sugar Refining Company, of Davenport, Iowa, very favorably situated, for the manufacture of Glucose, sirup, and by-products, and of great value, exceeding $2,000,000.

(4.) The factory of the Peoria Grape Sugar Company in Peoria, Illinois.

(5.) The factory of the Rockford Sugar Works, of Rockford, Illinois.

(6.) The factory of the Firminich Manufacturing Company, of Marshalltown, Iowa. That the said last three factories had cost more than $1,500,000 each and had a grinding capacity of 30,000 bushels daily.

14. That all of said six factories, with a working capital of $1,500,000 had belonged to the Glucose Sugar Refining Company, incorporated August 7, 1897, with a capital stock of $14,000,000, 7% cumulative Preferred, and $26,000,000 Common stock; that the Corn Products Company was organized on February 28, 1902, and then acquired nearly all the capital stock of the said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, in exchange for shares of the Corn Products Company, paying for said capital stock to the extent of $13,000,000 of the Glucose Preferred stock and of Twenty-one millions and a quarter of Glucose Common stock, by $16,081,750 of Corn Products Preferred stock, and $26,600,000 of Corn Products Common stock, holding in reserve $1,000,000 of Corn Products Preferred, and $3,500,000 of Common to acquire outstanding Glucose shares, nearly all of which were later exchanged for the said Corn Products Company's stock; the Corn Products Company paying in said exchange One and a quarter shares of their stock for each share of Glucose Sugar stock; in short paying fifty millions of the capital stock of the Corn Products Company for $40,000,000 of the capital stock of said Glucose Sugar Refining Company.

15. The Glucose Sugar Refining Company owning only six factories and surplus and working capital, had no bonded debt, and had earned and paid dividends to the amount of $6,763,000 from the earnings of said six factories, (7% upon the Preferred ever since said company was organized in August, 1897, and 6% on the Common, commencing December 1, 1898, up to December, 1901, when the yearly rate was reduced to 4%); that until these six factories became the property of the Corn Products Company in February, 1902, the Glucose Sugar Refining Company expended $2,152,000 upon said factories, and the average net earnings of the same for the three prior fiscal years were annually $2,969,624 or 8% on the total capitalization of $40,000,000; and these are the facts as given in the annual statements of the said defendant, said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, now known as the Corn Products Manufacturing Company. That the value of the said six factories with said million and a half of working capital, and a surplus of $2,632,985, was then equal to the value of the stock of the Corn Products Company as given in said exchange on February 28, 1902; and that value at the time of said exchange was 95c on the dollar for the Preferred and 38½c on the dollar for the Common stock upon the New York Stock Exchange; and said Glucose Sugar Refining Company was not only enjoying a highly prosperous business, but was in all respects in a very strong condition.

That the total actual value in cash of the said six factories alone in February, 1902, was more than $27,000,000; and your orator alleges that said six factories as a whole were never afterwards of less value, but were of this value or more at the time of said Plan, and their seizure by the Corn Products Refining Company in 1906.

II.

16. Your Orator further shows that the Corn Products Company at its formation, on February 28, 1902, in addition to the six factories aforesaid, acquired 29½ additional factories, with the stock and good will of the companies owning the same, and also with ample working capital as follows, namely: 4½ of said factories engaged in manufacturing glucose were bought by acquiring the stock of the Charles 406 Pope Glucose Company, with its two factories at Geneva and Venice, Illinois; and the factory at Pekin, Illinois, was acquired with the stock of the Illinois Sugar Refining Company; and 49% of the stock of the New York Glucose

Company with the same per cent. of its factory at Edgewater, New Jersey.

Filed Oct. 19,

17. And said company also acquired the stock of the United States Glucose Company; which last named stock with its glucose factory and the remaining 24 factories of the 35½ factories aforesaid, which were starch factories, were acquired by the purchase then made of the entire stock of the National Starch Company; by which they were up to February 28, 1902, owned.

18. That the Corn Products Company acquired by exchanges of its own capital stock, amounting to $80,000,000, practically all the said stocks, and with them the factories of said companies; and paid therefor by apportioning the shares of the Corn Products stock as follows: (1.) It paid $46,082,050 of Common and Preferred Stock as above stated for said Glucose Sugar Refining Company stock of $40,000,000 with its six factories aforesaid. (2.) That it paid $7,125,240 Preferred stock and $15,539,565 Common stock for said 49% of the New York Glucose Company stock amounting to $1,225,000; and for $750,000 of the shares of the Illinois Sugar Company with its factory at Pekin; and for $120,000 shares of the Charles Pope Company stock with its two factories at Geneva and Venice; and the Corn Products Company also acquired in consideration of the stock given for said three and a half factories last named, $1,400,000 in cash for additional working capital; the sum paid in cash by said Corn Products Company at the then value of its stock so paid, was $12,673,012.

19. That the sums paid for the factories at Geneva and Venice and Pekin were the sums upon which dividends had always been paid; and the factory at Pekin is that claimed by the Corn Products Refining Company, defendant, in its statement of 1907, as that in the best location for a glucose plant and also as being extended in grinding capacity for that reason. That in the purchase for the stock and factories, twenty-five in number, of the National Starch Company, there was apportioned, and paid for them $3,469,000 Preferred stock, and $2,201,220 Common stock; making the sums paid in cash as ascertained by the value of the Corn Products shares on the New York Stock Exchange at the time, namely, $4,132,212.

20. That said National Starch Company had a capital stock of $10,000,000, of which half was Preferred stock upon the Standard Oil Company, and entirely in their interests, and the factories are in possession and under control of the Standard Oil Company, every one of the thirty-eight factories charged in said plan, being so managed as the property, and in the name of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and conducted under orders from the Standard Oil Company through said Corn Products Refining Company; and that each one of the factories is managed from the office of the Standard Oil Company at 26 Broadway, New York; and the manufacture and sale is conducted without any consideration for the real interests of your Orator, and the stockholders of said Corn Products Company, but solely for the benefit of the Standard Oil Company, yet the said Standard Oil Company ingeniously keeps on foot through its agents and subsidiary companies the pretense of management and control through the Directors of the Corn Products Company aforesaid, who are simply agents of the Standard Oil Company.

That the very name of the Corn Products Company does not longer appear in the market, is unknown in the production and manufacture of glucose and by-products; and for purposes of concealment and to defeat all publicity or knowledge of what has occurred, the very brands, trade marks, good will of the Corn Products Company, and every detail of its manufacture and sale is now done in the names of said companies, scarcely distinguishable from that of the Corn Products Company; that the factories are run in the name of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and the business is done in the name of the Corn Products Refining Company; that the Corn Products Company has no office or telephone, and its stockholders are denied all information of its business; and every attempt is made to blot out the name and connection of the Corn Products Company with the said business and manufacture in which it was so successful, and on the eve of its greatest success, and of its brightest future; and the money earned by the 35½ factories of the Corn Products Company amounting annually to $7,000,000 a year, are now pouring into the hands of the Standard Oil Company, at 26 Broadway, New York.

25. Your Orator alleges, that the Standard Oil Company was really the Trustee of your Orator, and managed the business and property of your Orator and fellow stockholders during the entire history of said Corn Products Company, and up to and ever since the said conspiracy charged in this bill; that said Standard Oil Company and their co-defendants have been in said position of trust and are now in said position of trust, for your Orator and other stockholders in like condition, and should be made to account for the profits they have made in said business of said Trust, and should be compelled to surrender it through the appointment by this court of a receiver.

Bill of complaint
filed Oct. 19,

Your Orator alleges that the Standard Oil Company began its campaign and conspiracy to create this monopoly in the manufacture and sale of starch and glucose, in 1898, by the formation of the New York Glucose Company of New Jersey, and the construction of its factory at Edgewater, Bergen Point, New Jersey. That in 1898, had been recently formed the Glucose Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey, which with its six factories in Illinois controlled the manufacture and market of said products; and the factory at Edgewater, New Jersey, was intended to secure the monopoly of said manufacture and markets for the Standard Oil Company; that finding its first move in building its factory was abortive, because it was built outside the corn belt and could not be used to manufacture economically, the said Standard Oil Company joined in a wider combination and assisted in forming the Corn Products Company of New Jersey, and managed to have apportioned to it in said formation one-fifth or thereabouts of the Corn Products Company's $80,000,000 of stock, but said Standard Oil Company only put into said Corn Products Company 49% of the stock of the New York Glucose Company, reserving the control, the better to accomplish its purposes; that the fellow stockholders of the Corn Products Company, including the stock of thirty-five companies engaged in the same manufacture, very soon found themselves in the control of the Standard Oil Company; especially because the Standard Oil Company by the formation of the Corn Products Company had gained access to the patents, trade secrets, and everything that gave it the business success; and still more because the Standard Oil Company were thereby enabled to name the Directors of the Corn Products Company, and placed in said Directory one of its ablest Directors, E. T. Bedford, who dominated the Company and continued its Director with other associates, really Directors of the Standard Oil Co., itself or its agents, thereafter. That the manufacture and market of the Corn Products Company was from its formation controlled by the Standard Oil Company, though without the knowledge of its stockholders to the real extent of such control, until later developed by the sequel when the said Bedford, and his associates, in the New York Glucose Company presented and since have enforced up to this hour the said Plan hereinbefore stated and shown.

26. That there were outside the Corn Products Company the factory of the Warner Sugar Refining Company at Waukegan, Ill., and another factory of the St. Louis Sirup and Preserving Company, at Granite, Ill., besides other factories in the Corn belt engaged in the manufacture of Starch or glucose, and the Standard Oil Company found it necessary to complete its monopoly to buy up the said two factories to make its monopoly mre effectual. That in order to buy and control the stock of the Corn Products Company required a further investment of but one or two million of dollars, but this was effected through the agency of the New York Stock Exchange, upon which said Standard Oil Company caused the stock of the Corn Products Company to be listed, and by the devices familiar to said company of fictitious sales and purchases from and to themselves of the stock of the Corn Products Company, said Standard Oil Company easily and profitably raised and lowered the stock of the said Corn Products Company; so that at one time it was worth one hundred cents and at another time ten cents or less, judging of its value by the index furnished by the sale so manufactured on the New York Stock Exchange; that these fictitious sales and purchases were begun in 1902, and were continued during the life time of the Corn Products Company by said Standard Oil Company, and were aided by actual statements of the said Corn Products Company required by law annually, which, and rumors of the same nature, furnished alleged facts, so much to the prejudice of the Corn Products Company, half truths, and other falsehoods, that aided the Standard Oil Company in its campaign upon the New York Stock Exchange; so that finally after the conduct of said campaign during 1903, 1904 and 1905, these false sales and purchases, led to sales of real stock to said Standard Oil Company, at prices named by the Standard Oil Company. That the campaign of the Standard Oil Company was in point of fact financed from the inside of the Corn Products Company, and so it is, that said Standard Oil Company, absolutely controlled, and controls, the majority of the stock of the Corn Products Company. That by the device of the Corn Products Refining Company of New Jersey and the bargains shown in the Plan already detailed, said Standard Oil Company in effect have been given them $15,000,000 at least for the pretended consideration of said two factories at Waukegan and St. Louis and of said 51% of said New York Glucose Company, and have placed the new company permanently in the hands of themselves and their Directors. That said Standard Oil Company has thus by easy stages and at slight cost, if any, but through the ruin of the said stockholders of the companies owning the said thirty-eight factories, obtained the entire business of the manufacture and sale of glucose and starch products in the United States.

27. Your Orator further alleges that the said Plan is especially inequitable as against your Orator and other Preferred stockholders of the said Corn Products Company. That they are invited by this Plan to give up one-third of their Preferred stock to the amount of $10,000,000, and its 7% yearly dividends. That the surplus then existing in 1905, was abundantly sufficient to pay such dividends as so contracted to be paid. That said Plan requires a surrender of their stock, ignoring entirely such interest at 7% due them; and the owners of said stock have ever since under this Plan and management and control and monopoly, suffered the loss of said interest and will continue to suffer that loss until the property is taken out of the hands of said defendants.

Your Orator alleges that the contract under which your Orator and other stockholders held their stock and stated in the charter of said Corn Products Company, and repeated in the Certificate of the Preferred and the Common stock aforesaid, issued to your Orator, or held and owned by him, is as follows, namely:

"The holders of the preferred stock shall be entitled to receive when and as declared from the surplus or net profits of the company yearly dividends at the rate of 7% per annum and no more, payable quarterly on dates to be fixed by the by-laws. The dividend on the preferred stock shall be cumulative and shall be payable before any dividends on the common stock shall be paid or set apart so that if in any year dividends amounting to 7% shall not have been paid thereon the deficiency shall be payable before any dividends shall be paid upon or set apart for the common stock."

"Whenever all cumulative dividends on the preferred stock for all previous years shall have been declared and shall have become payable and the accrued quarterly installments for the current year shall have been declared and the company shall have paid such cululative dividends for previous years and such accrued quarterly installments or shall have set aside from its surplus or net profits a sum sufficient for the payment thereof, the board of directors may declare dividends on the common stock payable then or thereafter out of any remaining surplus or net profit * * *

"In the event of any liquidation or dissolution or winding up, whether voluntary or involuntary, of the company, the holders of the preferred stock shall be entitled to be paid in full both the par amount of their shares and the unpaid dividends accrued thereon before any amount shall be paid to the holders of the common stock."

28. Your Orator alleges, that these provisions in the contract of the Preferred stock, as above stated held by him, were and are a part of the contract and contracts with him as to each amount and all amounts of the said shares of Preferred stock held by him, and were in full force and binding upon the said Corn Products Company and all other persons dealing with said Corn Products Company at all times during its history and are still in force and have never been set aside or destroyed by any action or consent upon the part of your Orator, but your Orator alleges and shows unto your Honors, that by said action of said Trustees, the defendants herein, in the attempted execution of said Plan, all the said property of the Corn Products Company have been taken out of its hands, wrongfully and without right, and that its factories, and all its business, and its market, goodwill, trade secrets and patents, and licenses, necessary to the conduct of business, are now wrongfully in the possession, management, and control, of the Standard Oil Company, and others of said defendants, and the said Corn Products Company and the rights and interests of your Orator, have been annihilated, by and under the execution of said Plan and in pursuance thereof.

29. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors, that said Plan effects the preservation of a part of the common stock of the Corn Products Company and thereby secures to the conspirators the consequent control of both the Corn Products Company and the Corn Products Refining Company accomplished by the defeat and confiscation of the Preferred stock and of its preference; for it is claimed by said defendants that it was wise with due regard to the interest of all parties to cut down the Preferred stock and thereby take away $10,000,000 of the money put into it, yet at the same time it is also pretended and the Plan secures to the holders of the Common stock a value capitalized at $33,444,000 in the capital stock of the Corn Products Refining Company; and it is now, as the sequel shows, pretends that a dividend can be shortly made on this very common stock of the Refining Company.

Bill of complaint.
Filed Oct. 19,

So that your Orator respectfully shows unto your Honors, that this common stock secures the control of the Corn Products Company and of the Corn Products Refining Company and can be manipulated into this immense sum; although said common stock was not entitled to a penny under the terms of said charter of the Corn Products Company until all of said Preferred stock, including the $10,000,000 of the Preferred stock cut off by said Plan had first been paid in full and 412 until all unpaid cumulative dividends and interest thereon were also paid to the last dollar.

That it is the truth and your Orator charges that this Plan was made to effect the common objects of said conspirators, namely: (1) To secure to the Standard Oil Company the $17,000,000 given by said division in behalf of the factories held by it, and (2nd) to give value to the Common stock of the Corn Products Company which had been theretofore bought up by the Standard Oil Company and its said associate defendants in said conspiracy, and (3rd) the creation of the said monopoly of the manufacture and sale of glucose, starch and by-products. That as elsewhere stated in this bill the Standard Oil Company by the manipulation of the market, by the sale of the stock of the Corn Products Company on the New York Stock Exchange for years, without reference or regard to the real value of the stock and by fictitious sales of stock, that never were made or delivered, reduced said stock to nearly a tenth of its value. That a majority of the stock of the Corn Products Co. being acquired by this monstrous series of operations backed by the irresistible wealth and influence of the Standard Oil Company, and with entire indifference to the interests of other stockholders, the said Standard Oil Company was able at its pleasure, and at a price fixed by themselves, to acquire from their worn-out stockholders when compelled to sell, and to now control, the greater part of the $80,000,000 of actual capital and money of the Corn Products Company, and are now managing the business of all the property which they have acquired substantially for nothing, financed by itself and at the sacrifice of many individual stockholders, including your Orator, as elsewhere stated in this bill.

30. That your Orator had the right, specially contracted to stockholders of the same class, Preferred and Common, to have the $80,000,000 of assets of the Corn Products Company given to said stockholders in the order fixed by their respective contracts, and cannot be ousted of the same by and in behalf of their Trustees.

That the Preferred stock must be paid and after that the Common stock had a right to be paid out of the assets of the Corn Products Company; and that said stockholders had a right to refuse the bargain and substitute presented to them by their Trustees by this Plan. That the assets of the Corn Products Company were sufficient many times over to pay the Preferred stock without the surrender of a dollar of it. That what remained of the assets of the Corn Products Company was sufficient to pay the stock of the Common shareholders of said company, and it was a criminal act to compel said stockholders to have their properties destroyed and their independent right to control annihilated by this Plan, and the creation of this monopoly was an unjust and unlawful change of their condition.

31. Your Orator alleges that if the assets of the Corn Products Company were distributed in a Court of Equity such court would have distributed to the Preferred stockholders full payment at par of their stock, instead of the liquidation under this Plan by which the Preferred stockholders must surrender one-third of their stock, including back dividends and interest, in order to give place to the common stock which is left a large residuum; that the assets of said Corn Products Company were ample to effect such distribution in a court of equity and that the effect of this Plan not only causes this injustice, but to this must be added the fact that the price on the New York Stock Exchange of Preferred stock of the Corn Products Refining Company

412½ if accepted as an index if its value, shows that this Plan compels a sale of the Preferred stock of the Corn Products Company or its exchange for the Preferred stock of the Corn Products Refining Company, worth less than 42 cents on the dollar, and this sacrifice is coupled with the assurance that the Corn Products Refining Company must manage the factories under the control of the Standard Oil Company engaged in the misconduct and criminal violations of law for which the National government is demanding its punishment.

32. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors, that the facts herein alleged in regard to the action of the defendants in this conspiracy aforesaid remained unknown to your Orator until within a short time, a few months at best, when they were learned little by little, information being denied and withheld by his said trustees, as were the said defendants; and he charges that no notice was given to your Orator by defendants of any of their action or proposed action aforesaid, as set out in this bill, and what knowledge your Orator has obtained was gathered from time to time, and only after having been first concealed from him, and only learned with difficulty; one of the acts of concealment showing the secret manner in which they were done, namely was that the very name of the Corn Products Company was counterfeited and concealed by the name given to the Corn Products Refining Company and of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and their actual existence and relations were concealed. That these devices of said conspirators were meant to conceal, confuse and deceive your orator and other stockholders not in the said conspiracy; and your Orator alleges that had the truth been known to him he would have filed a bill in apt time to prevent the execution of said Plan and the consummation of said conspiracy. That your Orator alleges that he has been unable to learn or state more fully than as herein set forth how the designs of the said conspirators were effected and with what action, if any, of record, in any book or books, showing the conduct and action of the directors of the Corn Products Company, or of the Corn Products Refining Company (if they were so preceded, accompanied or followed), nor whether a merger was attempted, or if so, how made, under the color of the law, or laws, of New Jersey, or what will be so claimed by said defendants in that regard; but your Orator shows unto your Honors and charges, that whatever was done by said defendants for said end or object, whether by merger or otherwise, in said conspiracy, was wrongful, fraudulent, and grossly inequitable as against your Orator; and that said Plan, the formation and apportionment of said Corn Products Refining Company, were unequal, unjust and inequitable, as elsewhere more fully shown.

stockholders and your orator are only referred upon such application for information to men who are abroad, to men who cannot be found, or to men who profess to know nothing, and who will reveal or state nothing which will enable your orator to learn what has occurred, except the bare facts that the Corn Products Company has disappeared and as stated elsewhere in this bill.

36. Your Orator further alleges that the statements put forth by defendants touching the thirty-eight factories, their market, their products, their condition, their business done are all misleading and substantially untrue and meant to deceive, and the market is so manipulated and the production so manipulated as to magnify the value of the said two and a half factories and to minimize and depreciate the value of the said thirty-five and one-half factories with a view to conceal the truth; and the Standard Oil Co. stands ready, your Orator charges, with its Protean charges to delay and defeat justice in the premises; so that there is no other remedy for your Orator to recover a part of what has been taken from him than the appointment of a Receiver and the recovery of the assets of the Corn Products Company from the hands of its enemies, who are also the enemies of the American people and have established one of the worst and most dangerous monopolies in the necessities of life and have placed thereby a burden upon the back of every man in the nation.

37. That the result as to the public, of this transaction is that all competition has been destroyed; and the Corn Products Refining Company is fully in possession of the manufacture of glucose and by-products; and an absolute monopoly is thereby created, and all competition is destroyed. That the new company being now able to fix a price to the public at its pleasure, have already advanced the price of glucose so that the price which was in July, 1905, 15 cents a gallon was advanced to 24 cents per gallon in July, 1906, and the public will be compelled to pay whatever the said Bedford and his Standard Oil friends choose to demand, and this is not a beneficial monopoly.

38. At the time your orator purchased said stock, as aforesaid, and for a long time prior thereto, and for a considerable period thereafter, the capital stock of the said Corn Products Company was duly listed upon the stock exchanges of New York, and Chicago, and other large cities, and was daily bought and sold, in open market, as one of the standard investments of the country, the market value thereof being as above stated, and the same was based upon the ownership of the properties above described, and other valuable properties and the profitable manufacturing business to the carrying on of which all the said properties were devoted by the parties aforesaid, for the benefit of the said Corn Products Company, and its stockholders, including your Orator, as aforesaid; and, in reliance upon the said facts, your orator acquired the said stock with a view of holding the same as an investment, and your Orator has ever since held, and still holds the same to the extent stated already in this bill for 415 such purpose, and at the time your Orator so acquired the same, and afterwards, the said Corn Products Company, was paying regularly dividends to the holders of the said stock, including your Orator, on the par value of said stock, from the profits of the said business so controlled by the said Corn Products Company and so conducted and managed for the benefit of the said Corn Products Company, and its stockholders, including your orator; and it was the duty of the said Corn Products Company, and its officers and directors, to continue to so manage its affairs, including the said properties and business above mentioned through its control thereof, as aforesaid, that such dividends upon its stock should and would continue from year to year, and your Orator avers that if the said Corn Products Company, and its Officers and directors, had, honestly and in good faith, continued its said business, and the management thereof, the said stock of your Orator, together with the stock of other stockholders in said Corn Products Company, not parties to said conspiracy, would still be earning and paying such dividends, and now be worth one hundred ($100) dollars per share; but, instead of that now being the case, your Orator avers that by reason of the bad faith, and misconduct, of the officers and directors of the said Corn Products Company, and others, pursuant to and as a part of the said conspiracy, the entire stock of the said Corn Products Company has, by reason of the said conspiracy and the said wrongful conduct, pursuant thereto, ceased to be a listed stock, and ceased to pay or earn dividends, and its value has thus been entirely destroyed, the said conspirators having fraudulently caused the same to be dropped from the list of the said stock exchanges, and have fraudulently stopped the payment of dividends thereon pursuant to said conspiracy, and are now managing all of the said properties in the exclusive interest of said conspirators, and in total disregard of the rights of your Orator as the owner and holder of the said stock, and in total disregard of all the rights of the holders and owners of the stock of the said Corn Products Company, other than said conspirators.

39. Your Orator further represents that, pursuant to said conspiracy, and for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid, said conspirators are now planning and arranging to cause all of the said properties and the said business to be transferred and conveyed to the said Corn Products Refining Company, or to the aforesaid defendants or others, and thus permanently destroy the value of your Orator's said stock and the value of the other stock of the said Corn Products Company held or owned by persons or parties other than said conspirators, and your Orator brings this Bill of Complaint not only for the benefit of your Orator, but also for the benefit of the holders and owners of the stock of the said Corn Products Company, in the same situation as your Orator, and said other holders and owners of the said stock are hereby invited to come in as co-complainants with your Orator in this Bill of Complaint, and to share in the benefits of whatever relief may be obtained under or by virtue of this suit, upon contribution of their pro rata share of the expenses thereof.

40. Your Orator is informed and believes, and so charges the fact to be, that the said stock of said thirty-five and one-half companies and factories, and with the other properties and assets of the Corn Products Company, are now about to be transferred and conveyed to the said Corn Products Refining Company, or other parties, pursuant to said conspiracy, and for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid, and will be so transferred and conveyed unless the said conspirators, hereinafter made defendants to this Bill of Complaint, be restrained from so doing, or causing the same to be done, 416 by the order of this court, thereby working irreparable injury to your orator, and to the other stockholders of the said Corn Products Company, not parties to said conspiracy.

41. Your Orator further represents that the officers of said Corn Products Company are as follows, namely: J. A. Moffett, President, W. J. Mathiessen, Vice President, and F. T. Fisher, Treasurer; and the Directors of said Corn Products Company are as follows, namely: C. L. Glass, W. J. Calhoun, W. H. Nichols, Joy Morton, W. J. Matthiessen, F. Q. Barstow, J. A. Moffett, F. T. Bedford, T. B. Wagner, W. W. Heaton, F. T. Fisher and William C. Sherwood; and your Orator is informed and believes and so charges the fact to he that all the officers and directors of the said Corn Products Company are either parties to the said conspiracy or so interested with said conspirators that none of them will take any steps to prevent the carrying out of the said conspiracy for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid; that they are really acting as nominal directors of an automaton without any initiative and absolutely subject to the control and orders of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in which many of them are Directors and Officers or clerks and agents or attorneys, as elsewhere stated; and said Corn Products Company is really serving its enemies and in a state of suspended animation, as elsewhere stated in this bill.

42. Your Orator further represents that the said Corn Products Refining Company is a giant pool, and trust, and combine, formed by said conspirators for the purpose of unlawfully regulating and fixing and controlling the price of glucose and grape sugar, and other products, all of which are articles of merchandise and commodities manufactured and sold in this state, and through the United States; that the names of the persons forming such pool, trust, and combine, other than these hereinbefore mentioned, are now unknown to your orator, and your orator has not been able, after diligent inquiry, to ascertain the same, but your Orator is informed and believes, and so charges, that all the persons above named, including the said officers and directors of the said Corn Products Company, are parties thereto, or interested therein, together with others unknown to your Orator: that said pool, trust and combine is to be accomplished, and carried out, and made effectual for the purposes aforesaid, under the forms of the law, namely: in and through such corporation under the name of the said Corn Products Refining Company; that the parties organizing, creating, promoting and managing or interested in the said pool, trust and combine, are now perfecting their arrangements, with the intent and purpose of unlawfully monopolizing, controlling, regulating and fixing the price of glucose and grape sugar and by-products within the State of Illinois, and throughout the United States, and for such fraudulent and unlawful purpose, as well as for the further purpose of defrauding your Orator or your Orator's said stock and defrauding other holders of the stock of said Corn Products Company similarly situated with your Orator, have already arranged to obtain control of substantially all the corporations and individuals heretofore engaged in the manufacture and sale of said commodities throughout the United States, and the said Corn Products Refining Company will, pursuant to said conspiracy, and for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid, unlawfully acquire and now hold complete control of the said corporations and individuals, and of the manufacture and sale of the said products; throughout the United States, unless restrained from so doing by the order or decree of this Honorable Court; that the purpose and intent of the said pool and combination, and of the said parties forming the same, or interested therein, jointly and severally, and especially of the Standard Oil Company, is to create a trust in, and a complete monopoly of, the said articles and commodities, and give to the Corn Products Refining Company, as the representative and embodiment of such trust, and pool, and combine, the power to regulate and fix, and absolutely control both the supply and the price of said articles and commodities, in the state of Illinois, and throughout the United States, amounting now in the aggregate to several billions of pounds annually and consuming many millions of bushels of corn, annually; that said pool and trust and combine, and the effect, intent and purpose thereof, and the intent and purpose of the parties forming the same, or interested therein, as aforesaid, is in direct violation of the laws of this state, and in violation of the statutes of this state in and for such case made and provided, and for the purpose and plan of the said pool, trust and combine, and of said parties forming the same, or interested therein, is to swallow up and merge in the said Corn Products Refining Company, all the organizations and plants in the United States, heretofore engaged or used in the manufacture or sale of said articles and commodities, or any of them, issuing to the said organizations heretofore so engaged stock in the said Corn Products Refining Company to hereby perfect its control of said organization, and, where this method fails, to buy such organizations and plants for cash or its equivalent, and, in any event, to thus merge and swallow up all of the said organizations and plants, including the said Corn Products Company, in said pool, trust and combine, thus leaving to your Orator, and other stockholders similarly situated, the option only of participating in such unlawful trust, pool and combine, or submitting to the destruction of the stock so held by your Orator, and others similarly situated in said Corn Products Company, or the destruction of the value thereof, and your Orator charges that the officers and directors, and majority stockholders of the said corporations, defendants herein named, are actively, and knowingly, and unlawfully, aiding and participating and joining in, said trust, pool and combine, and preparing fraudulently and unlawfully to sell and transfer all the said plants and properties of the said Corn Products Company to the said Standard Oil Company or to the said Corn Products Refining Company representing said Standard Oil Company, for the unlawful and fraudulent purposes aforesaid, and will so do unless restrained therefrom by the order or decree of this Honorable Court.

43. Your Orator further charges that the forming and carrying out of the said pool, trust and combine, in and by the formation and action of the said Corn Products Refining Company, pursuant to said conspiracy, is an unlawful and fraudulent stock-jobbing scheme, and frenzied finance, upon the part of the said conspirators, for the purpose of fleecing the public, as well as your Orator, and others similarly situated, in the devious ways and methods originating in Wall street, and practiced by financial pirates, constituting "the system" by which the public are fleeced and plundered, continually, and by which it is intended by said conspirators to freeze out and defraud your Orator, as the holder and owner of the said stock in the said Corn Products Company, and other holders of such stock, not parties to such conspiracy, all of which is contrary to equity and good conscience and in violation of the Common law and laws of this state.

44. Your Orator further represents that a part and parcel of the plan of said conspirators, in carrying out the said conspiracy, is to dismantle and destroy such of said plants 418 as are now yielding profits applicable to the payment of dividends on the said stock belonging to your Orator, and others similarly situated, and build up and operate other plants for the manufacture and sale of said products, from the earnings of which dividends will be paid to said conspirators, exclusively, and not to your Orator, or others similarly situated, all of which is pursuant to said conspiracy, and for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid, there being now no occasion for the sale or transfer of any of the plants, controlled, aforesaid, heretofore, by said Corn Products Company, and from the net earnings of which plants dividends have heretofore been paid, and ought to continue to be paid to the holders of the stock of said Corn Products Company including your Orator, and there is now no occasion or excuse for the dismantling or abandonment, or destruction, of any of the said plants, but it is to the interest of the public, and to the interest of your Orator, and other stockholders of the said Corn Products Company, that all of the said plants continue a separate existence and business, and carry on the same, without becoming merged and swallowed up in the said Corn Products Refining Company constituting the said pool, trust and combine, as aforesaid, for the manufacture of said products has already become profitable, and is becoming more profitable every year, and all that prevents such profitable conduct of said business, for the benefit of your Orator, and other interested therein, is the fraudulent conspiracy, aforesaid, and the said unlawful action and conduct of the parties thereto, pursuant to the conspiracy aforesaid, and to the end that such fraud may be prevented, your Orator is advised and believes, and so charges, that a receiver should be appointed by this Honorable Court of the said Corn Products Company, and its property, and, particularly, of the said plants thirty-five and one-half lately owned and held in the name of and operated by the said Corn Products Company, in Chicago, Illinois, and in Peoria, Illinois, and elsewhere, and that said plants be managed and operated by said receiver, under the orders and directions of this Honorable Court, pending the hearing of this cause, and the said conspirators thereby ousted from the possession or control thereof, and a reorganization had of the said Corn Products Company, and of the several corporations heretofore controlled by said Corn Products Company, under the orders and directions of this Honorable Court, and that said conspirators, including said Corn Products Refining Company be enjoined from paying any dividends and from making, or causing to be made, any sale, or transfer, or conveyance, of the said properties, or plants, or any or either of them, or any part thereof, to said Corn Products Refining Company, or any other or others of said conspirators, or to other corporations or persons.

45. Your Orator further represents and charges that all the acts of the said conspirators above named, or referred to, and of said pool and trust and combine, and of the parties forming or interested therein, have been and are with the fraudulent intent and purpose to thereby effect a combination of many millions of dollars of capital, and skill, and firms, and corporations, and individuals, to limit and control the production of glucose, and grape sugar, and other commodities, and regulate, and fix, and control, and change, at the will of said conspirators, the price of the same, and to prevent competitions in the manufacture and sale of such products, all of which is in violation of the Statute of Illinois, entitled: "An Act to Define Trusts and Conspiracies Against Trades," etc., approved, June 20, 1893, in force July 1, 1893, with the fraudulent intent and purpose on the part of said conspirators to regulate and fix and control the price of said commodities, and the supply thereof, the said articles not being articles of merchandise the cost of which is mainly made up in wages, and no part of the purpose or intent or object of the said conspirators, or the effect of their said action, is not and will not be to maintain or increase wages, and the said fraudulent and unlawful conduct of said conspirators, is in violation of the Statute of this State, providing for the punishment of persons or corporations forming pools, and with the intent and purpose of their part to place the control, of such products in the hands of the said trust, the said Corn Products Refining Company, and thereby control the price and supply and manufacture thereof, in violation of the said Statute of the State of Illinois, and in violation of the common law of the State, and its Statutes in and for such case made and provided.

46. Your Orator further represents that the glucose business has grown to enormous proportions in this country, and its products are everywhere in use, and of vast commercial importance, in their varied and manifold uses, and in carrying on of such business great skill and vast capital are employed and required, and it is for the interest of the public that competition be unrestrained and uneffected by such pools, and trusts, and combines, as the said Corn Products Refining Company, it not being an easy matter for persons or corporations to go into and engage in such business, as it requires considerable time and much capital to erect plants for the same, and many of the most important processes are patented and owned or controlled heretofore by the said several corporations above named, other than the said Corn Products Refining Company, and it requires skill and experienced men to erect and operate such plant, and the supply of such men is limited, and not equal to the public demand, and it will be impossible to compete with the Standard Oil Company, or its agents or its agent said Corn Products Refining Company in such business, in the State of Illinois, or elsewhere in the United States, unless such conspirators be prevented from carrying out their conspiracy aforesaid, and, if such conspiracy be so carried out, your Orator and other similarly situated will be entirely destroyed, and the said pool, trust and combine, would be in complete control of said products throughout the State of Illinois, and throughout the United States, and all competition therein thus prevented.

47. Your Orator further represents that said pool, trust and combine, formed under the name of the said Corn Products Refining Company, cannot succeed in its said fraudulent purposes, unless it secures control of the said plants located in Illinois, and a prevention of its control thereof will prevent the carrying out of the conspiracy aforesaid, as the State of Illinois is the center of the corn belt of the United States, and if free competition be maintained in this State, in the manufacture and sale of such products, the welfare of the entire public will thus be promoted, and the loss of the stock of your Orator, and others similarly situated, in the said Corn Products Company, will be, at the same time, thus prevented, and your Orator charges that whatever may be the form, or forms, adopted and to be adopted, or pursued, by said conspirators, forming or constituting the said Corn Products Refining Company, the substance and effect thereof is, and will remain, a united control of the plants and corporations of this country engaged in the manufacture or sale, of said products, by and in the name of the said Corn Products Refining Company; and the formation and operation of the said Corn Products Refining Company, by said conspirators, is simply a mode of union after the manner of the Standard 420 Oil Company, a part of that gigantic monopoly, and constituting a giant monopoly for the purpose of controlling, fixing, and regulating, both the supply and the price, of glucose, and its varied by-products, syrups and sugar, throughout the State of Illinois, and throughout the United States.

48. Your Orator alleges, that the action and policy of the Standard Oil Company by which they have been enabled to destroy the competition and create monopolies in and control many of the leading products of the country, has been in great part effected by secret and criminal rebates, and other advantages given to said Standard Oil Company by the railroad companies of the United States to the exclusion of independent competition, and to the destruction of the capital engaged in such competition; and your Orator alleges that such secret and criminal contracts and rebates, and other misconduct of the said Standard Oil Company will attend the future control and management of the Corn Products Company, and of said Corn Products Refining Company and of said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and of said thirty-five and one-half factories by whatever agents they are managed under the Standard Oil Company and its allies, if not ousted by the order of this court.

Bill of complaint,
Filed Oct. 10,

49. Your Orator further alleges and shows unto your Honor that said Standard Oil Co. and its agents, individuals, and corporations, the defendants, who have secured the management and control of the property and assets of the Corn Products Co., cannot be trusted with the said management and control, as assured to them by this Plan; yet they are past-masters in the manipulation of market and manufacture to suit their own interests and will destroy and crush the opposition of your Orator and other stockholders who have not surrendered their property under this Plan, by all methods open to corrupt Trustees, and will commit every offense known to predatory corporations of which this defendant, the Standard Oil Company, is easily the first,—offenses against the laws meant to protect the rights of your Orator and of the People of this country against said malefactors, unless prevented by the action of this court. Your Orator shows that said Trustees, the defendants, have already destroyed and junked two or more of said thirty-five and one-half factories and are now engaged in completing the destruction of the factory in Peoria, which was held and regarded as one of the most profitable and successful factories engaged in said manufacture and had cost in its construction more than a million dollars—a factory for which the Corn Products Company had paid more than $2,000,000 in 1902, and the Corn Products Manufacturing Company in August, 1897, had paid nearly two million dollars therefor; and your Orator charges that said factory was destroyed in order to give to him and the objecting stockholders an object lesson of the character and determination of the Standard Oil Company and its co-defendants, and of the policy which they would mercilessly pursue as Trustees.

50. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors, that the Standard Oil Company through its agent, the Corn Products Refining Company, continues to pay dividends, in favor of itself, and others in its interests; that a dividend of 1% was declared in July, 1907, and a further dividend of 1½% has just been declared payable in October next—but said dividends were payable upon the Preferred stock of said company, but none to the stockholders of the Corn Products Company, owners of the thirty-five and one-half factories, 421 but payable only to the owners of the two and a half factories, which never before are known to have paid dividends to their stockholders, or are known to have shown net earnings as elsewhere more fully stated in this bill; dividends from pretended earnings of the two and a half factories and their companies holding the same, of which the contribution to this Plan was the said indebtedness of over $3,250,000 created in their short experience.

51. Your Orator further shows that out of the earnings for the year ending February 28, 1907, reported at $6,500,000, not a dollar has been divided to your Orator or the other stockholders of the stock of the Corn Products Company objecting to this Plan—but some millions of dollars are left undivided in the Treasury; and this under color of various pretenses hinted at in said report—every one of which your Orator alleges were and are untrue and made to suit the ends of the Standard Oil Company; that the real truth is that your Orator and other objecting stockholders are to be punished in this amongst many other methods, by this master monopoly until driven to consent to their new monopoly, condemned as a crime by the common law and the Statutes of this State.

52. That to further show the inequitable character of the management of our Trustees who owned the two and a half factories, and put them into this Plan at a profit of nearly $15,000,000, and pretend to make dividends out of their earnings while denying dividends to the owners of the thirty-five and one-half factories, your Orator states unto your Honors the following facts, namely: That the grinding capacities of the thirty-five factories of the Corn Products Company are greater than those of the two and a half factories by five fold; that they had all the experience in the manufacture of glucose, starch and by-products, trade secrets and patents, and had always been successful with immense earnings and dividends as elsewhere shown in this bill; that the market of starch was entirely in the hands of said Corn Products factories; that the market of the said Kingsford Company alone in the starch business exceeded that of any factory and was preferred in the market to all others and in every household and with a profitable business for sixty years past, entirely unequaled and amounting to at least $500,000 per year, and certainly worth at a reliable estimate in annual profits far more than that of the two and a half factories put in by said Standard Oil Company.

53. That the management of the business and market of the thirty-five and a half factories of the Corn Products Company cannot be safely entrusted to the Standard Oil Company, because it is a great monopoly and therefore a great and distinguished offender, being prosecuted as guilty of criminal offenses by the National Government, and declared condemned and adjudged guilty of great offenses against the policy and interests of the American People; and that the management and control of the assets of $80,000,000 of the Corn Products Company while under control of the said Standard Oil Company, is, and will be, like that of the management and control of the Standard Oil Company itself, and of the many other companies, and corporations, conducted from its office in 26 Broadway, New York, in contempt of and in conflict with the laws of this state; and to entrust them with the same is to hand over the ownership, management and control of nearly forty factories of which the greater and more important are situated in the State of Illinois, and if allowed to remain under such control will be in the hands of criminals as held and adjudged by the laws of this state.

422 54. Your Orator alleges, that the Standard Oil Company and its co-conspirators have placed the possession of the thirty-eight factories described in this Plan, in the hands of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company of New Jersey, as its and their agent, which now conducts and controls the manufacture in the several factories, in obedience to the orders of the Standard Oil Company; and the products thereof, now bear the brands of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company; and your Orator alleges that this Corn Products Manufacturing Company is the old Glucose Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey, which was condemned as a monopoly and offender against the trust laws of the state, and now remains under the condemnation and ban of the laws of this State; as adjudged by the Supreme Court of Illinois; and said manufacture and control of so extensive and important an industry, in open and flagrant contempt of the law, will remain in said criminal corporation until ousted by the Receiver appointed by this Court.

55. To the end therefore that your Orator may have a remedy and equity in the premises and that the Standard Oil

AMENDED BILL OF COMPLAINT.

Now comes the complainant herein and by leave of Court amends his bill of complaint herein so that the same shall read as follows, namely:

To the Judges of the said Superior Court in Chancery Sitting:

Your Orator, George F. Harding, a resident and citizen of the State of California, humbly complaining, respectfully represents unto your Honors: That your Orator on or before the year 1904 was the owner of 500 shares of the stock of the Corn Products Company of New Jersey and ever since has been and still is the owner and holder of the same and that the value of said stock exceeded twenty thousand dollars.

1. That the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and the defendants hereinafter named, constituting and controlling the Directory of the said Corn Products Company, then and ever since have occupied the position of Trustees of your Orator, as to said stock, and while acting as such Trustees they have wrongfully impaired and injured the value of all of said stock and are now further injuring and impairing the same by the conspiracy and misconduct hereinafter set out in this bill.

That said Standard Oil Company, and co-defendants, have wrongfully obtained possession by said conspiracy and misconduct of all the property of the Corn Products Company, including thirty-five and one-half factories engaged in the manufacture of glucose, starch and by-products, and that by a combination in the year 1906 the said defendants having also

complaint, filed
Oct. 28, 1907.

acquired the stock of two and one-half companies and of their factories engaged in the same business, have, while ruining the value of your Orator's stock, created a monopoly in the manufacture and sale of said necessities of life, contrary to the interests and policy, and to the great injury of the People of the United States; and thereby now control more than 90% of the manufacture of the same, and have advanced the price of the same more than 100%.

2. That the Corn Products Company was and is a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New Jersey on February 28, 1902, with a capital stock of $80,000,000 divided into preferred stock of $30,000,000 and common stock of $50,000,000; and the stock of your Orator of $50,000 consisted in equal quantities of said preferred and common stock in shares of $100 each.

3. That when your Orator acquired the said stock, and for a considerable period theretofore, and for some time thereafter, the said Corn Products Company was the owner of said thirty-five large and valuable factories and plants aforesaid, and of the stock of the companies owning and operating the same in the States of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Iowa, and elsewhere, and also owned 49% of the stock of the New York glucose Company of New Jersey with its factory in 437 Edgewater, New Jersey, and that their said business of manufacture was then and therefore and thereafter during the life of said company yielding large profits; that said factories had cost and continued to be worth up to the time of said conspiracy and misconduct hereinafter stated in this bill, more than $50,000,000; that the price of said stock of said Corn Products Company on the New York Stock Exchange at the formation of said company in February 1902 amounted to a total of $44,413,019; that the net earnings of only six of said companies (while owned by the said defendant, the Corn Products Manufacturing Company) from August, 1897, to February 28, 1902, exceeded $11,500,000; that the net earnings of said thirty-five and one-half factories for the ensuing period from February 28, 1902, to February 28, 1906, were $15,355,140, as stated by defendants (assuming only for the last year for which no statement has ever been published, that the earnings equaled that of the prior year).

That during the respective periods aforesaid, from August, 1897, to February 28, 1902, out of the proceeds of the six factories, the Corn Products Manufacturing Company earned as

complaint, filed
Oct. 25, 1907.

and managed by the Standard Oil Company, and under and in pursuance of the following so-called Plan, which was afterwards wrongfully and unjustly carried into execution to the great wrong and injury of your Orator as hereinafter set forth in this bill.

PLAN.

6. "The Corn Products Refining Company will be organized under the laws of New Jersey with a capital of $30,000,000 Preferred and $50,000,000 Common Stock, the same as the Corn Products Company and with the same provisions as to preference.

Mr. E. T. Bedford will take the Presidency of the company and the management of its business, bringing into the Board of Directors those associates who have been actively connected with him in the New York Glucose Company.

When the plan becomes effective the Corn Products Refining Company will own: (1) At least a majority of the capital stock of the Corn Products Company; (2) the entire capital stock of the New York Glucose Company, not already acquired by the Corn Products Company; (3) the entire capital stock of the Warner Sugar Refining Company; (4) the entire capital stock of the St. Louis Syrup & Preserving Company; and the new company, with its subsidiary companies will have a net working capital of approximately $5,000,000.

439 All stock set apart for exchange for stock of the Corn Products Company and not used for that purpose will remain in the treasury.

In effect, the Corn Products stockholders will surrender one-third of their holdings for the purpose of acquiring the entire interest in the three companies above named, not already owned by the Corn Products Company.

Those three companies have modern works, and no bonded debt except $2,300,000, while the subsidiary companies of the Corn Products Company, have a total bonded debt of $7,293,000.

The three companies, New York Glucose Company, Warner Sugar Refining Company and St. Louis Syrup & Preserving Company, contribute a net working capital of about $2,000,000 toward the joint working capital of $5,000,000.

During the year just ended those three companies did about 50% of the entire business, domestic and export.

The financial status of all companies to be verified by public accountants and title to be examined by counsel. Plan.

The undersigned stockholders among others have agreed to deposit stock under the foregoing plan.

C. H. MATTHIESSEN,
NORMAN B. REAM,
WILLIAM W. HEATON,
JOY MORTON,
J. B. GREENHUT.

7. Your orator alleges that the printed plan aforesaid was sent, as your Orator is informed and believes, to some of the stockholders of The Corn Products Company at some date unknown to your Orator, but believed to be in the year 1906, and was accompanied by a paper, of which the following is a copy, viz.:

"Title Guarantee and Trust Company,
146 Broadway.

To the Stockholders of The Corn Products Company:

In accordance with the annexed Plan, The Title Guarantee and Trust Company is prepared to receive your stock on deposit and to issue transferrable certificates of deposit therefor, exchangeable for stock of The Corn Products Refining Company, on the basis of three shares of your stock, Common or Preferred, for two shares of the same class of the stock of The Corn Products Refining Company.

Scrip will be issued for fractions of shares, exchangeable for full shares in sums of one hundred dollars or multiples thereof.

The right is reserved to declare the Plan inoperative, in which event all stock deposited will be returned without cost to depositor, upon surrender of the certificates of deposit issued therefor, suitably endorsed, on or after March 31, 1906.

The time to deposit stock under the Plan will expire February 1, 1906, at 3 p. m.

The Certificates must be accompanied by power of its transfer in blank, the execution of which must be witnessed or guaranteed by someone known to this Company, or acknowledged before a Notary Public, under his official seal.

C. H. KELSEY,
President.

8. Your Orator alleges and charges that the essence and

Amended bill of
complaint, filed
Oct. 25, 1907.

effect of this Plan was the enforced liquidation of the Corn Products Company.

440 That this liquidation was to be accompanied under color and by means of a bargain for the benefit of the Standard Oil Company, and all of said schemes, divisions, and details of said Plan were in effect, merely, for the purpose, on the part of the Standard Oil Company and the parties in its interest, to give to said Standard Oil Company the monopoly of the glucose, starch, and by-products manufactured in the United States as already stated.

That the object of the Standard Oil Company was more easily accomplished by special contracts in advance with the said conspirators by which they were enabled to sell their stock on better terms than stated in said Plan; but there was reserved for your Orator and other stockholders the necessity of uniting in said Plan and consenting to said bargain, with no other alternative, as the Standard Oil Company had assured itself of the entire market for said Corn Products stock; and, if it could be sold at all, it must either be sold on the terms of this Plan or at private sale to the said Standard Oil Company, as elsewhere more fully shown in this bill.

9. Your Orator shows to your Honors that said Plan provided for the formation of the Corn Products Refining Company, capitalized at $80,000,000, and divided said stock between the holders of the $80,000,000 stock of the Corn Products Company so far as issued ($72,500,000), on the basis of two shares of the new company for three of the old, giving 60% of the stock of the new company to the stockholders of the Corn Products Company who should accept these terms.

That this division left the remaining 40% of said stock of said company to the holders of the capital stock of the Warner Sugar Refining Company and of the capital stock of the St. Louis Sirup and Preserving Company, and of 51% of the capital stock of the New York Glucose Company.

That as stated in said Plan: "in effect the Corn Products shareholders will surrender one-third of their holdings for the purpose of acquiring the entire interest in the three companies (last) above named, not already owned by the Corn Products Company."

That said 40% given to the holders of said two and a half factories had then a total value on the New York Stock Exchange of $16,854,569.

10. That the actual value of the said stock of said two and a half companies and their factories did not exceed three million dollars ($3,000,000). That they were then owned by the Standard Oil Company which had then bought the same for less than said sum. That the said 51% of the stock of the New York Glucose Company was absolutely worthless as it had nothing to represent it in value except its factory at Edgewater, New Jersey, that could not be economically used for the manufacture for which it was built; and this is now admitted by said defendant in their first annual statement. That said two and a half companies were capitalized at less than $5,500,000 and were subject to an indebtedness, bonded and floating, of $3,250,000 dollars; that they never had reported dividends or net earnings during their existence, of from five to ten years, and that they had no right to declare such dividends, and had no net earnings, is sufficiently explained by said indebtedness approximating the amount of their capital. That the statements of said three companies of January and February, 1906, evidently prepared for the purpose of justifying this division at the time show that at the highest estimate they were then worth less than $8,200,000.

Amended bill of
complaint, filed
Oct. 25, 1907.

441 That the gross earnings by the Warner and St. Louis factories for the only year for which comparison can be made, due to the suppression by our Trustee of the statement of the Corn Products Company for the year, as reported in 1905, give gross earnings, Warner, $83,417, St. Louis, $111,332, total $195,349.

The gross earnings of the thirty-five companies of the Corn Products Company for the same period was $2,968,312; (omitting as a negligible quantity the gross earnings of the New York Glucose Company, being the half factory in each case). These gross earnings of the said two companies show that they the said owners should have been given upon the basis of their gross earnings 6% of the stock of the Corn Products Refining Company, instead of what this plan gave viz: 40%, and the management and control thrown in, and assured by the terms of the charter for many years to come.

So far as known said two factories had neither trade marks, patents, good will, nor any fruits to show of successful experience, were loaded with debt, nearly to the amount of their capital, and were burdened with infirmities of their own as to water supply and location.

11. That said Plan and Division gave to said Standard Oil Company, the holders of the said stock of the two and a half companies and their factories, a profit of $15,000,000 outright. That said Division and Plan further provides for the permanent ownership and monopoly in the provision, namely: "Mr. E. T. Bedford will take the presidency of the company and the management of its business, bringing into the Board of Directors those associates who have been actively connected with him in the New York Glucose Company." That said Bedford, and his associates, of the New York Glucose Company, were simply Directors and Officers and Agents of the Standard Oil Company, and said Bedford and others of said associates were also openly Trustees of your Orator and the stockholders of said Corn Products Company, so that this Plan was simply a gift and bargain by which our Directors and Trustees sold said $80,000,000 of Corn Products stock to themselves.

Amended bill of
complaint, filed
Oct. 25, 1907.

12. That by this Plan, according to the valuation given the 40% of the stock of the Corn Products Refining Company, (which was paid for by said two and a half factories worth $8,200,000, at the very highest price named by themselves) then the 60% of the capital which remained was to be treated as only worth $12,000,000; and this proportionate sum of $12,000,000 was a fair and adequate division according to the equity of said Plan as administered by our Trustees to the holders of the $80,000,000 of Corn Products stock; and this was so just a Division and Plan, that it was certified to by the remaining Trustees and leading stockholders, who agreed to it in advance as shown by the following statement annexed to said Plan, namely: "The undersigned stockholders, among others, have agreed to deposit stock under the foregoing Plan.

C. H. MATTHIESSEN,
NORMAN B. REAM.
WILLIAM W. HEATON,
JOY MORTON,
J. B. GREENHUT."

That this was a certificate by a part of our Trustees and a part of the Directors of the Corn Products Company to their cestiuis que trust, that it was a fair division, and an honest Plan, namely: That they should give up a third of their capital and surrender their right to the conduct of their own business to the Standard Oil Company, that 442 they should besides pay $17,000,000 for two and a half factories, one of them worthless, and the other two picked up by the Standard Oil Company at less than $2,000,000, and all incumbered for more than their value—that this fixing a

complaint, filed

valuation of $12,000,000 for the $80,000,000 capital of the Corn Products stock (in proportion to said $8,000,000 valuation of the said two and a half factories) was a fair one and should have the consent of every stockholder—urging that all their fellow stockholders should hasten to accept these terms (for their 35½ factories, for their trade secrets, good will, long experience, market and independence, and control of their own affairs, always successful, and about to be more prosperous than ever), giving three shares of their stock for two shares of stock in the Corn Products Refining Company, which stock at its highest value, proved worth in the market of 1906, less than $27,000,000 an immediate loss of $20,000,000—which has now become $30,000,000, as elsewhere shown in the bill.

13. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors, that while it may not be further necessary to show that this Plan is most inequitable—that our trustees and the Standard Oil Co. should have given themselves the benefit of a bargain, both sides of which they made themselves, yet it may be wise to show what was the actual character and value of the assets represented by the $8,000,000 of Corn Products Stock, sacrificed by this plan; and your orator therefore alleges the following facts, namely:

I.

Six factories formerly owned and operated by the Glucose Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey.

(1.) The Chicago Sugar Refinery, which had actually cost, and was worth more than $8,000,000 with its valuable site on Taylor street and Chicago River, which was, and is, worth, site alone $3,000,000;

The legal description of the said property now held and operated in the name of the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, in the City of Chicago, in the County of Cook, in the State of Illinois, as above shown, is as follows, namely: Blocks Seventy-five (75) and Seventy-eight (78) (except Taylor street) in School Addition to Chicago, in Section Sixteen (16), Township, Thirty-nine (39) North, Range Fourteen (14) East of the Third Principal Meridian, in the City and County and State aforesaid.

Amended bill of
complaint, filed
Oct. 25, 1907.

(2) The factory of the American Glucose Company of Peoria, Illinois, then equal in value as a factory to that of Chicago; and both factories were unrivaled in capacity and excellence of products.

(3.) The factory of the Davenport Sugar Refining Company, of Davenport, Iowa, very favorably situated, for the manufacture of Glucose, sirup, and by-products, and of great value, exceeding $2,000,000.

(4.) The factory of the Peoria Grape Sugar Company in Peoria, Illinois.

(5.) The factory of the Rockford Sugar Works, of Rockford, Illinois.

(6.) The factory of the Firminich Manufacturing Company of Marshalltown, Iowa. That the said last three 443 factories had cost more than $1,500,000 each and had a grinding capacity of 30,000 bushels daily.

14. That all of said six factories, with a working capital of $1,500,000 had belonged to the Glucose Sugar Refining Company, incorporated August 7, 1897, with a capital stock of $14,000,000, 7% cumulative Preferred, and $26,000,000 Common stock; that the Corn Products Company was organized on February 28, 1902, and then acquired nearly all the capital stock of the said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, in exchange for shares of the Corn Products Company, paying for said capital stock to the extent of $13,000,000 of the Glucose Preferred stock and of Twenty-one millions and a quarter of Glucose Common stock, by $16,081,750 of Corn Products Preferred stock, and $26,600,000 of Corn Products Common stock, holding in reserve $1,000,000 of Corn Products Preferred, and $3,500,000 of Common to acquire outstanding Glucose shares, nearly all of which were later exchanged for the said Corn Products Company's stock; the Corn Products Company paying in said exchange One and a quarter shares of their stock for each share of Glucose Sugar stock; in short paying fifty millions of the capital stock of the Corn Products Company for $40,000,000 of the capital stock of said Glucose Sugar Refining Company.

15. The Glucose Sugar Refining Company owning only six factories and surplus and working capital, had no bonded debt, and had earned and paid dividends to the amount of $6,763,000 from the earnings of said six factories, (7% upon the Preferred ever since said company was organized in August, 1897, and 6% on the Common, commencing December 1, 1898, up to December, 1901, when the yearly rate was reduced to 4%); that until these six factories became the property of the Corn Products Company in February, 1902, the Glucose Sugar Refining Company expended $2,152,000 upon said factories, and the average net earnings of the same for the three prior fiscal years were annually $2,969,624, or 8% on the total capitalization of $40,000,000; and these are the facts as given in the annual statements of the said defendant, said Glucose Sugar Refining Company, now known as the Corn Products Manufacturing Company. That the value of the said six factories with said million and a half of working capital, and a surplus of $2,632,985, was then equal to the value of the stock of the Corn Products Company as given in exchange on February 28, 1902; and that value at the time of said exchange was 95c on the dollar for the Preferred and 38 3/8c on the dollar for the Common stock upon the New York Stock Exchange; and said Glucose Sugar Refining Company was not only enjoying a highly prosperous business, but was in all respects in a very strong condition.

complaint, filed

That the total actual value in cash of the said six factories alone in February, 1902, was more than $27,000,000; and your orator alleges that said six factories as a whole were never afterwards of less value, but were of this value or more at the time of said Plan, and their seizure by the Corn Products Refining Company in 1906.

II.

16. Your Orator further shows that the Corn Products Company at its formation, on February 28, 1902, in addition to the six factories aforesaid, acquired 29½ additional factories, with the stock and good will of the companies owning the same, and also with ample working capital as follows, namely: 4½ of said factories engaged in manufacturing 444 glucose were bought by acquiring the stock of the Charles Pope Glucose Company, with its two factories at Geneva and Venice, Illinois; and the factory at Pekin, Illinois, was acquired with the stock of the Illinois Sugar Refining Company; and 49% of the stock of the New York Glucose Company with the same per cent. of its factory at Edgewater, New Jersey.

17. And said company also acquired the stock of the United States Glucose Company; which last named stock with its glucose factory and the remaining 24 factories of the 35½ factories aforesaid, which were starch factories, were acquired by the purchase then made of the entire stock of the

complaint, filed
Oct. 28, 1907.

National Starch Company; by which they were up to February 28, 1902, owned.

18. That the Corn Products Company acquired by exchanges of its own capital stock, amounting to $80,000,000, practically all the said stocks, and with them the factories of said companies; and paid therefor by apportioning the shares of the Corn Products stock as follows: (1.) It paid $46,082,050 of Common and Preferred stock as above stated for said Glucose Sugar Refining Company stock of $40,000,000 with its six factories aforesaid. (2.) That it paid $7,125,240 Preferred stock and $15,539,565 Common stock for said 49% of the New York Glucose Company stock amounting to $1,225,000; and for $750,000 of the shares of the Illinois Sugar Company with its factory at Pekin; and for $120,000 shares of the Charles Pope Company stock with its two factories at Geneva and Venice; and the Corn Products Company also acquired in consideration of the stock given for said three and a half factories last named, $1,400,000 in cash for additional working capital; the sum paid in cash by said Corn Products Company at the then value of its stock so paid, was $12,673,012.

19. That the sums paid for the factories at Geneva and Venice and Pekin were the sums upon which dividends had always been paid; and the factory at Pekin is that claimed by the Corn Products Refining Company, defendant, in its statement of 1907, as that in the best location for a glucose plant and also as being extended in grinding capacity for that reason. That in the purchase for the stock and factories, twenty-five in number, of the National Starch Company, there was apportioned, and paid for them $3,469,000 Preferred stock and $2,201,220 Common stock; making the sums paid in cash as ascertained by the value of the Corn Products shares on the New York Stock Exchange at the time, namely, $4,132,212.

20. That said National Starch Company had a capital stock of $10,000,000, of which half was Preferred stock upon which a dividend of 6% had been paid ever since the organization of said company in 1900, and it had also a bonded debt of $7,763,000 upon which it had paid interest; and upon which interest has ever since been paid.

That said twenty-four starch factories included most of the starch factories in the United States, and supplied most of the market for starch of every standard quality; and included all the factories of the greatest reputation, producing

goods of the highest excellence and favorites in every household; in which should be named especially Kingford's, and various factories, Erkenbrecher's, Gilbert's, Argo's and others, of national reputation, and all worth every dollar of the capitalization and indebtedness above described.

21. And your Orator alleges that outside the 49% of the New York Glucose Company's stock, the factories and stock of the constituent companies of the Corn Products Company as stated were fully worth the values of the stock of said Corn Products Company paid therefor; and that the cash value of said Corn Products Companies stock determined by its price as fixed by the market of the New York Stock Exchange at the time of the formation of said company, amounted to a total of $44,413,019, and they continued to be worth this sum up to the time in 1906, when they were nominally given to the Corn Products Refining Company of New Jersey, and surrendered by the terms of said plan at a loss of $20,000,000, as elsewhere more fully stated.

22. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors that the actual earnings of said 35½ factories of the Corn Products Company, as shown by the annual statements of said defendants have been such as to show the solid basis upon which the value of said stock rests and are as follows: Earnings from February 28, 1902, to February 28, 1903, the first year, the Corn Products Company earned $4,013,841.

Earnings for the year, ending Feb. 28, 1904, $5,571,003.

Earnings of 49% of the New York Glucose Company, for the year ending December 31, 1904, $391,851; and for the year ending December 31, 1905, $307,252, as reported.

That the total earnings of the Corn Products Company for the years from February 28, 1902, to February 28, 1906, were $16,054,253, as shown by the annual statements of the defendants themselves, excepting only for the one year from February 28, 1905, to February 28, 1906, which have never been reported, being due after the liquidation of said company by the Standard Oil Company and its associates, and so its earnings have been assumed to be equal to the reported earnings of the previous year, the smallest in its history, namely, $2,885,148.

That these large earnings were expended by the Corn Products Company in dividends to the amount of $6,942,040.

Amended bill of
complaint, filed
Oct. 25, 1907.

That said earnings were further expended in repairs and rebuilding and remodeling of its factories, namely, $3,538,003.

That said earnings were further expended by paying the interest upon the debts of the New York Glucose Company and of said starch companies, namely, $1,662,598.

23. That there remained a surplus of nearly $4,000,000 belonging to the Corn Products Company on February 28, 1906; and to this should be added its working capital to the amount of at least $3,000,000; a total of $7,000,000 of surplus and unexpended earnings; and this prosperous company did not then owe a dollar of indebtedness, and its capital of $80,000,000 was invested in the stock of thirty-five companies and their thirty-five factories worth every dollar of said capital and besides in the 49% of the said New York Glucose Company and its factory.

24. Your Orator further alleges that the said Plan is an old and ingenious device by which the stockholders of the Corn Products Company, and of your Orator are to be forced into a surrender of their stock under this Plan to the Standard Oil Company, through its new agent, the Corn Products Refining Company of New Jersey; that the name itself of the Corn Products Company in 1906, when in its most prosperous condition was taken from the list of companies 446 listed upon the New York Stock Exchange, by the action of the Standard Oil Company and their fellow associates and defendants, and substituting the name of the new company in order that the stockholders of the Corn Products Company could have no other disposition of said stock except that furnished by the Plan.

That the said Standard Oil Company keep on foot the nominal entity and control of the Corn Products Company and now retain its stock so far as exchanged under this Plan for that of the Corn Products Refining Company; and the Board of Directors is selected from the Directors and Agents of the Standard Oil Company, and entirely in their interests, and the factories are in possession and under control of the Standard Oil Company, every one of the thirty-eight factories charged in said plan, being so managed as the property, and in the name of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and conducted under orders from the Standard Oil Company through said Corn Products Refining Company; and that each one of the factories is managed from the office of the Standard Oil Company at 26 Broadway, New York; and the manufacture and sale is conducted without any con-consideration for the real interests of your Orator, and the stockholders of said Corn Products Company, but solely for the benefit of the Standard Oil Company, yet the said Standard Oil Company ingeniously keeps on foot through its agents and subsidiary companies the pretense of management and control through the Directors of the Corn Products Company aforesaid, who are simply agents of the Standard Oil Company.

That the very name of the Corn Products Company does not longer appear in the market, is unknown in the production and manufacture of glucose and by-products; and for purposes of concealment and to defeat all publicity or knowledge of what has occurred, the very brands, trade marks, good will of the Corn Products Company, and every detail of its manufacture and sale is now done in the names of said companies, scarcely distinguishable from that of the Corn Products Company; that the factories are run in the name of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and the business is done in the name of the Corn Products Refining Company; that the Corn Products Company has no office or telephone, and its stockholders are denied all information of its business; and every attempt is made to blot out the name and connection of the Corn Products Company with the said business and manufacture in which it was so successful, and on the eve of its greatest success, and of its brightest future; and the money earned by the 35½ factories of the Corn Products Company amounting annually to $7,000,000 a year, are now pouring into the hands of the Standard Oil Company, at 26 Broadway, New York.

25. Your Orator alleges, that the Standard Oil Company was really the Trustee of your Orator, and managed the business and property of your Orator and fellow stockholders during the entire history of said Corn Products Company, and up to and ever since the said conspiracy charged in this bill; that said Standard Oil Company and their co-defendants have been in said position of trust and are now in said position of trust, for your Orator and other stockholders in like condition, and should be made to account for the profits they have made in said business of said Trust, and should be compelled to surrender it through the appointment by this court of a receiver.

Your Orator alleges that the Standard Oil Company began its campaign and conspiracy to create this monopoly in the manufacture and sale of starch and glucose, in 1898, by the formation of the New York Glucose Company of New Jersey, and the construction of its factory at Edgewater, Bergen 447 Point, New Jersey. That in 1898, had been recently formed the Glucose Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey, which with its six factories in Illinois controlled the manufacture and market of said products; and the factory at Edgewater, New Jersey, was intended to secure the monopoly of said manufacture and markets for the Standard Oil Company; that finding its first move in building its factory was abortive, because it was built outside the corn belt and could not be used to manufacture economically, the said Standard Oil Company joined in a wider combination and assisted in forming the Corn Products Company of New Jersey, and managed to have apportioned to it in said formation one-fifth or thereabouts of the Corn Products Company's $80,000,000 of stock, but said Standard Oil Company only put into said Corn Products Company 49% of the stock of the New York Glucose Company, reserving the control, the better to accomplish its purposes; that the fellow stockholders of the Corn Products Company, including the stock of thirty-five companies engaged in the same manufacture, very soon found themselves in the control of the Standard Oil Company; especially because the Standard Oil Company by the formation of the Corn Products Company had gained access to the patents, trade secrets, and everything that gave it the business success; and still more because the Standard Oil Company were thereby enabled to name the Directors of the Corn Products Company, and placed in said Directory one of its ablest Directors, Edward T. Bedford, who dominated the Company and continued its Director with other associates, really Directors of the Standard Oil Co., itself or its agents, thereafter. That the manufacture and market of the Corn Product Company was from its formation controlled by the Standard Oil Company, though without the knowledge of its stockholders to the real extent of such control, until later developed by the sequel when the said Bedford, and his associates, in the New York Glucose Company presented and since have enforced up to this hour the said Plan hereinbefore stated and shown.

complaint, filed

26. That there were outside the Corn Products Company the factory of the Warner Sugar Refining Company at Waukegan, Ill., and another factory of the St. Louis Sirup and Preserving Company, at Granite, Ill., besides other factories in the Corn belt engaged in the manufacture of Starch or glucose, and the Standard Oil Company found it necessary to complete its monopoly to buy up the said two factories to make its monopoly more effectual. That in order to buy and control the stock of the Corn Products Company required a further investment of but one or two million of dollars, but this was effected through the agency of the New York Stock Exchange, upon which said Standard Oil Company caused the stock of the Corn Products Company to be listed, and by the devices familiar to said company of fictitious sales and purchases from and to themselves of the stock of the Corn Products Company, said Standard Oil Company easily and profitably raised and lowered the stock of the said Corn Products Company; so that at one time it was worth one hundred cents and at another time ten cents or less, judging of its value by the index furnished by the sales so manufactured on the New York Stock Exchange; that these fictitious sales and purchases were begun in 1902, and were continued during the life time of the Corn Products Company by said Standard Oil Company, and were aided by actual statements of the said Corn Products Company required by law annually, which, and rumors of the same nature, furnished alleged facts, so much to the prejudice of the Corn Products Company, half truths, and other falsehoods, that aided the Standard Oil Company in its campaign upon the New York Stock Exchange; so that finally after the conduct of said campaign during 1903, 1904 and 1905, these false sales and purchases, led to sales of real stock to said Standard Oil Company, at prices named by the Standard Oil Company. That the campaign of the Standard Oil Company was in point of fact financed from the inside of the Corn Products Company, and so it is, that said Standard Oil Company, absolutely controlled, and controls, the majority of the stock of the Corn Products Company. That by the device of the Corn Products Refining Company of New Jersey and the bargains shown in the Plan already detailed, said Standard Oil Company in effect have been given them $15,000,000 at least for the pretended consideration of said two factories at Waukegan and St. Louis and of said 51% of said New York Glucose Company, and have placed the new company permanently in the hands of themselves and their Directors. That said Standard Oil Company has thus by easy stages and at slight cost, if any, but through the ruin of the said stockholders of

the companies owning the said thirty-eight factories, obtained the entire business of the manufacture and sale of glucose and starch products in the United States.

27. Your Orator further alleges that the said Plan is especially inequitable as against your Orator and other Preferred stockholders of the said Corn Products Company. That they are invited by this Plan to give up one-third of their Preferred stock to the amount of $10,000,000, and its 7% yearly dividends. That the surplus then existing in 1905, was abundantly sufficient to pay such dividends as so contracted to be paid. That said Plan requires a surrender of their stock, ignoring entirely such interest at 7% due them; and the owners of said stock have ever since under this Plan and management and control and monopoly, suffered the loss of said interest and will continue to suffer that loss until the property is taken out of the hands of said defendants.

Your Orator alleges that the contract under which your Orator and other stockholders held their stock and stated in the charter of said Corn Products Company, and repeated in the Certificate of the Preferred and the Common stock aforesaid, issued to your Orator, or held and owned by him, is as follows, namely:

"The holders of the preferred stock shall be entitled to receive when and as declared from the surplus or net profits of the company yearly dividends at the rate of 7% per annum and no more, payable quarterly on dates to be fixed by the by-laws. The dividend on the preferred stock shall be cumulative and shall be payable before any dividends on the common stock shall be paid or set apart so that if in any year dividends amounting to 7% shall not have been paid thereon the deficiency shall be payable before any dividends shall be paid upon or set apart for the common stock."

"Whenever all cumulative dividends on the preferred stock for all previous years shall have been declared and shall have become payable and the accrued quarterly installments for the current year shall have been declared and the company shall have paid such cumulative dividends for previous years and such accrued quarterly installments or shall have set aside from its surplus or net profits a sum sufficient for the payment thereof, the board of directors may declare dividends on the Common stock payable then or thereafter out of any remaining surplus or net profit * * *

"In the event of any liquidation or dissolution or winding up, whether voluntary or involuntary, of the company, the holders of the preferred stock shall be entitled to be paid in full both the par amount of their shares and the unpaid dividends accrued thereon before any amount shall be paid to the holders of the Common stock."

28. Your Orator alleges, that these provisions in the contract of the Preferred stock, as above stated held by him, were and are a part of the contract and contracts with him as to each amount and all amounts of the said shares of Preferred stock held by him, and were in full force and binding upon the said Corn Products Company and all other persons dealing with said Corn Products Company at all times during its history and are still in force and have never been set aside or destroyed by any action or consent upon the part of your Orator, but your Orator alleges and shows unto your Honors, that by said action of said Trustees, the defendants herein, in the attempted execution of said Plan, all the said property of the Corn Products Company have been taken out of its hands, wrongfully and without right, and that its factories, and all its business, and its market, goodwill, trade secrets and patents, and licenses, necessary to the conduct of business, are now wrongfully in the possession, management, and control, of the Standard Oil Company, and others of said defendants, and the said Corn Products Company and the rights and interests of your Orator, have been annihilated, by and under the execution of said Plan and in pursuance thereof.

29. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors, that said Plan effects the preservation of a part of the common stock of the Corn Products Company and thereby secures to the conspirators the consequent control of both the Corn Products Company and the Corn Products Refining Company accomplished by the defeat and confiscation of the Preferred stock and of its preference; for it is claimed by said defendants that it was wise with due regard to the interest of all parties to cut down the Preferred stock and thereby take away $10,000,000 of the money put into it, yet at the same time it is also pretended and the Plan secures to the holders of the Common stock a value capitalized at $33,444,000 in the capital stock of the Corn Products Refining Company; and it now, as the sequel shows, pretends that a dividend can be shortly made on this very common stock of the Refining Company.

So that your Orator respectfully shows unto your Honors, that this common stock secures the control of the Corn Products Company and of the Corn Products Refining Company and can be manipulated into this immense sum; although said common stock was not entitled to a penny under the terms of said charter of the Corn Products Company until all of said Preferred stock, including the $10,000,000 of the Preferred stock cut off by said Plan had first been paid in full and until all unpaid cumulative dividends and interest 450 thereon were also paid to the last dollar.

That it is the truth and your Orator charges that this Plan was made to effect the common objects of said conspirators, namely: (1st) To secure to the Standard Oil Company the $17,000,000 given by said division in behalf of the factories held by it, and (2nd) to give value to the Common stock of the Corn Products Company which had been theretofore bought up by the Standard Oil Company and its said associate defendants in said conspiracy, and (3rd) the creation of the said monopoly of the manufacture and sale of glucose, starch and by-products. That as elsewhere stated in this bill the Standard Oil Company by the manipulation of the market, by the sale of the stock of the Corn Products Company on the New York Stock Exchange for years, without reference or regard to the real value of the stock and by fictitious sales of stock, that never were made or delivered, reduced said stock to nearly a tenth of its value. That a majority of the stock of the Corn Products Co. being acquired by this monstrous series of operations backed by the irresistible wealth and influence of the Standard Oil Company, and with entire indifference to the interests of other stockholders, the said Standard Oil Company was able at its pleasure, and at a price fixed by themselves, to acquire from their worn-out stockholders when compelled to sell, and to now control, the greater part of the $80,000,000 of actual capital and money of the Corn Products Company, and are now managing the business of all the property which they have acquired substantially for nothing, financed by itself and at the sacrifice of many individual stockholders, including your Orator, as elsewhere stated in this bill.

30. That your Orator had the right, specially contracted to stockholders of the same class, Preferred and Common, to have the $80,000,000 of assets of the Corn Products Company given to said stockholders in the order fixed by their respective contracts, and cannot be ousted of the same by and in behalf of their Trustees.

Amended bill of
complaint, filed
Oct. 25, 1907.

That the Preferred stock must be paid and after that the Common stock had a right to be paid out of the assets of the Corn Products Company; and that said stockholders had a right to refuse the bargain and substitute presented to them by their Trustees by this Plan. That the assets of the Corn Products Company were sufficient many times over to pay the Preferred stock without the surrender of a dollar of it. That what remained of the assets of the Corn Products Company was sufficient to pay the stock of the Common shareholders of said company, and it was a criminal act to compel said stockholders to have their properties destroyed and their independent right to control annihilated by this Plan, and the creation of this monopoly was an unjust and unlawful change of their condition.

31. Your Orator alleges that if the assets of the Corn Products Company were distributed in a Court of Equity, such court would have distributed to the Preferred stockholders full payment at par of their stock, instead of the liquidation under this Plan by which the Preferred stockholders must surrender one-third of their stock, including back dividends and interest, in order to give place to the common stock which is left a large residuum; that the assets of said Corn Products Company were ample to effect such distribution in a court of equity and that the effect of this Plan not only causes this injustice, but to this must be added the fact, that the price on the New York Stock Exchange of Preferred stock of the 451 Corn Products Refining Company, if accepted as an index of the its value, shows that this Plan compels a sale of the Preferred stock of the Corn Products Company to its exchange for the Preferred stock of the Corn Products Refining Company, worth less than 42 cents on the dollar, and this sacrifice is coupled with the assurance that the Corn Products Refining Company must manage the 35½ factories under the control of the Standard Oil Company engaged in the misconduct and criminal violations of law for which the National government is demanding its punishment.

32. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors, that the facts herein alleged in regard to the action of the defendants in this conspiracy aforesaid remained unknown to your Orator until within a short time, a few months at best, when they were learned little by little, information being denied and withheld by his said trustees, as were the said defendants; and he charges that no notice was given to your Orator by defendants of any of their action or proposed action aforesaid, as set out in this bill, and what knowledge your Orator has obtained was gathered from time to time, and only after having been first concealed from him, and only learned with difficulty; one of the acts of concealment showing the secret manner in which they were done, namely, was that the very name of the Corn Products Company was counterfeited and concealed by the name given to the Corn Products Refining Company and of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and their actual existence and relations were concealed. That these devices of said conspirators were meant to conceal, confuse and deceive your orator and other stockholders not in the said conspiracy; and your Orator alleges that had the truth been known to him he would have filed a bill in apt time to prevent the execution of said Plan and the consummation of said conspiracy. That your Orator alleges that he has been unable to learn or state more fully than as herein set forth how the designs of the said conspirators were effected and with what action, if any, of record, in any book or books, showing the conduct and action of the directors of the Corn Products Company, or of the Corn Products Refining Company (if they were so preceded, accompanied or followed), nor whether a merger was attempted, or if so, how made, under the color of the law, or laws, of New Jersey, or what will be so claimed by said defendants in that regard; but your Orator shows unto your Honors and charges, that whatever was done by said defendants for said end or object, whether by merger or otherwise, in said conspiracy, was wrongful, fraudulent, and grossly inequitable as against your Orator; and that said Plan, the formation and apportionment of said Corn Products Refining Company, were unequal, unjust and inequitable, as elsewhere more fully shown.

33. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors that the Standard Oil Company and its Directors, including the Directors of the New York Glucose Company, and the Directors of the Corn Products Refining Company, as well as the Directors and Officers of the Corn Products Company, who were all engaged in the conspiracy herein described, were in reality trustees for the stockholders of the Corn Products Company, including your Orator. That they managed and controlled the Corn Products Company and its business for their own benefit; that they bought the factories of the Warner Company at Waukegan and of the St. Louis Company at Granite City, using the control of the market of glucose, and of the market on the New York Stock Exchange of the stock of the Corn Products Company to that end, and for the purposes of said conspiracy; and that in addition to the loss directly inflicted upon your Orator of said stock, the said conspirators by 452 their manipulation and misconduct, destroyed the value to a great extent of the stock of said Corn Products Company, and inflicted a loss of $2,000,000, outside of the stock aforesaid still owned and held by him upon your Orator, the value of the stock of the Corn Products Company disposed of by him at a great loss caused by the said Standard Oil Company and its associates in said conspiracy, who compelled and enforced the sale to themselves, for which loss they are liable as trustees who have violated their trust for their own benefit in this and the other various manipulations of the stock values on the New York Stock Exchange, and of the property of your Orator and other stockholders of the Corn Products Company, as elsewhere stated more fully in this bill.

34. Your orator shows unto your Honors, that this condition, to which the Corn Products Company is reduced, is in effect a form of liquidation by which the Trustees of the stockholders of the Corn Products Company hold its assets and prevent the distribution due the stockholders until they are ready to accept what should be given them by this Plan. That it is one of the most effective devices known by which the predatory corporations achieve their ends. That it is in effect in contempt of the law; that it preserves the skeleton, cheats all interested, and is calculated to enable the beneficiary to gradually destroy its trade, and convince the stockholder of the company destroyed, that it had better accept what is offered than do worse.

That there is no Corn Products Company in actual, real or active existence; yet it has officers and directors as if it were living. They are simply the same officers and directors with trifling changes, with the Officers and Directors of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company and the Corn Products Refining Company and the New York Glucose Company; that it is absolutely an automaton, a machine standing in and worked from 26 Broadway, New York, and moving at command of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. The Corn Products Company has nothing of all that it ever had; it had extensive business offices in Chicago and New York,

complaint, filed

but none can now be found; it had many books and records, meetings of its Board of Directors, consultations, but none are now known; it had an active President and officers, many sales conducted, many telegrams, many agents and clerks; it made many purchases and sales; had many advertisements, notices of its actions or business, but now none; in short, everything is changed, it is entirely unknown to the trade, the very factories are destroyed, in many instances razed and junked, as more fully stated elsewhere in this bill, the factory sites are to be changed; its patents, trade secrets, goodwill, are gone to the Corn Products Refining Company. That the moneys of the Corn Products Company of 1906, at its death, amounted to nearly $3,000,000, with its bank account, with its surplus of working capital of over $4,000,000, and its earnings of the year 1905, which are not even reported, but moneys and surplus are all gone into the hands of the Corn Products Refining Company, and not even a memorandum or statement of their contents, much less of their disposition, can be learned by their stockholders or by your orator; information is expressly denied to them by the terms of the charter of the Corn Products Refining Company, which contains every refinement, every concealment needed to deny knowledge to the stockholders, and the Standard Oil Company represented by Bedford and his associates, hating publicity and quietly in possession and suppression of every evidence of the predatory schemes by which they have secured possession and enjoyment of this immense property; that the Corn Products Company only preserves its entity by its skeleton and only acts whenever necessary and called upon by the Standard Oil Company to enforce and verify 453 its death and comply with the appearances necessary to vest that company under the forms of law with its assets.

35. Your Orator alleges that in the attempt of obtaining information as to what has occurred since this Plan was proposed, he has been denied information at the offices at which the business of the said thirty-eight factories is being conducted; that nothing can be learned at the same; that the stockholders and your orator are only referred upon such application for information to men who are abroad, to men who cannot be found, or to men who profess to know nothing and who will reveal or state nothing which will enable your orator to learn what has occurred, except the bare facts that the Corn Products Company has disappeared and as stated elsewhere in this bill.

36. Your Orator further alleges that the statements put forth by defendants touching the thirty-eight factories, their market, their products, their condition, their business done, are all misleading and substantially untrue and meant to deceive, and the market is so manipulated and the production so manipulated as to magnify the value of the said two and a half factories and to minimize and depreciates the value of the said thirty-five and one-half factories with a view to conceal the truth; and the Standard Oil Co. stands ready, your Orator charges, with its Protean changes to delay and defeat justice in the premises; so that there is no other remedy for your Orator to recover a part of what has been taken from him than the appointment of a Receiver and the recovery of the assets of the Corn Products Company from the hands of its enemies, who are also the enemies of the American people and have established one of the worst and most dangerous monopolies in the necessities of life and have placed thereby a burden upon the back of every man in the nation.

37. That the result as to the public, of this transaction, is that all competition has been destroyed; and the Corn Products Refining Company is fully in possession of the manufacture of glucose and by-products; and an absolute monopoly is thereby created, and all competition is destroyed. That the new company being now able to fix a price to the public at its pleasure, have already advanced the price of glucose so that the price which was in July, 1905, 15 cents a gallon, was advanced to 24 cents per gallon in July, 1906, and the public will be compelled to pay whatever the said Bedford and his Standard Oil friends choose to demand, and this is not a beneficial monopoly.

38. At the time your orator purchased said stock, as aforesaid, and for a long time prior thereto, and for a considerable period thereafter, the capital stock of the said Corn Products Company was duly listed upon the stock exchanges of New York, and Chicago, and other large cities, and was daily bought and sold, in open market, as one of the standard investments of the country, the market value thereof being as above stated, and the same was based upon the ownership of the properties above described, and other valuable properties and the profitable manufacturing business to the carrying on of which all the said properties were devoted by the parties aforesaid, for the benefit of the said Corn Products Company, and its stockholders, including your Orator, as aforesaid; and, in reliance upon the said facts, your orator acquired the said stock with a view of holding the same as an investment, and your Orator has ever since held, and still holds the same to the extent stated already in this bill 454 for such purpose, and at the time your Orator so acquired the same, and afterwards, the said Corn Products Company was paying regularly dividends to the holders of the said stock, including your Orator, on the par value of said stock, from the profits of the said business so controlled by the said Corn Products Company and so conducted and managed for the benefit of the said Corn Products Company, and its stockholders, including your orator; and it was the duty of the said Corn Products Company, and its officers and directors, to continue to so manage its affairs, including the said properties and business above mentioned, through its control thereof, as aforesaid, that such dividends upon its stock should and would continue from year to year, and your Orator avers that if the said Corn Products Company, and its officers and directors, had, honestly and in good faith, continued its said business, and the management thereof, the said stock of your Orator, together with the stock of other stockholders in said Corn Products Company, not parties to said conspiracy, would still be earning and paying such dividends, and now be worth one hundred ($100) dollars per share; but, instead of that now being the case, your Orator avers that by reason of the bad faith, and misconduct, of the officers and directors of the said Corn Products Company, and others, pursuant to and as a part of the said conspiracy, the entire stock of the said Corn Products Company has, by reason of the said conspiracy and the said wrongful conduct, pursuant thereto, ceased to be a listed stock, and ceased to pay or earn dividends, and its value has thus been entirely destroyed, the said conspirators having fraudulently caused the same to be dropped from the list of the said stock exchanges, and have fraudulently stopped the payment of dividends thereon pursuant to said conspiracy, and are now managing all of the said properties in the exclusive interest of said conspirators, and in total disregard of the rights of your Orator as the owner and holder of the said stock, and in total disregard of all the rights of the holders and owners of the stock of the said Corn Products Company, other than said conspirators.

39. Your Orator further represents that, pursuant to said conspiracy, and for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid, said conspirators are now planning and arranging to cause all of the said properties and the said business to be transferred and conveyed to the said Corn Products Refining Company, or to the aforesaid defendants or others, and thus permanently destroy the value of your Orator's said stock and the value of the other stock of the said Corn Products Company held or owned by persons or parties other than said conspirators, and your Orator brings this Bill of Complaint not only for the benefit of your Orator, but also for the benefit of the holders and owners of the stock of the said Corn Products Company, in the same situation as your Orator, and said other holders and owners of the said stock are hereby invited to come in as co-complainants with your Orator in this Bill of Complaint, and to share in the benefits of whatever relief may be obtained under or by virtue of this suit, upon contribution of their pro rata share of the expenses thereof.

40. Your Orator is informed and believes, and so charges the fact to be, that the stock of said thirty-five and one-half companies and factories, and with the other properties and assets of the Corn Products Company, are now about to be transferred and conveyed to the said Corn Products Refining Company, or other parties, pursuant to said conspiracy, and for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid, and will be so transferred and conveyed unless the said conspirators, hereinafter made defendants to this Bill of Complaint, be restrained from so doing, or causing the same to be done, by the order of this court, thereby working irreparable injury to your orator, and to the other stockholders of the said Corn Products Company, not parties to said conspiracy.

41. Your Orator further represents that the officers of said Corn Products Company are as follows, namely: J. A. Moffett, President, W. J. Matthiessen, Vice President, and F. T. Fisher, Treasurer; and the Directors of said Corn Products Company are as follows, namely; Charles L. Glass, William J. Calhoun, W. H. Nichols, Joy Morton, W. J. Matthiessen, F. Q. Barstow, J. A. Moffett, Edward T. Bedford, T. B. Wagner, William W. Heaton, F. T. Fisher and William C. Sherwood; and your Orator is informed and believes and so charges the fact to be that all the officers and directors of the said Corn Products Company are either parties to the said conspiracy or so interested with said conspirators that none of them will take any steps to prevent the carrying out of the said conspiracy for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid; that they are really acting as nominal directors of an automaton without any initiative and absolutely subject to the control and orders of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in which many of them are Directors and Officers or clerks and agents or attorneys, as elsewhere stated; and said Corn Products Company is really serving its enemies and in a state of suspended animation, as elsewhere stated in this bill.

42. Your Orator further represents that the said Corn Products Refining Company is a giant pool, and trust, and combine, formed by said conspirators for the purpose of unlawfully regulating and fixing and controlling the price of glucose and grape sugar, and other products, all of which are articles of merchandise and commodities manufactured and sold in this state, and through the United States; that the names of the persons forming such pool, trust, and combine, other than these hereinbefore mentioned, are now unknown to your orator, and your Orator has not been able after diligent inquiry, to ascertain the same, but your Orator is informed and believes, and so charges, that all the persons above named, including the said officers and directors of the said Corn Products Company, are parties thereto, or interested therein, together with others unknown to your Orator; that said pool, trust and combine is to be accomplished, and carried out, and made effectual for the purposes aforesaid, under the forms of the law, namely: in and through such corporation under the name of the said Corn Products Refining Company; that the parties organizing, creating, promoting and managing or interested in the said pool, trust and combine, are now perfecting their arrangements, with the intent and purpose of unlawfully monopolizing, controlling, regulating and fixing the price of glucose and grape sugar and by-products within the State of Illinois, and throughout the United States, and for such fraudulent and unlawful purpose, as well as for the further purpose of defrauding your Orator of your Orator's said stock and defrauding other holders of the stock of said Corn Products Company similarly situated with your Orator, have already arranged to obtain control of substantially all the corporations and individuals heretofore engaged in the manufacture and sale of said commodities throughout the United States, and the said Corn Products Refining Company will, pursuant to said conspiracy, and for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid, unlawfully acquire and now hold complete control of the said corporations and individuals, and of the manufacture and sale of the said products, throughout the United States, unless restrained from so doing by the order or decree of this Honorable Court; that the purpose and intent of the said pool and combination, and of the said parties forming the same, or interested therein, jointly and severally, and especially of the Standard Oil Company, is to create a trust, and a complete monopoly of, the said articles and commodities, and give to the Corn Products Refining Company, as the representative and embodiment of such trust, and pool, and combine, the power to regulate and fix, and absolutely control both the supply and the price of said articles and commodities, in the state of Illinois, and throughout the United States, amounting now in the aggregate to several billions of pounds annually and consuming many millions of bushels of corn, annually; that said pool and trust and combine, and the effect, intent and purpose thereof, and the intent and purpose of the parties forming the same, or interested therein, as aforesaid, is in direct violation of the laws of this state, and in violation of the statutes of this state in and for such case made and provided, and for the purpose and plan of the said pool, trust and combine, and of said parties forming the same, or interested therein, is to swallow up and merge in the said Corn Products Refining Company, all the organizations and plants in the United States, heretofore engaged or used in the manufacture or sale of said articles and commodities, or any of them, issuing to the said organizations heretofore so engaged stock in the said Corn Products Refining Company to hereby perfect its control of said organization, and, where this method fails, to buy such organizations and plants for cash or its equivalent, and, in any event, to thus merge and swallow up all the said organizations and plants, including the said Corn Products Company, in said pool, trust and combine, thus leaving to your Orator, and other stockholders similarly situated, the option only of participating in such unlawful trust, pool and combine, or submitting to the destruction of the stock so held by your Orator, and thers similarly situated in said Corn Products Company, or the destruction of the value thereof, and your Orator charges that the officers and directors, and majority stockholders of the said corporations, defendants herein named, are actively, and knowingly, and unlawfully, aiding and participating and joining in, said trust, pool and combine, and preparing fraudulently and unlawfully to sell and transfer all the said plants and properties of the said Corn Products Company to the said Standard Oil Company or to the said Corn Products Refining Company representing said Standard Oil Company, for the unlawful and fraudulent purposes aforesaid, and will so do unless restrained therefrom by the order or decree of this Honorable Court.

43. Your Orator further charges that the forming and carrying out of the said pool, trust and combine, in and by the formation and action of the said Corn Products Refining Company, pursuant to said conspiracy, is an unlawful and fraudulent stock-jobbing scheme, and frenzied finance upon the part of the said conspirators, for the purpose of fleecing the public, as well as your Orator, and others similarly situated, in the devious ways and methods originating in Wall street, and practiced by financial pirates, constituting "the system" by which the public are fleeced and plundered, continually, and by which it is intended by said conspirators to freeze out and defraud your Orator, as the holder and owner of the said stock in the said Corn Products Company, and other holders of such stock, not parties to such conspiracy, all of which is contrary to equity and good conscience and in violation of the Common law and laws of this state.

44. Your Orator further represents that a part and parcel of the plan of said conspirators, in carrying out the said conspiracy, is to dismantle and destroy such of said plants 457 as are now yielding profits applicable to the payment of dividends on the said stock belonging to your Orator, and others similarly situated, and build up and operate other plants for the manufacture and sale of said products, from the earnings of which dividends will be paid to said conspirators, exclusively, and not to your Orator, or others similarly situated, all of which is pursuant to said conspiracy and for the fraudulent purposes aforesaid, there being now no occasion for the sale or transfer of any of the plants, controlled, aforesaid, heretofore, by said Corn Products Company, and from the net earnings of which plants dividends have heretofore been paid, and ought to continue to be paid to the holders of the stock of said Corn Products Company including your Orator, and there is now no occasion or excuse for the dismantling or abandonment, or destruction, of any of the said plants, but it is to the interest of the public and to the interest of your Orator, and other stockholders of the said Corn Products Company, that all of the said plants continue a separate existence and business, and carry on the same, without becoming merged and swallowed up in the said Corn Products Refining Company constituting the said pool, trust and combine, as aforesaid, for the manufacture of the said products has already become profitable, and is becoming more profitable every year, and all that prevents such profitable conduct of said business, for the benefit of your Orator, and others interested therein, is the fraudulent conspiracy aforesaid, and the said unlawful action and conduct of the parties thereto, pursuant to the conspiracy aforesaid, and to the end that such fraud may be prevented, your Orator is advised and believes, and so charges, that a receiver should be appointed by this Honorable Court of the said Corn Products Company, and its property, and, particularly, of the said plants thirty-five and one-half lately owned and held in the name of and operated by the said Corn Products Company, in Chicago, Illinois, and in Peoria, Illinois, and elsewhere, and that said plants be managed and operated by said receiver, under the orders and directions of this Honorable Court, pending the hearing of this cause, and the said conspirators thereby ousted from the possession or control thereof, and a reorganization had of the said Corn Products Company, and of the several corporations heretofore controlled by said Corn Products Company, under the orders and directions of this Honorable Court, and that said conspirators, including said Corn Products Refining Company be enjoined from paying any dividends and from making, or causing to be made, any sale, or transfer, or conveyance, of the said properties, or plants, or any or either of them, or any part thereof, to said Corn Products Refining Company, or any other or others of said conspirators, or to other corporations or persons.

45. Your Orator further represents and charges that all the acts of the said conspirators above named, or referred to, and of said pool and trust and combine, and of the parties forming or interested therein, have been and are with the fraudulent intent and purpose to thereby effect a combination of many millions of dollars of capital, and skill, and firms, and corporations, and individuals, to limit and control the production of glucose, and grape sugar, and other commodities, and regulate, and fix, and control, and change, at the will of said conspirators, the price of the same, and to prevent competitions in the manufacture and sale of such products, all of which is in violation of the Statute of Illinois entitled: "An Act to provide for the punishment of persons, copartnerships or corporations forming pools, trusts and combines, and mode of procedure and rules of evidence in such cases," approved June 11, 1891, in force July 1, 1891, and of other statutes of said state and with the intent and purpose on their part to place the control, of such products in the hands of the said trust, the said Corn Products Refining Company, and thereby control the price and supply and manufacture thereof, in violation of the said Statute of the State of Illinois, and in violation of the common law of the State, and its Statutes, in and for such case made and provided.

46. Your Orator further represents that the glucose business has grown to enormous proportions in this country, and its products are everywhere in use, and of vast commercial importance, in their varied and manifold uses, and in carrying on of such business great skill and vast capital are employed and required, and it is for the interest of the public that competition be unrestrained and uneffected by such pools, and trusts, and combines, as the said Corn Products Refining Company, it not being an easy matter for persons or corporations to go into and engage in such business, as it requires considerable time and much capital to erect plants for the same, as many of the most important processes are patented and owned or controlled heretofore by the said several corporations above named, other than the said Corn Products Refining Company, and the Standard Oil Company aforesaid, and it requires skill and experienced men to erect and operate such plant, and the supply of such men is limited, and not equal to the public demand, and it will be impossible to compete with the Standard Oil Company, or its agents or its agent said Corn Products Refining Company in such business, in the State of Illinois, or elsewhere in the United States, unless such conspirators be prevented from carrying out their conspiracy aforesaid, and, if such conspiracy be so carried out, the said property of your Orator and other similarly situated will be entirely destroyed, and the said pool, trust and combine, would be in complete control of said products throughout the State of Illinois, and throughout the United States, and all competition therein thus prevented.

47. Your Orator further represents that said pool, trust and combine, formed under the name of the said Corn Products Refining Company, cannot succeed in its said fraudulent purposes, unless it secures control of the said plants located in Illinois, and a prevention of its control thereof will prevent the carrying out of the conspiracy aforesaid, as the State of Illinois is the center of the corn belt of the United States, and if free competition be maintained in this State, in the manufacture and sale of such products, the welfare of the entire public will thus be promoted, and the loss of the stock of your Orator, and others similarly situated, in the said Corn Products Company, will be, at the same time, thus prevented, and your Orator charges that whatever may be the form, or forms, adopted and to be adopted, or pursued, by said conspirators, forming or constituting the said Corn Products Refining Company, the substance and effect thereof is, and will remain, a united control of the plants and corporations of this country engaged in the manufacture or sale, of said products, by and in the name of the said Corn Products Refining Company; and the formation and operation of the said Corn Products Refining Company, by said conspirators, is simply a mode of union after the manner of the Standard Oil Company, a part of that gigantic monopoly, and constituting a giant monopoly for 459 the purpose of controlling, fixing, and regulating, both the supply and the price, of glucose, and its varied by-products, syrups and sugar, throughout the State of Illinois, and throughout the United States.

48. Your Orator alleges, that the action and policy of the Standard Oil Company by which they have been enabled to destroy the competition and create monopolies in and control many of the leading products of the country, has been in great part effected by secret and criminal rebates, and other advantages given to said Standard Oil Company by the railroad companies of the United States to the exclusion of independent competition, and to the destruction of the capital engaged in such competition; and your Orator alleges that such secret and criminal contracts and rebates, and other misconduct of the said Standard Oil Company will attend the future control and management of the Corn Products Company, and of said Corn Products Refining Company and of said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and of said thirty-five and one-half factories by whatever agents they are managed under the Standard Oil Company and its allies, if not ousted by the order of this court.

49. Your Orator further alleges and shows unto your Honor that said Standard Oil Co. and its agents, individuals and corporations, the defendants, who have secured the management and control of the property and assets of the Corn Products Co., cannot be trusted with the said management and control, as assured to them by this Plan; yet they are past-masters in the manipulation of market and manufacture to suit their own interests and will destroy and crush the opposition of your Orator and other stockholders who have not surrendered their property under this plan, by all methods open to corrupt Trustees, and will commit every offense known to predatory corporations of which this defendant, the Standard Oil Company, is easily the first,—offenses against the laws meant to protect the rights of your Orator and of the People of this country against said malefactors, unless prevented by the action of this court. Your Orator shows that said Trustees, the defendants, have already destroyed and junked two or more of said thirty-five and one-half factories and are now engaged in completing the destruction of the factory in Peoria, which was held and regarded as one of the most profitable and successful factories engaged in said manufacture and had cost in its construction more than a million dollars—a factory for which the Corn Products Company had paid more than $2,000,000 in 1902, and the Corn Products Manufacturing Company in August, 1897, had paid nearly two million dollars therefor; and your Orator charges that said factory was destroyed in order to give to him and the objecting stockholders an object lesson of the character and determination of the Standard Oil Company and its co-defendants, and of the policy which they would mercilessly pursue as Trustees.

50. Your Orator further shows unto your Honors, that the Standard Oil Company through its agent, the Corn Products Refining Company, continues to pay dividends, in favor of itself, and others in its interests; that a dividend of 1% was declared in July, 1907, and a further dividend of 1½% had just been declared payable in October, 1907—but said dividends were payable upon the Preferred stock of said company, but none to the stockholders of the Corn Products Company, owners of the thirty-five and one-half factories, but payable only to the owners of the two and a half factories, which never before are known to have paid dividends to their stockholders, or are known to have shown net earnings as elsewhere more fully stated in this bill; dividends from pretended earnings of the two and a half factories and their companies holding the same, of which the contribution to this Plan was the said indebtedness of over $3,250,000 created in their short experience.

*Amended bill of
complaint, filed
Oct. 25, 1907*

51. Your Orator further shows that out of the earnings for the year ending February 28, 1907, reported at $6,500,000, not a dollar has been divided to your Orator or the other stockholders of the stock of the Corn Products Company objecting to this Plan—but some millions of dollars are left undivided in the Treasury; and this under color of various pretenses hinted at in said report—every one of which your Orator alleges were and are untrue and made to suit the ends of the Standard Oil Company; that the real truth is that your Orator and other objecting stockholders are to be punished in this amongst many other methods, by this master monopoly until driven to consent to their new monopoly, condemned as a crime by the common law and the Statutes of this State.

52. That to further show the inequitable character of the management of our Trustees who owned the two and a half factories and put them into this Plan at a profit of nearly $15,000,000, and pretend to make dividends out of their earnings while denying dividends to the owners of the thirty-five and one-half factories, your Orator states unto your Honors the following facts, namely: That the grinding capacities of the thirty-five factories of the Corn Products Company are greater than those of the two and a half factories by five fold; that they had all the experience in the manufacture of glucose, starch and by-products, trade secrets and patents, and had always been successful with immense earnings and dividends as elsewhere shown in this bill; that the market of starch was chiefly in the hands of said Corn Products factories; that the market of the said Kingsford Company alone in the starch business exceeded that of any other factory and was preferred in the market to all others and in every household and with a profitable business for sixty years past, entirely unequaled and amounting to at least $500,000 per year, and certainly worth at a reliable estimate in annual profits far more than that of the two and a half factories put in by said Standard Oil Company.

53. That the management of the business and market of the thirty-five and a half factories of the Corn Products Company cannot be safely entrusted to the Standard Oil Company, because it is a great monopoly and therefore a great and distinguished offender, being prosecuted as guilty of criminal offenses by the National Government, and declared, condemned, and adjudged guilty of great offenses against the policy and interests of the American People; and that the management and control of the assets of $80,000,000 of the Corn Products Company while under control of the said Standard Oil Company, are, and will be, like that of the management and control of the Standard Oil Company itself, and of the many other companies, and corporations, conducted from its office in 26 Broadway, New York, in contempt of and in conflict with the laws of this state; and to entrust them with the same is to hand over the ownership, management and control of nearly forty factories of which the greater and more important are situated in the State of Illinois, and if allowed to remain under such control will be in the hands of criminals as held and adjudged by the laws of this state.

461 Sec. 54. Your Orator further alleges and shows unto your Honors, that said Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and said Corn Products Refining Company, defendants herein, never were authorized and could not lawfully buy and cannot lawfully hold the said stock nor of any of said defendant corporations or their subsidiaries, or any part of the stock of the Corn Products Company, as elsewhere more fully set forth in this bill; that to buy and hold such stock was and is against the policy of the State of Illinois where the property and factories chiefly lie and where the companies to whom belonged said stock, and property are chiefly engaged in manufacturing said products; and your Orator alleges that the laws of said State forbid said corporations to buy and hold the stock of said Corn Products Company, or of any of said defendant corporations or of any of their subsidiaries.

Your Orator alleges that said purchases, sales and holdings of said Corn Products stock, or of any of said defendant corporations or their subsidiaries, by said Corn Products Refining Company and Standard Oil Company were ultra vires, because made to secure and tending to secure a monopoly of the manufacture and business, including the purchase and sale of glucose and by-products and starch in the United States.

Your Orator further alleges that the title of record is now in the Glucose Sugar Refining Company, known as the defendant Corn Products Manufacturing Company, of the six factories above described in this bill, and described as "formerly owned and operated by the Glucose Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey;" and the said factories and plants are now operated in the name of the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company by which name the Glucose Sugar Refining Company is now known; and the stock of the several companies owning said factories are now still standing in the name of the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company; and your Orator charges that they have never been transferred to and never were put in possession of, the Corn Products Refining Company, and are still owned and held as they were owned and held up to the formation of the Corn Products Company, so far as concerns the legal and equitable title to said factories and stocks; and whatever title or right is now owned, or can be claimed and held by the Corn Products Refining Company, is and must be derived from its ownership of the stock of the Corn Products Company, as elsewhere set forth in this bill; and that the plan has never been completely executed of merging, consolidating, or transferring the $80,000,000 of stock in the Corn Products Company, or of its title and right in said factories and all of them, including the whole of the thirty-five and one-half factories, and the companies owning the same; that said factories and stock have never been legally or equitably transferred or conveyed to the Corn Products Refining Company; and your Orator asks that the execution of said Plan may be stayed and enjoined as hereinafter set forth in the prayer of this bill; and your Orator charges that until such transfers have been made and such conveyances had of the legal title to said stock and of the possession of said factories, the said Plan of Merger or Consolidation in the Corn Products Refining Company is still executory and it is within the power of a court of equity to deal with the said property and with the whole transaction of which their sale and conveyances are a part, as an executory contract.

462 55. Your Orator alleges that the Standard Oil Company and its co-conspirators never have completely executed this plan, but have left the possession of the thirty-eight factories described in this Plan so that their possession is now in the hands of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company of New Jersey, as their agent, which now conducts and controls the manufacture in the several factories, in obedience to the orders of the Standard Oil Company; and the products thereof, now bear the brands of the Corn Products Manufacturing Company; and your Orator al-

received by the Corn Products Refining Company, or any of its agents, officers or representatives, from its business, from the manufacture and sale of any of the products of the said factories described in this bill and in this Plan, and claimed to be owned or controlled by said Refining Company, including all the receipts in the hands of said Refining Company or any of its agents or officers, or paid over and in the hands of said Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and the finished or unfinished product of said factories of said Refining Company, or the moneys received from junking said factories, or otherwise, from the proceeds of the property of the Corn Products Company, may be impounded and placed in the hands of a Receiver appointed by this court, and that the said defendants and each of them may be enjoined from meddling with said moneys, and all and each of the same, and with said property, and from junking and destroying or disposing of the same, and especially may be enjoined from paying out the same upon dividends or otherwise, and in the payment of salaries or otherwise; and to that end there may be a reorganization of the said Corn Products Company, and of the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, under the directions of this Honorable Court; and to the end that your Orator may have such other and further or different relief, in the premises, as equity may require. But your Orator expressly disclaims any right to any relief whatever under this bill and in this case except under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Illinois, alone, and hereby declares that he desires and seeks no decree whatever against said defendants to which he is not entitled under said laws and your Orator prays that a writ of summons in due form be issued by the clerk of this court directed to the Sheriff of the said County of Cook, commanding the said Sheriff that he summon the said defendants the said Standard Oil Company and the said Corn Products Company, and the said Corn Products Refining Company, and the said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, the said Conrad H. This defendant by protestation, not confessing or acknowledging all or any of the matters and things in the complainant's bill mentioned to be true in such manner and form as the same are therein and thereby set forth and alleged and especially limiting and confining its appearance to the sole purpose of filing this plea and objecting to the jurisdiction of this Court in the premises, doth plead thereunto and for plea, says:

That said defendant company was and is a corporation aggregate, organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey; that the location of its principal office and place of business has been at all times and is now within the City of Bayonne in the State of New Jersey, and it never had, nor has any office or place of business in the State of Illinois. That said defendant company did not, and does not, reside in and was not found in said State of Illinois, and was not served with process in said State of Illinois, and that said defendant company at the time of the commencement of this suit theretofore and from that time hitherto, has resided in the city of Bayonne in the State of New Jersey, and that it is a corporation whose legal and actual status is in the State of New Jersey, and not elsewhere. That neither its President, nor its Secretary, nor its Treasurer, nor any of its Directors, nor any of its officers, cashiers, clerks or agents reside, nor have at or since the commencement of this suit resided in the State of Illinois, nor have any of them had any place of business there, at, or since, said time. That it has not authorized any agent, officer, clerk, cashier, attorney or counsellor, or any one else to appear for it in this suit, except for the special purpose of objecting to the jurisdiction of this Court. That George W. Stahl, upon whom summons in this cause was served, is not, and was not at the time of the service of said summons, and never had been, the agent of this defendant, as set forth in the Sheriff's return; and that he the said George W. Stahl, is not and was not at the time of the service of said summons, nor has he ever been an officer, clerk, secretary, superintendent, general agent, cashier, principal director, engineer, conductor, station agent or any agent of said defendant.

All which matters and things this defendant avers to be true and pleads the same to the whole of the said bill and demands the judgment of this Honorable Court, whether it ought to be compelled to make any answer to the said Bill of Complaint, and prays to be dismissed hence with its reasonable costs in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

ASSIGNMENT OF ERRORS.

And now come said respondents, George F. Harding, George F. Harding, Jr., A. B. Joyner and William J. Ammen and severally say:

That in the proceedings aforesaid, and in the said decretal order of this court made and entered of record under date of December 13, 1907, on the motion or petition of the Corn Products Refining Company, one of the defendants in said cause, and the rule entered on November 4, 1907, in said cause, and the further rule entered on November 12, 1907, in said cause, there is manifest error in this, to-wit:

1. This court was without jurisdiction over these respondents, severally, and without authority or power, under the law, to enter the said order of December 13, 1907, and this court erred in assuming jurisdiction and authority and power to enter the said order against these respondents, respectively, neither of these respondents being parties plaintiff or defendant, or other wise, in the above entitled cause.

2. The several findings in the said order of December 13, 1907, are, respectively, contrary to the evidence before the court, and, contrary to the law.

3. That said rule entered in said cause on November 4, 1907, was not within the jurisdiction of this court in said cause, and was unauthorized by law, neither of the said parties against whom said rule was entered being parties to this cause.

4. The said rule entered on November 12, 1907, in said cause was not within the jurisdiction of this court, in said cause, and was unauthorized by law, neither of the parties against whom the said rule was entered being a party to this cause.

5. The finding in the said order of December 13, 1907, that said respondents, respectively, knowingly or wilfully violated the order of this court entered on June 8, 1907, in said cause, is contrary to the evidence before the court, and contrary to the law, and was wholly unauthorized as against any of these respondents.

6. The finding in the said order of December 13, 1907, that the further prosecution of the said suit of George F. Harding vs. Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, et al and the institution by these respondents, or either of them, of any action like or similar to the above entitled cause, should be enjoined, was contrary to the evidence and contrary to the law.

7. The said order enjoining these respondents, respectively and their agents, attorneys, solicitors and representatives from further prosecuting or taking any steps or proceedings in said cause of George F. Harding vs. said Standard Oil Company, and others, was contrary to the evidence, contrary to the law, and without jurisdiction, or authority or power on the part of this court, none of the parties so enjoined being parties to the above entitled cause.

8. The said order enjoining these respondents, and each of them, and their respective agents, attorneys, solicitors and representatives, from in any manner, whatsoever, either directly or indirectly instituting or prosecuting, or causing or inspiring to be instituted or prosecuted, in any court, forum, place or jurisdiction whatsoever, any other suit, action or proceeding making charges and seeking relief like or similar to the charges contained and the relief sought in the above entitled cause, was contrary to the evidence, contrary to the law, and without jurisdiction, or authority, or power on the part of this court, none of the parties so enjoined being parties to the above entitled cause.

9. That portion of the said order of December 13, 1907, reserving the said motion of the Corn Products Refining Company for an order compelling the dismissal of the said suit of George F. Harding, was contrary to the evidence, contrary to the law, and without jurisdiction, or authority or power on the part of this court, the said George F. Harding not being a party to this cause.

10. This court erred in directing that the said order 494 of December 13, 1907, be entered as of that date instead of being entered under date of December 26, 1907, and the entry of such order as under such prior date was without jurisdiction, or authority, or power upon the part of this court, and was unauthorized by law.

11. The Court erred in entering the said order of December 13, 1907, in said cause, after the presentation of the several motions of the plaintiff to dismiss the said suit.

12. The court erred in not sustaining the motions of the plaintiff to dismiss the said suit, respectively.

13. The court erred in enjoining the bringing on for hearing of the motion to remand the said suit brought by the said George F. Harding to the State Court, said motion having been duly filed in that suit, and such injunction against such motion to remand was without authority, or jurisdiction, or power on the part of the Court.

14. The Court erred in entering the said order of December 13, 1907, despite the motion of plaintiff in said cause filed therein on October 1, 1907, to dismiss said suit.

15. This Court otherwise erred in the entry of the said order of December 13, 1907, as appears from the record in said cause.

Wherefore, these respondents jointly and severally pray that said decretal order, and the rules, respectively, be annulled and held for nothing, and that these respondents, respectively, may be restored to all things which they have respectively lost by reason thereof.

Appeal from the United States Circuit Court in and for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division thereof.
No. 1497.

Now come the appellants herein and suggest to the Court that there has been a diminution of the record in said cause in that the Clerk of the Circuit Court in and for the Northern District of Illinois omitted to insert and incorporate therein the motion filed by the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company in said cause on October 1, 1907, to dismiss its said suit, a duly certified copy of which said motion to dismiss is now presented to the Court by the said appellants and the same is hereby referred to and made a part hereof, and the said appellants now move the Court for leave to file the said additional record herein instanter and in support of this motion said appellants submit herewith the affidavit of William J. Ammen, and suggestions, appended thereto.

GEORGE F. HARDING

WM. J. AMMEN

State of Illinois, )

Wm. J. Ammen, being first duly sworn states on his oath that he is one of the solicitors for the appellants in the above entitled cause, and, as such solicitor, has had the active charge of the interests of said appellants in said cause ever since the filing of the record therein, the other of said solicitors, George F. Harding, having been absent from the State of Illinois, during the said entire period until on or about October 20th, 1908.

Affiant further states that he did not observe that the said motion to dismiss above referred to was not duly incorporated in the record sent up by the Clerk of the said Circuit Court in and for the Northern District of Illinois until after 11 that question was raised in the brief and argument filed herein for appellee on October 20, 1908, and upon examination of the printed transcript of the record in said cause this day made affiant finds that said motion to dismiss was in fact omitted from said record, affiant having been misled in regard thereto by the statement in the second line on page v of the index of said transcript that said motion to dismiss appears on page 243 of said transcript.

Affiant further states that said motion to dismiss was a part of the evidence before the Court on the hearing which resulted in the entry of the order appealed from and to be reviewed in the above entitled cause, and the same was treated by all the parties in interest as before the Court on such hearing, being part of the record in said cause, which was admitted in evidence by agreement as shown in the Certificate of Evidence on pages 183-184 of the transcript, and being the same motion referred to by Mr. Mayer on the hearing as shown in the Certificate of Evidence on pages 173 and 204-5 of the transcript, and the same motion was referred to in the opinion of Judge Landis as shown on page 214 of the transcript and again referred to by counsel as shown on page 218, and the written motion No. 1 to dismiss bill filed and presented on December 26, 1907, recited the filing of the said former motion on October 1, 1907, and moved that that motion then filed be granted, as shown on page 115 of the transcript.

SUGGESTIONS IN SUPPORT OF THE FOREGOING MOTION.

The brief and argument filed herein on October 20, 1908, on behalf of the appellee, on pages 33-41, sets up the contentions that said motion of October 1, 1907, to dismiss the suit, was never filed or presented to the Court. This is a material matter on this appeal, as will be seen from both the briefs already filed. The fact that it is a part of the record which should have been sent up by the Clerk is clearly shown above. It would seem in view of such showing, that there ought not be any doubt as to the right of appellants to now file a copy of the same herein duly certified by the Clerk. The appellants therefore, ask that the above motion be granted with such terms and directions as the Court may impose as to the printing of the same.

Respectfully submitted,

2. Before the filing of the Bill of Complaint in the above entitled cause, in the State Court, this respondent, at the request of George F. Harding, Jr., as president and manager of the said complainant corporation, assisted by Mr. A. B. Joyner, then and still an attorney at law in the said State Courts, in preparing the Bill of Complaint subsequently filed by the said A. B. Joyner, in said cause, in said State Court, as appears from the said Bill of Complaint now of record in said cause, reference thereto being hereby made by this respondent.

3. After the filing of the said Bill in the said State Court, this respondent had nothing further to do with the said cause until a motion was made in said State Court to remove said cause to this Court, whereupon this affiant, at the request of the said president and manager of the said corporation, appeared in said cause before said State Court, and then and there assisted the said Joyner in opposing the said motion for removal of said cause, on or about the 8th day of June, A. D. 1907.

4. After the removal of the said cause to this Honorable Court, this respondent, by request of the said president and manager of said corporation, assumed entire charge and management of the said cause, as the sole solicitor and attorney of the said complainant corporation therein, and from that time to the present this respondent has had and still has the entire control and management of said cause, as the attorney and solicitor of said complainant, the said A. B. Joyner not being an attorney at law authorized to practice before this Honorable Court, and the assent and concurrence of the said

A. B. Joyner to this respondent's exclusive control of the said cause, as above set forth, was duly given by the said Joyner, and at no time since said removal of said cause to this Court has the said Joyner had any connection therewith, or any control thereof, as an attorney or solicitor of said complainant.

5. Soon after the said removal of said cause to this Court, this respondent advised the said president and manager of said corporation, that, in the opinion of this respondent, an amended and supplemental bill should be prepared and leave asked of this Court to file the same in said cause, in this Court; and, thereupon, said George F. Harding, Jr., informed this respondent that his father, George F. Harding, Sr., then, and still, and for many years last past, an attorney at law, of this Court, and of said State Courts, was then engaged in the preparation of a Bill of Complaint to be filed by some stockholder of the said Corn Products Company, other than the said complainant in this cause, and that his said father had been diligently investigating the facts in relation to the matters involved, and had discovered many facts not known to the said complainant at the time its said bill was filed in said State Court, and, thereupon, this respondent stated to the said George F. Harding, Jr., that this respondent would wait until the said George F. Harding, Sr., should have completed the preparation of the said Bill of Complaint then in course of preparation by him, as above set forth, and, that, after seeing the same, this respondent would be better able to pre-

6. Accordingly, this respondent waited for some weeks for the completion of the said Bill of Complaint by the said George F. Harding, Sr., this respondent having had no information or knowledge, or notice, in the meantime, as to who was to be the complainant in the said bill so prepared by the said George F. Harding, Sr.; and, on or about October 18 1st, 1907, or shortly prior thereto, said George F. Harding, at the request of this respondent, furnished to this respondent, a voluminous document purporting to be a draft of a Bill of Complaint to be filed against said Corn Products Company, and others, as defendants, and informed this respondent that the same was the Bill of Complaint prepared by him, and this respondent upon examination thereof, found that it did not appear therefrom in what Court the same was to be filed, and this respondent has no recollection now as to who was the complainant mentioned in said bill, except that respondent does recollect, distinctly, and so states the fact to be, that said complainant in the above entitled cause was not mentioned as the complainant in the said bill so furnished to this respondent, and, at the same time, or about the same time, namely, on or about October 1st, 1907, or shortly prior thereto, this respondent was informed by said George F. Harding, Sr., that the said bill so prepared by him, the said George F. Harding, Sr., would be printed, or was then being printed, and thereupon this respondent further examined the said bill so furnished to this respondent, immediately, and thereupon suggested to the said George F. Harding, Jr., as the attorney and solicitor for said complainant, corporation, that the said bill so prepared by the said Harding, Sr., might, with some changes, be used as an amended and supplemental bill in the above entitled cause, or, that the above entitled cause might be dismissed, by leave of this Court, and the said bill so prepared by the said Harding, Sr., with proper changes therein, might be filed in the State Court, by the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, complainant, after a proper dismissal of the said above entitled cause, and thereupon the said George F. Harding, Jr., as the president and manager of said complainant corporation, requested this respondent, as the attorney and solicitor of said corporation to confer with said George F.

Harding, Sr., as to cooperation, so far as practicable, and proper, between the said corporation and said George F. Harding, Sr., and, after such conferences, this respondent, as the attorney for said corporation, decided to take proper steps for the dismissal of the bill in the above entitled cause, and, thereupon, file in the State Court another bill for said corporation, substantially like the bill so prepared by said Harding, Sr., with such changes therein, however, as this respondent might deem advisable, as the attorney for such corporation, all of which was well known to said George F. Harding, Sr., as he, and this respondent, freely conferred together with a view of such cooperation between said Harding and said corporation as separate and distinct holders and owners of the stock of said Corn Products Company, as alleged in their said respective bills of complaint.

7. Pursuant to the said request of the said George F. Harding, Jr., and the said plan of this respondent, as above set forth, this respondent served notices in the above entitled cause to dismiss the same, but, on account of the absence of the Judges of this Court, this respondent was not able to present such motion, for a considerable period, and later, the same was abandoned for the reasons hereinafter shown.

8. While this respondent was waiting for an opportunity to present said motion to dismiss said suit, as above set forth, the said copy of bill so prepared by said Harding, Sr., and so furnished to this respondent, was taken out of the hands of this respondent by said George F. Harding, Sr., for the purpose, as this respondent was then informed, of being printed, and this respondent is informed and believes, and so states the fact to be, that Abner C. Harding, a brother of said George F. Harding, Jr., and a director and stockholder of said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, and acting for such company, caused the same to be printed, or at least some copies thereof to be printed, as a bill to be 20 filed in the State Court, namely, the Circuit Court of Cook County, Illinois, by such corporation, after the dismissal of the above entitled cause, this respondent having theretofore advised said George F. Harding, Jr., and said Abner C. Harding, that, in the opinion of this respondent, such dismissal would be allowed by this Honorable Court, and, thus it happened, as this respondent is informed and believes, that said Bill was printed with a view of filing the same in the Circuit Court of Cook County, Illinois, by said corporation as complainant therein.

9. On or about October 16, 1907, a printed copy of the said bill of the said Chicago Real Estate Loan and Trust Company was furnished to this respondent by the said Abner C. Harding, and thereupon, this respondent advised the said Abner C. Harding, that said George F. Harding, Jr., as the president and manager of the said complainant corporation, had informed this respondent, that upon further investigation, and consideration, he had decided that it would be better to apply to this Honorable Court for leave to file such printed bill, with proper changes therein, as an amended and supplemental bill, in the above entitled cause, instead of proceeding, as had been contemplated, to secure a dismissal of the above entitled cause, and thereafter to file another bill in the State Court for said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, as complainant therein, and, thereupon, the said George F. Harding, Jr., pursuant to said decision last above named stated to this respondent, requested this respondent that the copy so delivered to this respondent, of the printed copies of the said bill of complaint, printed as above set forth, be revised and changed by this respondent, as this respondent, as the attorney and solicitor for said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, might deem proper, with a view of then presenting the same to this Honorable Court with a motion for leave to file the same as an amended and supplemental bill, in the above entitled cause. And for this very purpose, this respondent has since that time had and still has in his possession the said printed copy of said bill, and this respondent is now engaged, from day to day, in the revision thereof, and in making proper changes therein, for the purpose of asking leave of this Court to file the same in the above entitled cause, as an amended and supplemental bill therein, at an early date.

10. This respondent further answering states that this respondent is informed and believes and so states the fact to be, on such information and belief, that said George F. Harding, Sr., and his attorney and solicitor, A. B. Joyner, secured from the said Abner C. Harding some of the printed copies of the said bill prepared as aforesaid by the said George F. Harding, Sr., and caused to be printed, as aforesaid, by the said Abner C. Harding, and, thereupon the said George F. Harding, Sr., and the said A. B. Joyner, as his attorney and solicitor, having first changed the said printed copies by making the said George F. Harding, Sr., complainant, and otherwise changing the same as they deemed advisable, proceeded to file the same, and did file the same in the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, the said last named suit being General Number 263565, in said Superior Court, being the same suit subsequently removed to this Honorable Court, and to the Bill of Complaint therein, and to the Amended Bill of Complaint therein, now on file in the office of the clerk of this Honorable Court, reference is hereby made by this respondent.

11. This respondent further answering says that said suit Number 263565 was not begun by this respondent, or by the advise or suggestion of this respondent, and this respondent is not and has never been the attorney or solicitor of or for George F. Harding, Sr., as complainant therein; but, this respondent did, as the attorney and solicitor of the said Chicago Real Estate Loan and Trust Company, meet the said George F. Harding, Sr., (pursuant to the said request of the said George F. Harding, Jr.,) and the said A. B. Joyner, in conferences in relation to the common interests of the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, and the said George F. Harding, Sr., as separate and independent holders of stock in the said Corn Products Company, as set forth in the said two bills of complaint now before this Honorable Court, respectively, the date of one of such conferences being on or about October 16, 1907, and the object thereof being to determine, among other things, to what extent, if any, the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, and the said George F. Harding, Sr., might cooperate in securing and producing proof of their respective bills of complaint, above mentioned, or in support of the allegations thereof, and after the filing of the said bill, in the said Superior Court, another conference was had between this respondent and the same parties with the same object in view, namely, the making of the proof of the allegations in the said respective bills of complaint, and at or before each and every of such conferences, and at all other times, this respondent was informed by the said George F. Harding, Sr., and the said George F. Harding, Jr., that both the said Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, and the said George F. Harding, Sr., were separate and distinct and independent holders of stock of and in the said Corn Products Company, as alleged in the said respective bills of complaint, and had been such holders thereof as alleged in the said bills respectively, and this respondent fully believed and still believes such information to be true, and it never occurred to the mind of this respondent, for a moment, nor was it ever suggested to this respondent, that the filing of the said bill in the said Superior Court by the said George F. Harding, Sr., as complainant therein, or by the said Joyner, as his attorney therein, would, or could, by any possibility, be a violation of the letter or spirit of the said order of June 8, 1907, in the above entitled cause, or any part thereof, and, although this respondent had nothing to do with the institution of said suit in the said Superior Court, and was not the attorney or solicitor of the said complainant therein, this respondent, further answering, respectfully represents to this Honorable Court that this respondent, if it had occurred or been suggested to this respondent that the bringing of said suit in said Superior Court would or could have been, by any possibility a violation of the said order of June 8, 1907, or a contempt of this Honorable Court, this respondent would have instantly and persistently advised against and protested against the bringing of the same. And this respondent respectfully represents and states to this Honorable Court that this respondent never, knowingly or intentionally, violated the said order of June 8, 1907, or any part thereof, either in its letter or spirit, or advised or aided or abetted in any violation thereof and this respondent has always entertained and still entertains the profoundest respect for this Honorable Court, and particularly, for the Judge who entered the said order of June 8, 1907, and this respondent has never by act or speech, or otherwise, directly or indirectly, intentionally or voluntarily, or knowingly, been guilty of any contempt of or toward this Honorable Court, or even of any disrespect of or toward this Honorable Court; and this respondent further answering the said rule represents and states that this respondent is informed and believes, and so states the fact to be, on such information and belief, that the said George F. Harding, Sr., and the said George F. Harding, Jr., and the said A. B. Joyner respectively, during the entire period embraced within this answer, have entertained and still entertain the same feelings as those above set forth on the part of this respondent, and never, intentionally or knowingly, violated the said order of June 8, 1907, or any part thereof, either in its letter or spirit, directly or indirectly, by word or act, or knowingly or intentionally, were guilty of any contempt of or disrespect toward this Honorable

27 IN THE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS For the Seventh Circuit.

No. 1497.

October Term and Session, A. D. 1908.

George F. Harding, George F. Harding, Jr.,
A. B. Joyner and William J. Ammen,

Appellant,

v.

Corn Products Refining Company.

Appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division.

Before Grosseup, Baker and Seaman, Circuit Judges:

In a suit brought by Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company against Corn Products Refining Company and other defendants, originally in a state court, but pending in the Circuit Court of the United States on removal proceedings, the several appellants were enjoined from prosecution of a subsequent suit in the Superior Court of Cook County, commenced by the appellant, George F. Harding, against certain of the defendants in such pending suit, impleaded with others, and from other proceedings mentioned in the order. This appeal is from the injunctive order so granted by the trial court, entered December 26, 1907, but bearing date December 13, 1907, which reads as follows:

(Title of Cause.)

"This day comes on to be heard the motion of the defendant, Corn Products Refining Company, entered of record herein, November 4, 1907, for an injunction restraining the prosecution of the suit of George F. Harding vs. Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey, Corn Products Refining Company, et al., filed in the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, on or about October 19th, 1907, and bearing General Number 28 therein, 263,565, and for an order to compel the dismissal of said last described suit; and there also now coming on to be heard the rule entered herein on November 12th, 1907, against George F. Harding, George F. Harding, Jr., William J. Ammen and A. B. Joyner, to show cause why they and each of them should not be attached for contempt of this court for violating the restraining order entered herein on June 8, 1907; and the court having heard and considered the answers to said rule, filed herein on November 13th, 1907, by said George F. Harding, George F. Harding, Jr., William J. Ammen and A. B. Joyner, and having considered the petition of said Corn Products Refining Company, filed herein on November 4th, 1907, and the exhibits thereto, and all the records and files herein, and all the oral evidence given by and statements of said George F. Harding, George F. Harding, Jr., William J. Ammen and A. B. Joyner in open court; and the said George F. Harding, George F. Harding, Jr., William J. Ammen and A. B. Joyner being now present in open court, in person, and being also represented by said George F. Harding and William J. Ammen, as their solicitors; and the court having heard the arguments of Levy Mayer, Esq., solicitor for said petitioner, and of said solicitors for said George F. Harding, George F. Harding, Jr., William J. Ammen and A. B. Joyner, and being now fully advised in the premises:

"The Court finds that by the institution of said suit of George F. Harding vs. Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey, et al., the said George F. Harding, George F. Harding, Jr., William J. Ammen and A. B. Joyner have, and each of them has knowingly and wilfully violated the order of this court, entered herein on June 8th, 1907, but the court of its own motion hereby discharges the said rule of November 12th, 1907, for contempt, without the infliction of any punishment on any of the said respondents to said rule; and

"The Court further finds that the further prosecution of said suit of George F. Harding vs. Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey, et al., and the institution by said George F. Harding, George F. Harding, Jr., William J. Ammen and A. B. Joyner, of any action like or similar to the present cause should be enjoined.

"Wherefore, the premises considered, it is hereby ordered, adjudged and decreed that said George F. Harding, George F. Harding, Jr., William J. Ammen and A. B. Joyner, and each of them, and their and each of their agents, attorneys, solicitors and representatives be, and they hereby are, jointly and severally, restrained and enjoined until the further order of this court, from further prosecuting or taking any steps or proceedings of any kind in said case of George F. Harding vs. Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey, Corn Products Refining Company, et al., which was instituted in the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, on October 19th, 1907, and was numbered therein 263,565, and which case was subsequently docketed in and is now pending in this court as case numbered 28,865.

"It is hereby further ordered, adjudged and decreed that said George F. Harding, George F. Harding, Jr., William J. Ammen and A. B. Joyner, and each of them, and their and each of their agents, attorneys, solicitors and representatives be, and they hereby are, jointly and severally, restrained and enjoined, until the further order of this court, from in any manner whatsoever, either directly or indirectly, instituting or prosecuting, or causing or inspiring to be instituted or prosecuted, in any court, forum, place or jurisdiction whatsoever, any other suit, action or proceeding making charges and seeking relief like or similar to the charges contained and the relief sought in the case herein of Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company against said Corn Products Company, et al.; but said George F. Harding, George F. Harding, Jr., William J. Ammen and A. B. Joyner, jointly or severally, by an appropriate proceeding or petition, and upon a proper showing, may apply to this court for leave to intervene herein or become parties hereto; and

"It is further hereby ordered that that part of said motion of said defendant, Corn Products Refining Company, seeking an order compelling the dismissal of said suit of George F. Harding vs. Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey, et al., be, and the same hereby is continued and reserved for the future consideration of this court."

The transcript of record is voluminous, containing about 250 printed pages of "Certificate of Evidence," and many more pages of pleadings and proceedings in the primary suit, including the petition for the injunctive order. In so far as these matters are deemed material for the purposes of review they are mentioned in the opinion.

30 Seaman, Circuit Judge, delivered the opinion of the court:

The injunctive order (pendente lite) from which this appeal is prosecuted arose in a suit in equity, pending in the trial court, brought by Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company as complainant, against the appellee and various other corporations and persons named as defendant. Under the well settled doctrine, therefore, (for which citations of authority are needless) review of such order does not involve the ultimate merits of the controversy presented by either of the bills in question, nor the major part of the great array of proceedings and evidence contained in the transcript of record and discussed in the briefs and argument submitted by counsel. The only questions for determination are: (1) Had the trial court jurisdiction to entertain the application for an injunction? And jurisdiction appearing, (2) Was the injunctive relief improvidently granted?

1. The bill was originally filed in the Circuit Court of Cook County, and removed to the Circuit Court of the United States, on petition filed by one of the corporation-defendants, averring with other matters that the petitioner (Corn Products Refining Company) and all of the other corporations named as defendants were incorporated in and citizens of New Jersey, and not citizens elsewhere, while several of the individual defendants are mentioned as citizens of Illinois, and the complainant, Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, is an Illinois corporation and citizen. This petition purports to show two causes for removal—one that the controversy in suit is wholly between the petitioner and the complainant and thus between citizens of different states, and the other that the bill tenders a federal question in such controversy. The contentions that the trial court acquired no jurisdiction under the removal, are not clearly defined by counsel for appellants, either in printed brief or oral argument; but the bill distinctly avers for the alleged cause of action, conduct and proceedings on the part of the defendants "in violation of the laws of the United States." So removal was authorized for that cause, although no ground may have appeared therefor under the other cause alleged in the petition, and jurisdiction of subject matter and parties to the bill was vested in the trial court.

The appellants George F. Harding and A. B. Joyner were cited to appear and show cause why an injunction should not issue, under a petition filed for that purpose in such pending suit, and both appeared and answered the petition. Personal jurisdiction thereupon is unquestionable, although Harding was not one of the parties to such prior suit, and Joyner had appeared therein only as solicitor of record for the complainant. Whether jurisdiction for the purposes of the order extends as well over the other appellants—George F. Harding, Jr., who was president of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company and not otherwise a party to the proceeding, and William J. Ammen, as attorney representing both that corporation and the first mentioned appellants in the litigation—neither made parties to the petition, nor ruled to show cause thereunder, is a question which may be passed, for the present at least, as secondary to the inquiry upon the rightfulness of the injunction against the alleged principals of record.

With jurisdiction thus vested in the trial court under the bill of the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, the authority to entertain the application for injunctive relief against the subsequent suit of the appellant, George F. Harding, clearly appears, as we believe, from mere inspection of the bills respectively in each. The primary suit purports to be a stockholders' bill, filed by the complainant, as owner of shares of stock in the defendant Corn Products Company for the benefit, as well, of all other holders of stock having like interest, charging conspiracy and illegal combinations on the part of the several constituent corporations and individuals, named as defendants, to merge the corporations, create the Corn Products Refining Company (appellee) as an unlawful trust, and transfer all the corporate properties to such new corporation, thereby depriving the complainant and other stockholders, "not parties to said conspiracy," of their rights and interests. Relief is sought in seizure of all the corporate properties described in the bill, appointment of a receiver, injunction against transfers and other acts, together with general equitable relief, so that exercise of jurisdiction under this bill necessarily extends over all the property and controversies referred to. This doctrine thereupon, we believe to be well settled: That the court of equity first acquiring jurisdiction of such cause, with or without actual seizure of the res, obtains the power to hear and determine all such controversies; that its jurisdiction becomes exclusive for de-32 termination of the issues and administration of equitable relief; and that pending complete administration, such jurisdiction may be protected by injunction against litigation of the same controversies by parties or privies in other courts.

The subsequent suit, commenced by the appellant, George F. Harding, in the Superior Court, as exhibited by the bill filed therein, is alike in subject matter and relief sought, with the main averments of conspiracy and injury mere duplications of the prior bill, differing only in these particulars: That Harding is substituted as complainant (described as a resident of California), with alleged individual ownership of shares in the same defendant-corporation (Corn Products Company); that averments are inserted charging "Standard Oil Company of New Jersey" as another party to the conspiracy, together with three other individuals, each named as additional parties to the bill; and the averment of violations of the federal statute, contained in the former bill, do not appear in the Harding bill.

2. Were no facts involved, therefore, in the present inquiry beyond those above recited, the priority of the bill pending in the trial court and unmistakeable attempt, in the Harding bill, to litigate the same questions for like relief in another forum, would plainly appear to justify a restraining order against prosecution of the second bill, as fairly within the judicial discretion of the court.

The record, however, establishes another state of facts in reference to the suit and proceedings in the trial court, which we believe to be material for testing the discretionary powers of the court to that end. While a large portion of the matters certified in the transcript is deemed irrelevant for any purposes of this appeal, the evidence referred to tends to establish, not only repeated motions and efforts on the part of the complainant in the prior suit to dismiss its bill, but that well founded objections were there raised to the right of such complainant to sue for any form of relief in the premises, for want of interest cognizable in equity; and we are impressed with the force of this evidence, as bearing upon the issue of judicial discretion, raised by the several motions submitted for dismissal prior to the entry of the injunctive order. The contentions on behalf of the appellee, that these facts must be disregarded, and that the ultimate motions to dismiss were made too late to entitle them to consideration, we believe to be untenable.

33 For the present inquiry, the various complications which appear in proceedings and pleadings, in the suit of Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company—referred to as the Real Estate Company—after removal to the trial court, do not require mention. It is sufficient to state: first, that issues were distinctly raised by answer, among other defenses, upon the complainant's right to maintain the bill, (1) that its alleged ownership of stock in the Corn Products Company (defendant) was ultra vires its charter as an Illinois corporation, and (2) that it became a party to, was engaged in and accepted benefits under the transactions complained of, pleading such facts by way of estoppel; and second, that a cross bill was filed by one of the defendants, averring that the complainant was not entitled to the shares of stock mentioned in the bill, and praying for cancellation of the stock, stay of "prosecution of the bill" and other relief. On the part of the appellants, the objection of ultra vires so raised is conceded to be well founded, under the incorporation of the Real Estate Company and authorities cited; and the certificate of evidence shows an affidavit, purporting to be made by the President of the Real Estate Company—offered on behalf of the appellants in the trial court, in support of motions then made (as hereinafter mentioned) for dismissal of the bill filed by that corporation—which states that its attorneys were instructed accordingly, in September, 1907, to dismiss such bill. It further states that a motion for that purpose was filed in the trial court, October 1, 1907—of which a copy appears—and notice served on counsel for the defendants; describes two appearances thereupon without obtaining a hearing; and then states, that counsel for the defendants agreed to waive further written notice and attend on oral notice, whenever such motion could be heard. No effort was made, however, to press this motion, nor does further mention of it appear, except as hereinafter stated. As filed, it reads, for dismissal "without prejudice to right of cross-complainant to prosecute his cross bill in said cause."

The Harding suit, enjoined under the order appealed from, was commenced in the Superior Court, October 19, 1907, and the rule under which this injunction issued was entered November 4 and came on for hearing November 12, 1907. Such hearing, however, was interrupted by the entry of a rule against all of the appellants to "show cause why they should not be attached for contempt" for violation of a pre-34 existing stay order. Examination of the parties proceeded immediately under the last mentioned rule, and all of the testimony preserved in the "certificate of evidence" in the present record, appears to be directed thereunder, but (as certified) was applied as well for the hearing upon the petition for an injunction. These examinations closed (after several postponements) on December 13, and the oral opinion then announced by the court, as we understand the record, related alone to the contempt rule, which was then disposed of; but it was followed by remarks in reference to an injunction under the other rule and an adjournment was directed for its consideration. While the contempt proceedings are otherwise independent of the injunction, and not reviewable under this appeal, the method of hearing referred to, together with the colloquies reported between court and counsel thereafter, tend to confuse the import of such adjournment; but the object of adjournment was thus stated by the court: "I want to consider the question further before I enter the order" for an injunction. So, we are impressed with no doubt that final decision remained open for the adjourned day, and the contention otherwise on the part of counsel for the appellee, we believe to be untenable in fact, if not without force in any view of the record.

The established facts are: That the hearing was adjourned; that all parties appeared on December 26, as the (ultimate) adjourned day; that he appellants forthwith tendered motions (in several forms), made on behalf of the Real Estate Company to dismiss its bill of complaint in the pending cause—each without prejudice to the rights of the cross complainant to prosecute his cross bill—together with the affidavit of its president, referring to the previous motion of October 1 and stating the grounds of dismissal, as before mentioned; and that such motions were opposed by counsel for the appellee and denied by the court, prior to the consideration or entry of the injunctive order appealed from. Each of the motions referred to was made by the proper party to accomplish dismissal of the bill then pending in the trial court; was neither objectionable in form and substance, nor was objection raised for insufficiency of one or the other to preserve any rights set up in the cross bill; and the purpose of the appellants in their introduction, to remove the only tenable ground for enjoining prosecution of the Harding bill, was distinctly stated and obvious. That such motions were in 35 apt time, on the adjourned day of the hearing, appears from the foregoing recitals. We are of opinion, therefore, that the subsequent injunctive order was unauthorized in the face of those tenders, unless the evidence establishes just cause for denial of the motions to dismiss the prior suit of the Real Estate Company, without prejudice to relief under the cross bill filed therein.

The jurisdiction of the trial court over the parties, subject-matter and controversies involved in that suit, inclusive of the well recognized authority vested in courts of equity to protect such jurisdiction throughout its course against interference, is (as before mentioned) undoubted. But the fact that such jurisdiction is established in the federal court, either primarily or through removal, affords no ground for contention that the complainant in such suit may not dismiss his bill, within the rules applicable to all courts in reference to voluntary dismissals. The general rule, that a complainant retains entire dominion over his suit up to a decree, so that he may dismiss it as of course, with the well settled qualification of such right, in favor of the defendants or parties who have joined as complainants, to save rights which may have been acquired under the suit (Pullman's Car Co. v. Transportation Co., 171 U. S. 138, 145; 2 Bates on Fed. Eq. Prac. §§ 658, 659), is upheld alike in all courts of equity, federal and state. To authorize denial of such right to discontinue "there must be some plain, legal prejudice" to the other parties, which "must be other than the mere prospect of future litigation" as its result (Ibid); and it is equally free from doubt under the federal system and authorities, that no departure from this rule is authorized for persistent efforts on the part of the suitor, either before or after removal to the federal court, to obtain standing for litigation of his controversy in a state court. The complainant is not only entitled to his choice of forums, in bringing his suit within coordinate jurisdictions—subject only to the contingency of removal to the federal court for statutory cause—but he is equally free to dismiss the suit on removal, irrespective of any purpose to have another one brought in the state court, which may be so framed as to avoid removal. Under the foregoing propositions, which we believe to be well settled and elementary, the contentions in the argument in reference to the conduct and purposes of the appellants in their various proceedings in evidence, are neither within the reviewable 36 issue, nor applicable in any sense for its solution. Laying such contentions out of view, therefore,—with their acrimonious discussion in the briefs submitted by counsel respectively—we proceed to the inquiry under which we believe the discretion vested in the trial court must be tested; namely, whether the status of the suit pending in such court justified denial of the motions there made on behalf of the complainant to dismiss its bill.

The pleadings in that case are set out in the record. No testimony appears to have been taken under the issues, nor proceedings had beyond such framing of the issues, and the Real Estate Company remained sole complainant in the suit, with no other stockholder intervening for the relief sought. Thus the solution is free from the complication which arises when a suit has progressed beyond such preliminary stage, so that legal prejudice may result from dismissal without decree upon the merits—as exemplified and discussed in the various authorities cited in the appellee's brief—and rests alone on the effect which may be presumed from the pleadings. Under the saving clause expressly stated in each motion in favor of the cross complainant, it is unquestionable, that allowance of the motion for dismissal would leave undisturbed jurisdiction and rights acquired through the cross bill, for affirmative relief. The inquiry of prejudice, therefore, is narrowed to the above stated issues raised by the several answers of the defendants, and we are of opinion that the authorities are harmonious in upholding the general rule in such case; that no sanction appears, under either line of cases cited in the argument, for denying leave to dismiss the suit because of defensive issues so raised by the pleadings alone. The utmost effect of discontinuance in reference to either issue is to leave such controversy open for future litigation, between the same or other parties, which is not legal prejudice; and it may well be noted that both answers challenging the complainant's right to maintain its bill furnish strong ground in favor of discontinuance. For the doctrine which thus becomes applicable and controlling, we deem it sufficient to cite the exhaustive opinion in three of the cases referred to in the appellee's brief: C. & A. R. R. Co. v. Union Rolling Mill Co., 109 U. S. 702, 713; Pullman's Car Co. v. Transportation Co., 171 U. S. 138, 146; Detroit v. Detroit City Ry. Co., 55 Fed. 569, 572. The motion was rightly made for dismissal "without prejudice," as that is the settled practice in equity whenever a bill "is dismissed without a consideration of the merits." Swan Land & Cattle Co. v. Frank, 148 U. S. 603, 612.

We are of opinion, that the motion for dismissal of the Real Estate Company's bill was not only seasonably made, but that it was entitled as well to leave of court to dismiss so as to remove cause for enjoining the prosecution of the new bill, filed by a stockholder setting up ownership free from the challenge of title to maintain the original bill, and that the order appealed from was, therefore, unauthorized and must be reversed.

The proceedings discussed in the argument in reference to an attempted removal of the Harding suit to the trial court are not involved in this appeal, nor properly included in the transcript of record, and we are without authority for their consideration.

The order of the Circuit Court from which this appeal is brought is reversed, accordingly, with direction to that court to dismiss the bill of the Real Estate Company, in conformity with one or the other motion filed therefor, and that the petition for an injunction be thereupon dismissed.

IN THE MATTER OF THE APPLICATION

GEORGE F. HARDING FOR A WRIT OF MANDAMUS DIRECTED TO THE HONORABLE ARTHUR L. SANBORN, DISTRICT JUDGE OF THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF WISCONSIN, HOLDING THE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT IN AND FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF ILLINOIS, EASTERN DIVISION THEREOF, AND DIRECTED ALSO TO THE SAID CIRCUIT COURT.

BRIEF FOR PETITIONER.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE.

MAY IT PLEASE THE COURT:

There never has been and it is to be hoped there never will be, anywhere, a case presenting a situation even resembling to any extent worth mentioning, the situation disclosed by the petition for mandamus in this case. Notwithstanding, however, the length of the petition, with its voluminous exhibits, the real question to be considered and decided will be found almost marvelous in its brevity and simplicity.

I.

By order entered on June 8, 1907, by the U. S. Circuit Court, Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division, before Kenesaw Mountain Landis, District Judge, a suit in chancery theretofore brought in State Court by the Chicago Real Estate Loan & Trust Company, an Illinois corporation, as a stockholder of the Corn Products Company, against that company, and Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and Corn Products Refining Company, and certain individual defendants, was removed from said State Court to said Circuit Court, and the further prosecution of that suit enjoined, such action being on the motion of Mr. Levy Mayer as solicitor for said Manufacturing Company. (Part II, Exhibit A, pages 2-3, and page 10 of Petition.)

II.

On October 1, 1907, a motion was filed by said Real Estate Company, in its suit, to dismiss the same, without prejudice, and without prejudice to the right of cross-complainant, Joy Morton, to prosecute his cross-bill therein. This motion to dismiss was not included in the printed record in the Court of Appeals, but was filed therein on October 29, 1908, on suggestion of diminution of the record, as shown on pages 437-441 of Part II of "Exhibit A." This motion to dismiss could not then be heard by reason of the absence of the court. In the proceedings before Judge Landis in December, 1907, in the Real Estate Company's case, Mr. Mayer referred to these early efforts to dismiss that suit, as shown on pages 173, 204-205 of Part II of "Exhibit A." In that same hearing before Judge Landis, Mr. Mayer stated that said cross-bill had been filed to prevent dismissal of the suit, as shown on page 204 of Part II of "Exhibit A." The answer filed by Joy Morton on June 14, 1907, set up that the holdings of said Real Estate Company of stock in said Corn Products Company were ultra vires and could not be made the basis for relief sought by said complainant, and his cross-bill filed on same date sought to have such stock holdings cancelled, and said Real Estate Company enjoined from exercising any rights as the holder thereof on the same ground, ultra vires. Please see that portion of said answer shown in the first paragraph on page 40 of Part II of "Exhibit A," and that portion of said cross-bill shown on pages 50-53.

III.

George F. Harding was not a party to said Real Estate Company's bill or to said cross-bill. In the removal proceedings in that case, Mr. Mayer's firm appeared, together with Mr. James M. Sheean, of the firm of Calhoun, Lyford & Sheean, as solicitors for said Corn Products Manufacturing Company in its petition for removal, and also for Joy Morton in his answer and cross-bill, and for the Corn Products Refining Company in its answer filed October 18, 1907, to the bill of complaint, in which answer, as shown on pages 66-72 of Part II of "Exhibit A," said Refining Company set up that said Real Estate Company had participated in and ratified and approved the acts complained of in the bill of complaint, etc., and that said Real Estate Company was barred from relief by virtue of estoppel, and by reason of its laches in the premises.

IV.

On October 25, 1907, said George F. Harding filed in the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, his bill of complaint, as a stockholder of said Corn Products Company, against that company, and said Refining Company, and said Manufacturing Company, and the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, which was not a party to the Real Estate Company's suit, and against certain individuals, as defendants, some of which individuals were also defendants to the Real Estate Company's suit; and, on October 25, 1907, said Harding filed his amended bill in said Superior Court, against the same defendants named in said original bill, except that two individuals were named as defendants in the amended bill whose names were omitted by inadvertence in the prayer for process and prayer for relief in said original bill. In both of said bills said Harding was described as "a resident and citizen of the State of California," and the defendant corporations were described as New Jersey corporations. The residence or citizenship of any of the individual defendants was not stated in either bill. The defendants, Glass, Morton, Wagner and Calhoun, were duly served with summons in Cook County, Illinois, and an affidavit of Abner C. Harding dated October 23, 1907, and filed next day, in said Superior Court, stated that certain of the individual defendants were non-residents of Illinois, naming them, but did not state the residence or citizenship of any of the defendants so served with summons. (Please see pages 4, 5 and the first three lines of page 6 of petition.)

V.

Pursuant to Illinois statute, said Harding served notices and supoenas to take the testimony of said Calhoun, Glass, Morton and others, before a Notary Public, in Chicago, beginning 11 a. m., ON NOVEMBER 4, 1907, as stated in the first part of page 6 of petition.

VI.

ON NOVEMBER 4, 1907, in said Real Estate Company's suit, Mr. Levy Mayer presented the petition of said Refining Company to said Circuit Court, without notice to said Harding or his solicitor, praying an injunction against the further prosecution of the said Harding suit, and for an order compelling dismissal thereof; and thereupon said Circuit Court, without notice to said Harding or his solicitor, entered an order, IN THAT SUIT, requiring said Harding and his solicitor to appear on November 12, 1907, and show cause why the prayer of said petition of that date should not be granted, and restraining the further prosecution of the Harding suit, or the taking of any steps whatsoever therein, until the hearing and disposition of said petition or motion of November 4, 1907. For contents of said petition and order November 4, 1907, please see pages 6-11 of Petition.

VII.

On November 12, 1907, said Harding filed his sworn answer to the said rule entered on November 4, setting up that he was not a party to that suit, and appeared specially to answer same, and answering the averments of said petition of November 4, also set up that he had no knowledge or notice of said proceedings of that date, and that said restraining order of that date was obtained to stop him from taking the testimony of said Morton, Glass and Calhoun, and protecting them from punishment for failing to obey the subpoenas served upon them, and that they were about to be proceeded against for such contempt when said restraining order of November 4 was obtained. Said answer insisted that said Circuit Court had no jurisdiction, or authority, or power, over said Harding, or his solicitor, or to restrain the prosecution of said suit in the Superior Court, and that said order of November 4, 1907, was obtained by deceit practiced upon the court, and "that it was improper that one who is not a party to the case before this court should be restrained from enforcing his own rights in the state courts"; and that said order of November 4 "was and is wholly void, and of no effect, because of the entire lack of jurisdiction of this Honorable Court to enter the same"; and that by such answer he did not intend "to submit himself to the jurisdiction of this court, in the premises, but denies the same." (Please see the 9th paragraph of Petition, pages 11-15, stating contents of said answer filed November 12, 1907.)

VIII.

The hearing of the said rule entered on November 4, began on November 12, before said District Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, and, in the course of that hearing, on that date, said District Judge, of his own motion, entered an order in said Real Estate Company's case, requiring said George F. Harding, and his solicitor, Albert B. Joyner, and a son of said Harding, the president of said Real Estate Company, and William J. Ammen, then the solicitor of record for said Real Estate Company, to show cause next morning why they should not be attached for contempt for violating said order of June 8, 1907, by the bringing and prosecution of said Harding suit in said State Court. (Please see 10th paragraph of Petition, page 15.)

IX.

On November 13, 1907, said Harding, and the other three respondents thereto, answered said rule under oath; and on December 26, 1907, under date of December 13, 1907, said District Judge entered an order in said Real Estate Company's suit, enjoining the further prosecution of said suit brought by said Harding. (Please see 11th paragraph of Petition, pages 15-19, for statement of said proceedings before said District Judge, and the contents of the said order entered on December 26, under date of December 13, there quoted.) As recited in that order entered on December 26, said District Judge had, in the meantime, on motion of said Mayer, entered an order, wholly without notice, removing the said

Harding case to said Circuit Court, and enjoining the further prosecution of that case in said State Court, without such State Court ever having had an opportunity to consider the removal papers in that case, as will be fully shown later in this brief.

X.

On December 26, 1907, before the entry of said injunction order entered on that date, under date of December 13, said Real Estate Company presented to said District Judge, holding said Circuit Court, its motion to dismiss its said suit, which was resisted by said Mayer, and denied by the court. Said motion to dismiss then filed and presented, omitting title, and signature of counsel, as shown on page 115 of Part II of "Exhibit A," reads as follows:

"Now comes said complainant, by William J. Ammen, its solicitor, herein, and, having heretofore, namely, on October 1, 1907, filed herein its motion in writing to dismiss its bill of complaint herein, without prejudice and without prejudice to the right of cross-complainant to prosecute his cross-bill filed herein, said complainant now moves the court to grant its said motion herein, and dismiss its said bill of complaint herein, without prejudice and without prejudice to the right of said cross-complainant to prosecute his said cross-bill herein."

XI.

Upon denial of the above motion to dismiss the bill, as above set forth, said Real Estate Company thereupon presented in order, before entry of said injunction order on December 26, 1907, four other motions, in different forms, to dismiss its said bill of complaint. All the said motions to dismiss then presented, together with the orders then entered denying same, are shown on pages 115-122 of Part II of "Exhibit A," and the proceedings on the hearing thereof, as stated in the Certificate of Evidence signed by Judge Landis, are shown on pages 218-220. (Please see 12th paragraph of Petition, pages 19-20.)

XII.

On appeal to the United States Court of Appeals, Seventh Circuit, that court, on January 19, 1909, delivered its opinion, holding that the said motions to dismiss were seasonably presented; and, by its order of same date, directed that one or other of said motions to dismiss be allowed by the Circuit Court, and that said motion (or petition) filed November 4, 1907, be dismissed—all at the cost of the appellee, the said Corn Products Refining Company. For references to said opinion and order of Court of Appeals, please see 13th paragraph of Petition, pages 20-21.

XIII.

By Petition for Rehearing, denied by said Court of Appeals, and by its subsequent order entered in order to give time to said appellee to apply to the Supreme Court for certiorari, issue of mandate was stayed by said Court of Appeals, on condition that petition for certiorari be filed on or before March 29, 1909. (Petition, page 21.) On March 27, 1909, said Mayer filed petition of said Refining Company in the Supreme Court for certiorari, together with his brief in support thereof, and on April 2, 1909, said Harding filed his brief and reply thereto, and thereafter remained in or near the City of Washington awaiting decision on such petition, and same was denied by Supreme Court on April 12, 1909. (Petition, page 22.)

XIV.

On the next day, April 13, 1909, said Mayer filed a motion of said Refining Company in said Court of Appeals to modify said final judgment, together with his brief and argument in support thereof; and, on the next day, April 14, said motion was argued orally, and taken under advisement, and denied on April 21, 1909, as stated in 16th paragraph of Petition, page 22. As there stated, a copy of said motion to modify said judgment, marked "Exhibit B," is annexed to the petition, and the same is shown on page 85. As there shown, it will be seen that said motion to modify judgment was, in effect, a second petition for rehearing. On June 23, 1909, said Mayer moved said Court of Appeals to retax the costs in said appeal, which motion was later denied, as stated in 17th paragraph of Petition.

XV.

REMOVAL PROCEEDINGS IN HARDING CASE.

On November 5, 1907, THE NEXT DAY AFTER SAID INJUNCTION ORDER OF NOVEMBER 4, WAS ENTERED IN THE FEDERAL COURT, said Mayer (as associate counsel with and in the name of Mr. Sheean) served notice on Mr. Joyner, whose name was signed to the Harding Bill of Complaint in the Superior Court as solicitor for complainant therein, stating in said notice that the petition of said Manufacturing Company praying for removal of said Harding case to said U. S. Circuit Court would be presented to Judge Ball, of said Superior Court, on the next morning, November 6. (Petition, page 23.) Pursuant to said notice of November 5, said Levy Mayer appeared before said Judge of the Superior Court, at the hour mentioned in said notice, on November 6, and presented said Removal Petition, alleging therein that said Harding at the time of the beginning of his said suit was and continuously since has been a RESIDENT AND CITIZEN OF CALIFORNIA, and alleging the citizenship of said four New Jersey corporations, and further alleging the existence of a separable controversy BETWEEN SAID MANUFACTURING COMPANY AND SAID HARDING, and that the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest and costs, exceeded the sum of two thousand dollars, and further alleging that removal bond had been filed, and praying that same be approved, and that order be entered removing the cause to said U. S. Circuit Court, and that no further proceedings be had therein in State Court. No attempt even was made in such removal papers to point out the nature or character of such ALLEGED separable controversy; and neither in those papers, nor in any other paper or record then or thereafter filed, or entered, or presented in or to said State Court, was there any allegation or showing whatsoever as to the residence or citizenship of said Harding, except as above shown, or any allegation or showing as to the residence or citizenship of any of the individual defendants, except as stated in said affidavit of Abner C. Harding, as above shown. Said removal papers were filed in the State Court on November 5, 1907. For further references thereto, please see 19th paragraph of Petition, pages 19-25.

XVI.

Upon presentation of said removal papers to Judge Ball by said Mayer, on the morning of November 6, said Harding appeared and stated that he desired to be heard in opposition to such removal; and the court thereupon announced that the same could not be heard or considered then, and postponed the hearing to the opening of court next morning, November 7, 1907, to which postponement neither said Mayer, nor any other solicitor or party suggested any objection. Without notice, however, AND WITHOUT FURTHER APPEARANCE IN THE STATE COURT, OR FURTHER ACTION BY THAT COURT, said Mayer appeared on the same date, November 6, before said Judge Landis, then holding said U. S. Circuit Court, and obtained an order granting leave to said Manufacturing Company to file in said Circuit Court, and ordering filed therein, a transcript of the record of said Superior Court, and enjoining said Harding, his agents, representatives, counsel, solicitors and attorneys, from proceeding further with the prosecution of said cause in the State Court, "ALL UNTIL THE FURTHER ORDER OF" said Circuit Court, a copy of which order is shown on page 411 of Part II of "Exhibit A." (Please see 21st and 22d paragraphs of Petition, pages 25-26.)

XVII.

HEARING OF HARDING'S MOTION TO REMAND REFUSED.

Said Harding had no knowledge or notice of the said order of November 6, 1907, or of the filing of the said transcript of record in his suit in said U. S. Circuit Court that day, until on or about November 12, 1907, and, at some time prior to December 13, 1907, he applied to said Judge Landis, in chambers, and inquired if he would hear a motion to remand his said suit to the State Court, but said Judge finally stated that he did not deem it proper to hear such a motion to remand "until the court had disposed of the said motion for an injunction which the court then had under advisement." By reason thereof, and by reason of said restraining order entered November 4, 1907, said Harding did not immediately file and present a formal motion to remand his suit. On December 13, 1907, said Judge Landis orally announced his decision in relation to the matter of said injunction, in part, and, as to said alleged contempt, as shown in his certificate of evidence as printed on pages 168-441 of Part II of "Exhibit A." The portion of said certificate of evidence showing said oral opinion, and the proceedings immediately following the delivery thereof, including such refusal to hear motion to remand, is shown on pages 213-218 of Part II of said "Exhibit A." (Please see 23d paragraph of Petition, pages 27-28.)

XVIII.

WRITTEN MOTION TO REMAND HARDING SUIT FILED DECEMBER 23, 1907.

On December 23, 1907, said Harding filed in said U. S. Circuit Court his motion in writing to remand his cause to said Superior Court, appearing specially for that purpose, only, and saving and reserving all objections to the removal papers, and denying the jurisdiction of said Federal Court, and stating the grounds upon which he claimed the right to such remand. Said motion to remand is shown, in full, in 24th paragraph of Petition, pages 28-30, the same having been signed by said Harding alone, as the moving party, and as of counsel in the case. As shown in 26th paragraph of Petition, pages 30-39, particularly pages 33-34, the hearing before said Judge Landis was adjourned from December 13, 1907, to December 23, and on that date Mr. Mayer presented draft of order which he then claimed should be entered in the Real Estate Company's suit, and settlement of the terms thereof was postponed to December 26, 1907, with the understanding that Mr. Ammen would furnish to Mr. Mayer on or before December 25, a draft of the order proposed to be entered, which was done by said Ammen, as shown on page 218 of Part II of said "Exhibit A," notwithstanding the statement of said Mayer there shown to the contrary. On December 25, 1907, there was also served upon solicitors for defendants in said Harding suit, a notice entitled therein, signed by said Harding, only, stating that he, said Harding, would on December 26, 1907, at 10 a. m., appearing especially for such purpose, only, present to said Circuit Court before said Judge Landis his said motion to remand filed in said cause, and move the court to grant the same. (Please see 25th paragraph of Petition, page 30.)

HEARING OF MOTION TO REMAND AGAIN REFUSED.

Pursuant to said notice served on December 25, said Harding on the morning of December 26, 1907, presented his said motion to remand, and insisted upon a hearing thereof, but such hearing was denied by the court, notwithstanding the persistence of said Harding that the same be heard, said Judge Landis stating as ground for refusing such hearing that the injunction order then about to be entered by him UNDER DATE OF DECEMBER 13, 1907, restraining all proceedings, whatsoever, in the Harding suit, INCLUDING EVEN THE BRINGING ON FOR HEARING OF ANY MOTION TO REMAND THE SAME. Please see the quotations from the Certificate of Evidence signed by Judge Landis, presented in 26th paragraph of Petition, pages 30-39, showing the refusals of the court to hear said motion to remand, and the reasons there stated for such refusals, and showing, also, the objections and exceptions of said Harding, and the three other respondents, to the court's action in then dating back said injunction order to December 13, 1907, etc.

ATTEMPT TO "SUPPLEMENT" REMOVAL PETITION.

On November 6, 1907, the same day said order of removal was made by Judge Landis in the Harding case, said Mayer, as solicitor for said Manufacturing Company, filed in said Harding suit in said U. S. Circuit Court, without leave of court, and without notice to or consent of said Harding, a so-called "Supplement" to the removal petition theretofore filed in the State Court, as already shown, setting forth in said "Supplement" the residence and citizenship of the individual defendants in that suit, and stating therein that said defendants Glass, Calhoun, Morton and Wagner were, at the time of the commencement of said suit, and continuously thereafter had been, citizens and residents of the City of Chicago, Illinois, and the defendant Herget, a citizen and resident of Pekin, Illinois. (Please see 27th paragraph of Petition, pages 39-40.)

X X I.

ATTEMPTED AMENDMENT OF REMOVAL PETITION.

On April 15, 1909, while said motion to modify judgment of Court of Appeals was still held under advisement by that court, and while said Harding was still in the East awaiting information with reference to decision of Supreme Court on said petition for certiorari, and to procure a certified copy thereof, and while the order staying mandate of Court of Appeals was still in full force and effect, said

Mayer served said Ammen, whose appearance had never been entered in the Harding suit—the said appearance of said Harding therein in and by his said motion to remand being the only appearance ever entered therein—a notice stating that he, said Mayer, would, at 10 a. m., on April 16, 1909, present to said Judge Landis a motion (or petition) of said Manufacturing Company for leave to amend said removal petition in the said Harding suit. (Please see 28th paragraph of Petition, pages 40-41.)

XXII.

As to the proceedings before Judge Landis on April 16, 1909, pursuant to said notice, including the special appearance then filed by said Ammen, and changed by Judge Landis after the filing thereof, and the order then entered against the objections and protests of said Ammen, IN THE ABSENCE OF SAID HARDING, and the stipulation then exactd in and by the order then entered granting leave to file said petition for leave to amend removal petition, and postponing the hearing thereof to April 23, 1909, please see paragraphs 29 to 31, inclusive, of the Petition, pages 41-43, including Exhibits "C," "D," "E," and "F" there referred to and shown on pages 126-130 as such exhibits. By said stipulation thus required from said Ammen by the court, at the instance of said Mayer, AS A CONDITION FOR THE GRANTING OF ONE WEEK'S POSTPONEMENT OF THE HEARING OF THE SAID MOTION TO AMEND REMOVAL PETITION IN ORDER THAT SAID HARDING MIGHT IN THE MEANTIME RETURN TO CHICAGO, from the East, he, said Harding, was prevented and debarred from moving for issue of mandate of said Court of Appeals, and he, and the others of said appellants, and said Real Estate Company, and their respective solicitors, were thereby debarred from taking any action or steps, whatsoever in said Court of Appeals, or in said Circuit Court in any or either of said cases, until after the hearing and decision of record of said petition of said Manufacturing Company for leave to amend its said original removal petition in said Harding suit. (Please see 33rd paragraph of Petition, pages 43-44.)

XXIII.

On April 23, 1909, said Judge Landis, of his own motion, selected the Honorable Arthur L. Sanborn, District Judge of the U. S. District Court for the Western District of Wisconsin, to hear said motion for leave to amend said removal petition; and said Judge Sanborn began such hearing on that date, and took same under advisement on May 4, 1909; and, on May 15, 1909, filed his opinion holding that amendment should be allowed as to the residence and citizenship of said Harding, as stated in 34th paragraph of Petition on page 44. On May 1, 1909, by leave of said Judge Sanborn, said Harding filed his said "OBJECTIONS AND ANSWER" to said petition for leave to amend removal petition. In view of the importance of same, in support of this petition for mandamus, the Supreme Court is respectfully requested to have read, as a part of this Statement of the Case, the 35th paragraph of the Petition, pages 45-52, showing, and quoting at length from, said "Objections and Answer," so filed by said Harding. From a reading of the same, the present objections of Mr. Harding to the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court, and the grounds now relied upon in support of this petition for mandamus will be seen.

XXIV.

Against the objection of said Harding, a so-called "Replication" was filed by said Mayer on May 4, 1909, as stated in the 36th paragraph of the Petition, page 52.

XXV.

For contents of the said Opinion filed May 15, 1909, please see 37th paragraph of Petition, pages 53-58.

XXVI.

On May 22, 1909, said Harding moved the court to strike said "Replication" from the files, etc., and that motion was denied by order of June 12, 1909, as stated in 38th paragraph of Petition, page 58.

XXVII.

AMENDMENT FILED JUNE 14, 1909, TO REMOVAL PETITION.

By this amendment of June 14, 1909, as stated in 39th paragraph of Petition, page 58, and shown as "Exhibit I" on pages 138-39, it was attempted to amend said original removal petition by striking therefrom its averment that said Harding was a citizen and resident of CALIFORNIA, and inserting, in lieu thereof, an averment that he was a citizen and resident of ILLINOIS. NO OTHER AMENDMENT WAS ALLOWED OR FILED TO ORIGINAL REMOVAL PETITION. The order of May 15, 1909, allowing such amendment is shown as "Exhibit G" on pages 131-132 of Petition.

XXVIII.

The mandate of said Court of Appeals was issued on June 28, 1909, and, on the next day, said Real Estate Company moved before Judge Sanborn for order obeying said mandate that day filed in that case. Said motion was then taken under advisement and allowed on July 1, 1909. Said mandate recited that the order of the Court of Appeals staying same was vacated by that court on May 19, 1909. (Please see 40th paragraph of Petition, page 59.) *Said Harding being thus free, for the first time, to bring on for hearing his said motion to remand filed December 23, 1907—*THE SAID PRETENDED AND VOID AMENDMENT PROCEEDINGS HAVING OCCURRED IN THE MEANTIME—he, on June 30, 1909, after due notice to said Mayer, presented to said Judge Sanborn his verified petition dated June 29, 1909, PRAYING THAT SAID AMENDMENT PROCEEDINGS BE TREATED AS NULL AND VOID, for the reasons and upon the grounds stated in his said petition presented June 30, AND FURTHER PRAYING THAT HIS SAID ORIGINAL MOTION TO REMAND, FILED DECEMBER 23, 1907, BE NOW GRANTED, on the record as it then existed, NOTWITHSTANDING SAID PRETENDED AND VOID AMENDMENT PROCEEDINGS, etc. It seems quite impossible for the Supreme Court to intelligently deal with this petition for mandamus without a careful reading of the said petition presented June 30, 1909. WE THEREFORE EARNESTLY REQUEST THE COURT TO READ THE SAME, AS A PART OF THIS STATEMENT OF THE CASE, AS QUOTED IN THE 41ST PARAGRAPH OF THIS PETITION FOR MANDAMUS, PAGES 59-68.

XXIX.

On July 1, 1909, said Judge Sanborn entered an order dismissing the said Real Estate Company's suit, and dismissing said petition of November 4, 1907, in obedience to said mandate. Said order of July 1, referred to said mandate as "having this day been filed herein," but the same was, in fact, filed on June 29, as shown, and on that day said order entered on July 1 was actually prepared and put into the hands of the court, and taken under advisement, and entered on July 1, as thus prepared and submitted on June 29; and said petition presented June 30, referred to said order, when entered, and made the same an exhibit thereto. On July 1, 1909, after entry of said order in the Real Estate Company's suit, said Harding again presented his said petition dated June 29, 1909, and presented next day, and same was then taken under advisement. (Please see 42nd paragraph of Petition, pages 68-69.)

XXXI.

On July 9, 1909, Judge Sanborn entered two orders (Exhibits "K" and "L"), in the first of which, on motion of defendants, he denied the prayer contained in said petition presented June 30th, that the original filed motion to remand be granted; and, in the other of which, he denied leave to file that petition, and fixed the time for the taking of proof on both sides on the issue of citizenship—said petition of June 30th, having reaffirmed the original allegation in the bill as to citizenship, and denied the truth of the said pretended amendment to removal petition in regard thereto, this being done by way of precaution, in said petition presented June 30th, lest such prayer for remand, though based on original motion to remand as filed, might be claimed by opposing counsel to operate as admission of the truth of said pretended amendment; and, by way of precaution, and for greater safety, as stated in said petition presented June 30th, that petition asked leave to formally join issue on such amendment, without waiving the contentions set forth in the petition, in the event the prayer thereof should be denied. Please see 43rd paragraph of this petition for mandamus, pages 69-70, referring to said two exhibits "K" and "L," and quoting at length from said Exhibit "K," and also the said exhibits as printed on pages 140-143, and the explanatory note as to the order of proceedings on July 9th, on page 70 of this petition.

By said first order of July 9, 1909, the court, having first recited the special appearance of Mr. Harding for the purpose only of securing allowance of his original motion to remand filed December 23, 1907, "and for the same order which he claims he was entitled to have made on December 26, 1907, when he moved the court to grant said motion of December 23, 1907," and further recited, in part, the efforts of Harding, on and prior to December

26, 1907, to get a hearing of motion to remand and after finding therein THAT SAID HARDING HAD NO OPPORTUNITY TO HAVE HIS SAID MOTION TO REMAND HEARD UNTIL JUNE 30, 1909, WHEN SAID MANDATE WAS FILED IN THE REAL ESTATE COMPANY'S CASE, "directing the reversal of the said injunction order of December 13, 1907, so entered December 26, 1907," the court, thereupon, on motion of defendants, ordered "that the SAID motion to remand this suit to the state court be, and the same is, hereby denied."

This language in said order of July 9, 1909, although evidently intended to show that it was entered as a disposition of said petition presented June 30th, possibly left room for doubt or dispute on that point. So, on account of this possible ambiguity, Mr. Harding presented on January 26, 1910, his motion to set aside said order of July 9th, on the ground that it purported to deny a motion to remand then made, for the first time, instead of being based on the said petition presented June 30th; but the court, by its order of February 12, 1910, denied said motion of January 26, and struck the same with its attached affidavits from the files, for the reason as stated in said order of February 12th, that it already sufficiently appeared from the record, including the certificate of evidence dated November 19, 1909, that said order of July 9th, was in fact a denial of the prayer of said petition presented June 30th, which petition was duly preserved in said certificate of evidence, wherein it was also stated that that was the same petition which was not permitted to be filed as stated in the last sentence of the other order entered on July 9th. Said order of February 12, 1910, also recites that the early efforts of said Harding to have a hearing of his motion to remand already sufficiently appeared in Judge Landis' certificate of evidence shown in the large printed record inserted as part of the proof in said certificate of evidence dated November 19, 1909.

As to said proceedings of January 26, 1910, and said order of February 12, 1910, please see 46th, 47th and 48th paragraphs of this petition for mandamus, pages 74-81, and Exhibits "O" and "P" there referred to and shown on pages 150-156, and as to said recitals in certificate of evidence, please see 49th paragraph of petition, pages 80-81.

NOTE: We have just this moment discovered that the date of said order of February 12, 1910, is given on page 78 of the petition as February 10th, but the correct date, February 12, is stated in the heading of that order shown as Exhibit "P," on page 158.

XXXII.

All the efforts of said Harding to obtain allowance of his original motion to remand, having been thus defeated, but, in the meantime, said pretended amendment having been allowed, and thus got into the record, for the time being at least, he, thereupon, filed an answer to said removal petition, as amended, reaffirming his original allegation as to citizenship, and denying the truth of said pretended amendment in regard thereto. As stated in 44th paragraph of petition, page 71, that answer was in fact prepared on July 1, but was held back for the court's ruling on said petition presented June 30th. Such answer filed July 9, 1909, insisted that all the said amendment proceedings were void, and demanded allowance of his original motion to remand upon the basis and the grounds stated in said petition presented June 30th, and stated that issue was thus joined on such question of citizenship, WHILE DENYING ALL JURISDICTION OF THE COURT EXCEPT TO REMAND THE CASE in order that the entire question of remand might be disposed of by the Circuit Court AND THE WAY BE THUS CLEARED FOR PETITION TO THE SUPREME COURT FOR A WRIT OF MANDAMUS TO COMPEL REMAND TO THE STATE COURT. Please see extended quotations from said answer filed July 9, 1909, on pages 71-74 of this petition for mandamus, and a copy of said order annexed as "Exhibit K," on pages 140-141. The other order of July 9, 1909, is shown as "Exhibit L," on page 143. A copy of said answer referred to in this petition, page 71, as "Exhibit M," is shown on pages 144-148, with the heading "Exhibit M," inadvertently omitted by the printer at the top of page 144.

XXXIII.

Mr. Harding continued to insist that the court had no jurisdiction except to remand his case to the State Court, as shown, for example, in his other motion of January 26, 1910, quoted in full in the 46th paragraph of the petition, pages 74-75, wherein he moved for a certain order in relation to the taking of testimony.

"while objecting and protesting, as heretofore, against the authority of the court to allow the amendment heretofore allowed to the removal petition in said cause, under and pursuant to which amendment said issue of citizenship has been made, as stated in the answer of said complainant thereto, the contention of said complainant still being that said order allowing the said amendment, and all proceedings thereunder, and pursuant thereto, are void, and without authority of law, THESE OBJECTIONS BEING HERE RESTATED IN ORDER TO AVOID ANY WAIVER, OR CLAIM OF WAIVER UPON THE PART OF SAID COMPLAINANT, IN REGARD THERETO."

XXXIV.

Said certificate of evidence, signed November 19, 1909, stated that said Harding, in support of his said petition presented June 30, 1909, and preserved in said certificate of evidence, offered the entire evidence shown in such certificate of evidence, together with the said mandate filed in the Real Estate Company suit, a copy of which mandate is thereupon inserted in said certificate of evidence. (Please see 49th paragraph of the petition for mandamus, pages 80-81.)

XXXV.

The hearing on such issue of citizenship closed on July 18, 1910, and on October 25, 1910, Judge Sanborn filed his opinion, deciding such issue against said Harding, as stated in the 50th paragraph of this petition, page 81. As there stated, a copy of said opinion is annexed as "Exhibit Q," as shown on pages 160-176.

XXXVI.

On October 29, 1910, Mr. Mayer served notice that he would on November 2, 1910, move for order pursuant to said opinion of October 25th, as stated in 51st paragraph of petition, page 81, and said notice annexed, as "Exhibit R," is shown on page 177.

XXXVII.

Pursuant to said notice such order was entered on November 2, 1910, under date of October 25, 1910, against the objections of solicitor for said Harding, a copy of which order is annexed as "Exhibit S," pages 178-179, and same is quoted in the 52nd paragraph of petition, pages 81-83.

XXXVII.

No certificate of evidence has yet been filed or presented as to proceedings subsequent to November 19, 1909, but a copy of the shorthand reporter's transcript of the proceedings of November 2, 1909, as stated in 53rd paragraph of petition, page 83, is annexed as "Exhibit T," and shown on pages 180-191, from which will be seen the objections then renewed to the jurisdiction of the court, and the statement made by Mr. Mayer that the costs to which his client was entitled, as he claimed, on the taking of the volumes of testimony on such issue, etc., already amounted to thousands of dollars, and procured, in the order then entered, a judgment for such costs to be taxed by the clerk, and order that execution issue therefor.

XXXVIII.

It will be observed that said order entered on November 2, 1909, under date of October 25th, does not purport to deny any motion to remand made subsequent to July 9, 1909, but expressly states that such order was entered as a denial of the motion to remand as made and presented in and by said answer of Harding, filed on July 9, 1909.

XXXIX.

The 54th paragraph of petition sets forth the present contentions of petitioner that said Judge Sanborn and said Circuit Court and each of them were and are wholly without jurisdiction in his suit, and have been and still are without jurisdiction therein except to remand the same to the State Court, and that the allowance of said amendment to said removal petition, and all action thereunder or by virtue thereof, was and is wholly null and void by reason of such lack of jurisdiction, and such lack of power, and that said Circuit Court should be required to remand said case to the State Court, and if need be required to vacate all orders standing in the way of such remand, if any there be, and to desist from further action under claim of jurisdiction in said cause, except to remand the same to the State Court. The prayer of the petition then follows on page 84. The petition is signed by counsel and sworn to by said Harding, and twenty-five printed copies thereof, with the annexed exhibits, have been furnished to the Clerk of the Supreme Court.

POINTS RELIED ON BY PETITIONER.

These points are quite obvious from the foregoing statement of the case, but we will here attempt to restate the same briefly.

1. The original removal petition, whether considered alone or in connection with the entire record then before the State Court, not only failed to show a removable case, but affirmatively showed that the case was not removable under the law, on the ground of diverse citizenship.

2. No separable controversy was pointed out in said original petition for removal, as required by the decisions.

3. The claim of separable controversy between said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and said Harding, is found so absurd upon a mere cursory reading of the bill of complaint that the Circuit Court should not have considered the same, even for a moment; and relief by mandamus should not be refused on the ground that a decision of that question involved judicial discretion, although the exercise of judicial discretion on such a question might be required in a case where such question appears to be reasonably disputable.

4. Even if such separable controversy existed, the citizenship of the alleged parties thereto was not such as to make the case removable, under the law.

5. The alleged removal was void upon the further ground that the State Court was not permitted to examine, and consider, and pass upon, the removal petition.

6. Said order of the Circuit Court entered on November 6, 1907, ordering the transcript of record of State Court filed in Circuit Court, and enjoining Harding from the further prosecution of his suit in the State Court, until the further order of the Circuit Court, was void.

7. The so-called supplement filed in the Circuit Court November 6, 1907, was unauthorized and void, and did not and could not help out the original removal petition filed in the State Court.

8. Said Harding is not chargeable with laches by reason of the long delay in the hearing of his motion to remand filed on December 23, 1907.

9. Said Harding has never waived his right to have said original motion to remand allowed.

10. The Circuit Court had no power to allow the amendment to the removal petition changing the vital averments made in said original removal petition filed in the State Court.

11. The Circuit Court had no power to allow such amendment upon the additional ground that the order staying mandate of the Court of Appeals was still in full force and effect, and the pendency of the appeal was recognized by the motion of appellee therein to modify the judgment of the Court of Appeals, which motion was under advisement at the time the petition for leave to amend the original removal petition was permitted to be filed.

12. The order permitting such petition to amend to be filed, and the order allowing such amendment to be filed, and the said amendment so filed to petition for removal, and all subsequent proceedings based thereon, were wholly without power or jurisdiction of the Circuit Court, and void.

13. It clearly appearing that said Harding will be entitled to a remand of his case after a tedious and expensive hearing on the merits, on appeal from whatever decree may be then entered, this should be duly considered by the Supreme Court, as even the certainty of such ultimate remand does not constitute an adequate remedy in the premises.

14. Upon the entire record the relief sought by this petition for mandamus should be granted by the Supreme Court.

BRIEF OF ARGUMENT.

1. The original removal petition, whether considered alone or in connection with the entire record then before the State Court, not only failed to show a removable case, but affirmatively showed that the case was not removable under the law, on the ground of diverse citizenship.

City of Newcastle v. Postal, etc., Co., 152 Fed., 572.

3. The claim of separable controversy between said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, and said Harding, is found so absurd upon a mere cursory reading of the bill of complaint that the Circuit Court should not have considered the same, even for a moment; and relief by mandamus should not be refused on the ground that a decision of that question involved judicial discretion, although the exercise of judicial discretion on such a question might be required in a case where such question appears to be reasonably disputable.

We deem it unnecessary to cite authorities as to the test of a separable controversy.

4. Even if such separable controversy existed, the citizenship of the alleged parties thereto was not such as to make the case removable, under the law.

Please see the authorities above cited in support of Point 1. We deem it unnecessary to cite further authorities on this point.

5 The alleged removal was void upon the further ground that the State Court was not permitted to examine, and consider, and pass upon, the removal petition.

Please see authorities cited below under Point 10.

6. Said order of the Circuit Court entered on November 6, 1907, ordering the transcript of record of State Court filed in Circuit Court, and enjoining Harding from the further prosecution of his suit in the State Court, until the further order of the Circuit Court, was void.

Please see authorities cited below under Point 10.

7. The so-called supplement filed in the Circuit Court November 6, 1907, was unauthorized and void, and did not and could not help out the original removal petition filed in the State Court.

Please see authorities cited below under Point 10.

8. Said Harding is not chargeable with laches by reason of the long delay in the hearing of his motion to remand filed on December 23, 1907.

It abundantly appears that defendants were fully advised from beginning to end that Harding denied the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court.

9. Said Harding has never waived his right to have said original motion to remand allowed.

We submit that this abundantly appears from this entire record.

10. The Circuit Court had no power to allow the amendment to the removal petition changing the vital averments made in said original removal petition filed in the State Court.

11. The Circuit Court had no power to allow such amendment upon the additional ground that the order staying mandate of the Court of Appeals was still in full force and effect, and the pendency of the appeal was recognized by the motion of appellee therein to modify the judgment of the Court of Appeals, which motion was under advisement at the time the petition for leave to amend the original removal petition was permitted to be filed.

Please see shorthand reporter's transcript showing the proceedings before Judge Landis on April 16, 1909, "Exhibit D," to the petition, pages 106 and 115, wherein it appears that Mr. Mayer stated that the Court of Appeals had the day before permitted a re-argument of the entire case, and also stated he wanted an immediate order permitting his petition for leave to amend to be filed so as to prevent application for mandate, etc.

12. The order permitting such petition to amend to be filed, and the order allowing such amendment to be filed, and the said amendment so filed to petition for removal, and all subsequent proceedings based thereon, were wholly without power or jurisdiction of the Circuit Court, and void.

Please see authorities cited above under Point 10.

13. It clearly appearing that said Harding will be entitled to a remand of his case after a tedious and expensive hearing on the merits, on appeal from whatever decree may be then entered, this should be duly considered by the Supreme Court, as even the certainty of such ultimate remand does not constitute an adequate remedy in the premises.

We deem it unnecessary to cite decisions of this court as to when a writ of mandamus should be issued other than the Wisner case and Moore case, above cited under Point 1.

14. Upon the entire record the relief sought by this petition for mandamus should be granted by the Supreme Court.

I.

No cause can be removed from the State Court to the Circuit Court of the United States unless it could have been originally brought in the latter court. Boston, etc., Mining Company v. Montana Ore, etc., Company, 188 U. S., 632; ex parte Wisner, 203 U. S., 449; In re Winn, 213 U. S., 458.

In such a case the consent of the parties cannot confer jurisdiction. Louisville and Nashville R. R. Co. v. Motley, 211 U. S., 149.

Here there was no waiver by appearance, answer or pleading to the merits.

In Insurance Company v. Dunne, 19 Wallace, 214, it is distinctly held that if a party failed in his efforts to obtain a removal, and was forced to trial he lost none of his rights by defending against the action.

In Meyer v. Construction Company, 100 U. S., 475, the court say:

"This record is full of protests on the part of Dennison against going on with the suit and of exceptions to the ruling which kept him in court.

"Indeed, it is difficult to see what more he could have done than he did do to get out of court and take his suit with him. He remained simply because he was forced to remain and is certainly now in a condition to have the original error of what he complained corrected, in any court, having jurisdiction for that purpose."

II.

In Powers v. Chesapeake and Ohio Ry. Co., 169 U. S., 102, the court said:

"It is hardly necessary to add that the Railway Company, by making defense in the State Court after that court had declined to surrender jurisdiction of the case, did not lose or impair its right to insist that the case had been lawfully removed into the Circuit Court of the United States.

"The defendant, notwithstanding its objection, duly saved upon this record, to the jurisdiction of the State Court, having been forced to a hearing in that court, is entitled to have the error in this respect, corrected in any court having jurisdiction for the purpose." Removal Cases, 100 U. S., pages 457, 475.

III.

In Edrington v. Jefferson, 111 U. S., 770-7, held, that the Federal Circuit Court had no power to amend said petition for removal.

Without further reviewing the authorities on the subject of amendment, it is only necessary to cite the following cases, as fully sustaining the conclusion to which we must arrive upon this subject:

"A petition for removal, when presented to the State Court, becomes part of the record of that court, and must doubtless show, taken in connection with the other matters on that record, the jurisdictional facts upon which the right of removal depends; because, if those facts are not made to appear upon the record of that court, it is not bound or authorized to surrender its jurisdiction, and if it does the Circuit Court of the United States cannot allow an amendment of the petition, but must remand the case. Crehore v. Ohio and Mississippi R. Co., 131 U. S., 240; Jackson v. Allen, 132 U. S., 27.

"But if upon the face of the petition and of the whole record of the State Court, sufficient grounds for removal are shown, the petition may be amended in the Circuit Court of the United States, by leave of that court, by stating more fully and distinctly the facts which support those grounds." Powers v. Railway Co., 169 U. S., 92. See, also, Insurance Company v. Pechner, 95 U. S., 183.

The court in the latter case said:

"This right of removal is statutory. Before a party can avail himself of it, he must show upon the record that his is a case which comes within the provisions of the statute. His petition for removal when filed becomes a part of the record in the cause. It should state facts, which, taken in connection with such as already appear, entitle him to the transfer. If he fails in this, he has not in law, shown to the court that it cannot proceed further with the cause.
* * *

"The court had the right to take the case as made by the party himself, and not inquire further. If that was not sufficient to oust the jurisdiction, there was no reason why the court might not proceed with the cause."

IV.

In Dalton v. Milwaukee Ins. Co., 118 Fed., 876, Judge Shiras held, that the petition for removal could not be amended by averring that the amount in controversy exceeded the amount of $2,000, exclusive of interest and costs, and that the defendant was a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Wisconsin; and that if the jurisdictional facts were imperfectly stated, upon the face of the record, the Circuit Court could not cure such imperfections, and the leave to file such proposed amendment would have to be obtained from the State Court, and that the State Court did not part with its jurisdiction until its record showed that court that it had lost its jurisdiction and could no longer proceed with the case.

The court stating:

"It certainly cannot be the fact that in cases wherein a removal is sought on the ground of diverse citizenship the jurisdiction of the State Court can be terminated by petition for removal or by amendments thereto filed in the Federal Court. In such cases the jurisdiction of the State Court can only be ended by making a proper showing of the facts justifying the removal on the face of the record in that court."

V.

In Martin's Administrator v. R. R. Company, 151 U. S., p. 673, this court defined the limits of the power of the Circuit Court to permit amendments to the petition, and said:

"Such amendments may be allowed when and only when, the petition, as presented to the State Court, shows upon its face sufficient ground for removal."

In Fife v. Whittell, 102 Fed., 537, Judge Morrow denied an application by defendant for leave to amend a record so as to show defendant was a non-resident of California, saying:

“The Federal Court has no power to grant leave to amend the petition by stating facts that show that the cause was in fact removable.”

In Shane v. Butte Electric R. Co., 150 Fed., 801, the opinion, after review of other cases, closed, on p. 812, saying, that:

“In harmony with these general views, the Federal Courts have recognized that the statutes of removal should be construed not in a way to authorize the exercise of jurisdiction where the question is doubtful, but rather to refuse to keep a case where the jurisdiction is seriously disputable.”

And the court, in that case, refused to allow the amendment proposed to show that one Jackson was a citizen of Minnesota and not a resident of Montana, as alleged in his petition to the State Court, and thus made the case removable; and that the question is a fundamentally jurisdictional one and no appeal to the discretion of the Federal Court can have consideration.

ARGUMENT.

I.

This mighty record is made up of the attempts of the defendants to defeat the restrictions of the Federal Statutes of 1887-1888. It discloses a conflict of jurisdiction, extending for nearly four years, during which the suit of the Chicago Real Estate Loan and Trust Company was begun, in May, 1907.

The Standard Oil Company, and its directors and allies, kept on foot the said Real Estate case, by various devices, in order to prevent the prosecution of the present case, brought on October 19, 1907, by Harding against them; and this attempt was substantially an effort to use the dead case of the Real Estate Company (which Real Estate Company had sought to dismiss ever since October 1, 1907), to kill the case of your petitioner, on behalf of himself and other minority stockholders of the Corn Products Company.

In the first attack upon the case of your petitioner, begun by said petition, filed on November 4, 1907, in said Real Estate case, in the name of the Corn Products Refining Company, the defendants obtained a restraining order, forbidding the prosecution of the Harding case, and a rule to show cause why an injunction against the prosecution of said case, and why a dismissal should not be entered, and a hearing thereof terminated in the Circuit Court of the United States (Landis, J.), by a decretal order of injunction against the prosecution of said

Harding case, and holding Harding and his counsel and associates guilty of contempt of court in bringing and prosecuting said case.

Upon the appeal from said decreal order to the Court of Appeals of the Seventh Circuit, taken by Harding and his associates in January, 1908, the Court of Appeals filed its opinion, in January, 1909, but stayed, upon motion of the appellee, the issue of a mandate thereon, until May 19, 1909, but said mandate was not issued nor presented nor obeyed until the Circuit Court, upon July 1, 1909, entered its order, as directed by said Court of Appeals, in substance reversing the decree of December 26, 1907, and ordering the dismissal as moved for by said Real Estate Company, seasonably, as the court held, but denied by the Circuit Court by said decretal order, and the Circuit Court, as ordered, thereupon dismissed said petition of November 4, 1907.

II.

On November 5, 1907, the Corn Products Manufacturing Company, one of said defendants, with the consent of the remaining eighteen defendants to the Harding bill, including the Corn Products Refining Company, and by the same attorney throughout (said Levy Mayer conducting, as their common attorney, the proceedings and action of defendants throughout), filed in the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, a petition for the removal of the Harding case to said Circuit Court of the United States, and gave notice, by a notice served upon the same day upon your petitioner, that on Wednesday, the 6th of November, 1907, James M. Sheean, solicitor of said Manufacturing Company, would present said petition for a removal; and also served with said notice a copy of said petition. In pursuance of said notice, said Levy Mayer appeared in said State Court, on November 6, 1907, and presented to said court (Judge Ball presiding) said petition for removal, and moved the court to allow the same. To this motion your petitioner, objecting, stated that he resisted the same and wished to be heard thereon, and Judge Ball, declaring that he was so much engaged for the day that he could not hear it until November 7. Said Levy Mayer made no reply for said Corn Products Manufacturing Company, for whom he appeared, and both parties left the court room, and no further action was then or later taken in said case in said court by said Corn Products Manufacturing Company.

But on the same day, November 6, 1907, said Levy Mayer, for the said Manufacturing Company, without notice to or knowledge of your petitioner, obtained the entry of the order of removal in said Circuit Court on November 6, with an injunction commanding your petitioner and counsel to take no further action in said State case.

III.

Your petitioner did not learn of said order in said Circuit Court, obtained by said Manufacturing Company, on November 6, until long afterwards, and after the hearing of November 12, 1907, had in pursuance of said rule obtained by said Refining Company by said Mayer, on November 4; thereupon this petitioner, while said hearing was pending before said Circuit Court, and while a new proceeding for alleged contempt of court described in said decretal order was set on foot by said District Judge, of his own motion, and a further rule to answer the same for next day, November 13, your petitioner applied to said Circuit Court for leave to make and file and to have heard a motion for remand of said case to said State Court, and he thereafter continued urging said court to grant such leave, at every opportunity presented, but without leave or hearing being granted.

Your petitioner, therefore, on December 23, 1907, filed his written motion to remand said case, and presented the same for hearing after due notice in said Circuit Court, on December 26, 1907; but the said court refused to hear or allow said motion to remand, as is more fully shown in said petition filed for mandamus in this case, and in our statement of the case above.

Immediately upon the said dissolution of the said injunction of December 26, 1907, your petitioner presented his motion to remand said case to said Circuit Court, filing a petition thereupon, called the Petition of June 30, 1909. This petition the court refused to allow your petitioner to file, and after much delay declared said petition denied. In the meantime, on July 9, 1909, your petitioner again moved the Circuit Court to allow said motion to remand, as prayed for in said petition of June 30, 1909, but not yet allowed to be filed nor yet passed upon by said court. And after the taking of much testimony upon the truth of an alleged amendment of said petition for removal, the validity of which amendment for want of power on the part of said Circuit Court, your petitioner constantly denied, presenting his objections in every form and way possible known to him, and at last, on October 25, 1910, the said U. S. Circuit Court, by the said District Judge Sanborn, of Wisconsin, filed its opinion, holding that under the evidence presented before him your petitioner was a resident and citizen of Illinois, and not a resident and citizen of the State of California, as alleged in said petition filed in the State Court; and that the said case was made removable by such amendment allowed by him, and denying the truth of said original petition as to said residence; and thereupon said Circuit Court denied said motion to remand, by order entered on the 2d day of November, 1909, under date of October 23, 1909.

III.

The third attempt to defeat the jurisdiction of the State Court and maintain this interesting conflict of jurisdiction upon the part of the Federal Circuit Court, was the motion made on April 16, 1909, by said removing petitioner for leave to amend said petition of removal in said Federal Court. Despite the objection to the want of power in the Circuit Court, upon the simple ground (1st) that the appeal from said decretal order of December 26, 1907, had placed this case in the hands of the Circuit Court of Appeals, and it was still there pending, especially; upon motion of appellee of April 14 to modify the final judgment of the Court of Appeals, and, if need be, upon the new record presented by the Clerk of the Circuit Court, to set said opinion and order aside and affirm the decretal order of December 26, 1907, which motion of April 14 was still under advisement when this motion of April 16 was made, and did not result in an order for the issue of said mandate upon said opinion until May 19, 1909, nor the entry of orders thereon until July 1, 1909; and (2nd) there was the objection, supported by the whole current of the decisions in this court, that such amendment could not be made in the Federal Court, and, especially where the proposed amendments were not formal, but contradicted the allegations of the original petition for removal; and (3d) on account of the delay of a year and a half in moving for such amendment, all were urged by your petitioner.

The opinion filed upon said motion on May 15, 1909, by District Judge Sanborn, granting (under assumed power) said motion to amend, states:

"It seems, therefore, that the motion for leave to amend should be granted, if the power of amendment exists. Defendant relies on Wilbur v. Red Jacket, etc., Co., 153 Fed., 602, a case very much like this, for its procedure in bringing its petition for leave to amend. In regard to the question of POWER, it is insisted that no jurisdiction is shown by the original petition for removal, because the suit is not brought in the district of residence of either the plaintiff or defendant; and since Harding has not consented to sue here, and has waived nothing, the case is not now removable, under Ex Parte Wisner, and In re Moore, 209 U. S., 490. * * * Since the decision of the Wisner and Moore cases, there can be no question of the duty to remand, on application of the plaintiff, who has waived nothing, in the usual case, in the absence of any application to amend. But the narrow and unusual question here presented is whether a Federal Circuit Court can possibly have any jurisdiction whatever of such a case as this until the plaintiff consents. If it can, then amendment may be permitted, to show that jurisdiction actually exists, unaided by consent or waiver; BUT IF NOT, THEN A REMAND IS INEVITABLE."

As it is not even pretended that plaintiff had consented or waived his objections to jurisdiction; and, as there is no ground for such pretense known, it seems that there remains no answer to the objection of want of power on the part of the court to hear or allow said amendment during the pendency of the appeal in the Circuit Court of Appeals, and in view of the repeated decisions of this court denying the existence of such power, any further discussion of such amendment, which was afterwards allowed and attempted to be acted on, although constantly objected to as utterly valueless and void, would seem unnecessary.

IV.

In Shane v. Butte Electric Railway Co., 150 Fed., 811, the court said:

"If the fact is that Jackson was a resident of Montana, as petitioning defendant alleged in his petition to the State Court, the jurisdiction of that court was complete, * * * while if Jackson was a citizen of Minnesota," as alleged in the proposed amendment, "we will assume removal could have been had. * * * Thus we see that the proposed amendment is not one making more certain or specific a statement made in the petition filed in the State Court, but defectively made, or to state more fully and distinctly facts stated; upon which ground of removal rests, but is a request to permit an amendment which is of substance. Indeed, it is asking the Federal Court to allow an amendment which may bring the case within the jurisdiction of the Federal Court upon the existence of a ground not presented in any way to the State Court on motion for removal, and but for which the cause was not removable. To permit the amendment would be to retain jurisdiction of a cause removed without a showing having been made in the State Court of jurisdictional facts upon which the right of removal existed. This would be directly against the great weight of authority, and the strength of the reasoning underlying the statute which gives the right of removal in certain cases. * * * A showing of cause for removal must be made to the court which first has the cause, and which need not surrender its control until facts which compel it to do so are made to appear upon the record of its proceedings. In the absence of such a showing in the State Court, the question is a fundamentally jurisdictional one, and no appeal to the discretion of the Federal Court can have consideration, for discretion cannot confer jurisdiction to retain the case, if it does not exist. * * *

This is a case precisely like this, as to the residence of party.

V.

In Cameron v. Hodges, 127 U. S., 322, the Supreme Court said that there was no precedent known to it which authorized an amendment to be made, even in the Circuit Court, by which grounds of jurisdiction may be made to appear, which were not presented to the State Court on the motion for removal.

In Moon on The Removal of Causes, the author states, Sec. 165, namely, that:

“Amendments of form, but not of substance, may be made to a petition for removal in the Federal Courts.”

From this exposition of the law, the duty of the Federal Court is not a discretionary one, where an amendment is sought which presents a material ground for retention suggested, not within the scope of the grounds included in the petition presented to the State Court.

VI.

Here the Corn Products Manufacturing Company, by its president, Powers, filed his affidavit to the petition for removal, swearing that Harding was a citizen of California and of no other state, and the parties, eighteen in number, defendants herein, and their attorneys, including Levy Mayer, united in alleging that this allegation of the residence of Harding is true. It was a year and a half afterwards, upon the miserable pretense by Levy Mayer that he was misled by the allegation by Harding in his bill that he was a resident of California, no other person even alleging or explaining to the same effect or otherwise, the statements of the petition of said residence; and that residence, strangely enough, was the residence of a well-known citizen of Chicago, who had removed to California fifteen years before, and said Mayer, residing in the same city all the time, in the next street of the said alleged residence, repeatedly alleges in the course of his discussion and argument a year and a half before this amendment, that Harding was a citizen and resident of California, and used said statement throughout the period as a ground for attack upon his personal character.

VII.

As to the petition for removal little further need be said beyond the fact that it is shown to be fatally defective by the requirements of the Statutes of '87-'88, as construed by this court in Ex Parte Wisner, aforesaid; but it is further submitted that there is herein, in fact, no statement as required by law of the existence of a separable controversy between the complainant and the removing petitioner. For a bare statement of a conclusion of law that a separable controversy existed is not an allegation of fact.

In Gibbs v. Crandall, 120 U. S., 105, pp. 108-109, the court said:

“As was said in Gold Washing & Water Company v. Keyes, 96 U. S., 199, 203: ‘Before [therefore] a Circuit Court can be required to retain a cause under its jurisdiction, it must in some form appear upon the record by a statement of facts "in legal and logical form," such as is required in good pleading (1 Chit. Pl., 213), that the suit is one which "really and substantially involves a dispute or controversy," as to a right which depends upon the construction or effect of the Constitution or some law or treaty of the United States. It is not enough for the party who seeks a removal of his cause to say that the suit is one arising under the Constitution. He must state the facts so as to enable the court to see whether the right he claims does really and substantially depend on a construction of that instrument. That has not been done in this case, and the order remanding the suit is consequently affirmed.' "

Again, the case of Holton v. Helvetia-Swiss Fire Insurance Co., 163 Fed., 659, is referred to in the Kinney case, 191 U. S., 78, as holding that it is necessary for the record of the State Court to show the facts giving a Federal Court jurisdiction at the time the removal petition is presented, and that such petition can be amended only by stating more clearly an ambiguous statement or by supplying some detail lacking in the original petition.

VIII.

In the City of Newcastle v. Postal Telegraph-Cable Co., 152 Fed., 572, on page 573, in speaking of the defendant, the court said:

"Its allegations as to interstate commerce and its occupation of post-roads are here introduced for the first time and form no part of the ground upon which it based its petition for the removal of the cause from the courts of Lawrence County; and, moreover, are not supported by any facts which show in what way any question does arise in this case involving any construction of the Constitution or law of the United States. A mere allegation to that effect without a statement of facts showing how such question can arise and the nature and character of it but rather giving only a legal conclusion is insufficient. Carson v. Dunham, 121 U. S., 426, and Gold-Washing Company v. Keyes, 96 U. S., 199.

"See, also, Santa Clara County v. Goldy Machine Company, 159 Fed., 750, where the syllabus is as follows, namely, 'where a removal petition based entirely on diversity of citizenship was filed by one of the defendants alone, and wholly failed to disclose the fact that the other defendant was merely a nominal or formal party to the action, and such fact did not sufficiently appear elsewhere in the record, the petition was fatally defective, since, for the purpose of removal, the parties must be considered collectively.' WHERE A REMOVAL PETITION IS DEFECTIVE FOR FAILURE TO STATE THE NECESSARY JURISDICTIONAL FACTS, THE OMISSION IS FATAL TO THE RIGHT OF REMOVAL, AND CANNOT BE SETTLED OR CURED IN THE FEDERAL COURT BY AMENDMENT."

Further, such an allegation is valueless to raise the question of a separable controversy, on its face, and is a mere subterfuge and falsehood. For the Corn Products Company was of course a necessary and indispensable party to any controversy between one of its minority stockholders having no rights save as such stockholder against the removing petitioner.

The alleged nominal defendants are charged as joint tort feorsors with the corporations made defendant and not alone as directors, and hence the existence of a separable controversy with a minority stockholder so stated as a legal conclusion only is a subterfuge, and deserves no other notice, especially as the removing party is charged by the bill as merely an agent and custodian, servant and trustee in charge of factories.

IX.

In Judge Sanborn's opinion of May 15, 1909, he states that the Circuit Court by its order of November 6, 1909, took jurisdiction of the case, and that it had the power to do so, and that order was made at a prior term of court and could not be disturbed or reviewed by the Circuit Court. This language is a begging of the question of power; and also ignores the fact that such order was purely interlocutory, and expressly stated that it was "all until the further order of this court." That opinion of May 15, 1909, also states that the motion to remand the Harding case was not regarded as important until said injunction of December, 1907, was reversed, and that the question of such remand then became of great importance to the "respective parties." This is strange language, indeed, in face of the record showing Mr. Harding's persistent efforts to get his motion to remand allowed, and his continued objections to the jurisdiction of the court.

X.

It will be observed that the alleged discovery of the alleged falsity of Mr. Harding's statement in his bill as to his citizenship, is claimed to have been made by Mr. Mayer, in his affidavit attached to the petition to amend removal petition—that discovery is claimed to have been made on April 12, 1909, the same day the petition for certiorari was denied by the Supreme Court. In that affidavit, Mr. Mayer stated that he was the one who personally prepared the removal petition signed by Mr. Sheean, as solicitor for the petitioner. Mr. Parmenter's affidavit also stated his discovery of the truth, as claimed, was on or about the same date, April 12, 1909.

XI.

It may be further observed that Mr. Mayer's waking up to the necessity of some new invention or "discovery" to hold the case in the Federal Court was not until after the petition for certiorari was denied, and it was on that very day that he gave notice of his motion to modify the judgment of the Court of Appeals. He was quite willing to adopt the averments of the Bill of Complaint as to the citizenship of complainant, when he prepared the removal petition of November 5, 1907; and, in the hearing before Judge Landis on November 13, after referring to the litigation between Mr. Harding and his wife, he said: "And all of a sudden, Harding, who was born in Illinois, some seventy years ago, changed his residence to California, and became a citizen of the Golden State, and he was not a citizen of Illinois, and therefore he filed a bill there for divorce against his wife, who had pending here her separate maintenance proceeding * * *." (Part II of "Exhibit A," pages 175-76.)

In conclusion, we submit that the relief sought by this petition for mandamus in this case should be granted.

Respectfully submitted.

WILLIAM J. AMMEN,
Attorney for Petitioner.

EX PARTE HARDING, PETITIONER.

No. —. Original. Submitted December 12, 1910.—Decided February 20, 1911.

The general rule that a court, having jurisdiction over the subject-matter and the parties, is competent to decide questions arising as to its jurisdiction and that its decisions on such questions are not open to collateral attack, applied in this case; and mandamus refused to compel the Circuit Court to remand a case in which it decided that it had jurisdiction on the issues of citizenship and separable controversy.

There is nothing peculiar in an order of the Circuit Court refusing to remand which differentiates it from any other order or judgment of a Federal Court concerning its jurisdiction.

In this case the exceptional rule that mandamus will lie to the Circuit Court to correct an abuse of judicial discretion in retaining a case over which it has not jurisdiction does not apply.

It is the duty of this court to reconcile decisions and, in order to enforce the correct doctrine, to determine which rest upon the right principle and to overrule or qualify those conflicting therewith.

Conflicting decisions regarding issuing mandamus to the Circuit Court to correct its decisions in regard to jurisdiction over cases removed from the state court reviewed and harmonized.

In this case, Ex parte Hord, 105 U. S. 578, and cases following it applied, as expressing the general principle involved; Virginia v. Rives, 100 U. S. 313, and cases following it distinguished, as applicable only to exceptional instances not involved in this case; Ex parte Wisner, 203 U. S. 449; In re Moore, 209 U. S. 490, and In re Winn, 213 U. S. 458, disapproved in part and qualified.

THE facts are stated in the opinion.

Mr. William J. Ammen for petitioner:

The original removal petition, whether considered alone or in connection with the entire record, not only failed to show a removable case, but affirmatively showed that the case was not removable under the law, on the ground of diverse citizenship. In re Moore, 209 U. S. 490; Ex parte Wisner, 203 U. S. 449; Southern Pacific Co. v. Burch, 152 Fed. Rep. 168; Goldberg &c. Co. v. German Ins. Co., 152 Fed. Rep. 831; Yellow Aster Co. v. Crane Co., 150 Fed. Rep. 580; Gillespie v. Pocahontas &c. Co., 160 Fed. Rep. 742; Blunt v. Southern Ry. Co., 155 Fed. Rep. 499; Boston Mining Co. v. Montana Ore Co., 188 U. S. 632, 640; In re Winn, 213 U. S. 464; McClellan v. McKane, 159 Fed. Rep. 165; Hoe v. Jamieson, 166 U. S. 395.

No separable controversy was pointed out in said original petition for removal, as required by the decisions. Gibbs v. Crandall, 120 U. S. 105, 108; Gold Washing Co. v. Keyes, 96 U. S. 199; Newcastle v. Postal Co., 152 Fed. Rep. 572.

The claim of separable controversy between said Corn Products Company, and Harding, is so absurd upon a mere cursory reading of the bill of complaint that the Circuit Court should not have considered the same; and relief by mandamus should not be refused on the ground that a decision of that question involved judicial discretion, although the exercise of judicial discretion on such a question might be required in a case where such question appears to be reasonably disputable.

Argument for Petitioner.

Even if such separable controversy existed, the citizenship of the alleged parties thereto was not such as to make the case removable, under the law.

The alleged removal was void upon the further ground that the state court was not permitted to examine, and consider, and pass upon, the removal petition.

The order of the Circuit Court ordering the transcript of record of state court filed in Circuit Court, and enjoining Harding from the further prosecution of his suit in the state court, until the further order of the Circuit Court, was void.

The so-called supplement filed in the Circuit Court was unauthorized and void, and did not and could not help out the original removal petition filed in the state court.

Harding is not chargeable with laches. He has never waived his right to have said original motion to remand allowed.

The Circuit Court had no power to allow the amendment to the removal petition changing the vital averments made in said original removal petition filed in the state court. *Powers v. Chesapeake & O. The orders permitting petitioner to amend, and allowing such amendment to be filed, the said amendment so filed, and all subsequent proceedings based thereon, were wholly without power or jurisdiction of the Circuit Court, and void.

It clearly appearing that Harding will be entitled to a remand of his case after a tedious and expensive hearing on the merits, on appeal from whatever decree may be then entered, this should be duly considered by this court, as even the certainty of such ultimate remand does not constitute an adequate remedy in the premises.

MR. CHIEF JUSTICE WHITE delivered the opinion of the court.

By a motion for leave to file a petition for mandamus, George F. Harding seeks the reversal of the action of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division, in taking jurisdiction over a cause as the result of a refusal to grant a request of Harding to remand the case to a state court. The facts shown on the face of the motion papers are these:

On October 19, 1907, George F. Harding, the petitioner, alleging himself to be a resident of the State of California, sued in an Illinois state court various corporations alleged to be created by and citizens of the State of New Jersey and fourteen individuals whose citizenship and residence were not given. The suit was brought by Harding as a stockholder in the Corn Products Company, one of the defendants, and the object of the suit was to annul an alleged unlawful merger of that company and for relief in respect of an asserted misappropriation of its assets. On November 6, 1907, the Corn Products Company applied to remove to the Circuit Court of the United States for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division, on the ground that there was a separable controversy between it and Harding. By separate petitions all the other defendants united in the prayer for removal. The state court not having acted on the petition for removal, the judge of the United States court, upon the application of the Corn Products Company, ordered the transcript of record from the state court to be filed and the case to be docketed. This being done, the Corn Products Company filed what was styled an amendment and supplement to the petition for removal, stating the residence and citizenship of the individuals named as defendants in the original bill, four of them being averred to be residents of Chicago, Illinois, one of Pekin, Illinois, and the others citizens and residents of States other than Illinois.

In December, 1907, Harding moved to remand to the state court, in substance upon the ground that there was no separable controversy and that the requisite diversity of citizenship was not shown by the petition for removal, and especially directed attention to the fact that at the time of the commencement of the suit in the state court he, Harding, was not a resident of the district, and that none of the corporate defendants were such residents.

Prior to the bringing of the Harding suit a suit had been brought in an Illinois state court by the Chicago Real Estate and Trust Company, an Illinois corporation and a stockholder in the Corn Products Company, upon substantially the same grounds as those subsequently alleged in the Harding suit, against the principal corporations and individuals who were thereafter made defendants in the Harding suit. This cause had been removed by the Corn Products Company into the Circuit Court of the United States for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division, and on its removal, at the instance of the Corn Products Company the court had restrained the real estate company, its officers, agents, attorneys, etc., from further prosecuting the cause in the state court. Immediately after the bringing of the Harding suit in the state court the Corn Products Company applied to the Circuit Court, in the real estate company suit, to restrain Harding from prosecuting his suit on the ground that the bringing of the same was a violation of the previous restraining order. The court issued a temporary restraining order. Thereafter, as we have said, the Harding suit was removed on the application of the Corn Products Company to the Circuit Court of the United States, and the motion to which we have referred was made by Harding to remand. That motion to remand, however, in consequence of the restraining order, which had been made permanent, was not heard until the summer of 1909, after the restraining order above referred to had been dissolved by the Circuit Court of Appeals. 168 Fed. Rep. 658. Before the motion to remand, however, was passed upon the Circuit Court granted permission to the Corn Products Company to amend its removal petition by alleging that at the time of the commencement by Harding of his suit and continuously thereafter he was a citizen of Illinois and a resident of Chicago in that State. To this Harding objected on the ground that the court was without power to allow an amendment, and that its jurisdiction was to be tested by the averments of the original removal petition. The permitted amendment having been filed, the motion to remand was denied. Harding thereupon, reiterating his objection to the allowance of the amendment and to the jurisdiction of the court to do other than remand the cause, traversed the averment in the amended removal petition as to his Illinois citizenship and residence, and specially prayed "that there may be a speedy hearing and a decision of such issue of citizenship and a remand of this cause to the state court by the order of this court, . . . ." The request for hearing was granted. A large amount of evidence was introduced on such hearing, which extended over a period of more than fifteen months, and the taxable costs, it is said, "ran up into several thousands of dollars." Finally, on October 25, 1910, the issue was decided against Harding. 182 Fed. Rep. 421. The court, finding from the proof that Harding was, as alleged in the amended petition, a citizen and resident of the State of Illinois, expressly refused the prayer for removal made by Harding in his answer to the amended petition; in other words, the court reaffirmed and reiterated its previous action in refusing to remand the cause. Whether these facts give such color of right to the contention that we have jurisdiction to review the action of the trial court by the writ of mandamus as to lead us to be of opinion that further argument at bar is necessary, and therefore a rule to show cause should issue, is then the question for decision.

The doctrine that a court which has general jurisdiction over the subject-matter and the parties to a cause is competent to decide questions arising as to its jurisdiction, and therefore that such decisions are not open to collateral attack, has been so often expounded (see Dowell v. Applegate, 152 U. S. 327, 337, and cases cited), and has been so recently applied (Hine v. Morse, 219 U. S. 493), that it may be taken as elementary and requiring no further reference to authority. Nor is there any substantial foundation for the contention that this elementary doctrine has no application to decisions of courts of the United States refusing to remand causes to state courts, since there is nothing peculiar in an order refusing to remand which differentiates it from any other order or judgment of a court of the United States concerning its jurisdiction. The importance of the subject which is involved in the contrary assertion, the apparent conflict between certain decided cases dealing with the right to review by mandamus orders of Circuit Courts refusing to remand, and a long and settled line of other cases relating to the same subject, the confusion and misapprehension which must result unless the conflict is reconciled or abated, and the duty to remove obscurity, as far as it may be done, concerning the review of questions of jurisdiction, all lead us to give the subject a more extended examination than it would otherwise be entitled to receive.

In Ex parte Hoard, 105 U. S. 578, the court was called upon to consider whether the judgment of a Circuit Court of the United States, declining to remand a civil cause to a state court from which it had been removed, was reviewable by the extraordinary process of mandamus. In refusing to exert jurisdiction by mandamus and considering the inherent nature of the powers of a Circuit Court, it was declared that "Jurisdiction has been given to the Circuit Court to determine whether the cause is one that ought to be remanded," and it was also observed that "No case can be found, however, in which a mandamus has been used to compel a court to remand a cause after it has once refused a motion to that effect." Calling attention to the fact that the act of 1875, in § 5, expressly gave an appeal to or a writ of error from this court for the review of orders of Circuit Courts remanding causes, without regard to the amount involved, the court said: "The same remedy has not been given if a cause is retained. It rests with Congress to determine whether a cause shall be reviewed or not. If no power to review is given, the judgment of the court having jurisdiction to decide is final."

In In re James Pollitz, 206 U. S. 323, the facts were these: Pollitz, a citizen of the State of New York, sued in the Supreme Court of that State the Wabash Railroad Company, a consolidated corporation existing under the laws of the States of Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and Missouri, and a citizen of the State of Ohio, and various other defendants, chiefly citizens and residents of the State of New York. The Wabash Company removed the cause to the Circuit Court of the United States, on the ground of a separable controversy. A motion of Pollitz to remand was denied. The controversy was decided by this court on the hearing of a rule, which was granted on the application of Pollitz for a writ of mandamus to direct the remanding of the cause. The court, after stating (p. 331) the general rule that "mandamus cannot be issued to compel the court below to decide a matter before it in a particular way or to review its judicial action had in the exercise of legitimate jurisdiction, nor can the writ be used to perform the office of an appeal or writ of error," refused to take jurisdiction and review the action of the court below, and therefore declined to issue the writ.

Ex parte Nebraska, 209 U. S. 436, presented the following facts: In a suit against a railway company, commenced in a court of the State of Nebraska, the State, its attorney general, the railway commission and the members of the commission individually were plaintiffs. The defendant railway removed the cause to the United States court, upon the ground that the State was not a proper or necessary party to the suit, and that the controversy was wholly between citizens of different States. A motion to remand having been denied by the Circuit Court, this court issued a rule to show cause why a mandamus should not be allowed ordering the remanding of the cause. Upon the hearing on the return to this rule the court declined to take jurisdiction and review the action of the trial court. It was said that the Circuit Court had jurisdiction to pass upon the questions raised by the motion to remand, and if error was committed in the exercise of its judicial discretion "the remedy is not by writ of mandamus, which cannot be used to perform the office of an appeal or writ of error." After declaring that "the applicable principles have been laid down in innumerable cases," the court cited

Ex parte Bradley, 7 Wall. 364; Ex parte Loring, 94 U. S. 418; In re Rice, 155 U. S. 396; In re Atlantic City Railroad, 164 U. S. 633. The case of Pollitz was also cited and reviewed.

In Ex parte Gruetter, 217 U. S. 586, the doctrine of In re Pollitz and Ex parte Nebraska was reaffirmed. The case was this: An action commenced by Gruetter in a state court was removed into a Circuit Court of the United States and Gruetter moved to remand. One ground of the motion was that the case was not removable because it was not an action of a civil nature, but was one to recover penalties. It was also urged that the petition and record did not show that the suit was sought to be removed to the Circuit Court of the United States for the district in which either the plaintiff or the defendant resided. On return to a rule to show cause why a mandamus should not be granted, the court declined to take jurisdiction of the case, saying (p. 588):

"There was no controversy as to there being diversity of citizenship. The defendant was a corporation of Kentucky, and plaintiff was a citizen of Tennessee. Inasmuch as we are of opinion that the Circuit Court of the United States had jurisdiction to determine the questions presented, we hold that mandamus will not lie. The final order of the Circuit Court cannot be reviewed on this writ. In re Pollitz, 206 U. S. 323."

It is patent from the review of the decided cases just made that the contention that the order of the court below refusing to remand the cause is susceptible of being here reviewed by the extraordinary process of a writ of mandamus, in other words, that that writ may be used to subserve the purpose of a writ of error or an appeal, is so completely foreclosed as not to be open to contention, unless it be that other cases which are relied upon as sustaining our jurisdiction to issue the writ of mandamus have either overruled the line of cases to which we have referred, or have so qualified them as to cause them to be here inapplicable. We therefore come to consider the cases upon which petitioner relies to ascertain whether they sustain either of these views. The cases are Ex parte Wisner, 203 U. S. 449, In re Moore, 209 U. S. 490, and In re Winn, 213 U. S. 458. But to an elucidation of these cases it is necessary that the briefest possible recurrence be had to two leading cases which long preceded them, viz., Virginia v. Rives, 100 U. S. 313, and Virginia v. Paul, 148 U. S. 107.

In Virginia v. Rives a prosecution of persons accused of murder was removed from a state court to a Circuit Court of the United States. The latter court moreover, under a writ of habeas corpus cum causa, took the prisoners from the custody of the state authorities. The case in this court arose upon an application by the Commonwealth of Virginia for a rule to show cause why the prisoners should not be returned to the state court for trial. On hearing this court took jurisdiction over the cause, issued the writ of mandamus and directed the return of the accused. Speaking of the functions of the writ of mandamus, the court said (p. 323): "It does not lie to control judicial discretion, except when that discretion has been abused; but it is a remedy when the case is outside of the exercise of this discretion, and outside the jurisdiction of the court or officer to which or to whom the writ is addressed." It is obvious from the opinion of the court and the concurring opinion that jurisdiction over the cause was taken because of the extraordinary abuse of discretion disclosed by the power attempted to be exerted, the confusion and disregard of constitutional limitations which the asserted power implied, and because under the law as it then stood no power would otherwise have existed to correct the wrongful assumption of jurisdiction by the Circuit Court.

In Virginia v. Paul, 148 U. S. 107, a person in the custody of the state authorities, charged with murder, was released under a writ of habeas corpus issued by a district
